Prepare Funeral for "Labor Bureau" Born of Versailles Peace

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL

TODAY, the question is raised by the Versaliles peacemakers, whether their creature, the international labor bureau of the league of nations, should be quietly "bumped off," to use one of the favorite supressions of retailers in homicide. The wholesale murderers of the last war merely suggest that their child; thrown as a sop to anti-Bolsheyete labor officials the world over, in the stormy days of 1919, be merely "abolished as no longer useful." Thus will end another chapter in the revolutionary struggles of the workers, especially in Europe, against the official misleaders since the ending of the war.

Albert Thomas, the French "socialist" munitions minister during the war, was made head of the "labor bureau," which was even acceptable to Samuel Gempers, of the American Federation of Labor, righthand man to Predent Woedrow Wilson, at the Versailise negotiations.

The "universal eight-hour day" was danged before international labor, valiantly struggling in some countries to establish its own Soviet power. This was the empty promises with which the great employers hoped to satisfy the workers until bankrupt and chaotic capitalism could regain its breath. It was the pledge, with others of like nature, that the late Hugo Stinnes, the German industrial everlord, made to the late Karl Legien, head of the German trade unions, when labor in Germany, under the leadership of Karl Lisbinscht and Rosa Luxemburg, was battling to send German capitalism the selfsame way the kalser went.

The international labor bureau never developed into make than a debating society just as "socialists" are content to make speeches in various parliamentary bodies. The Chicago Dally News admits that it was established for no other purpose when it declared:

purpose when it declared:
"Such discussions by delegates representing the nations of the world should serve to discendingta knowledge of benefit to labor and to industry. Further, while Communist agitators under the direction of Moscow conspirators are striving to bring about weels revolution thru appeals to class hatred, the action of enlightened governments in trying to hit upon beneficial measures for the enhancement of workers' weifare should have a valuable meral effect."

However, the funeral is that of the "labor bureau," with all of its fake promises. Western European laber, in spite of the "bureau," backed by traitor "socialists" and subsidized with millions of "open shop" dollars, has been drawn closer than ever to Russian labor. This is clearly seen in the discussions now going on over international trade union unity. European capitalists, witnessing the conferences between British and Russian labor, and reading of the interchange of labor delegations between the two countries, easily realiza that their per "labor bureau" lank" proving what it was eriginally intended to be; that it has failed of its criminal purpose.

The Dawes-Morgan plan enaleving the workers of Germany has helped. Germany was supposed to be the land where "workers' welfare" had made the greatest progress before the war. It was the capitalist utopla of eight-hour laws, social insurance, unemployment insurance, and other pallistives, that were to be internationalized under the league of nations' labor bureau. But the Dawes-Morgan plan, with its replica promised for other countries, especially France, has spoiled all this. Capitalism stands before the workers of Western Euroe, more than ever, as their open and bitter oppressor. The "eight-fisur day" has disappeared in Germany, and its promise becomes a mockery in the rest of the capitalist world, driving the "international labor bureau" to its grave. The workers can take another forward stap by burying the social-democracy, loyal servant of capitalism, along with it.

Communist Colonial Policy in Practice

All is not going well for French imperialism in the Riman war. The facts of mutinies nch troops and general disaffection in the whole editionary force are escaping the censorship.

he war is unpopular among the French workers and the peasants see in it only an excuse for further heavy taxation. Recruiting is alow and munist Party is leading the agitation against enlistments.

As usual the ministry of war tried to create the impression that only a few minor battles would be necessary to creat the Riffians, but it is a matter of public knowledge misons, but it is a matter of processure of the proce

A speedy defeat of the Riffians would cause com-paratively few complications at home, but this is impossible and the longer the struggle continues the more restive become the tribemen in other French possessions and the French populace. Compled with the precarious state of French finances this latest venture creates a real crisis. If the old days such projects could be con-ducted with more or less secrecy and even if known did not result in great disaffection in the ranks of the working class. The parties of the Second In-

did not result in great disaffection in the ranks of the working class. The parties of the Second Inetransitional never thought of alding the liberation movements in the colonies of their respective countries and the imperialists could crush uprisings with ease and dispatch.

But the situation has changed. The colonial peoples have a new outlook since the world war.
They have become accustomed to the use of weapons of modern warfare and the Communist parties ertied every possible aid to them. The working class in the imperialist nations are not in accord with these adventures of their rulers for which they are recruited and for which they must pay either with their lives or in lowered standards
of living.

So far these colonial movements are more or less sporadic and lacking in unity. But the tendency is

of living.

So far these colonial movements are more or less sporadic and lacking in unity. But the tendency is to unite in the common struggle against imperialism and wway extension of imperialism mand wway extension of imperialism more unity smong the colonial peoples.

With the working class in France and the colonial peoples working in harmony against the bloody system of robbery, French capitalism is confronted with a power that it cannot crush.

The extension of this united front to include the workers of all imperialist nations and all golonial and semi-colonial peoples means the victory of the world revolution, a world Soviet Republic.

Why Wall Street Laughs

President Calles of Mexico breaks strikes and shes unions and the Mexican Federation of Laes manifestos to the workers telling then to like it.

So it is that Calles is a popular hero in the merican capitalist press and the idol of the ellow socialists.

His latest exploit is to break the strike Hussices oil workers and come out openly against them in their endeavor to force concessions from foreign oil capitalists. This also has the support of the Mexican labor fakers and it must bring a grin of glee to the faces of the Wall Streeters whole-hearted co-operation and profitat to see the whole-nearred co-operation and printance returns they are getting from the money invested in, first, subsidizing the officialdom of the Amer-ican Federation of labor and secondly in its Amer-icanizing of the Mexican labor movement thru its officials and the socialist hangers-on.

officials and the socialist hangerson.

It is a far cry from Mexico to Ireland, but the similarity in role and method between the Free Ustate government and the Calles regime is too obvious to be overlooked. Both murder the most militant workers and sell the rest to their imperialist masters while the labor officialdom of both nations not only applauds but conspires to weaken and destroy all resistance in the ranks of the working class.

the working class The Communist Party of Mexico alone points ou to the working class the treacherous role of their leaders and points to the path of struggle which they must follow.

Labor Aristocracy

Lee, head of the Brotherhood of Railway Train men, announces a gigantic plan of class collabora-tion while his union is in convention in Cleveland Sheppard, head of the Railway Conductors; attact the Communists and the left wing in a publ meeting and his union severs all connection with the LaFollette third party movement at its Min-neapolis convention and sinks back into the quagmire of the old "reward friends and punish emies" policy.

enemies" poncy.

The two incidents illustrate a reactionary trend of the most dangerous charactes—first, the willing-ness to surrender the weapon fo the strike, second, to abandon even the vague and confused form of independent political action—represented by the LaFollett third party movement, in favor of active participation in the capitalist parties.

As an explanation of this trend in the American labor movement, a trend which the last election campaign interrupted temporarily, and which finds additional expression in the launching of banking campaign interrupted temporarily, and which mudditional expression in the launching of banking and insurance schemes on a purely profit-making basis by the union officialdom, the mere pointing out of individual labor officials as traitors does not suffice. On the surface of American working class political life these officials are only bubbles. We must look for the chemistry of social change that agitates the mixture and forces these evil-smelling bubbles to the top.

We find the real explanation in the new status of American capitalism as a world power. American of American capitalism as a world power. Amer-ican capitalism has become the creditor of all the capitalist world—a stream of gold flows ever out-ward to needy nations in the form of loans and in consequence a new kind of income, interest on foreign loans and in pastments, shows itself in the credit balance of the ruling class.

Foreign investments are serve with them the loans and investments are serve with them the loans are loans.

must be fought.

Modern warfare, successful modern warfare—
and success is the watchword of America—demands as its first requisite a docile working class.
For the great mass of the working class the era of imperialism brings added hardships and increase the danger, for the ruling class, af revolt.
A working class united in opposition tolywars of conquest and the cause of these wars, is something that the rulers must find wars and niceae. of that the rulers must find ways and means of

·With a tremendous surplus from foreign in With a tremendous surplus from foreign investment, a huge portion of it derived from the robbery of colonial workers and peasants whose standard of living is much lower than that of the 'American workers' the ruling class proceeds to divide the labor movement by granting special favors, in the form of higher wages and better than average working conditions to certain strata of the working class, particularly among the organized workers. ganized workers.

It is not pecessary even that the labor officials be bribed outright altho for quick results in an emergency, this is done. It is sufficient that workemergency, this is done. It is suincent that work-ers who occurpy key positions in important in-dustries, notably transportation, be made to feel that their interests lie with an imperialistic policy rather than in opposition to it. Right here we find the moving factor in all the schemes for class collaboration including the Johnston "B. and O." plan and the extension of it advocated by Lee.

plan and the extension of it advocated by Lee. But the class conflict is not abolished simply because a privileged section of the working class lines up with the imperialists. The conflict continues and ravages even the highest strata of labor. Revolt develops even here. It is necessary therefore to disembowel the unions of well-paid workfore to disembowed the unions of well-paid work-res and make of them an empty shell. They must be made an integral part of the capitalist organ-ization in order that organized action in time of crisis becomes impossible. Company unions that can control every action of the workers are the only form of labor organization that imperialism will tolerate and it is trying, thru the Johnstons, Lees and other less outspoken advocates, to trans-form the railway unions into outright adjuncts of its political news. its political power.

We do not wish to give the impression that the Lees and Johnstons are consciously working to this end. This would be giving them credit for too much intelligence. It is probable that they do not even understand very well the real nature of the treacherous work they are doing. It is sufficient that they are middle class in outlook, with all the mortility to the high beams that all widdle class. servility to the big bosses that all middle class elements manifest, willing to do anything that will keep them well-fed and respectable.

But these procurers for American capitalism ar not doing as well as might be expected by thos who realize the lack of class consciousness amon the American workers. In Johnson's union a ranand file revolt has defeated him and in the vention of the Trainmen, Lee is having the fight of, his life. His whole policy is challenged and the struggle has crystallized around a resolution for amalgamation brought in by a Minneapolis dele-

So the American working class, even its labor aristocracy, is not so backward after all. The left wing movement gathers momentum day by day and any one who knows that A. B. C.'s of the American labor movement knows that when amalgamation becomes an issue in a convention of the Railway Trainmen there must be a great ferment at wor whose internal stress will yet break the class collaboration bubbles, clear away the scum and leave the clear solution in which the revolutionary germ already there will begin to multiply.
