"What is it, then?"

"It's because it is the only way to make money."

The Traction Referendum

Two years ago a bitter contest was waged between John M. Harrison, Republican candidate for mayor, and Judge Edward D. Ferris. The rivalry of Judge Ferris and his supporters was based on Municipal Government. Mr. Harrison was advocating a public ownership of the street car system and leasing them to private concerns.

The Socialists of Chicago pointed out the probable inefficiency of the system. The counter-attack was that the Democratic party was a party with people who believed in private ownership and that any effort would not result in saving the city any money. The Socialists, believing that the trolley plan would be more efficient, agreed to support the Democratic ticket.

The two years of bickering have not altered the situation. The street cars, which made a profit of six hundred thousand dollars, and made a profit of five hundred thousand dollars, and are now being operated at a loss of one million and a half dollars. The Socialists in their platform immediately after the election made a demand for the execution of the street cars. The Republicans, on the other hand, have proposed a plan to lease the city's street car system to private interests.

The Socialists in their platform immediately after the election made a demand for the execution of the street cars. The Republicans, on the other hand, have proposed a plan to lease the city's street car system to private interests.

The Socialists of Chicago, however, were not satisfied with the results of the election and they have been working hard to regain control of the city. They have recently organized a new party, the Socialist Labor party, which they hope will be able to win a majority in the next election. The Republicans, on the other hand, have been working hard to maintain their control of the city. They have been making many promises to the people in order to get their votes. They have promised to build a new public library, to provide better schools, and to make the city more beautiful. They have also promised to reduce the taxes and to make the city more efficient.

The Socialists, on the other hand, have been working hard to show that the Republicans are not fulfilling their promises. They have been pointing out that the Republicans have not been able to reduce the taxes and that the city is not any more beautiful than it was before. They have also been pointing out that the Republicans have not been able to build a new public library and that the schools are not any better than they were before.

The Socialists are planning to continue their work in the coming election. They hope to win a majority in the council and to have a Socialist mayor. They believe that this will enable them to make the city more efficient and to provide better schools and libraries.

The Republicans, on the other hand, are planning to continue their work in the coming election. They hope to win a majority in the council and to have a Republican mayor. They believe that this will enable them to reduce the taxes and to build a new public library.

The Socialists and the Republicans are both working hard to win the coming election. The outcome of the election will depend on the votes of the people. The Socialists hope to win a majority and the Republicans hope to win a majority. It will be interesting to see which party will be successful.
