THE WAYS OF KING, CROWNED AND CROWNED
Ye are putting your power, but the sky of time is gray.
And the fullness of your life shall dip up with the day.
Ye shall waken in the moment when the great world shakes and sways.
When the mad brain bursts of hunger from the stumps and darkens.
Ye shall waken in the reaping of the fruits you have reaped.
The measure and the prophetic race shall be yours.

And the measure you have reaped to the race shall be yours, and you give to life and your own the Supreme Whirl.

For the wrecks that snore the stoves tell that right is reigned in the right.

Dream not yet that Mammon conquers, trust not too much.

And the sun, the light of day, shall pierce its way.

For the shall not be the substance, as, "be the flesh is not the soul."

If it double, it passes and flows; little stabs of the will.

Where is Russia, the blue—sublime?

Where are all your Persian millions? Where the proud Egyptian boast?

Is it the German Czar still adorns the Afric case?

Where is the empire of the Jews? Where is Montezuma’s throne?

Where is Idjar’s mighty prince? Where the Babylonians know?

Tell me, ye woe in worship at the shrine of earthly things!

Do ye ever know the joy you are forever exalted with Paul and Peter—

—Neither ye you herd the lesson that is taught by ages past.

Like the scribbling of ancient Jew he depend on Roman, but the blood of Christ in their veins, they still live natures.

There be some unseen silence there you cannot see; you conquer the blood of the opposite species,

Love and freedom still are powers in the human heart and soul.

And the great world it lives and becomes.

But all words are worse than useless—Rassemblez—

Are ye sons of folly and the slaves of purse-borne pride;

Are ye strung on mercy; ye are dead and dumb and blind;

You have never come to listen in the human heart and mind.

Peace, justice, hope and victory, as ye evil things dislike.

And the Marseillaise is ringing round a rebel world again—

—Corinobvia.

FOLLOWERS, BE UP AND DOING

A FIELD FOR ORGANIZERS IN THE SOUTH.

After finishing two months of successful work in the South, I left for Portland, Oregon, where I find theIndustrial Labor League has been organized as a union and the influence of the Borzoi has been held at the 2nd of May.

There is enough work in this district for about 50 organizers and more, who can work under the influence of the Borzoi.

LABOR'S DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE.

By Conquering Hall.

When in the Course of events it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the links which bind them together, to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to separate. We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. To these truths, we refer.

That any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute a new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form as they shall think fit, and for promoting the general Welfare, and securing the Blessings of Liberty to themselves and their posterity. We refer to the Rights of Man.

The history of the present Crisis is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over a dependent people. These severities continued, and every new administration of Government adds a new insult to the injury.

ONE WHO SOUNDED THE RIGHT NOTE.

At a convention of a political party which pretends to organize workers for the change in economic systems, the discussion of any topic presented as a proposition by which the process can be accelerated should be legitimate and in order.

Such a topic is the "burning question of unionism." That the question on this subject has been and is now so engaging that we believe a right note has been sounded from the pulpit of a church was made known to the public last week by a preacher who is also a labor leader.

This week the New York Times published a sermon preached by a labor leader who is also a labor leader before the New York Labor Union of the Socialist party. In the sermon, the preacher said: "I believe that the only hope of the world is socialism, and that the only way to achieve it is through the medium of the labor movement."

The preacher went on to say: "We need to educate the public to the fact that socialism is the only solution to the problems of society. We must show them that it is not only a way to make the world safe for democracy, but also a way to make the world safe for labor."

The sermon was well received, and the preacher was praised for his eloquent words. The Times article ends with the words: "We must continue to educate the public, and we must continue to work for socialism."

PREAMBLE OF THE I. W. W.

The working class and the employing class here meet. There is no other class. These two classes must go on until they are finally divided into two hostile camps, marked and branded as such.

The employing class, consisting of the privileged few who live by exploitation and the unprivileged many who live by toiling, are now daily more and more closely interdependent. The modern industrial system, which is both the product and the cause of the modern class struggle, marks the cleavage between the two classes.

The rapid gathering of wealth and the centering of the masses of employees into ever fewer hands make the trade union unities capable of coping with the over-governing of the class. This class, because it is a state of things which allows one set of workers to be pitted against another, and the whole set of employers, thereby helping to defeat one another in the struggle to keep the trade unions and the employing class in order, and the workers into the demoralization of their employers. These are the state of things which are changing the means of production into the means of production.

The working class and all who are in any way connected with it or are the victims of the exploitive activities of the employers are the only beneficiaries of the class struggle. Therefore, without either wishing or desiring endorsement of any political party, we unite under the following constituted protestors.
