Long Legal Process Started to Protect Pennsylvania Railroad

R. R. From "Burnturing" Its Switchmen in Future.

New York, N. Y., Nov. 8.—The long legal process to recover the Pennsylvania Railroad from the late Robert J. Gould, who sequestered millions of dollars' worth of its property for many years, has been instituted in this city by the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., according to the official announcement of the company today.

The action was brought by the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., under the authority of the Federal government, which has agreed to pay the costs of the suit.

The suit was filed in the United States District Court in this city, and the complainant is the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., which is represented by its attorney, Mr. E. H. W. Brown.

The complaint alleges that the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. has been deprived of the use of its property, and that the same has been unlawfully sequestered by the defendant, R. J. Gould, for the purpose of defrauding the United States government.

The suit seeks the restoration of the property to the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., and the recovery of the damages suffered by the company as a result of the sequestration.

The suit is the first of its kind to be brought in this country, and it is expected that a large number of similar suits will be filed in the future.

FUNDING REVOLUTION.

Women, Ind. 0—The efficient way in which the government has been funded with the help of the people, has been pointed out by President Theodore Roosevelt, who has declared that the government is under the control of the people, and that the people are paying the taxes.

The President has also said that the government is under the control of the people, and that the people are paying the taxes.

"AN EYE FOR AN EYE" by G. S. Darrow

The Story of a Condemned Man's Last Night on Earth.

"I was only 19 years old when they drove me to the gallows. It was hot and humid, and the air was heavy with the stench of death. We were all under the same sun, feeling the same ache, the same fear, the same hope."

They gathered around the gallows, a sea of faces, each with a story to tell. The sun beat down on their shoulders, their clothes clinging to their skin, their breaths heavy with the weight of their memories.

"It was a hot and humid night. The air was thick with the stench of death. They drove me to the gallows, and I felt the hot sun on my skin, the heavy fabric of my clothes pressing against my body."

They were all under the same sky, feeling the same ache, the same fear, the same hope. They were all under the same sun, feeling the same weight of their memories.

"But it was not just the sun that weighed on us. It was the knowledge that we were about to lose everything."

They were all under the same sky, feeling the same ache, the same fear, the same hope. They were all under the same sun, feeling the same weight of their memories.
Our Benevolent Despots

The rise of wages which has just been announced by a number of the larger magazine agencies of America is:

"There is something about that which will tend to produce the reverse. It is in a different direction. It is not spontaneous. There is no more growth in it."

Nothing could prove more completely this action than the complete immunity of labor to that emotional strain which we have been experiencing from a single source.

When he comes into the city, the man who has been raised on a series of oranges and olive oil and a sense of comfort and safety, will of course be the last to be moved. He will find that his service is no less desirable than before. The old cotton farmer finds the same effect on his serviceable and unemotional men."

We, in other words, are in the position of the man who is being robbed and he does not know it.

Making Tours To Order

Our present system produces for the market. Its fundamental principle is what the economists call standardization. Price and supply are the basis on which our institutions are founded. The industrial revolution is the original source of this.

The next step was to manufacture "masses". Pains, Puritans, and a host of similar "model" cities were manufactured to order. This has just come to an end. The United States Steel Company has just given an order to build Gary. The Detroit Power Company is manufacturing another city at Gary.

The man is already here where a great capital can give an order for a city, with the government of the United States backing it. The price for the land and the government of the United States is backing the offer.

But some people think that socialism would destroy individuality.

Interesting Things on the West Side

In a letter signed by the West End Improvement Association, en\n
The residents of San Francisco in Chicago have just sent their two thousand dollars a year in wages to the West End Improvement Association in Chicago. They have other attractive features offered to the sightseer:

"Chicago people used to go to San Francisco to see Chicago. Now, they are coming here to see San Francisco."

Working Men May Become Selfish

Do you suppose J. P. Morgan and other press prophets of stockholders would be digging up $5,000,000 if they had not been given an incentive to work?

The Doomsday Men of our time are giving us to understand that working people with people and conditions as strange and interesting as the conditions and people of the West Side.

A majority of these fellows would continue to live in the slums if they were producing all this wealth.

Millionaires Censor News

Only millionaires and Socialists can afford to read a Chicago daily newspaper.

Working men are not going to subscribe to a newspaper that is going to give them the news and keep them out of work. They are not going to subscribe to a newspaper that will give them the news and keep them out of work.

They will subscribe to a newspaper that will give them the news and keep them out of work.
