ONE YEAR OLD TODAY

January 13, 1925

I am the DAILY WORKER.

I came to life out of the needs and the growing class iousness of labor.

I was born of the organized Communist strength of ranguard of America's working class.

I arrived on January 13, 1924.

I am one year old today.

I am but one of the many voices of Communism; my Communist dailies over the face of the earth. I am the youngest; the only Communist daily pubfished in the English language. join my voice, daily growing in power, with the thunder chorus reaching new masses over the world with fts message of deliverance.

am but one year of age; yet the capitalist masters

I enjoy their hate. I thrive on it I am condemned by the yellow press of the master class. Their condemnation drives new masses in support

I stalk into the factories, the mills, the mines and out on the land, and the workers, in the city and country,

I am often hid away by quick witted toilers; lest the eyes and the wrath of the exploiters of mankind fall upon

I am often passed from hand to hand in secret. I am most often read and studied in secret.

I am treasured because of the liberating message of Communism that I am continually carrying into the dark

I arouse the wrath of the Mighty Dollar's many "labor lieutenants." I fight this enemy within, as well as the enemy without the ranks of the workers. I spread before the masses the misdeeds of their mis-

I show that official reaction within organized labor is one of the most valuable allies of the class enemy of those who toil. I am, therefore, no more welcome where labor's re-mary officialdom sits enthroned, than I am where the masters of me still hold sway. I have often been from the gatherings con-trolled by the labor reaction; yes I have always returned to the struggle stronger than ever.

I have never been rejected by those who really labor I am loved by the increasing vanguard section of the toiling masses.

I am the spokesman of the oppressed; their only spokesman in the English language.

I am the first of the many to follow I am blazing the way for many like me many DAILY WORKERS—that will be established in all the great industrial centers of the nation.

I am the pioneer; others will come after me; just as the growing, militant vanguard of labor draws new masses into its wake.

I voice-every day-the grievances of labor.

I spur the many to greater struggles.
I urge the exploited to new victories for their downtrodden class.

I call upon them to stand erect and fight. I point the way to the final victory.

I am the official organ of the Workers (Communist)

I speak for the Communist International. I call upon the masses to put an end to capitalism. I urge the American Soviet Republic.

I am the voice of Communism.
I am a herald of the dawning Communist social

Hail the Militant Workers Party Branches!

Hail the Militant Workers!

Who Really Mean to nsure The Daily Worker for 1925

FEW weeks ago the word went out, "THE DAILY WORKER is in Danger!" For a year it has struggled in the forefront of the class conflict. For a year it has entered into every fight of the working class. Wherever there has been a fight against the enemies of labor, there has been THE DAILY WORKER, fighting, leading, inspiring the workers to battle.

inspiring the workers to battle.

For a year THE DAILY WORKER has been the most treasured possession of the American working class. In all this time, without a penny of subsidy, in spite of the bitter struggle for existence, THE DAILY WORKER has held up its banner. It has grown in circulation, in power, in influence. THE DAILY WORKER faces its second year with every prospect of further gains, new victories, greater service to the world revolutionary movement.

Is it then very strange that when THE DAILY WORKER called for help to make it safe for the struggle in 1925, that hundreds, thousands of militant workers gave

To these militants who make up the branches of the Workers Party which have up until January 10 sent their support to INSURE THE DAILY WORKER FOR 1925, this militant page is proudly dedicated.

We have made a start!

But the biggest part of the task lays before us.

THE DAILY WORKER asked for $50,000 to make it safe for 1925. $50,000 is the amount which must be raised.

Fortunately the branches listed above do not represent all of the militant branches of the Workers Party. Nor have all the militants in these branches done their share to build and keep THE DAILY WORKER. Hundreds of militant readers of THE DAILY WORKER who are not connected with the Party branches will yet want to prove their militancy and their devotion to THE DAILY WORKER by the purchase of Insurance Policies.

The militants of the working class have sent their shock troops to the immediate support of their DAILY WORKER. The whole militant army will follow until the goal has been reached and THE DAILY WORKER made secure.

Hundreds and thousands have heard the call: "INSURE THE DAILY WORKER FOR 1925!"

and they are answering:

"WE'VE GOT IT. WE'LL KEEP IT-AND BUILD,"

Passing of an Adding Machine Gets a "Death Notice" in the Papers

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

Today, the New York World gives five inches of space in its oblivary department, to record the passing of Walter R. Quick, auditor of the Metropolitan Life insurance company. "The Metropolitan is a power in the capitalist world. As each one of its important human cogs drops into the grave, he must be given his 'death notice."

As each one of its important human cogs drops into the grave, he must be given his 'death notice.

As also have a support of the second of the grave he must be given his death notice. The support of the second of the grave has a support of the grave has a support of the second of the grave has a support of the sup

Evidently Auditor Quick, had not reached that place where he could enjoy a little leisure, at the expense of working class policy holders; where he could travel and join exclusive clubs. These facts, if they exist, are usually included in the obitury of a "fligure" in the business world. There were no such facts to report about Auditor Quick. At 58 years he was still close to the job. He had to be, evidently, in order to hold on to his place. He died on the job at the home office, No. 1, Madison Ave., New York City. It is reported that he died "suddenly"; just like any adding machine being escrapped at a moment's notice, in order to make way for something new and more efficient.

And this Auditor, Quick was an Quick looked upon as

And this Auditor Quick was no doubt looked upon as "successful" among his fellow white collar slaves. Didn't he get a notice in the papers when he died. For that, thousand of lesser white collar slaves, only a slip of parteboard in the miss clock, will eny him, for some time, until he is forgotten, ever struggling myriads of the middle class. Those who can get their feet on a few dollars rise accordingly in the estimation of their fellow adding machines.

Capitalism may attract its multitudes of white collar slaves by various and dublous means, and ohain them to the deaks of its counting rooms; coddling them into believing that they are better than wage workers in the factories, the fields, the mills and the mines. But the profit hunger of big business will in time drive these petted pillars of the middle class into the ranks of the working class. These awakening multitudes will in time fight against the dreary, monotonous, empty lives forced upon them. They will realize that capitalism has nothing in store for them; that Communism is their only hope.

Under Communism this mind-numbing labor of the offices will be a ordered that it will be looked upon as a mere incident in the lives of human beings.

The development of civilization under Communism will draw all human beings out of their pigoonholes, where capitalism filed them away, and give them a wider outlook on life. In fact, the aim will be to develop real human beings, who can think, and piay, and enjoy life, and not to maintain mere machines of flesh, and blood and bonest which is the highest ambition of the present capitalist social order that is passing.

Labor's Big Job

And We Will Do More Next Year

What has the DAILY WORKER does in the year of its existence to justify the support of the working class? To answer this question would require almost a republication of each issue. Even to give an abbreviated index of the subjects would cover all the pages of this special edition. In vast throngs the workers responded, as we hope they respond this year to commemorate the life and work of the great strategist of world revolu-

History shows that no ruling class volutarily surrenders power over an exploited class without open struggle, and the Workers Party waras that the workers can never emackage themselves by simply voting and passing laws in congress.

But although the Workers Party recognizes that only by revolution can the exploitation of the workers be finally ended, it has pointerest seperate from the working class, and aids to the full extent of its power in every struggle for immediate needs such as more wages, shorter hours, abolition of child labor, the sight against unemployment, the "open shop" and the suppression of workers' rights.
