MAGON WRITES HIS STORY
Tells of the Work and auto and of Crispy and Connolly Anarchism of Mexico

A. J. Gran, St. Louis, Mo.

Our history begins in the year 1901, when an anarchist and journalistic movement was started in Mexico. The propaganda is carried on through a monthly organ, La Revolucion Anarquista, which is now in its fifth year. The movement has been very successful, and the anarchist propaganda is spreading over the country.

During the last year, we have had several important strikes, which have been successful. The workers have gained a great deal, and the movement is gaining ground. The anarchists are now in control of many of the important cities, and the government is beginning to feel the pressure of the movement.

In conclusion, I wish to say that I believe the anarchist movement is on the right track, and that it will eventually lead to a better society.

February 11. They are the three wives of the three men who were captured at the jail in Washington, D. C., on Friday evening. They are the three women who were to be sent to jail on the same charge as the one against their husbands. They are the three women who were to be tried for the same crime as the one against their husbands. They are the three women who were to be sentenced to the same prison as the one against their husbands.

But they are not identical. They are not the same. They are not alike. They are not equal. They are not equal in every respect. They are not equal in any respect.

Each of them is different in her own way. Each of them has her own story to tell. Each of them has her own reason to be there. Each of them has her own cause to fight for. Each of them has her own fight to fight. Each of them has her own battle to wage. Each of them has her own war to win. Each of them has her own peace to make. Each of them has her own freedom to seek. Each of them has her own liberty to fight for. Each of them has her own hope to hold on to. Each of them has her own dream to pursue. Each of them has her own future to shape. Each of them has her own past to remember. Each of them has her own present to live. Each of them has her own future to create.
