HAYWOOD FACES HIS ACCUSERS!

When the next issue of The Right Wing, an organization under the control of William D. Haywood, was about to be issued, the United Mine Workers of America simultaneously launched a new organization under the leadership of James P. Cannon. The new organization was called the International Union of the Workers, and it immediately began to assert itself as a rival of the established union.

Debate in the Ghetto

The question of whether or not the Haywood organization was a legitimate successor to the United Mine Workers has been hotly debated for many years. The Haywoodists claim that they represent the true interests of the miners, while the United Mine Workers maintain that they are merely a factionalist group seeking to undermine the union's authority.

In the meantime, the Haywood organization has continued to grow in strength, and its leaders are now planning to challenge the United Mine Workers at the next national convention. The outcome of this struggle will have far-reaching implications for the future of the coal mining industry in America.

Debate in the Ghetto

The question of whether or not the Haywood organization was a legitimate successor to the United Mine Workers has been hotly debated for many years. The Haywoodists claim that they represent the true interests of the miners, while the United Mine Workers maintain that they are merely a factionalist group seeking to undermine the union's authority.

In the meantime, the Haywood organization has continued to grow in strength, and its leaders are now planning to challenge the United Mine Workers at the next national convention. The outcome of this struggle will have far-reaching implications for the future of the coal mining industry in America.

Debate in the Ghetto

The question of whether or not the Haywood organization was a legitimate successor to the United Mine Workers has been hotly debated for many years. The Haywoodists claim that they represent the true interests of the miners, while the United Mine Workers maintain that they are merely a factionalist group seeking to undermine the union's authority.

In the meantime, the Haywood organization has continued to grow in strength, and its leaders are now planning to challenge the United Mine Workers at the next national convention. The outcome of this struggle will have far-reaching implications for the future of the coal mining industry in America.
The Union Should Own The Land and Machines

BY FRANK BOHN

"A new day means a new day's work," says the I. W. W. member. "The old machines and methods of production of the past have gone with the wind and the dawn of a new century. They are as dead and as useless as the horse and buggy."

"The time has come for men to work with their hands and to think with their heads. The days of speculation and the era of the speculator are over."

"It is time to think of the land and machines. The time is ripe for the union of the working man with the land and the machines."

"The union of the working man with the land and the machines is the only way to solve the problems of the day."

"The union of the working man with the land and the machines is the only way to solve the problems of the day."

"The union of the working man with the land and the machines is the only way to solve the problems of the day."

"The union of the working man with the land and the machines is the only way to solve the problems of the day."

The Positive of Industrialism

BY E. J. Foote, Wichita, Kan.

Tradition of years has set a tone of fear in the minds of the people. The idea of change, of new systems, is repugnant to the masses. The people are afraid of the unknown, of the new. They prefer the old, tried and true. They are afraid of the future.

But the positive of industrialism is the idea of change. The positive of industrialism is the idea of progress. The positive of industrialism is the idea of growth. The positive of industrialism is the idea of development.

The positive of industrialism is the idea of change. The positive of industrialism is the idea of progress. The positive of industrialism is the idea of growth. The positive of industrialism is the idea of development.

The positive of industrialism is the idea of change. The positive of industrialism is the idea of progress. The positive of industrialism is the idea of growth. The positive of industrialism is the idea of development.
LOCAL EXECUTIVE BOARD

LEAGUE OF THE LOCAL LABORERS' UNION AT BUSH AND LAGUARDIA AVENUE, NEW YORK

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

PREAMBLE OF THE I.W.W.

The working class and the employing class have never been at war. There can be no peace between them, as long as the one class has to suffer while the other lives in luxury. Between these two classes a struggle must go on until the workers of the world unite. This can be achieved through the working class, without afflicting any political power.

The rapid gathering of wealth and the concentration of the power of the state by the few is made the trade union unable to cope with the ever-increasing power of the employers' class. The trade union, as such, confines itself to the struggles for wages and conditions of work, which only makes the workers' hunting for a better life easier. To the workers' class, the existing state of things is merely a copy of the old state, and to get rid of it, they must destroy the state.

The problem is social organization, the capitalistic institution, in which the present society is founded. The working class can only be organized in opposition to this system of society, and the interests of the working class can be organized only through the working class.

The I.W.W. is the working class in its entirety, and the interests of the working class can be organized only through the working class.

To be Patient and Work

A great many men of the I.W.W. think the time has come to organize the working class in its entirety. It is impossible to organize the working class in its entirety, as there are no unions in the working class. The I.W.W. has been organized on the basis of a general organization for the working class, but the working class cannot be organized on the basis of any one union. The I.W.W. has been organized on the basis of a general organization for the working class, but the working class cannot be organized on the basis of any one union.

The I.W.W. has been organized on the basis of a general organization for the working class, but the working class cannot be organized on the basis of any one union.
Metal Workers and Industrial Unionism

To all workers employed in the Metal and Machinists Industry, such as foundry workers, automobile workers, construction workers, machinists, and all others in this category, we say...