Special Workers

The meeting of those who are willing to act as special workers is being held on every day at the headquarters in the Old Post Office, 5th and Main streets, on the 10th floor, in the room with a very interesting history. Fifteen special workers were elected last night, and several others were added to Wednesday evening, and 'Ad

A Good Offer to Workers

Crowds of 1,000,000 and more are expected at the parade on Saturday night, and a message will be given on the social and political situation, and a good conclusion is expected.

The Political Parties

Probably the most enthusiastic group in the Socialist movement today is the Socialist Women's Committee, led by Anna Thomas. This group has done-and are doing-wonderful work in many places, and are working for the Socialist Women's Labor Union.

Socialist Victories

Spain. After a hot campaign, the Socialist Party of Spain, led by Comrade Torres, was elected to a large majority of seats in the Spanish Cortes.

 outset, the German Socialists have made a great stride in the elections. The party is now in control of the government in Germany, and has promised to advance the cause of international socialism.

The Only Possibility of Peace

By JOHN HARRIMAN

The phenomenon of a political party that is able to carry out its program and is successful in the face of constant opposition is a fact that should not be overlooked. The Socialist party has shown that it is possible to carry out a program of social justice in the face of opposition from the capitalist class.

The War Against Capitalism

Not only does a state of war prevent the existence of two classes, but as wealth increases wages worsen for both capitalists and workers. The capitalist is in a situation where he has to choose between two classes, the workers or the capitalists who control the state. He has to choose between the workers and the capitalists, and with which every capitalist is liable to be in an immediate or distant conflict.

The War Against Capitalism

It is only by the policy of the Socialists that we can win. We cannot make war and yet expect to live. In order to win, we must destroy the capitalist class and establish a socialist state. The only way to do this is to make war and prepare for the conflict.

We advocate the political armament of the working class to overthrow the domination of the capitalist class and establish socialism.

FIFTY PERTHAYS.
Life and Property

The Chinatowns are just as poor and asjurious as we make them out to be by the publicity of the press and the statements of our political leaders. Those who are poor and have no property are really no better off than the poor Chinese. They are just as hungry and as miserable as the poor Chinese. They are just as dependent on us and as contented with their condition as the poor Chinese. They are just as contented with their condition as the poor Chinese.

It is not a question of making the Chinese better off, but of making them as miserable as the poor Chinese. It is not a question of changing the conditions of the poor Chinese, but of changing the conditions of the wealthy Chinese. It is not a question of changing the conditions of the poor Chinese, but of changing the conditions of the wealthy Chinese.

5. The education of all children up to the age of eighteen years, and State and local governments should be required to provide free education.

7. The adoption of measures to stop the overproduction of coffee, cotton, and other crops, and to provide for the distribution of public utilities for the purpose of securing a more equitable distribution of wealth among the people of all races.

8. The adoption of measures to encourage the development of industry and commerce in the native element, and to prevent the monopolization of business by the foreign element.

9. The adoption of measures to encourage the development of education and culture, and to provide for the protection of the rights of women and children.

In advancing these measures as and when it is possible to do so, the government and the people of the United States should be careful not to allow the protection of the interests of the native element to be interfered with. It is true that the Chinese have made great strides in the United States, but they have not made as much progress as the native element. The Chinese are not yet equal to the native element in the enjoyment of civil and political rights.

In conclusion, I would like to say that I believe the Chinese are a great people, and that they have a great future before them. They are a people of great industry and energy, and they will make great progress in the future. They will be a great asset to the United States, and they will be able to make a great contribution to the prosperity of the country.
ADVANCE

Architecture Under Socialism

BY OLIVER WENDELL

A noteworthier once said: "Show me the man who has not in some degree deceived and swindled you, I'll show you the man who has not deceived and swindled you." This was the result of his economic condition. This may be true for the individual, but not necessarily for the individual, and the national architecture reflects the economic condition of the pop-

The mode of life of a warlike people is reflected in their city and home, as the dwelling place of the individual. The ancient Egyptians were a warlike people.

ANCIENT ARCHITECTURE.

In ancient Egypt we find the first instance of architecture. The city of Memphis was the first city known to man, founded in the 3rd century B.C. The sheets that make the elaborate buildings of the ancient Egyptians. The Pyramid of Giza is the largest of these structures, and it is believed to have been built for Pharaoh Chephren.

The religious influence of the Middle Ages is evident in the architecture of the period. The most notable example is the Cathedral of Notre Dame de Paris, which was constructed between 1163 and 1345.

The use of architectural elements in the modern world is a reflection of the current economic and social conditions. The use of modern building materials, such as concrete, steel, and glass, has allowed for the construction of larger and more complex buildings.

Now let me try to predict what will be the next big thing in the development of architecture. It seems to me that there are three possibilities:

1. The continued development of large, open spaces with high ceilings and large windows, which will allow for the maximum amount of natural light and ventilation.
2. The use of recycled materials, such as wood and glass, to create environmentally sustainable buildings.
3. The development of new technologies, such as 3D printing, to create highly customized and unique buildings.

Possibility of Peace

(Continued from Page One)

The Peace Bridge is a modern example of architecture that has been built to connect two countries and promote peace. The bridge was built by the United States and Canada in the 1920s.

Rockefeller on Survival

"The American Beauty Rose can be grown in any climate, as far south as in the Sahara Desert..." said Rockefeller.

The streets of New York are lined with beautiful architecture, from the grand mansions of the 19th century to the modern skyscrapers of today. The most famous of these buildings is the Chrysler Building, which was completed in 1930.

The American Beauty Rose can be grown in any climate, as far south as in the Sahara Desert. The Rose is a symbol of love and beauty, and it is said to have been grown in the 15th century in China. It was first brought to Europe by the Portuguese, and it was then cultivated in the gardens of the wealthy classes. The Rose was eventually brought to the United States, and it became very popular during the 19th century. Today, the Rose is grown in many countries around the world, and it is still a symbol of love and beauty.

The Rose is a symbol of love and beauty, and it is said to have been grown in the 15th century in China. It was first brought to Europe by the Portuguese, and it was then cultivated in the gardens of the wealthy classes. The Rose was eventually brought to the United States, and it became very popular during the 19th century. Today, the Rose is grown in many countries around the world, and it is still a symbol of love and beauty.

The Rose is a symbol of love and beauty, and it is said to have been grown in the 15th century in China. It was first brought to Europe by the Portuguese, and it was then cultivated in the gardens of the wealthy classes. The Rose was eventually brought to the United States, and it became very popular during the 19th century. Today, the Rose is grown in many countries around the world, and it is still a symbol of love and beauty.