Railroad Graft and the P. O. D.

The railroad companies are in a very strong position at present. They control the mails and have a monopoly of the postal service, and it is well known that they are using this position to their advantage. The rate of freight is very high, and there is a great deal of dissatisfaction among the people who have to pay it.

The government has tried to regulate the rates, but the railroad companies have been able to resist their efforts. In some cases, they have even been able to increase the rates. This is a serious matter, and it is time that some action was taken to remedy the situation.

Theodore Roosevelt, in his message to Congress, spoke out strongly against this railroad monopoly. He said that the government should have more control over the railroads, and that the rates should be more reasonable. He also called for the establishment of aboard of inquiry to investigate the case.

The people are watching this situation with great interest. They want to see some action taken to protect their interests. They want to see the rates brought down to a reasonable level, and they want to see the government take steps to regulate the railroads.

We have been waiting for too long for action to be taken. It is time that something was done.
