LABOR FAKIRS ARE SHOWN UP

BIG STRIKE IN NEW BEDFORD. A. F. L. FAKIR STRIKERS WASHED OUT. SMASH W. W. DE HAN'S STORE. SIDE OF 200 IN HOURS OR STRIKE CALLED OFF.

Lumbermen in the Paciﬁc Northwest have been further disturbed by the recent strike in New Bedford, Massachusetts, where the union members have been forced to return to work. The strike was called by the A. F. L. Fakirs, a group of laborers who had been organized to protect the interests of the workers in the industry.

The strike in New Bedford was one of the most important events in the labor movement in the United States. The workers had been involved in a bitter struggle with the management of the W. W. De Han Company, who had refused to grant them union recognition. The strike was called by the A. F. L. Fakirs, who had been organized to protect the interests of the workers in the industry.

The strike was called off after a few days, and the workers returned to work. The strike was a major victory for the union, and it helped to establish the A. F. L. as a powerful force in the labor movement.

A WORD TO THE WATERFRONT

Winton Wells, a New Englander, is quoted as saying, "If the workers on the waterfront wish to know whether they have enough, it is necessary that they should have the kind of a work week that makes it possible for them to be happy." He went on to explain that the workers should have the kind of a work week that makes it possible for them to be happy.

Let us consider the kind of a work week that will suit the workers for the work week they have.

First, the three main problems are:

1. The work week should be short enough to allow the workers to be happy.
2. The work week should be long enough to allow the workers to be happy.
3. The work week should be flexible enough to allow the workers to be happy.

In order to achieve these goals, we need to consider the following:

All workers should be allowed to work on the waterfront.

The work week should be as short as possible.

The work week should be as long as possible.

The work week should be flexible.

In summary, the three main problems are:

1. The work week should be short enough to allow the workers to be happy.
2. The work week should be long enough to allow the workers to be happy.
3. The work week should be flexible enough to allow the workers to be happy.

Let us consider the kind of a work week that will suit the workers for the work week they have.
