ROOSEVELT AND HIS REGIME

By JOSEPH V. MCNAB

Roosevelt was a reformer. He was not a reformer in the American sense. He was a reformer in the English sense. He was a reformer in the English sense of the word, that is, he was a man of high moral and intellectual standards, who sought to improve the condition of the people through peaceful means. He was a man who believed in the power of reason and the necessity of education. He was a man who believed in the importance of individual freedom and equality. He was a man who believed in the need for social justice and economic equality. He was a man who believed in the need for a government that was responsive to the needs of the people. He was a man who believed in the need for a society that was based on the principles of democracy and liberty.

But Roosevelt was also a politician. He was a man who understood the political process and who knew how to use it to achieve his goals. He was a man who understood the importance of publicity and the need to build support for his ideas. He was a man who understood the need to build a base of support in the middle class and to appeal to the working class. He was a man who understood the importance of controlling the press and the need to build a network of influential friends.

Roosevelt was a reformer and a politician. He was a man who sought to improve the condition of the people through peaceful means and who knew how to use the political process to achieve his goals. He was a man who understood the importance of publicity and the need to build support for his ideas. He was a man who understood the need to build a base of support in the middle class and to appeal to the working class. He was a man who understood the importance of controlling the press and the need to build a network of influential friends.
U.S. SENATOR W. E. BORAH A TIMBER THIEF?

Chief Comptroller for Prosecution in Idaho Under Investigation by Grand Jury—Editor Daily Statesman Claims the Town—Barber, Head of Lumber Trust, Now in Jail—More To Follow.

Weekly, 50 Cents per Year.

Appeal to Reason, Girard, Kansas. April 20, 1907.

with per year in clubs of four.

The management of this newspaper is endeavoring to give our readers the best possible instruction in the principles of government, and to that end it is endeavoring to keep them informed of the latest developments in public affairs.

The situation is developing very rapidly, and it is necessary that we should not be too hasty in our conclusions.

The people of the Western Territories of Missouri, the states of the new Union, and the great Northwest are taking an active interest in the affairs of the country, and they are demanding that the government should be as honest and as efficient as possible.

Of course, it is not possible for us to anticipate all the difficulties that may arise, but it is necessary that we should be prepared for whatever may happen.

In conclusion, we would like to say that we believe in the progress of government, and we are willing to do our utmost to assist in its development.

The newspaper is now in the hands of the people, and it is their duty to use it for the benefit of the community.

The people of the country are looking to the newspapers to give them the best possible information, and we believe that we are doing our duty in this respect.

The situation is developing very rapidly, and it is necessary that we should not be too hasty in our conclusions.

The newspaper is now in the hands of the people, and it is their duty to use it for the benefit of the community.

The people of the country are looking to the newspapers to give them the best possible information, and we believe that we are doing our duty in this respect.

The situation is developing very rapidly, and it is necessary that we should not be too hasty in our conclusions.

The newspaper is now in the hands of the people, and it is their duty to use it for the benefit of the community.

The people of the country are looking to the newspapers to give them the best possible information, and we believe that we are doing our duty in this respect.

The situation is developing very rapidly, and it is necessary that we should not be too hasty in our conclusions.

The newspaper is now in the hands of the people, and it is their duty to use it for the benefit of the community.

The people of the country are looking to the newspapers to give them the best possible information, and we believe that we are doing our duty in this respect.

The situation is developing very rapidly, and it is necessary that we should not be too hasty in our conclusions.

The newspaper is now in the hands of the people, and it is their duty to use it for the benefit of the community.

The people of the country are looking to the newspapers to give them the best possible information, and we believe that we are doing our duty in this respect.