HESLEWOOD CAMPS ON TRAIL OF THE LOGBERS

We had our first meetings here yesterday, and I think we are on the track of the Logbers. The day's work brought in 16 new members, a fine job which will go far to increase the worth of this union and make it a real force in our district.

The boys are the same as the boys of the old camp, but they are a bit more organized. They are working as a team, and this is making a real difference in their work. They have a new leader who is making a real difference in their work. They have a new leader who is making a real difference in their work.

We are planning to hold another meeting here Sunday, and I think we will have a good turnout. The boys are very interested in the Logbers, and I think we will have a lot of new members to report.

LUMBER WORKERS AND THE GOVERNOR

Lumber Industry Yesterday

I have a few minutes before my departure for the Capitol to give you some of the latest news. The Lumber Industry in Victoria is in a pretty bad shape. The loggers are striking again, and there is talk of a lockout.

I think we can expect a lot of trouble in the near future. The loggers are very militant, and they are not afraid to use force if necessary.

The situation is critical, and I think we need to do something to prevent a strike. I am going to see what I can do to head off any trouble.

WORD FROM THE STRIKERS

Editor Industrial Worker: In the name of the working class, I want to say that we are fighting for our rights.

The Logbers are a bunch of scabs who are trying to take our jobs. They have no right to do this.

We are willing to work for a fair wage, but we will not work for less. We will not be forced to accept a wage that is below the minimum wage.

We are not afraid of a fight. We will stand up for our rights and we will not be intimidated.

WORKERS, HOLD YOURSELVES IN READINESS

Two Beasts of Burden—A Pair of Asses

The Logbers are a pair of beasts of burden. They work hard and they are used up. They are not treated fairly and they are not paid enough.

We are going to fight for our rights. We are going to stand up for our rights. We are not going to be pushed around.

The Logbers are not going to get away with it. They are going to pay for what they have done.

CAPITALIST PRESS CLOSED TO STRIKERS

The capitalist press is closed to the strikers. They are not going to print any stories that will help the strikers.

The strikers are not going to be heard. They are not going to be given a voice.

We are going to fight. We are going to stand up. We are not going to be pushed around.

Applications made for entry as Second-Class Matter at the Post Office at Spokane, Wash., under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Note the entrance to the issues of the new I.W.W. paper: "Labor In Ohio to All In the World." This name is, of course, the name of the working-class newspaper that the I.W.W. published from 1905 to 1918, before it was renamed the Industrial Worker.

The text continues with a series of articles and editorials discussing various topics related to the I.W.W., labor movements, and political issues of the time. The articles cover a range of subjects, from labor rights and labor unrest to political developments and social issues.

The document ends with several sections discussing the I.W.W.'s stance on various issues, including its opposition to World War I and its commitment to the cause of workers' rights and international solidarity.

Throughout the document, the I.W.W. is shown to be a leading voice in the labor movement of the early 20th century, advocating for workers' rights and challenging the capitalist system. The organization's goals were to unite workers from all walks of life to fight for a better future, and the document provides a snapshot of the I.W.W.'s activities and perspectives during this time.

Overall, the document is a valuable resource for understanding the I.W.W.'s role in the labor movement of the early 20th century and the broader social and political context of the time.
NEWS FROM THE MAN ON THE JOB

SAN DIEGO NEWS.

June 24, 1935.

We are billing Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to start the most productive and lucrative of his oil holdings. We have just purchased a large tract of land near the oil fields, and we expect to reap quite a few advertisments from it soon.

Hiring The Industrial Worker will increase the efficiency of our team, we believe. We have 3,000 workers now, and we expect to hire at least 1,000 more in the next two years.

The brewery workers have given notice of their intention to strike. We have no intention of giving in to their demands, and we are preparing to defend our position with force.

In the meantime, we are increasing our production to meet the demand. We will not be held up for long.
