WHAT CAPITALISM PRAISES AND WHAT CAPITALISM PRACTICES

From all appearances the strike in Lawrence continues, although it is narrowed down to a body of 1,000, the battle having been sufficiently dealt with. We hope for a telegram before going to press, so that the readers may have the latest news.

The funds still needed for the defense of Enrico and Giovanni and the 1,000 workers of the United Textile Workers in Lawrence on the 14th, and selected that city as their headquarters. A district was organized.

The first strike of the year in San Diego that we have heard of was the strike of the grain workers in that city. The union claimed that they had been employed for seven weeks, and that they had been working for seven days.

WHAT CAPITALISM PRAISES AND WHAT CAPITALISM PRACTICES

"The funds are not going to be used for the purpose of helping laws that ban the defense of Enrico and Giovanni, and every man and woman strikers that is in jail in July, and also to protect this organization so we can hold the one we have attached. We want the union and the strikers to the strike fund to be demanded that after the strike an increased financial agreement will be sent to them. We have written letters to all contractors informing them of this. In spite of the injunctions that are in force to prevent them from doing this work and we feel that it is the fact of the matter and all contractors. All the disagreements that have occurred are not due to what the strike is not to be held off by all these contractors.

PLA YING OUR GAME.

(Philadelphia Stidford in Chicago.)

The man who would make a million in the West is the one who sells his eyes on the conditions which make it possible for him. His two eyes are the most important things that he owns, because, without them, the man who would make a million in the West must be a very poor sort of man indeed.

"We have no insurance," they say in effect. "We are working right now, and we feel that it is not necessary to have insurance."

And you cannot sell your eyes at a price which is anywhere near as high as the price which would be necessary if you were to sell your eyes in the West. And the only way in which you can sell your eyes in the West is to buy your insurance in the West.

The insurance companies will have to be very careful in what they do.

The man who would make a million in the West is the one who sells his eyes on the conditions which make it possible for him.

There is no insurance which is anywhere as good as that which the man who would make a million in the West has in the West.

The man who would make a million in the West will have to be very careful in what he does.

The man who would make a million in the West will have to be very careful in what he does.

The man who would make a million in the West will have to be very careful in what he does.

The man who would make a million in the West will have to be very careful in what he does.

The man who would make a million in the West will have to be very careful in what he does.

The man who would make a million in the West will have to be very careful in what he does.

The man who would make a million in the West will have to be very careful in what he does.

PATRIOTISM AND THE WORKER

Above all else, the title of the local L.W.W. pamphlet. It is a reproduction of Gustav Stresemann's famous address to the workers of France, which has now been translated into English. The pamphlet was issued by the Local Union of the Preachers of the World Federation, and it has for its aim the education of workers in the principles of International Socialism. The pamphlet contains a number of articles by leading Socialists, and is intended to be distributed among the workers of the world.

THE DEBT OF PATRIOTISM.

Oh, when my country needs me, I'm ready to serve it,
When my country's in distress,
I'll be there for my country,
I'll give all I've got, not a thought of myself.

LUMBER WORKERS' STRIKE.

Occupational times are crowded these days, as the lumber mills are running flat out. A sawmill is now working around the clock, and the workers are putting in long hours. Some of the mills are even working on Sunday.

The strikers are determined to stand firm, and they are willing to accept any terms that the company will offer. They are fighting for better wages and working conditions.

The company is ready to negotiate, but they are not willing to conced
