A DAMNABLE STORM WILL OVERWHELM THE UNEESE CLASSES

San Diego, Cal., May 29, 1912

On the second day of the Free Speech Fight in San Diego, the police department's night staff, under command of Captain Willard, have had their hands full. The reaction of the people against the I. W. W. speakers has been considerable.

There are no possibilities of the I. W. W. men being able to carry out any plans that they have. The police are being very careful, and so far as I know, nothing can be done.

The approaching storm will overwhelm the unesse classes.

THE INDUSTRIAL WORKERS, THURSDAY, JUNE 6, 1919

HOW TO ORGANIZE.

By John P. Fanwer.

Every agitator and strike leader has no grown-up friends, and that is the only method which is worth any trust. A man who has never had such friends, who will not make any mistakes, who is likely to do the same thing over again, who will not make himself known to the public, who is likely to become a defense of the nation, is not likely to be a success.

There is no doubt that the agitator, and this is true of all strike leaders, has no grown-up friends, and that is the only method which is worth any trust. A man who has never had such friends, who will not make any mistakes, who is likely to do the same thing over again, who will not make himself known to the public, who is likely to become a defense of the nation, is not likely to be a success.

The foreman and the worker.

The foreman is a character in every industrial organization. He is the one who stands between the worker and the capitalist, and who can control the worker's every move. He is the one who can make or break a strike, and who can make or break the worker's life. He is the one who can make or break the worker's future. He is the one who can make or break a strike, and who can make or break the worker's life. He is the one who can make or break the worker's future.

The worker cannot stand between the capitalist and the worker. He is the one who stands between the worker and the capitalist, and who can control the worker's every move. He is the one who can make or break a strike, and who can make or break the worker's life. He is the one who can make or break the worker's future.
