They Have Opened Hell!

The gods of war galloped across the world in a saddle of steel and smoke and blood. Their steeds were iron and their spears were bones. Blood—oh, sweet blood; the battle of Steel against Steel, the spoils of war. But Blood, oh, sweet Blood! It means so much to the men of Steel, so much to the men of Bone. But Blood, oh, sweet Blood! It means so much to the men of Steel, so much to the men of Bone.

Millions of the world's chief men's sons and fathers are torn from their wives and mothers by the same monster that will soon bring vengeance upon this earth. Millions of wives and mothers and old grandfathers' mothers and children are in tears. Millions of mothers are weeping over the bodies of their sons. Millions of the dead in the desperate struggle.

What shall we do?

The gods of war are kicking the prog- rammers: women of steel and men of bone. Their sweet hearts with irons.

What shall we do?

Women of steel and men of bone. Their sweet hearts with irons.

For this crime! Destroy Caesar, and USE MAKE OF HIS most vast villainy to help drive war from the world.

CIVIL WAR IS THREATENED IN AMERICA

John Murray Arrested

The Conspirators Who Brought European War are Massing Gunmen in Colorado Under Noses of Federal Troops — The Latter Forbade Picketing — Looks Like Effort to Force Open Revolt of the Workers.

A Colorado Soldier

Lieutenant E. E. "Veto" Johnston, the Colorado National guard officer in charge of the Seventy-fifth and Fifteenth streets camp at the Denver Colorado National guard camp, yesterday prevented a determined attack upon the picketed entrance to the camp by the soldiers of the Seventy-fifth and Fifteenth streets camp.

Linderfelt is in the guard post at the Golden gate range camp today, and ordered the pickets to hold their ground against any attack.

For the first time in the history of the United States, the commanding general of the army, at the head of his force, has declined to support the picketing at the camp of the Colorado National Guard at Denver, Colorado.

Made-to-Measure

Gummen at Work

In a fittingly humorous development in the affairs of the Colorado National guard at Denver, the soldiers of the Seventy-fifth and Fifteenth streets camp have been ordered by the commanding general to cease and desist from picketing the camp gates.

The soldiers have been ordered to return their weapons and to take no further part in the picketing of the camp.

A Force for Peace

The world is united in its desire for peace. The Allies, the so-called 'big five' powers, are in agreement on the importance of peace. The United Nations, the organization of the Allied nations, is working towards peace. The United Nations' plan for peace is based on the principle of collective security, which means that if one nation is attacked, all nations will come to its aid. This plan is supported by the United States, the Soviet Union, Great Britain, France, and China.

A Fifteen Billion Dollar Steel Deal

When the president authorized the issuance of a $15 billion steel bond, it was hailed as a significant step towards stabilizing the economy. The steel industry had been struggling in recent years, and the bond was seen as a way to boost production and employment. The bond was sold to a consortium of insurance companies and was guaranteed by the government.

The steel companies were excited about the prospect of new orders and investment, but there were also concerns about the potential for inflation. Some economists argued that the bond would lead to higher prices, while others believed that it would help stabilize the economy. The bond was a success, and the steel industry benefited from the increased demand.
