WHAT CAREY IS DOING

HERE IS THE RECORD OF A SOCIALIST ASSEMBLYMAN FOR THE FIRST TWO WEEKS IN THE LEGISLATURE.—SEVEN IMPORTANT BILLS INTRODUCED—ALL IN THE INTERESTS OF THE PEOPLE.

WILL THEY PASS?

Comrade James F. Carey has evidently not been wasting away his time while attending the session of the general court of Massachusetts. He introduced seven bills in two weeks, all of which are highly important and far reaching in their effect, if carried in the legislature.

Section 1. Eight hours shall constitute a day's work for all employees of the commonwealth or of any county therein. Sect. 2. This act shall take effect on the first day of November in the year nineteen hundred and one.

Another bill of importance is the one which regulates the employment of minors. It provides that "no child under sixteen years of age shall be employed in any factory, workshop or mercantile establishment."

DID YOU SAY

OUR WORKERS.

Our winter boom in circulation continues, although the Haverhill boys are not yet up to the mark of the outside hustlers.

Local Glendale was heard from with a bunch of half yearlies. Comrade Samuel Hackett, Comana, Mich., sends a bunch of subs., and promises to be heard from soon again.

Comrade J. Spiero, Boston, was heard from again with a list of several half yearlies.

Another Haverhill comrade, of the gentler sex, brought us a batch of subscriptions which made the manager feel cheerful.

Comrade Klat of Milford, Conn., sent us 4 subs., with more to come later.

But the surprise of the week came from Clinton, Mass., in the form of a $19.00 check for 38 yearlies. This work was done chiefly by Comrade August Mengell.

Comrades from almost throughout the country write us encouragingly about the work.

We expect more of the boys at home. Get on to yourselves, comrades! The cause is calling you!

HAVERHILL SCHOOL BOARD.

The School Board of the city of Haverhill completed organization last Wednesday evening.

There are now three Socialist members of the board, all representing ward five—the Socialist stronghold.

They serve on the following committees for the ensuing year: Comrade Wason, chairman Tilton school; member of committee on salaries: Prudential; privateschools; Boyley; Ayers Village; Broadway; North Broadway and Monument Street.

Comrade Rivers, chairman Boyley; member of committee on organization: Truancy; Kindergarten; High School; Carrier and Wingate.

Comrade Robinson, chairman Ayers Village; Broadway; North Broadway; member of committee on Tilton; School Street; Whittier; Monument Street; schoolhouses and boundaries.

The Socialist members receive fair representation on the committee as can be seen by the above list and as they have everywhere demonstrated.

It can be depended upon to give the citizens whom they represent faithful and conscientious service.

SOCIALISM IS COMING.

WHAT ONE OF THE GREATEST SCIENTISTS OF THE NINETEENTH CENTURY THINKS.—BIOLOGICAL FACTS NOT OPPOSED TO SOCIALISM—SOCIALISM MAKES POSSIBLE TRUE INDIVIDUALISM.

WALLAGE FOR SOCIALISM.

Once again the Socialists of the world have cause to congratulate themselves. Their logical position on all social and economic questions has again been demonstrated by one of the greatest minds of the nineteenth century, by no other than Alfred Russel Wallace.

The name of Wallace will forever be mentioned jointly with Charles Darwin, the man who wrote the greatest book of the nineteenth century. For it was no other than Wallace who, at the age of thirty-six, established the doctrine of the origin of species on the same lines and at the same time that Darwin developed his origin theory through the process of natural selection.

But Wallace was an honest man. Seeing that the elder naturalist, Charles Darwin, developed the same theory in a more systematic manner and placed it on a more scientific foundation, the brave and courageous Wallace immediately placed himself at the head of the little band of scientists to defend the Darwinian theory, the theory of which he—Wallace—was one of the discoverers.

Wallace has ever since continued to be the chief exponent of "Darwinism," although he differs from Darwin on certain minor points.

Wallace is therefore a man of no mean ability, a man whose conclusions in any line of investigation is looked upon as coming from an authoritative source.

And what does this Wallace say about Socialism? Well, he says that it is coming and that we ought to be glad that it is coming.

Such a statement, coming from such a great biologist, knocks to pieces the arguments of those who, as a last refuge, were in the habit of raising "pet" arguments from the theory of organic evolution to oppose Socialism.

The falsity of the argument was disproved several times by Socialist writers and speakers. But now comes Wallace himself, one of the two discoverers of the great theory of the origin of species through natural selection, and establishes what the Socialists always claimed, namely, that Socialism means the fullest freedom possible in organized society.

Here is what he says. Read it and think about it: "I hope and believe that the twentieth century will be a century devoted to social advance and regeneration; but in order to succeed in this great work it must deal with causes and principles, not merely with symptoms. The crowning disgrace of the nineteenth century—that with a hundred-fold increase in our powers of wealth—production adequate to supply every rational want of our whole population many times over, we have only succeeded in adding enormously to individual wealth and luxury, while the workers are, on the average, as deeply sunk in poverty and misery as before—must be abolished forever.

"In order to do this, we must adopt as our beacon light and guide the fundamental principle of social justice—equality of opportunity—not as a mere phrase or catch-word, but with a stern determination to carry it out to its logical consequences.

"I am myself convinced that the society of the future will be some form of Socialism, which may be briefly defined as the organization of labor for the good of all. Just as the postoffice is organized labor in one department for the benefit of all alike, just as the railways might be organized as a whole for the benefit of the whole community; just as extensive industries over a whole country are now organized for the exclusive benefit of combinations of capitalists; so all necessary and useful labor might be organized for the equal benefit of all.

"When a combination or trust deals with the whole of one industry over an extensive area, there are two enormous economies; advertising, which under the system of competition among thousands of manufacturers and dealers wastes millions annually, is all saved; and distribution, when only the exact number of stores and assistants needful for the work are employed, effects an almost unimaginable saving over the scores of shops in every small town, competing with each other for a bare living.

"What then would be the economy when all the industries of a whole country were similarly organized for the common good, and when all absolutely useless and unnecessary employments were abolished—such as gold and diamond mining except to the extent needed for science and art; ninths of the lawyers, and all the financiers and stock gamblers?"

"It is clear that under such an organized system THREE OR FOUR HOURS' WORK FOR FIVE PERSONS BETWEEN THE AGES OF TWENTY AND FIFTY WOULD PRODUCE ABUNDANCE OF NECESSARIES AND COMFORTS, AS WELL AS ALL THE REFINEMENTS AND WHOLESOME LUXURIES OF LIFE, FOR THE WHOLE POPULATION."
