Open Letter to the Secretary of War

From the New York Tribune, September 25, 1913.

Dear Sir—From certain expressions in the above dispatch, I feel confident that it was inspired by some official member of your department. Acting on this assumption, I address this letter to you: IF THE APPEAL TO REASON HAS MADE ONE FALSE STATEMENT ABOUT THE METHODS EMPLOYED BY THE UNITED STATES ARMY, RECRUITING OFFICERS IN THEIR WORK OF SECURING RECRUITS FOR THE ARMY, I STAND READY TO MAKE A FULL AND COMPLETE RETRACTION.

The Appeal to Reason has but one object—that of printing the truth. It is truth alone that advances our cause. And I also know that should this letter make one false statement, I will follow it up with the truth. There is a law in the state of Kansas to punish those who circulate untruths, but this law was never invoked against the Appeal in its entirety.

I have been tampering with its criticism of government officials, who have been recreant to their duty, and it intends to continue this work as long as there remains an abuse uncorrected. Threats of suppression will not deter me from doing my best to succeed in my right.

The public naturally expects better things of the present administration than of the previous administrations. The people have put you in power to improve conditions. The Appeal to Reason has been fostered and encouraged by the Roosevelt-Taft administrations. The Appeal to Reason has not held your administration responsible for these evils. It does expect you to stop them. But if after these grave abuses have been called to your attention, you make no effort to correct them, but actually support them, by arbitrary power, the only paper in the country that dares to tell the truth about these particular evils, then in the public mind Franklin Wilson and the responsible members of his cabinet must share the responsibility.

I have printed the federal judiciary, about the Leavenworth federal penitentiary, about the terrible conditions in West Virginia. ALL OF WHICH HAVE BEEN STRIKINGLY CONFIRMED BY THE TRUTH.-The people of this country are willing to believe in you, and will believe that you can do justice to the truth when it is presented to you. But it is my duty to tell the truth, and I cannot, and will not, do it.

To tell the truth about conditions in the army is the duty of a newspaper of the working people, because practically all of the recruits come from their ranks. If we have not printed the truth, furnish us the proofs, we will not print the truth. But we are willing to correct our errors as given the original statements. Or still better, I shall give your reply conspicuous space in our special anti-military edition, dated November 15, 1913, which because of its completeness will have a circulation of several millions. By presenting your side in this edition, you will much influence the public, and we will make articles to date. I earnestly invite the war department to make use of this offer as it sees fit.

Sincerely yours,

FRED D. WAREN.

Letters to Henry Dubb
Dear Henry Dubb,
I am writing to you to remind you of the importance of keeping good records of your agricultural activities. It is crucial to have accurate and up-to-date records to help you manage your farm effectively.

Yours sincerely,

The Appeal Army

The Appeal Army includes a group of activists fighting for social and economic justice. They aim to use nonviolent actions to bring attention to issues such as climate change, inequality, and political corruption. The group's activities include peaceful protests, sit-ins, and other forms of civil disobedience.

As Things May Be

The state of our world today is marked by conflicts, economic disparities, and environmental crises. It is crucial that we work together to find solutions that can create a more just and sustainable future. The Appeal Army stands in solidarity with those who are fighting for a better world.

The Appeal Army

The Appeal Army supports the United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals, which aim to end poverty, protect the planet, and ensure prosperity for all. These goals provide a framework for a more equitable and sustainable future.

The Calumet Copper Strike

The Calumet Copper Strike in Detroit is one of the most serious labor disputes in the country. The miners have been on strike for over a month and a half, and there is no end in sight. The company has refused to negotiate with the union, and the government has not intervened. The miners are demanding better wages and working conditions, and the company is determined to keep their prices low. The strike has caused serious disruptions in the copper industry, and it is likely to continue for some time.

A Capitalist Czar

The government has appointed a czar to oversee the strike, and he has been extremely harsh in his dealings with the miners. The miners have been accused of violence and sabotage, and the government has responded with force. This has led to a great deal of bitterness and unrest, and it is likely that the strike will continue for some time.

Social Treatment of Disease

The government has been criticized for its treatment of disease, and it has been accused of neglecting the well-being of the working class. The government has been accused of not providing enough medical care, and the working class has been left to fend for themselves. This has led to a great deal of suffering, and it is likely that the government will continue to be criticized for its treatment of disease.

A Schedule of Feeding

The government has been criticized for its feeding program, and it has been accused of not providing enough food to the people.
