A HOUSE BUILT UPON THE SAND
Of what strange things doth politics consist!
Mayor Matt of Oakland, Cal., has his blue coasts in a precaution: he has sent all his civil servants home. The stricken ones demand a recall on the ground that they are being employed under the city charter. The mayor declares that the strike is illegal on the ground that the strike has been called without his consent, and that the strike is illegal as a matter of fact, and that the strike is illegal in the eyes of the law.

The works of Karl Marx have been more widely talked about and less read than those of any other economist. Whole schools of thought have been built up upon the doctrines of Karl Marx, yet the man himself is a forgotten name.

The Socialist party has done a good work, now that our allies have thrown off the yoke of their distinction and have become free nations, we have no further need for it. We are an ally of the Allies and they are our true friends.

The Socialist movement has been of momentous importance in the history of the world. It has brought about a revolution in the social order, and has contributed greatly to the progress of humanity. We should be proud of our part in this great work.

The Socialist party has always been true to its principles and has stood firm in the face of adversity. It has been a leader in the fight for justice and freedom, and has been a bulwark against the forces of reaction and oppression.

The Socialist party is not only a political organization, but also a moral force. It is dedicated to the ideals of liberty, equality, and fraternity. It is a movement of the people, by the people, for the people.

The Socialist party has a great future ahead of it. It will continue to grow and to prosper, and will ultimately lead the world to a new era of progress and peace.

The Socialist party has a great tradition of martyrs. It has given us some of the greatest leaders of modern times, men who have sacrificed their lives for the cause of humanity.

We should all be proud to be associated with this great movement. Let us all work together to spread its principles and to build a better world for all mankind.
shall murder be committed?

joe clint and arnold gibbs are in prison in lawrence, ma., awaiting the verdict of the jury on charges of murder in the first degree in the death of edward o'connor, a law student at lawrence university, on october 26. the two men were convicted of killing o'connor in a deserted house on the outskirts of lawrence. the jury recommended the death penalty for both men.

the shooting occurred in the early morning hours of october 26, when o'connor, who was a law student at lawrence university, was walking alone in a deserted area near the campus. no witnesses were present. the police were notified and arrived at the scene within minutes. upon arrival, they found o'connor lying on the ground, bleeding profusely from a bullet wound in his chest. o'connor was rushed to the emergency room, but he died shortly thereafter.

the police began an investigation immediately. they searched the area for any evidence, but found none. they also interviewed witnesses, but no one had seen anything. the investigation continued for several days, and the police finally arrested clint and gibbs.

the trial began on october 28, and lasted for several weeks. the defense attorneys argued that their clients were acting in self-defense, and that o'connor had threatened them with violence. the prosecution argued that there was no such threat, and that o'connor was simply a defenseless victim.

the jury was instructed by the judge to consider all the evidence, and to decide if they believed the defense or the prosecution. after several days of deliberation, they returned a verdict of guilty on both counts.

clint and gibbs were sentenced to death by electrocution. they are scheduled to be executed on february 1, 1932.

shall we allow our fellow workers to be murdered in order to satisfy a blood-thirsty community? shall we allow our fellow workers to be murdered in order to satisfy the demands of a criminal society? if we do, then we are guilty of the same crime as those who committed the murder.

we must stand up and fight against this injustice. we must not allow the innocent to be punished for the crimes of the guilty. we must work together to ensure that justice is served.

the struggle against capitalism is a struggle for liberation. we must not allow the powerful to rule over us. we must work together to build a society where everyone is equal, and where everyone has the power to control their own destiny.

Shall Murder Be Committed?

Theodore D. Rice, 84, a former Chicago labor lawyer, has been charged with murdering his wife, Lillian, 79, in their home. The couple had been married for 50 years.

On Monday, the couple was found dead in their home in the South Side neighborhood. Lillian Rice, who had been suffering from Alzheimer's disease, was found unresponsive in the living room, while Theodore Rice was found in the kitchen with a fatal gunshot wound.

The couple had two children, a daughter and a son, who are now in their 50s. The children were not at the scene of the crime and are cooperating with investigators. The cause of death for Theodore Rice is being investigated by the Cook County Coroner's Office.

The couple had been married for 50 years and had been living in the same house for 40 years. They were known for their strong family bonds and were active in their community. They were both active in their church and volunteered at the local hospital.

The children are expected to return to the city to assist in the investigation. They have expressed their shock and grief over their parents' death and have asked that the media respect their privacy during this difficult time.
Shall Murder Be Committed?

Joe Ritz and Arturo Giovannitti are in prison in Lawrence, Mass., awaiting trial on the charge of murder. They were tried to a dead verdict in September or October, for a crime committed a year ago, and were sentenced to life imprisonment. Their trial was held in Lawrence, Mass., and was followed by widespread demonstrations. The trial is a tragic one, and has brought out many of the evils that are inherent in the American system of justice.

Young cab drivers, in their struggle for better working conditions, have given the benefit of their organizing efforts to the cause of the living wage. The mass strike, which was begun in Lawrence, was a determined effort to force the employers to recognize the right of the workers to organize. The strike was a victory for the workers, and has brought about a better understanding between the two groups.

Murder is a terrible crime, but it is not the only one that is committed. If we are to live in peace, we must learn to live together.

In conclusion, I want to say that the law is not enough, and that we must work for a better society, where all men are equal and have the right to work and to live.

Signed,

William J. Bryan
