"For God and the Kulaks"

Every worker should be on guard to meet and to smash the war now rapidly being organized by world imperialism against the Soviet Union

The signs of its gathering headway are too plain longer to be mistaken. While we cannot say at what hour it will come, we can certainly state that the imperialists are making all haste to prepare for it, both in a military way and in propaganda.

In the coming attack, the imperialist government of the United States is clearly seeking leadership, not out of any "idealistic" motive, but in hope of tearing down the greatest menace to world capitalism, the Soviet Power under which socialism is being built by the workers and peasants of the Soviet Union, unquestionably hoping not only to end that menace to the system whereby U. S. capitalists rob the workers of the United States and oppress the masses of colonial and semi-colonial lands, but in order to get for itself, or for some of the countries servile to it that border the Soviet Union, territory and people now outside their power to exploit.

The recent diatribe of the Pope against the Soviet Union, seconded at once by the Church of England, the Czarist emigrees (a good part of which are engaged in the "saintly" business of prostitution, strikebreaking and traffic in narcotics) and the "socialists" Kerensky and Abramovitch, is an example of the "mobilization of God," of superstition and social fascism, on the side of imperialism.

With reason, Comrade Rykov in Moscow on Monday stated that: "They are protecting God against suppression by the Bolsheviks. They are really interested in protecting the kulaks."

The kulaks, the rich farmers, hitherto permitted to hire labor under conditions laid down by the Soviet Labor Code and the trade union of Land Workers, hitherto permitted to lease land and to use land, are being struck a mortal blow by revocal of these provisions and the rush of the great mass of the poor and middle peasantry into collectives.

With the smashing of the kulaks as a class, world capitalism loses its greatest hope in the retrogression of Soviet economy "back to capi-talism." The sinister and secret military equipment of the capitalist world, making ready day by day to launch an armed horde of fascist mercenaries against the Soviet frontiers, counted upon the "dark people" of the Soviet village, for ages steeped in bowing to ikons and reverence to private property, most particularly their own property as kulaks and exploiters of the peasant masses.

But the peasant masses have had 13 years of enlightenment, and "dark" as may be the kulak class, with the glad assistance of the poor and middle peasantry, the Soviet Power in one smashing blow is uprooting the kulak class from its economic basis and establishing a socialist relationship in agriculture in which a kulak has no more place than has God in science-which is none at all.

Small wonder the forces of world imperialism are "alarmed." Small wonder that the pope, the French "anti-clerical" politicians, the "socialist" Abramovitch (now "just by chance" making anti-Soviet propaganda in America and openly soliciting aid "for underground work in Russia"), and all the thousand and one spokesmen of counterrevolution are busily "exposing" how lost in sin and iniquity are the Bolsheviks, and particularly bewailing the "war against the Russian peasants."

These gentry, of course, do not call attention to the fact that the enormous majority of the peasants they speak of, are enthusiastically aiding the Soviet Power to oust the kulak, who is their own hereditary enemy, for the good and simple reason that they, the great majority of the peasantry, are vastly benefited thereby. The burning at public bonfires of wagon-loads of ikons goes hand in hand with the formation of collective farms.

Not to salvage God from the bonfires, but to rescue capitalism from the victorious onslaught of socialist construction, to protect the kulak as a class, do the imperialists, cynical and callous and cruel themselves in oppressing the exploited of the capitalist world, summon God and Kerensky, the Second "socialist" International and the Roman Catholic Church, to do battle against the "impious" Bolsheviks.

Workers should take note of every anti-Soviet move being chronicled in the current news, and realizing its significance, prepare to defend the Soviet Power-and to whatever limit its defense demands.

Some worthwhile facts that developed are, however, rather interesting as indicating that the ridiculous charge of the whole pack of counter-revolutionaries that "Soviet agents murdered Koutiepoff in the Soviet embassy," is a deliberate lie and a frame-up to stir up counter-revolutionary fury. It appears that Koutiepoff went from Paris to Berlin just a week before he "disappeared" in Paris, to confer with General Lampe, leader genberg made a fake "opposition" of the White Guard officers in Germany. Also, it turned out, according to the German police, that "cer-tain" members of the White Guard colony in Berlin also "vanished" at the same time that Koutiepoff "disappeared" from Paris.

This business of "vanishing" by wholesale in Berlin, is, however, not charged up to "Soviet agents," and while a great deal of secrecy is hung over the whole affair, it is clear that the report current among the White Guard circles throughout Europe, to the effect that Koutiepoff left his by the General Motors Company), wife and sailed for South America, dismissed three Communist members because of foreseeing his removal as of the Shop Council. BUSINESS COMMUNISM IN THE LANGUAGE PRESS

By BILL GEBERT

THE Central Committee of our Party time and time again demands that the Party language press adopt a Bolshevik line. Comrade P. Smith, a few weeks ago in his article in the Daily Worker showed that some of our papers are very far from carrying out the Communist line, and that they deviate much from the Party line.

I want to deal with the Business Communism in our language press. The "Trybuna Robotnicza," a Polish weekly carries in two issues successively, advertisements of thirteen bourgeois fascist and Catholic papers published in Poland, and of five almanacs, among them one published by the Catholic church. This advertisement is secured from the Peoples Book Store in Detroit, owned by social-fascists. And in the paper a few lines above the advertisement, is the following slogan: "Hundreds of thousands of Polish workers read the enemies' fascist papers. We must win them to read our own Party press."

This correct slogan, however, goes together with the business advertisement to read fascist

In the same issue on the front page, dealing with the incoming elections in the City of Hamtramck, Michigan, it informs its readers that the Communist Party had put up Comrade George Krystalski as a condidate for mayor and that Dr. Tenerowicz and Dr. Dysarz who are candidates for mayor are simply reactionaries and enemies of the working class. But on the last page of the same issue there is an ad of both these doctors, it is true only as doctors, but it is customary to "support those who support us." Such a policy of business Communism cannot win the confidence of the workers, and they cannot look with full confidence on our paper. The Trybuna Robotnicza is also weak in many other respects. In the Lenin Memorial issue its leading editorial was under the title "Lenin and Poland," and there was another article from Lenin's book on petty-bourgeois deviations. Both these articles are correct, but to be satisfied with just these two articles is impermissable. Not a word on Lenin against war, not a word on the practical application of Leninism in the class struggle in the United States.

Also in other articles such as on the break of diplomatic relations by Mexico with USSR, it does not aproach it from an angle that this is preparation for war against the USSR. under the leadership of the United States. If the editor of the Trybuna Robotnicza would read the Daily Worker he would realize the real significance of that, and not the way it was approached in that article.

There are other shortcomings in the paper, which I am not going into detail here. I would only mention that there is hardly a word on the campaign for the present membership drive and that though the workers correspondence page is a very big one, and workers do write to the paper, the whole trouble is that this correspondence does not sufficiently deal with the struggle of the workers in this country.

The Polish paper is not alone in its Business Communism. The Vilnis, the Lithuanian daily published in Chicago, issued a calendar for 1930, and it advertised holidays as folows: Workers holidays, American holidays, Lithuanian national holidays, and Catholic holidays. So they sure have a broad perspective.

This Business Communist must be wiped out from our language press. The policy of the papers must be an uncompromised Party policy in every respect. Our language papers can learn much from the policies of our Central Party organ, the Daily Worker, which is today very much improved, and is actually not only the "collective propagandist and agitator, but organizer and leader of the working class."

Lessons of the 1929 Municipal Elections

By LEON PLATT.

THE Communist Party has only begun to understand how to utilize municipal elections in the struggle against capitalism and how to combine the immediate problems facing the workers on a local scale with the revolutionary program of our Party. In the municipal elections that took place in 12 states, the Party put up the candidates and a program only in 14 cities. This in itself shows how little our Party has done in order to reach the masses of workers during elections.

Political Background of the Municipal Elections

A very outstanding characteristic of the position of the capitalist parties in last year's municipal elections is the fact that the two official parties of American capitalism-the Republican and Democratic Parties-were widely split and permeated with internal dissention and strife. Certain cities where the Republican Party was in power in the municipal elections, the Republicans were split into three factions. This occurred in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Chicago and other cities. In a number of larger cities the Republican Party lost control of the city council which they maintained for years. Another characteristic point for the workers to note is the fact that in the last municipal elections, neither of the /canitalist narties raised the slogan of "prosperity" and the "full dinner pail." The issues around which they tried to gain mass support were: "honest government," "clean government against corrupt government," "a vote for the peoples' ticket." We therefore find that in a number of cities, such groups and parties were organized to put up their candidates in the elections under the name of "independent Republicans," "Square Deal Party," "Honest Government Party," etc. We also find that in a number of cities like San Francisco, the capitalist parties did not enter the elections offi-There the scheme was to have "noncialy. partisan" elections, where the candidates with the exception of the Communist Party ran as individuals, not as representatives of any political party. The splits in the state and local Republican Parties was a reflection of the general crisis which at present prevails in the Republican Party nationally, as best expressed in the struggle in the Senate around the tariff question. This crisis in the Republican Party has its basis in the present economic crisis in the United States and its effect upon American capitalism. The non-partisan elections or the "Honest Government Against Corruption" slogans were raised by the big bourgeoisie themselves for the sole purpose of misleading the masses and covering up the craft and corruption that exists in the boss-controlled government. These splits and struggles in the Republican Party not only represents a conflict between the petty bourgeoisie and large capital, but it also represents in the main, a struggle be tween various sections of large capital itself. fighting for machine control. It is also true that the liberal and petty bourgeois elements, smarting under the heel of trustified capital, were mobilized under the "Honest Government" parties, the "Independent Republicans," where the Socialist Party was not in the field, as a means of controlling their dissatisfaction, and directing it in the service of finance capital.

The Role of the Socialist Party. In New York City, Reading, Bridgeport, Buffalo, the Socialist Party was a factor and given full recognition by the capitalist class. In other cities, like Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Cleveland, where the Socialist Party had candidates, their participation was very weak and insignificant. However, this does not mean that the Socialist Party, in line with its present policies, will not be an important factor in municipal and national elections. The Socialist Party did not pretend to mobilize workers on an anti-capitalist basis. In order to prevent the Communist Party and the militant trade unions from gaining the support of the masses of the unorganized workers against capitalist domination in all its spheres, the bourgeoisie has begun to make conscious use of the Socialist Party to mislead the workers and misdirect their radicalization and determination to fight. The Socialist Party used "honest government, as its central slogan and its entire pro-

They Do Not Want Peace But War!

The Organ of the Soviet Government on the London Naval Conference.

Leading Article of "Isvestia" of January 18, 1930.

THE London Conference was formally convened for the purpose of restricting or, as some participants at the conference assumed, even for the reduction of naval armaments. Needless to say the London Conference has quite other aims in view. In order to understand the real aims of the imperialists it is appropriate to call to mind the fate of those proposals for disarmament emanating from the Soviet Union, the only state which is conducting a consistent and genuine peace policy. It is almost two years since the Soviet Government submitted to the Preparatory Commission on Disarmament the Draft Convention on immediate, complete and general disarmament. The naval section of this draft contained the proposal in the course of one year to strike from the lists of all fleets and to annihilate all armored ships, ships of the line, aircraft carriers and submarines and in the course of four years all other warships, including gunboats with a displacement of more than 3,000 tons, further to disband all ships' crews and to prohibit the building of any further warships. The adoption of these proposals,) which would have left in force only a fleet for police duties and equipped with very limited armament, woud have at once done away with the whole burden of naval armaments and put an end once and for all to naval rivalry; it would have removed every danger of a naval war just as the adoption of the Soviet proposals on the abolition of armaments and the destruction of the stores of arms would have done away with the possibility of wars on land. As is known the imperialists who are least interested in the prevention of future wars, hastened not only to reject the Soviet draft but the whole idea of general and complete disarmament. In anticipation of this fact and persisting in its fight for peace, the Soviet Union brought forward at the 5th session of the Preparatory Commission for Disarmament a new draft relating to limitation of armaments. This time the Soviet government proposed that all states possessing a fleet with a total displacement of over 200,000 tons should reduce their fleets by 50 per cent (both in regard to the total tonnage and also the various categories of warships), while all other states should reduce their fleets by 25 per cent. The Soviet Government further proposed to abandon and disarm the aircraft carriers which are the most aggressive weapons of naval warfare, to fix 10,000 tons as the highest tonnage of warships: to limit their armaments to 12 inch guns: to increase the maximum age of warships of all categories and prohibit the construction of any further warships, except for the purpose of replacing ships already existing, and to limit the quantity of means of destruction (munitions and torpedoes). It is impossible to doubt that these proposals of the Soviet Union for a determined proportional limitation of the existing naval forces were the only real, honest and immediate means of approaching the problem of limiting naval armaments, which would promote the interests of general peace. But this draft was also rejected by the imperialists, who thereby demonstrated that they are not seeking peace and that all their talk about limiting naval armaments is simply a monstrous piece of hypocrisy intended to cover the intensive growth of armaments and the preparations for war. The whole course of preparation of the conference shows without doubt that this conference will not deal with peace but with war, and with agreements which exist in view of the inevitability and nearness of fresh world conflicts, and all this for the purpose of creating a military and political situation favorable to one or the other power or group.

The preparation for war will be conducted at this conference in various directions. In the first place it will be possible to complete in London that undertaking which was commenced eight years ago in Washington, i. e., the liquidation of the obsolete or too expensive weapons in order thereby to release means to be employed for the same war purpose but more "productively," as for example for the preparation of aerial, chemical or bacteriological warfare. The proposal of the English government to lengthen the maximum age ships of the line and even further to limit their number and tonnage has precisely this aim in view.

STARVE OR FIGHT!

A Challenge to the Unemployed

Note: The third installment pointed out that "American business management has been unable to solve the problem of business stability." The four installment follows.

NOT only are waves of unemployment be-coming more frequent, but the number of workers permanently unemployed increases year by year. With each new invention, each introduction of "efficiency" methods, the num-ber of actual jobs available becomes fewer. A permanent and constantly growing army of the unemployed is the outstanding characteristic of unemployment today. In the past eight years, over 900,000 workers have been laid off permanently from the manufacturing industries; 800,000 from agriculture; 300,000 from the railroads. Since 1923-the year of maximum numbers of miners employed-nearly 200,000 men have been thrown out of the bituminous coal mines. This does not mean that the output in these industries has correspondingly declined. On the contrary, increased intensification of labor has increased tremendously the productivity of the workers. In the manufacturing industries productivity per worker increased 43 per cent from the close of the war to 1927. In agriculture there has been an increase of 27 per cent, on the railroads 12 per cent, in bituminous coal 23 per cent. Highly developed mass production industries, such as automobile manufacturing, have increased output per worker 310 per cent above the pre-war level. Two men now do the work formerly required of 128 in the loading of pig iron; one man replaces 42 in operating open hearth furnaces. On oil-burning steamships nine firemen, three each watch, replace the former stoking crew of 120 men. One automobile company produced 1400 per cent more cars in 1927 by employing only 10 per cent more workers. A large copper refining company reduced its skilled and unskilled working force from 578 men to 233 with a ten per cent increase in output. In a cotton mill in Lexington, N. C., each weaver had his looms increased from 24 to 72, while only 6 of the 19 weavers previously employed were kept to operate the 72 looms. Cotton weavers are quite commonly expected to double the number of looms they have been in the habit of tending. The same is true in other textile lines as well as in practically every other American industry.

The tendency of capitalist production today is to have fewer workers on the pay roll; to speed these workers to the very limit of their strength; to fire those unable to keep up the

That Much Heralded "Lovestone Banquet"

O^N Sat., Feb. 1, after heralding through the Revolutionary Age that a mass banquet would be held for the purpose of establishing the Revolutionary Age as a weekly organ, the Lovestoneites of the district and from out of town-175 in all-gathered at the New Harlem Casino, protected by the police and bomb squad at the entrance, plus gangsters who were mobilized for the occasion. Some of Lovestone's own committee were armed with knives and other weapons for the purpose of assaulting any Party member who might be present. The Party for its own good reason had a few comrades stationed outside the hall. These comrades were recognized by the detectives as workers whom they, the detectives, had assaulted on the picket line. This banquet was held after an attempt to hold a meeting at Stuyvesant Casino the night before. The renegades had to call off this meeting, however, owing to the fact that they dare not face the workers to whom they have to answer for the crimes that they have committed against the working class.

pace; to lay off the entire working force in periods of crisis and "readjustment"; and to rehire at lower average wages if and when the plant re-opens.

A STATE

This is a period of crisis, not only in the United States, but in all capitalist countries and cannot be overcome on the basis of the already saturated home market. The tendency is, therefore, to make every effort to increase the country's foreign trade. Foreign trade depends on foreign markets, which are already divided up under the control of the various imperialist countries. Hence a struggle for increased trade leads inevitably to struggle for markets, to a fresh re-division of the world, and to war.

The war danger is therefore directly related to and intensified by the world crisis of capitalism and is more imminent than it has been at any time since the end of the last imperialist war.

Hours of Work.

Hours of work have a direct bearing on the problem of unemployment. The number of hours which a corporation can force its employes to work is practically unlimited in the United States. No national legislation is in force stipulating the maximum number of hours permitted in a given day or week; and only a few states have any legislation on the subject except certain inadequate measures pertaining to the hours of women and children. The result is that while the much advertised fiive day forty-hour week is in operation for a limited number, perhaps 3 per cent, the great majority of American workers are forced to labor 50, 60 and even 70 hours a week. Even in the organized trades where there are union agreements the average hours worked is about 45. In the unorganized industries it is between 50 and 60.

A survey of 17 garages made in New York City in 1926 showed that in some instances garage workers were required to work as many as 84 hours a week. Average hours reported for molders by the Bureau of Labor Statistics in 1925 were 59.5. In Georgia the number was 56. The usual working day in Cleveland was 9 hours. The union scale is 48 hours a week with a six day week. Onethird of the workers operating blast furnaces in the steel industries work between 60 and 84 hours a week. Over half between 48 and 60 hours. The average weekly hours of textile workers are 60 a week in Georgia, and Alabama and in parts of the Carolinas. In some mills in Alabama the 12-hour day prevails; in Gastonia, N. C., 11 or 12 hours have been the rule; in Rhode Island there is a 9hour day. Fifty hours a week is the average for automobile workers. (To Be Continued)

Nemser and Becker looked about, surveying the situation, and when they saw that the field was clear-that it was possible for their brave leaders to appear on the scenethey opened the door of the car for these great heroes. The doors of the hall were opened by a policeman, a line of detectives and police and gangsters and renegades gathered across the sidewalk and Lovestone, with his head down, followed by Gitlow, Wolfe, Becker and Nemser, ran from the car into the hall.

A Good Riddance.

This is the type of leaders that once considered themselves the proper leadership for the Communist Party of the U.S. A.! These are the people who dared to attack the Communist Party of the U. S. A. which is carrying on a bitter struggle against the capitalist class and all opportunists within its ranks and outside! These are the people who talk about Leninism and Marxism. Continual decline in their own ranks and their close connections and associations with the police and detective force are demonstrating to the workers every day that these renegades from the Communist Party had and have no place in the revolutionary movement. The Communist Party can be glad that it has cleared its ranks of these poisonous individuals who were attempting to lead the Party into the swamp of opportunism, that lands in the lap of social democracy, the social fascist ally of imperialism.

gram was such that it was acceptable to the bourgeoisie and labor aristocracy. In the municipal elections, the Socialist Party was ready to give up its name and work under the name of a Labor Party. This was evident in Buffalo and a number of other cities. In the municipal election campaigns, the Socialist Party was not only endorsed by the capitalist class in New York but they also received the endorsment of the bourgeois press and bosses organizations.

Why We Were Not Successful in the Municipal Elections.

The first criticism that is to be made in connection with our municipal elections, must be upon the Central Committee of our Party. The Central Committee failed completely to give any central direction and consideration to the municipal elections in 1929. The Central Committee concerned itself very little with the programs, candidates, and active participation of the Party organization in these elections. The Central Committee absolutely failed to point out the importance of these municipal elections, and to mobilize the Party membership behind them. It is true that at a time when preparation for the elections should have taken place. the Centual Committee was faced with the task of preventing Lovestone and his group from splitting the Party. The Central Committee fought for the carrying through the line of the Communist International and clean the Party of all corrupt and right-wing elements fighting the Communist International and the Party. This no doubt, was the main reason why the Central Committee did not give due attention to this important work. In addition to the lack of attention on the part of national leadership of the Party, we must now consider the shortcomings and mistakes that were made by the district organizations and by the Party membership:

First, there was a complete lack of understanding of the importance of parliamentary activity by our Party membership. Syndicalist attitudes are still to be seen in our. Party membership as far as this work is concerned. According to reports in a number of cities, the comrades openly expressed their opinions of the impossibility of mobilizing workers for the Party platform and Party candidates. In a number of other cities, strong tendencies were manifested to capitulate before difficulties and petty-bourgeois legalism. In the Pittsburgh district, for example, where the Party for the first time in its history ran on an independent ticket, instead of the previous Labor Party ticket, comrades openly expressed their dissatisfaction with this policy. In Monnessen, Pa., the Party members actually refused to run candidates. In Portage, Pa., our comrades put up only a partial ticket because the other parties had candidates on their ticket who were considered as "friends" of labor and who at one time or another protected workers' conventions, like the Miners Convention. In Yorkville. Ohio our comrades did not expose two members of the U.M.W.A. who styled themselves as Socialists and who were consequently elected.

Other proposals will, however, be brought forward at the London' Conference regarding the limitation of naval armaments. Each of the participating powers has its plans which differ from the others only in that each of these plans aims at limiting precisely that category of ship or weapon in which the opponent has the greatest interest and which constitutes the greatest danger to the power proposing this limitation. Thus England is aiming at limiting the construction of big cruisers by America and the construction of submarines by France. America on the other hand demands such a standard of total tonnage for big cruisers as will give the U.S.A. superiority over the British cruisers scattered over all parts of the clobe, while France defends the possibility of unrestricted development of its submarine fleet which in the first place is directed against England. The real military character of the self-seeking proposals is not in any way altered by the pacifist arguments which are used to cloak them. It is perfectly obvious that all this has nothing in common with peace or a limitation of armaments, but is nothing else but an attempt to compel the opponent to abandon the weapon most favorable to him in naval war and is in fact a step in the preparation of this war. At the same time the contradictory proposals of which there is talk have very little chance of being realized. As is to be seen from the recent declaration of Ramsav MacDonald, the English imperialists do not seriously expect any success in this direction. It suffices to point to the French Memorandum of December 20 which contains sufficient reservations and malicious hints, in order to realize the complete impossibility of a successful solution of the fundamental questions of naval disarmament. We may merely add that this conference as can be seen from this Memorandum and the text of the English invitation to this conference, can adopt only provisional and conditional decisions which must then be submitted to the "disarmament" bodies of the League of Nations for ratification.

The essence of the matter consists, however, in that every one of the powers is only endeavoring to solve the political problem of creating a relation of forces favorable to itself. For England this problem is at present reduced to making use of the compromise agreement forced upon it by the United States against the other partners in that imperialist game that is being played behind all pacifist phrases and in the first place against France. It is precisely for this reason that England is demanding the abolition of submarines. Italy is making claims to naval parity with France, chiefly in order to extort concessions from the latter in regard to territorial and colonial questions. Japan is balancing between England and America and is making use of the

Unity With Police.

The contacts and connections of these renegades from the Communist Party with the police may be demonstrated in the fact that when they made a contract for the hall, they informed the house manager that they expected trouble and that they would appreciate any assistance that the house manager could give. The house manager informed them that he could mobilize police with police sergeants and others for the purpose of giving them the necessary protection. The Lovestoneites thereupon signed the contract on that basis.

The banquet was held in an atmosphere of continual fear that the workers might break in on them and take vengeance for the conspiracies they have hatched and carried out against the movement. The conduct of these renegades and their attitude showed that they felt at home with the police protection that they were receiving. Nevertheless they were very uncomfortable. They had their gangsters and police stationed on the sidewalks and stairways of the building-one of them, Mike Intrator, going to the extent of pulling a knife and flashing it on our comrades as a threat to force them to leave the streets.

The climax of this comical-diabolical scene was reached when the brave leaders of this band of renegades-Gitlow, Wolfe, Lovestone, followed by Becker, and Nemser, who brought the renegades to the hall-arrived upon the antagonisms existing between these two powers. The U. S. A., finally, obviously has the intention of making use of the London Conference for a great political action, the chief weapons of which are on the one hand the Kellog Pact and, on the other hand, the demand for freedom of the seas with the object of securing the world hegemony of American imperialism.

International imperialism and social fascism are endeavoring by such conferences to deceive the people. Needless to say that at this conference no mention will be made of that pro gram of real disarmament introduced by Comrade Litvinow at the meetings of the Preparatory Disarmament Commission, which the imperialists lost no time in rejecting. If however, the imperialists ignore this Soviet draft, the working masses of the whole world do not forget it and the contrast between the genuine programe of the Soviet government and the hypocritical comedy which is being played in London will help them to perceive the true character of the naval conference.

Four Workers in Anthracite Repudiate Lovestone

Four miners, members of the W. Wyoming unit of the Party, after listending to a report of the line of the Comintern given by Cobrade Candela of the Italian Buro, voted for the folowing motions:

1. We accept and endorse the Address of the Comintern. We declare the C. I.'s analysis of the situation in the U.S.A. are being borne out by life itself. The deepening economic crisis of American imperialism, the ever sharper struggles taking place all over the world and in the U.S. are proof of the correctness of the C.I.'s position.

2. We repudiate the Lovestone renegades. and endorse their expulsion from the Party.

3. We pledge ourselves to follow loyally the line of the C.C. of the Party, and the line of the Comintern. We will fight against the renegades. We will do everything to help build the Party and the N.M.U. in the anthracite. 4. We declare that our vote at the sub-district plenum against the Party resolution was an error.

Out of the five mining comrades present, four voted for the resolution, and the fifth declared that he was for it but made demands and reservations that showed he was still opposing the Party. These comrades were under suspension from the Party because of their opposing the Party line. Now with their vote, the suspension has been lifted, and all four have been readmitted into the Party.

This marks a still further step in the disintegration of the Lovestone renegades group. It marks a step in the wiping out of Galio, Vrataric's influence in the anthracite. The action of these four proletarian comrades in repudiating the Lovestone splitters should be followed by all other honest proletarians who were misled by the phrases of Lovestone and Gitlow.
