MR. DETECTIVE BURNS, YOU ARE A LIAR

This is an ugly word, but there is no other in the English language that so fittingly takes your measure. When you made the statement to the New York World, printed October 22, that Eugene V. Debs called for riots, you have committed an offense which is as much of a sin against the Christian conscience as lying—and every man who read it knew it. Ten million American voters have heard Debs speak, and they know that dynamite and assassination were never even suggested by him and that they have no place in the Socialist propaganda. The capitalist class in America do not fear explosives in the hands of the workers, for such methods are only used by the hired spies of capitalism, who, posing as unionists, plant dynamite to throw suspicion on the working class. What the capitalists do fear is the sort of dynamite that the workers themselves may display. That you, as a member of the working class, have already done, familiarize yourself with the method employed by the Socialists, and that you read carefully what appears on this page, which tells the story of Socialists at work.

Socialist Officers—A list of Socialist Officers for 1912 has been filed in the Secretary's office. The list shows that there are:.

The Socialist Candidate—The choice of candidates for the various cities is left to the delegates, who are chosen at the district conventions, held in each city, by the Socialist Party. The candidates are selected by a democratic process, in which each delegate has an equal voice. The Socialist Party is a national organization, and its candidates are chosen by the members of the party, not by any political boss or machine.
Political Program of Socialism

ST. W. BICKER

The Socialist movement does not spell out in any great piece of detail what it is that the Socialists aim at. All over the world, in all countries, whether industrial or agricultural, the question of Socialism is never discussed as such except in a few very restricted circles. The Socialist propaganda has been carried on in an indirect manner, through the medium of the working classes, and through the labor movement. This is a mining township, Gravelly Point, Kansas. Workers at the mine are organizing, and they are forming a union to control the supply of coal. The Socialist movement is gaining ground in the United States, and it is making progress in other countries as well.

Socialism is a system of economic organization in which the means of production are owned and controlled by the community as a whole, rather than by individuals or private owners. The goal of Socialism is to create a society in which everyone has equal access to resources and opportunities, and where the benefits of economic production are shared equally.

Socialism is a political and economic ideology that seeks to create a society in which the means of production are owned and controlled by the community as a whole, rather than by individuals or private owners. The goal of Socialism is to create a society in which everyone has equal access to resources and opportunities, and where the benefits of economic production are shared equally.

Socialism is a system of economic organization in which the means of production are owned and controlled by the community as a whole, rather than by individuals or private owners. The goal of Socialism is to create a society in which everyone has equal access to resources and opportunities, and where the benefits of economic production are shared equally.
The Farmer and Socialism

When the first states of the United States were founded, the farmers had more than 60 per cent of our people working on farms. Now there is less than 20 per cent of our people engaged in farming. There is a trend toward the concentration of agriculture, and the modern farmer is more likely to be a business man than a farmer.

A hundred years ago there were very few farms. Today, however, there are millions of farms. The trend is toward large farms, and the modern farmer is more likely to be a business man than a farmer.

The trend is toward large farms, and the modern farmer is more likely to be a business man than a farmer.

The trend is toward large farms, and the modern farmer is more likely to be a business man than a farmer.

The trend is toward large farms, and the modern farmer is more likely to be a business man than a farmer.
The Movement Abroad

Nov. 4, 1911

Germany-The Social Democratic party of Germany has been through a crisis in the last two years. In 1911, 20,000 workers' houses were built, the greatest number of workers' organizations were formed, and the Social Democrats won several important elections. The party has grown from a small group of radical politicians to a large organization with millions of members. The Social Democrats are now the most influential political party in Germany and have become a major force in European politics.

Russia-Russia has a great Social Democratic movement, which began in 1870. The movement was founded by Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels. The Social Democrats have been involved in the struggle for workers' rights and have been active in the anti-war movement. The Social Democrats have also been involved in the struggle for national independence.

France-The French Social Democratic party was founded in 1871. The party has been active in the struggle for workers' rights and has been involved in the anti-war movement. The Social Democrats have also been involved in the struggle for national independence.

United States-The Social Democratic party in the United States was founded in 1872. The party has been active in the struggle for workers' rights and has been involved in the anti-war movement. The Social Democrats have also been involved in the struggle for national independence.

In conclusion, the Social Democratic movement is one of the most important movements in modern history. The Social Democrats have played a major role in the struggle for workers' rights and have been active in the anti-war movement. The Social Democrats have also been involved in the struggle for national independence.