Roosevelt's "Mob"

Where does Roosevelt mean by the "mob" that he calls us in his message is threatening to "pros the rich." Not once but again and again in his published writing we meet this same seeming, insinuating reference to "the mob."-Never been in the ROOSEVELTAN "MOB"?

They must be a majority of the population or there would be no danger of their capturing the government. They must be an overwhelming majority of the population or else there would be no danger of the government being pierced behind the ears by every sort of political, judicial, legislative and military bayonet. Since the "mob" includes the multitude we can perhaps find out better who comprises it by examining its movements and implications. The mob is the Rockefeller and Rogers and Harriman and Hill and all not in the TV. They are already "plundering the poor." They have at their disposal for that purpose all the machinery of government and do not need to organize the banks or the Trusts or the railroads or steel companies. They are not attempting to petty-bourgeoisly synch the officials of the Western Federation of Miners. They are not attempting to enforce laws that people do not care to observe. They are the regular governmental machinery.

The "mob" has been described by Paul Eblon, who plundered ship-

Mr. Fain, after reading all the holiday announcements of new ships and new hotels, understands why New York looks like a ghost town.

A Laugh or A Smile

"So you played buses and went fishing. Did you catch anything?"

"A sock."

"For Thomas" says Americans are foolish with their money. Thus far he feels the pressure of a tremendously great power is bearing down on his shoulder.

"It is a good day to deliver flowers."

The coming of these Japanese warships ought to exercise an influence for peace on the Pacific Coast.

DO YOU REALIZE

The last barge is still doing business at the same old rates, even when the 50-foot deep rate is up to $2.00, or even more than that. It is only a matter of time before the new barge will be built.

In 1914, when the first barge was built, the price was $20,000. Today, the price is $100,000. This means that the average barge owner has to sell his entire fleet to pay off his mortgage. The average barge owner has to sell his entire fleet to pay off his mortgage. The average barge owner has to sell his entire fleet to pay off his mortgage.

The history of Japan is marked by the rise of the small barge owner, who has to sell his entire fleet to pay off his mortgage. The average barge owner has to sell his entire fleet to pay off his mortgage. The average barge owner has to sell his entire fleet to pay off his mortgage.

Tolston on Freedom

The "Stouts," in Petersburg, are the only people in this country who are not living in poverty. The Stouts are not living in poverty. The Stouts are not living in poverty.

We have read of the "mob" that is supposed to be the whole nation. We have read of the "mob" that is supposed to be the whole nation. We have read of the "mob" that is supposed to be the whole nation.

On the Forging Line

Mr. Harriman and his connections know that their power is a great asset to the country. But they also know that their power is a great asset to the country. But they also know that their power is a great asset to the country.
