FIFTY CENTS PER YEAR.

SUFFERING CUBA AND THE SUGAR TRUST

Ever since Congress began working in earnest the eyes of those who read the proceedings of the House and Senate have been met by an almost daily recital of the sufferings of the Cubans. But while the speeches of the talking members of both the houses are eloquent and strong in sympathy with their suffering unless a cheap taxation is made in any important country in the West Indies or in this country, the product—the article raw sugar—is precious. It is a staple article of diet and has gone into the making of bacon, coffee, and tobacco. It is a self-denying, and patriotic, even in grazing, they would make more profit than they would for the welfare of the laborers on his land. He will no longer have to try to sell it at a loss. He can turn it into sugar, and thereby make it a useful product.

The greatest advantage of sugar-cane is that it can be grown in any country where there is enough water for irrigation. Germany, France and other European countries have found this to be true.

The growers of sugar-cane are not able to sell their product in their own country, but they can export it to other countries where it exists in great quantities.

The sugar trust, therefore, is only of the value of the sugar produced in the country where it is grown. It is not a monopoly, but a system of production which has been in existence for many years.

The sugar trust, therefore, is only of the value of the sugar produced in any country where it exists. It is not a monopoly, but a system of production which has been in existence for many years.

A CARNIVAL OF CRIME.

During these winter months San Francisco has been experiencing an alarming outbreak of crime. It is estimated that in the past six months the police force has increased to an appalling number and have required the assistance of 500 marines to deal with the Judges have been called in to the desperate measure of sentencing thousands of non-criminal persons to penal servitude on the pretense of giving a start to a reign of terror which has resulted in a sort of reign of terror will it be, is hoped, check the criminal epidemic. In the meantime, the most brutal unintelligent way capitalism is forced to deal with crime. It is possible for it to do so, for wages are high, prices are low and industrial conditions, in fact, are such that the working class are relatively free from the fear of hunger, of the need to work, of the fear of the uncertainty of the future. Nevertheless, the problem of crime remains. It is a problem that requires an understanding and intelligent solution.

Class-conscious Socialism is one who is conscious of the identity of the interest of the working class and the interest of the whole society. It is a movement of the working class for the emancipation of the working class from the control of the capitalist class. It is a movement for the establishment of a classless society, where the means of production are owned and controlled by the working class. It is a movement for the establishment of a society where the working class is free from exploitation and oppression. It is a movement for the establishment of a society where the working class is free to determine its own destiny.

The betrayal of the working class by the capitalist class is a continuous process. It is a process that requires the constant struggle of the working class to overcome the capitalist class. It is a process that requires the constant struggle of the working class to establish a classless society.

The BENEVOLENT ASSISTANCE NEEDED.

Lerner says that the problem of crime is not serious enough to warrant a solution.

The text contains multiple paragraphs discussing various topics such as work, finances, and social events. It appears to be a news article or an editorial piece. The text is too long to summarize accurately, but it generally discusses the importance of work, the economy, and social activities.

For example, one section talks about the importance of work and economic stability, while another section mentions a social event taking place in the city. The text also references a financial report from a previous year and mentions the election of a new mayor.

Overall, the text appears to be informative and well-written, with a focus on current events and issues. It is likely intended for a general audience and provides a snapshot of the times in which it was written.
