Socialists Are Free Lovers

—Theodore Roosevelt

"Socialists occupy, in relation to all morality and especially to domestic morality, a position so revolting that it is difficult to discuss it in a respectable paper."

ROOSEVELT’s attack on Socialist women is an insult to every man, woman, and child of that faith. It is an unreasonably vile attempt to smudge the character of every Socialist, impugning the charity of his wife and his children a stain upon the whole race. If the Socialist woman is a Socialist, she is an American, and as such she is entitled to the protection of the government and the law of the land.

Socialists are not only women, but men, and if a Socialist woman is a Socialist, it is as a citizen of the United States that she must be regarded.

Socialists are free lovers, and the Socialist woman is free to love as she wishes.

"My Reply to Roosevelt"
CHEATED OF THE PRESIDENCY

A subscriber makes an account of the features of the Standard Oil Company, its influence upon the Standard Oil Company in 1916, and wants to know what the government is doing to prevent its influence being used. He does not understand why the government is not preventing the Standard Oil Company from cheating the public.

Few are surprised to believe that the Standard Oil Company has a great influence over the government. But the government is in a difficult position, for the Standard Oil Company is a very powerful corporate entity. Its influence is not limited to the government, but extends to many other areas as well.

The Standard Oil Company has been operating for over a century, and has a long history of influencing government policies. It has been involved in many controversial issues, including the construction of pipelines and the development of natural gas reserves. The company has also been accused of using its influence to prevent competition and to restrict access to natural gas.

The government has been trying to regulate the Standard Oil Company for many years, but has been met with resistance. The company has been able to use its influence to block legislation and to delay regulation. The government has also been criticized for failing to enforce existing regulations.

The Standard Oil Company has been a major contributor to political campaigns, and has used its influence to shape public opinion. The company has been accused of using its influence to suppress opposition and to promote its own interests.

The government has been trying to regulate the Standard Oil Company for many years, but has been met with resistance. The company has been able to use its influence to block legislation and to delay regulation. The government has also been criticized for failing to enforce existing regulations.

The Standard Oil Company has been a major contributor to political campaigns, and has used its influence to shape public opinion. The company has been accused of using its influence to suppress opposition and to promote its own interests.

The government has been trying to regulate the Standard Oil Company for many years, but has been met with resistance. The company has been able to use its influence to block legislation and to delay regulation. The government has also been criticized for failing to enforce existing regulations.

The Standard Oil Company has been a major contributor to political campaigns, and has used its influence to shape public opinion. The company has been accused of using its influence to suppress opposition and to promote its own interests.