Not A Leg to Stand On

THE ridiculous attempts of the capitalist press, assisted by the "socialist" sheets, to picture the Moscow trials of the counter-revolutionists as a "frame-up," have been left without a leg to stand on.

It is, of course, somewhat natural for the American capitalists, whose savage class justiced burned to death Sacco and Vanzetti regardless of the proof of their innocence, capitalist justice which only yesterday blazoned its crime across the front pages in big letters saying that "Mooney and Billings Denied Pardons"-it is natural perhaps that the capitalists who try to dodge responsibility for the crimes against the Soviet Union of their agents there should use the term "frame-up," in an effort to delude American workers, who are certainly well acquainted

But after the exposure in the Moscow court, the protests of the defendants themselves, the absurd claim is shattered. Prosecutor Krylenko, reading the statement of the Czarist emigre "Committee of the Commercial and Industrial Union," published outside the Soviet Union, claiming that the confessions of the defendants were "a tissue of lies and fabrications, doubtless extracted from the accused by torture," asked the prisoners to tell their experience in prison.

The N. Y. Times, which has been playing up all the "denials" and "claims" of "doubt" and tales of "frame-ups" and "torture," had to admit through its Moscow correspondent, that the prisoners themselves freely contradicted it.

Professor Ramzin said it was an absolute lie. Larichev said he had been well treated in prison. Kalinnikof sobbed out that he had made a voluntary confession and had suffered no ill-usage. Fedotof said . . . he had received treatment appropriate to a man of culture, . he was far from being tortured. The rest of the accused showed the same unanimity . .

Thus the attempt to make out a case of "torture" and "frame-up," was smashed before the whole world. But no doubt the "socialists," led here in America by Morris Hillquit, who only two weeks ago led the pack of anti-Soviet liars here in the adoption of a resolution of protest at the prosecution of these counter-revolutionists, will brazenly continue the same identical lies.

The reason is that the American "socialists" are completely bound up with the most reactionary elements of American imperialism, the fascist elements symbolized in Fish and Matthew Woll, the enemies of the American working class and of the working class throughout the American workers should learn from this that all pretensions of the 'socialists" are but lies hiding their common aims wit hthe worst enemies

Why Fish Lies

THE antics of J. Hamilton Fish are not without their humor, but no one should under-estimate the fact that capitalism has need of just his sort of malevolent jackass to drown out by interminable braying the sob of mass misery of the workers.

Saturday, Fiish gabbled for forty minutes over a coast-to-coast radio hook-up, on the "menace" of Communism. He spoke, in pretense, as "an individual" and not as chairman of the Congressional Committee. But he thanked the other committeemen publicly and in no way was his speech different from an official declaration.

So far as Communism in America is concerned, the meat of his argument was that it was a menace to "our" industries. Since the workers do not own the industries, they need not share Mr. Fish's alarm at the fact he recited of Communist organization in the factories, the issuance of shop papers by the workers therein, the organization of strikes against wage-cuts and speed-up, the battles waged for immediate relief and unemployment insurance for the jobless.

Although Mr. Fish has "endorsed" the series of anti-Soviet articles running in the N. Y. Post and other papers by Knickerbocker, he calmly ignores even these when they contain matter that does not suit his Knickerbocker says that the Soviet is not "dumping" manganese in the United States. Fish says it is. In his Saturday speech, Fish said that all labor in the Soviet Union is "convict or forced labor"-incidentally and brazenly lying by saying Soviet labor is paid "only 10 or 20 cents a

Yet even Knickerbocker admits: "Convict labor is employed to no perceptible degree," while "The assumption that all labor in the Soviet Union is forced labor is not borne out by the records." Fish tried to make use, however, of Knickerbocker's representation of the kulaks (rich farmers) being taught that "he who does not work, neither shall be eat," as "forced labor." Like Knickerbocker, Fish misrepresents the sending of the kulaks to work in the lumber industry at union wages and conditions, as "opposition to collectivization" of the land these kulaks

The fact is, that the kulaks "opposed" the collectivization of the lands occupied by the poor and middle peasants, and frequently burned the buildings and destroyed the machinery of the collectives. The collectives refused to allow kulaks to join, rather than forcing them to join, and they were "dispossessed" more by the fact that they could not compete against the collectives, especially so when the landless peasants they had been exploitinig no longer would work for them because the collectives took them in and bettered their conditions

Moreover, all land in the Soviet Union belongs legally to the nation and the rich farmer "kulak" who could no longer get rich by getting others to work it for him, has neither a legal nor an economic basis and has to resort to that painful expedient of going to work.

Now we call attention to why Fish lies about this. It is because he, and other American capitalists and landlords, wish to cover up the fact that here, right here in the United States, it is the poor farmers who are "dispossessed" and driven to "forced labor"-provided they can find it, in the factories. In the last ten years about 5,000,000 of the farming population of the United States, surely something like one million farmers, were driven off their farms-not by Bolshevism, but by capitalism! Moreover, these million farmers were poor farmers, they were driven off by poverty because they were unable to compete with the rich farmers and farm corporations, because they were ground into dust by rents, mortgages, taxes robbery by all kinds marketing monopolies In short, here under capitalist rule the poor farmers are driven into the cities to seek in vain for jobs among the unemployed-while the rich farmers remain and fatten on the misery of their poorer

In the Soviet Union the rich farmers, a small percentage of the total, are "forced" to go to work because no one will longer sweat for their profit-while the big majority, the poor and middle farmers are joining the collective farms and living better than they have ever lived before as they work to build up socialist agriculture.

Orders Ambassador to Protest Exposure

LONDON, England, Dec. 2 .-- Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderso roused great cheers from the Tory benches in the House of Commons yesterday by lining up squarely with the other imperialist countries in their "protest" against the discovery of the war plot they had cooked up together with the sabotage ring in Henderson is a prominent member of the labor party and, like the rest of MacDonald's "labor cabinet," seems determined to be more reactionary and imperialistic than even the Tories could be.

Several days ago, on being asked in the commons whether he had retaliated in any way against the exposure of the fact that the Russian sabotage ring was getting money and directions from the heads of the British oil trust, arms manufacturers and officers of the British army general staff, Henderson asked for time and said he did not see his way clear to take action then.

Ambassador Protests. Yesterday he came out with this statement

"His majesty's ambassador at Moscow, accordingly on my instructions, has informed the Soviet Government that in so far as the comments of the public prosecutor on the depositions made by the accused have been accepted officially by the Soviet, I take exception to those passages which contain adverse and unfounded reflections upon the late and present governments."

This shows the MacDonald cabinet behind the sabotage ring and war plot against the Soviet Union as openly as the sabotagers' confessions did, and almost as openly as the Lloyd George government did when it was sending troops and munitions to kill the Russian workers. It will be noticed, incidentally, that Henderson not only defends his own government's plots but those of the Lloyd George and Baldwin govern-

In the land of prosperity ablebodied men are begging, families starving. The bosses are putting the tacked the demonstrations of the burden of the crisis on the workers' shoulders, but it is setting them to think. They are beginning to realize more and more that something will happen to this country. But another lesson must be brought home, that "this something" will happen sooner and workers will get better cond He says "To stimulate business only through unified ranks of workers of all races and nationalities as well as the American workers. Since the Daily Worker campaign for 60,000 readers started—daily circulation has increased

During this period two districts have reached and passed their quotas for December. These are District 12, Seattle, which made 120 per cent of its quota and District 19. Denver, which made 110 per cent of its quota.

Other increases in the amount of daily circulation since the beginning of the campaign together with the percentage of the December quota reached are: Dist. 16, South, 54, (72 per cent); Dist. 6, Cleveland, 570 (54 per cent); Dist. 7, Detroit, 776 (48 per cent). #### NEXT WEEK'S TABLES TO COVER WHOLE CAMPAIGN

Complete gains in Daily Worker circulation until December 1 are not revealed in today's tables because all circulation has not been fully recorded. Increases coming from the far west arrive several days late. Tables next Wednesday will show by district and city all gains made from the beginning of the campaign. New quotas for Jan. 1, double those for December, will be assigned. These will be the final quotas for the whole drive.

8 DAYS REVEAL 2,000 DAILY INCREASE

Tables today show an increase of 2,000 circulation for the 8 days between Nov. 22 and

Nov. 30. This includes Detroit's "1.000" increase which now registers at 611 in these tables and not over 714 altogether. This means circulation in the rest of the country increased 1461 during the 8 days. The increase is too it by January 1.

Here are the tables. Study the figures for your district and city carefully:

TOTAL FIGURE OF 27.265 NEEDS EXPLANATION

The total given in the district tables above is 27,265 daily circulation. When the drive started the average daily circulation of the Daily Worker was given as 29,784. This latter figure was arrived at by taking an average of figures for a month which included all special editions during that period. The actual circulation of the Daily Worker at the time the drive started minus all special editions and not counting miscellaneous and foreign circulation was 22,311 as shown in tables published for Nov. 1. Today the circulation shown in this same anner, without special editions, foreign miscellaneous circulation, is 27,265 an increase of about 5,000. If the 276,119 extra orders on Special Elec tion Campaign editions was spread over the month today's average Daily circulation would appear to be 37,000. Instead we have the figure 27,265 which is solid, day to day, circulation in the U.S. As a matter of fact the average press run of the Daily Worker for the week ending Monday, Dec. 1, was 31,166.

Although ultimately paid-in-advance subscriptions will wipe out the necessity for drives for money we cannot expect funds for circulation to come in fast enough to overcome the present financial crisis of the paper. For this reason it is necessary for all comrades not only to bend every effort to boost Daily Worker circulation but also to obtain donations to ensure continuance of the paper.

TEMPO OF CIRCULATION DRIVE MUST BE SPEEDED

December is reached and only one-third of the December quota has been obtained. The 5,000 increase in circulation in a month is not enough. Every district must redouble its efforts, dig in furiously to broaden the circulation of the Daily Worker. All signs point to the fact that the present is the time to get mass circulation. The spotty increases, some districts passing their quotas, indicate that it is merely a matter of determination. Party members and red workers must throw everything into the campaign and win mass circulation by January 1.

In the words of the resolution of the Central Committee Plenum:

fore make conscious use of the Daily Worker as one of its principal instruments. The non-Party sympathetic workers must be mobilized and organized to extend the circulation of the Daily. The financial support of the Daily and prompt payment for the paper must become the first revolutionary duty of every worker. . . There can be no unpaid circulation of the Daily Worker."

MOSCOW, Dec. 1 .- This is the fifth day of the historic trial of the counter-revolutionary wreckers and interventionists. Eight defendants have risen in their turn confessing the details of the shameful conspiracy against the socialist State Prosecutor Krylenko who is cross examining, is a compact, cool little man with bald head and dressed in simple khaki jacket and leggings. He does not roll on floor and shed fake tears or wave arms like our customary ham actor American prosecutors. Instead he asks calm, logical questions. The whole trial is conducted with almost solemn formality. No fireworks. No histrionics.

A great audience of workers, students and peasants sits like spectators at tragedy. No one laughs during trial. Everyone present in glittering white and gold auditorium, formerly Nobles Hall, seems conscious that trial is one of the most important moments of the Russian and world revolution. Capitalist imperialism is being tried in the persons of eight engineers. They formed party of two thousand engineers and technical men to wreck the Five Year Plan. Conspired with French General Staff and the discarded Russian capitalists in Paris to invade Soviet Russia in 1931 and crush the revolution. They have confessed to receiving millions from French and other imperialist sources. Planned capitalist military dictatorship and a blood bath for millions of workers and peasants.

For years liberal pseudo intellectuals everywhere have been trying to find parallel between bourgeois French revolution and the proletarian revolution. They hopefully predicted the appearance of a man on horseback here. Finally they saw their man on horseback in Ramsin. Ramsin was to be capitalist dictatorship's premier. With help of French imperialists he was to restore capitalist "law and order" and private property in the Soviet Union. He naturally would have been imperialists' puppet.

Napoleon Ramsin (!) is now meekly sitting in defendant's dock with four young Red soldiers on guard and two factory workers and the president of Moscow University passing judgement on his gory dreams of power. For horsebacked man and fellow traitors laid skilful plans forgetful on the Soviet masses. This is not the French Revolution. This is a new thing-a country where the working class gained power and consciousness. The bourgeois West has apparently not yet learned the lesson that Soviet strength lies not only in cannons and airplanes but in the guarding faith of millions and millions of plain people, of men and women and children ready to die rather than yield an inch of the great transformation in human ethics they have wrought. This mass spirit made itself felt at the trial's

I walked Moscow's streets with Ernest Glaesser, famous young German novelist who became a Communist this year. A million workers poured out of factories into the snow laden streets and twilight. From every direction they marched passed Red Square and the scene of the trial. Factory bands and defiant posters marked the scene-every group of fifty workers seemed to have an accordion player. Everyone sang. When the parade stopped a factory girl would dance or a young worker or soldier leap up and down in acrobatic Russian Kazatsky. Torchlights and great red banners, factory and cultural groups, bold, happy, defiant of imperialist intervention plans and shouting "Long Live the Revolution," Long Live the Five-Year Plan." What mass joy! What spontaneity! It clutched one's heart, brought tears to one's eyes to see this human Niagara of youthful faith and solidarity.

Glaesser and I speculated as to why the demonstration took such an exuberant form. We agreed that a deep psychological motive was behind this joy. Soviet masses so confident of own power, inspired by successes scored by the Five-Year Plan that they no longer fear anything the imperialists might do. They know they will win. This trial seems to them another reason why they will win for plot reveals what deep laid sabotage and wrecking has been carried on by engineers who have been among the chief leaders in Soviet industry. Yet despite enormous treachery, the workers see the Five-Year Plan going forward with miraculous speed. Therefore the rejoicing. All over the Soviet Union these spontaneous demonstrations took place. Inspiring to be in Soviet Russia today.

All the passion that went into winning military revolution in 1917 has been turned into construction of new life. The air tingles with creative feeling. New factory workers' homes and clubs rising on every hand. I have visited the Dnieprstroi project. Two years ago there was nothing here but a squalid dusty peasant village. Today it is a huge fantastic industrial theatre where 25,000 proletarians are actors. Saw men and women at work. Hard work, dirty work, dangerous work, but all could stop a moment to tell about the glorious Five-year Plan.

Everyone is now a part of the great plan: lumberjacks, engineers, waiters, poets, Red Army soliders, students. No unemployment in Soviet Russia. Rather a shortage of workers for the Plan. Minor hardships depress nobody; all realize necessity of the Plan. One begins to understand what life means; for there is Great Plan. Had a brief interview with Comrade Krupskaya yesterday. Her serene face grew youthful as consomol's as she told about new cultural victories of the Revolution. She said "every year new millions of peasants and workers grow into consciousness. Before the Revolution more than eighty per cent in Russia were illiterate. But now they are moving forward so rapidly that by end of the Five Year Plan I am certain every trace of illiteracy will be wiped out. Soviet Russia will be the only country in the world where no illiteracy exists."

She spoke of the thousands of new schools being built, of the great epidemic of self-education that has seized the Soviet masses, of millions of books being published to satisfy the eager masses. All are manifold expressions that nation is in creative ferment. She said "if only Lenin were alive to see all this, and your own John Reed whom Vladimir Ilyitch loved so much! How happy and proud they would be!"

Strange, hard, beautiful times, with Soviet Russia in Five Year Plan justifying itself. The Five Year Plan is now the hope of the world's working-class.

Capitalist plotters who seek to destroy the Plan would drown world anew in blood and must be constantly exposed and defeated. The first duty of every honest worker or intellectual in the world today is to defend the Soviet Union's Five Year Plan. Today, it is the plain duty of the world proletariat to stay the interventionists hand and strike the sword of war from the raised hands of Poincare, Briand and their bloodthirsty fellow conspirators in all capitalist coun-

Discrimination Against the Foreign-Born

By LABOR RESEARCH ASSOCIATION.

DISCRIMINATION against foreign-born workers is as much a class weapon as wage-cuts and injunctions. Aside from its immediate function of increasing the profits of the capitalists, it is also a means whereby the ranks of the workers are divided and set up against one another.

The conditions to which foreign-born workers are compelled to submit are probably even worse than those imposed upon the Negroes. Negroes. at least in a few Northern states, possess nominal "equality." But in the states of Pennsylvania, Illinois, New Jersey, California, Arizona, Rhode Island, Idaho and New Mexico "foreigners" cannot even be employed in public works. In ten other states, including New York, they do not receive the same accident compensation accorded to citizens. And in Oregon foreigners are not allowed to read newspapers and magazines which are not printed in English. The state of Pennsylvania pronounces that foreigners have no right to keep dogs. The few states that have old age pension laws give the pensions only to those who have ben citizens from 10 to 25 years. Similar discrimination is contained in practically all the labor legislation of the 48 states.

It is not only through the statute books that the immigrant is victimized. Robert W. Dunn. in Labor and Automobiles, reports that "At least 50 per cent of the automobile concerns require first papers or naturalization papers from their employes. As a result the number of noncitizens is now much lower than formerly. For example, only 3 per cent of the workers in the Flint Chevrolet plants are reported as aliens." Along with its class-conscious discrimination, this is an efficient aid to an identification and blacklist system.

In Texas, Mexicans are imported mostly because they are unable to get into the A. F. of L. unions there. In Houston, where wages for Mexican workers are comparatively high, cotton oil products mills employ them at 25 cents an hour. These mills operate in two shifts of 12 hours. Compress workers handle 500-pound bales of cotton at high speed-trucking, piling and un-

These conditions hold true for foreign-born workers all over the country. A survey of immigrant women in Philadelphia shows that "11 per cent received under $10 a week, 35 per cent between $10 and $15, 36 per cent between $15 and $20, and 18 per cent over $20." In the mines of Michigan, where the miners are almost exclusively foreign-born, the wages are lower than in other mining states, the workers earning between $700 and $800 annually.

Economic discrimination accounts for the Filipino race riots this year in California from San Jose to Los Angeles. Hawaiian sugar planters imported 80,000 Filipino laborers to compete with white labor there and more than half of these miserably underpaid workers have found their way to Califonia because of the higher wage on the mainland. Of this situation Federated Press reports: "It is the old story of the Chinese and the Japanese in California all over again, but this time the Orientals have no government of their own to protect them. Tension has, furthermore, been increased in Watsonville by the appearance of a delegation from the Young Communist League, San Francisco District, with a manifesto calling upon Filipino and white laborers both to join forces 'to fight the American Legion, the police and the ranch owners as common enemies.'

In Seattle matters came to a cruel head. Some truck farm owners fired white laborers at 60 cents an hour and hired Filipinos at 25 cents. Well organized groups raided four ranches, kidnapped the little brown workers and cruelly flogged those who did not flee. Men in divisions of five autos swept through bunkhouses and dumped the Filipinos into the cars. They were taken several miles away, many of them naked, and thrown into the underbrush bleeding. Several were found in a river, where they fled to escape their torturers.

Situations like this bring out with dramatic. clearness the fact that race discrimination is a trick to divide them into artificial classifications of nationality. Lobor and Textiles, a forthcoming book by Robert W. Dunn and Jack Hardy, summarizes the situation well: "Employers in the North play off the various nationalities against one another much as they use the Negro workers against the white workers in the South. When one New England mill superintendent was asked if he ever had any strikes in his plant his reply was: "There are 17 nationalities represented in this mill and the people of no one nationality can understand the language of the others and, therefore, they can never get together enough to make a strike.' In another Rhode Island mill the agent has the workers so divided that a weaver has to go half way up the weave shop before she can find another worker who speaks the same language. The first is an Italian, the second an Irishman, then a Pole, Frenchman, Englishman and Slav. The workers are thus kept apart in the attempt to prevent

On the Sidewalks of New York

By ALLAN JOHNSON.

CHARLES HOFF hunched his shoulders a bit closer together, when a chill breeze played through his thin overcoat. He wouldn't mind his tattered apology for an overcoat, he reflected, if only he could get some hot food between his ribs. Well, he managed to pick up an old rag of a coat, and maybe now he could scrummage up a meal somewhere. A good meal, though, was hard to get, even with all those damfool charity organizations and mayors' committees

Hoff hadn't had a decent meal since the last layoff, eight months before, and he was slowly starving to death. Garbage cans, soup kitchens, breadlines and occasional handouts had kept his life's spark faintly glowing, but the mere thought yesterday, of gulping down some more of the slop that his handed out on breadlines, made him nauseous. Hoff decided to walk and try to forget about food. He would stroll along Broadway. The lights and the theatres and crowds would warm him a little bit and make him forget his hunger and his homelessness and his hopelessness too.

As he walked up Broadway, he wondered how it was possible that eight hundred thousand men and women could be unemployed in this metropolis of the world. It seemed that half New York was on Broadway and the other half in the brilliantly lighted restaurants on the side streets that led into it. And yet it was true that there were eight hundred thousand, and many with dependants besides, as bad off as himself. Didn't Rybicki say so? He would never forget Rybicki, the overfed pig with a face like a cop who was the head of the city's employment Rybicki had taken his application after Hoff had waited in line for five hours. Hoff had been told by some fellow workers that it was useless to apply at the city's agency; the damn fakers either sent you to a vacant lot or gave you a job at fifteen dollars a week with a boss who had fired a thirty-dollar week man "to aid the unemployment situation," and incidentally save fifteen dollars by hiring cheaper workers from the city's agency. Hoff was not the strikebreaking kind, but he applied for a job anyway. Maybe it wasn't true that Rybicki was a faker.

Hoff found out soon enough. When Rybicki asked him where he had worked before, Hoff answered, "for a shoemaker-I've worn out two pairs of shoes looking for a job." Rybicki glared at him and tore his application up, saying "We don't need any wisecrackers today. There ain't no job for you." Hoff had protested and pleaded, saying that he had only been kidding, but Rybicki had walked away. Yes, he knew Rybicki. For kidding good-naturedly about his lack of a job, he had been treated as if he were a slave getting fresh to his master. Maybe those Reds were right. Well, he would find out sometime but he wasn't sure yet. And if he ever found out that those Reds weren't a bunch of trouble makers, he'd fight with 'em until he died. Hoff was a bit cynical. He had been a member of an A. F. of L. union for nine years. By this time Hoff had reached Forty-eighth St. He stood on the curb for a half minute. halted by a traffic light. The breeze was stiffening a bit and Hoff drew his shoulders in again, although it didn't seem to do any good. only made his shoulder muscles tired. He looked down Forty-eighth St., filled with expensive restaurants. If he could only afford one good meal. It wouldnt' be so bad if a fellow had about one good meal a week, then the garbage food you had to eat the rest of the time would not taste so bad. There was one swell place in particular on Forty-eighth St. that he remembered. He had passed it when he first came to New York and had noticed a crowd of kids watching the chef in the window preparing the food. By gee, he would take a walk there now. It would make him feel good just to look good food close in the face again. Hoff swung into Forty-eighth St. until he came to the restaurant at number 148. Yep, hams and fat turkeys. Hoff stood there a minute there was the same chef carving away at juicy or two, his eyes fixed in a glassy stare at the food which he could almost smell, and perhaps did. He suddenly lurched forward and fell in a dead faint.

When he awoke in Bellevue Hospital, a nurse showed him a two-inch clipping that she had clipped from the New York Times. It read:

'A starving man collapsed yesterday in front of the restaurant at 148 W. 48th St., in the window of which a chef was busily carving joints | I'm learning."

Fake Anti-Lynch Congress A Flop

By CYRIL BRIGGS

THE fake anti-lynching congress of the Negro petty-bourgeois misleaders held in Washington, D. C., last week under the leadership of the National Equal Rights League was a complete flop.

The disruption and failure of the congress began at the very opening of the first session when Lelly Miller, notorious apologist for the imperialist oppressors of the Negro masses, in the opening address based his speech on the promises that the race victimized by lynchings and boss terrorism "should be more law abiding." More respect to the laws and courts of the bosses which are regularly used against the Negro masses. More respect to American institutions like lynching, jim crowism, etc. Sees No Need for Struggle

Miller, as usual, completely ignored the necessity for struggle against the bosses, lynching terror which has already taken 38 victims during the present year. He had no condemnation for the terrific oppression and robbery of the Southern Negro masses. He showed no interest whatever in the misery of over 900,000 unemployed Negro workers, part of the army of nine million jobless in this country. These were nothing to get excited about in Miller's estimation. This line was a little too raw, however, for the rest of the traitors. These, aware of the growing resentment among the Negro masses against their treacherous leadership, saw their tottering influence smashed by such open betrayal. They had expected the congress to at least formulate a fake program against lynching. Instead of that, Kelly Miller preached respect for the law of the lynchers.

No Workers Present

In sharp contrast to the recent convention in St. Louis of the League of Struggle for Negro Rights there were no workers present from the factories and fields. The delegates, less than fifty, were exclusively from the group of professional betrayers of the Negro masses; preachers, landlords, bourgeois editors, etc. Unlike the St. Louis convention which based its fight against lynching on the mobilization of the white and Negro workers for militant and concrete demands like the right of self-determination-state unity for the Negro majorities in the Black Belt-destruction of the plantation base of Negro oppression in the South by confiscation of the lands for the Negroes who work the lands: death penalty for all lynchers, etc., the fake antilynching congress of the misleaders was based on prayers for the health of Hoover and on petitions to Hoover to punish his own class and his Ku Klux and Lily White allies, and to denounce the discrimination and jim crowism practiced by his own administration as an instrument of the white ruling class.

Delegation Visits Hoover.

A delegation of five visited President Hoover with the petition. The delegation included representatives from such reformist organizations as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the National Equal Rights League, the National Association of Colored Women. The traitors were all there, even the Lovestone renegades had a representative at the conference in the person of Rothschild Francis, editor of the petty-bourgeois "Emancipato of St. Thomas, Virgin Islands.

This fake anti-lynching congress further exposes the treachery and futility of the pettybourgeois misleadership. Even the delegates had to admit that the affair had no definite program. And to make more complete the exposure it was turned from its opening session into a congress for the support of the laws and institutions of the lynchers instead of the fake anti-lynching fight its leaders had planned to stage in an effort to quiet the rising wrath of the Negro masses.

Bosses' Hokus-Pokus Fails

FOR thirteen months the bosses and their yesmen have been making hokus-pokus to persuade the workers that industry will soon be on the upgrade. And still the decline continues.

November, 1929, was the month of the greatest stock market crash in American financial history. In its employment bulletin for that month the U.S. Department of Labor pretended that the "recent financial upheaval had not disturbed industry or caused any decrease in employment. Yet the Federal Reserve Bulletin, published by insiders for insiders, showed a drop in factory jobs from 102.8 in July to 99.3 for November. By December, employment had sagged to 96.9.

This moved Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to announce, "I have every confidence that there will be a revival of activity in the spring." On January 21 President Hoover declared,

"The tide of employment has changed in the right direction." But the index actually had dropped to 95.6. Down to 93.9 went the employment index for February. So Julius H. Barnes, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, jumped into the breach. On February 18 he saw no less than "every evidence of early renewal of the normal onward march of living standards and business prospects." On March 7, the day after the world-wide Communist demonstrations for Work or Wages, Hoover tried again. This time his line was that, 'All the evidence indicates that the worst effects of the crash upon unemployment will have been passed during the next sixty days." By way of a start, the job index for the month sank to

April the government hokus-pokus artists spent for customers. He was attended and taken to Bellevue."

Hoff reread the clipping and said, rather weakly, "Here I've been pounding the streets for eight weeks looking for a job and the Times never noticed me, or the eight hundred thousand like me. But now, goddam them, when I've collapsed and am damn near dead from lack of food. I've suddenly become a news item. Maybe that's why they don't notice the Reds until they do something. Well, I'm learning, in silent thought. But the index went down just the same-to 92.4.

Thus the stage was all set for Hoover's May 1 monologue: "I am convinced we have passed the worst, and with continued unity of effort we shall rapidly recover." May was also the end of the period set for recovery by both him and Mellon some moons before. The job index showed

Then Secretary of Commerce Lamont took a try. If present tendencies continue, he averred on May 19, "normal conditions should be restored in two or three months." That put the promised revival off till after August. Which was wise, as the job index for June was 89.7, for July 86.6, and for August 84.4.

Came September. Governor Pollard of Virginia steamed out into Chesapeake Bay. He dropped overboard a coffin containing the corpses of "Business D. Pression." his wife "Dame Pessimism," and their daughter "Miss Fortune." But the ghosts must have come back. The September index went down to 83.4.

Since then the hokus-pokus has kept up. Ambassador Dawes told the Lord Mayor's guests in Belfast on September 27 that they might "hope to see the normal trend of business by the fall or summer of next year."

Early in October Secretary of Labor Davis assured the A. F. of L. convention that "we will soon emerge this period of depression and enter into a new and lasting period of prosperity." But the same month saw a former New York police head appointed as national commissioner to relieve the unemployed of what?-and the inauguration of the "Buy Now" campaign-for those who have no money.

Less continus "an Dawes, were 125 members of the Wilson's War Industries Board. At their sixth annual reunion at the Hotel Ambassador in New York on November 11 under the presidency of Bernard M. Baruch, they expressed the belief that "the end of the depression is in sight." So well in sight is it that the New York Times for November 23 announced: "Weekly business index declines to new low, with power and car loadings estimate down." The Times business index is now at 80, compared to 107 in Jully, 1929. Party, 43 East 125th St., New York, N. Y.

Red Sparks

Evidently Don't Like Us

Brownsville, Texas, Herald, "printed in New York, which ought to make a good bonfire, with the editor probably thrown in for oil, shouts the headline: 'Refuse to Starve! Organize to Fight for Bread, for Life and Freedom.'

We gather that the colonel don't take to us much, and we are confirmed in this suspicion by another editorial wherein he lays all discontent in the U.S.A. to "gentlemen from Russia." If it will sooth his nerves any, somebody might let him in on the fact that the editor of the Daily Worker was born right thar in Texas. He makes two "constructive" suggestions: One rifle bullet, properly placed." This, we opine, is difficult to carry out for Jeffersonian Democrats so far from Russia, and is, morover, a plagarism on Mexican opinion of what is needed for all gentlemen from Texas. But such literary criticism of an editor that so mixes his antecedents as to make it unclear that all "the gentlemen from Russia need a

as to which would make a "good bonfire," the Daily Worker or the city of New York, are probably out of place anyhow. His second suggestion is that if there is no work in New York-"they might organize and farm many of the thousands of acres not under cultivation these days and thus raise a little bread for themselves and the remainder of the We are shocked, absolutely shocked! That this suggestion should come from such a "brilliant" upholder of established institutions, one of which is the Department of Agriculture, which is insisting on a reduction of wheat acreage, manifests that either Texas has seceded from the United States or that the editor of the Brownsville Herald is a bit off center.

Use A "Mild Corrective"

Things will now surely go all right. Heywood Broun, "socialist," is starring in radio talks advertising Eno Effervesent Salts, recommended as "mild corrective."

This is quite in line with what might be called "Broun's Mild Corrective Socialism." And while we were thinking about it, a fan sends us the following, clipped from Broun's mildly corrective column of the N. Y. Telegram of Nov. 3. 1928

"It is recognized that water power should not be given over into the hands of individual capitalists. Of course, this is straight socialism, but I am not wishing for the triumph of the socialists now, or even in 1932. They seem to me too dogmatic. I want to see the new structure raised within the old one and have the building changed carefully beam by beam. I'm not a bit strong for general blasting."

You begin, you see, by taking a dose of "mildly corrective" salts. If the results show that you are not employed, you are eligible to join the "socialist" party, which guarantees to correct capitalism so very mildly, without gripping, that the shareholders will feel a great sense of relief and the results will fall only on the

Any Old Excuse

It is now the season for all capitalist papers, no matter in what city published, to be giving alibis for local "Community Chests" and "Relief Committees," which are refusing to give food and shelter to starving unemployed workers because they are alleged to be "from other

In New York City, the miserable finks who call themselves "social service workers," are anonymously cited as saying that sixty per cent of the men in the breadline are from "points outside New York."

In a Texas paper it said:-"Highways are crowded with tramps, leaving the cold north and with intentions of spending the winter here. Local police are handling this phase of the

It is the same all over. A worker is informed that the "united" in the words "United States" is not to be taken seriously and that if he takes the ferry from Hoboken to Manhattan, he is considered to be an undesirable alien and subject to deportaton if he objects to starving to death in a "foreign land."

Shedding Their Mask

United States congressmen who stood on the steps of the capitol building at Washington and shouted to the savage cops: "Give it to 'em! Hit 'em again!" will now prepare to shed hypocritical tears over the "poor Russian workers" whom they claim are subjected to "a reign of terror.'

Anyhow, the 15,000,000 or so of foreign-born workers in this country, some of whom certainly came here under the illusion that it was a "free country" and have been bull-dozed and intimiditated ever since while building up American industry, will understand that not only local police, but the highest officials of capitalist America have a common hatred toward them.

From the Washington "Front" The United Press report of the police attack on the demonstration against persecution of foreign born workers at the capitol, after listing the names of thos earrested, including John Zilic of McKeesport, Pa., says:

"All but Zilic were charged with disorderly conduct. Zilic, after having a broken nose treated, was held on charges of assaulting an of-
