SEATTLE HAS A BIG MAY DAY FOREIGNERS STRIKE

TO THE EDITOR:

I have just read your article on the May Day strike and would like to express my concern about the situation. The workers' rights are being violated, and it is important to support them in their struggle for justice.

Sincerely,
[Signature]

---

THE STORY OF THE \"FAIR TRIAL\" CRISIS

By Daniel T. Murphy

The \"Fair Trial\" movement is not just about the legal rights of individuals, but also about the preservation of democratic values. It is crucial to uphold the principles of fairness and equality in our legal system.

Sincerely,
[Signature]
The Indianapolis Worker, Thursday May 13, 1915

INDUSTRIAL WORKER

Published Weekly by the General Executive Board of the Industrial Workers of the World.

SPOKANE, WASHINGTON

FRED W. HEELEWOOD ... Editor
JOSEPH GREENE ... Assistant Editor
Subscription Yearly: $1.00
Canada, Yearly: 1.50

Post Office: Spokane, 11.

Subscription Rates: In (Canada) $2.00.

CASH MUST ACCOMPANY ALL ORDERS.

INDUSTRIAL WORKERS OF THE WORLD.
General Secretary:
Vernon Johns, J. T.

Vernon Johns, General Secretary.

C. N. Andrews, Chicago, 11.

L. A. Green, Secretary.

Entered as second-class matter, May 31, 1911, at the Postoffice in Spokane, Wash., under the Act of March 3, 1879.

THE MOVEMENT ABROAD

ENGLISH TRANSLATION.

International Bulletin of the Syndicalist Movements.

Address: 8 Rue de Servan, Chaumot, Sois. Paris.

France, April 22, 1915.

The Syndicalist Movement in France.

The thirty-year career of the Confederation Générale du Travail, the genuine syndicalist trade union confederation of France, is approaching the end. This confederation is the highest expression of the industrial movement of the toiling classes in France. It has been a great force in the nation's life, not only because of its power as a trade union, but because of its political influence as well. It has played a significant role in the development of the working class in France, and it has been a powerful influence in the struggle for social justice.

There are many reasons for this. The first is that the CGT has always been a truly independent organization, not controlled by any party or political group. This independence has allowed it to speak out on behalf of the working class without fear of reprisal, and to take action that is necessary to further the interests of the workers.

Another reason is that the CGT has always been a truly national organization, representing workers from all parts of France. This has given it a broad base of support, and has enabled it to represent the interests of all workers, regardless of their location.

The CGT has also been a particularly effective organization because of its strong commitment to direct democracy. It has always emphasized the importance of the worker's right to participate in the decision-making process, and has always sought to involve workers in the running of the union itself.

Finally, the CGT has been able to maintain its independence and its democratic principles because of the support it has received from its members. The CGT is made up of working people, and it has always been led by working people, which has given it a strong sense of solidarity and a committed desire to fight for the rights of all workers.

The CGT has been a powerful force in French society, and it has played a significant role in the development of the working class in France. Its legacy will continue to be felt for many years to come, and it will be remembered as a truly great labor movement.

The Syndicalist Movement in France is in crisis, and the CGT is in the process of disbanding. This is a sad day for the working class, and it is a loss for the country. The CGT was a truly great organization, and it will be missed.

SPAIN.

A rebellion at Bilbao.

In view of the news sent from the Portuguese railway head quarters, it is interesting to see in "Les

Tous les accusés de la rébellion de Bilbao, condamnés à mort.

If any reader on the yellow label of his subscription envelope signs with his name and subscription expires with this label. To be returned at once, should receive a little in advance on the above terms, but if not paid within thirty days, your number expires without further notice.

The "Mover," page 3.

The "Mover," page 3.
ORGANIZE ON THE JOB WHERE YOU ARE ROBBED

STRIKE ON THE JOB WHERE YOU WORK—WORK ON THE JOB WHERE YOU STRIKE—SUCCESS DEPENDS ON THE ORGANIZATION

Vancouver, B.C., May 2, 1933

There are as many strikes today as there were on the railway twenty-five years ago. They are just as necessary to the same industry, the “building industry.” The condition of the workers in the building industry in this city is abominable. The work is done in the winter in the cold and in the summer in the heat. The hours are long and the pay is low. The conditions of the workers are such that they cannot live on the wages that are paid. The workers are organized and are fighting for better wages and working conditions.

The strike is a last resort in the face of the employers’ policies. The workers have no alternative but to strike in order to get what they believe is their right.

The strike is a democratic principle, it is a fundamental right of the workers. The workers have the right to organize and to strike for better wages and working conditions.

The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a justifiable action of the workers. The workers have the right to strike and to fight for their rights. The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a democratic principle, it is a fundamental right of the workers. The workers have the right to organize and to strike for better wages and working conditions.

The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a justifiable action of the workers. The workers have the right to strike and to fight for their rights. The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a democratic principle, it is a fundamental right of the workers. The workers have the right to organize and to strike for better wages and working conditions.

The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a justifiable action of the workers. The workers have the right to strike and to fight for their rights. The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a democratic principle, it is a fundamental right of the workers. The workers have the right to organize and to strike for better wages and working conditions.

The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a justifiable action of the workers. The workers have the right to strike and to fight for their rights. The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a democratic principle, it is a fundamental right of the workers. The workers have the right to organize and to strike for better wages and working conditions.

The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a justifiable action of the workers. The workers have the right to strike and to fight for their rights. The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a democratic principle, it is a fundamental right of the workers. The workers have the right to organize and to strike for better wages and working conditions.

The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a justifiable action of the workers. The workers have the right to strike and to fight for their rights. The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a democratic principle, it is a fundamental right of the workers. The workers have the right to organize and to strike for better wages and working conditions.

The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a justifiable action of the workers. The workers have the right to strike and to fight for their rights. The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a democratic principle, it is a fundamental right of the workers. The workers have the right to organize and to strike for better wages and working conditions.

The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a justifiable action of the workers. The workers have the right to strike and to fight for their rights. The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a democratic principle, it is a fundamental right of the workers. The workers have the right to organize and to strike for better wages and working conditions.

The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a justifiable action of the workers. The workers have the right to strike and to fight for their rights. The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a democratic principle, it is a fundamental right of the workers. The workers have the right to organize and to strike for better wages and working conditions.

The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a justifiable action of the workers. The workers have the right to strike and to fight for their rights. The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a democratic principle, it is a fundamental right of the workers. The workers have the right to organize and to strike for better wages and working conditions.

The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a justifiable action of the workers. The workers have the right to strike and to fight for their rights. The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a democratic principle, it is a fundamental right of the workers. The workers have the right to organize and to strike for better wages and working conditions.

The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a justifiable action of the workers. The workers have the right to strike and to fight for their rights. The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a democratic principle, it is a fundamental right of the workers. The workers have the right to organize and to strike for better wages and working conditions.

The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a justifiable action of the workers. The workers have the right to strike and to fight for their rights. The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a democratic principle, it is a fundamental right of the workers. The workers have the right to organize and to strike for better wages and working conditions.

The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a justifiable action of the workers. The workers have the right to strike and to fight for their rights. The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a democratic principle, it is a fundamental right of the workers. The workers have the right to organize and to strike for better wages and working conditions.

The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a justifiable action of the workers. The workers have the right to strike and to fight for their rights. The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a democratic principle, it is a fundamental right of the workers. The workers have the right to organize and to strike for better wages and working conditions.

The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a justifiable action of the workers. The workers have the right to strike and to fight for their rights. The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a democratic principle, it is a fundamental right of the workers. The workers have the right to organize and to strike for better wages and working conditions.

The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.

The strike is a justifiable action of the workers. The workers have the right to strike and to fight for their rights. The employers are not willing to give in to the workers’ demands. The workers are determined to fight for their rights. The strike is their only way of getting what they believe is their right.