SYNDICALIST MOVEMENT

Denmark

The National Syndicalist Party in the Danish Social Party has held a few days ago in Copenhagen its first congress. Although its political conception is in syndicalistic lines, the party is strongly influenced by Social Democratic theories. The congress was attended by representatives from a number of labor organizations in the country, and the resolution of the party was adopted after a long series of discussions and debates.

The party advocates a complete reform of the existing political system, and proposes to establish a true democracy based on the principles of syndicalism. It is determined to fight against all current political parties and to organize the workers into a single, powerful organization.

The party is not only supported by the
worker class but by a considerable number of intellectuals and intellectuals.

ITALY

The official bulletin of the General Council of the Italian Labor Party has stated that the number of member of the party has increased during the past year, and that the party is gaining ground in all the Italian provinces. The congress of the party was held in Turin, and the resolutions adopted by the party were accepted by all the members.

The party advocates the establishment of a monarchist state, and proposes to achieve this objective by means of a revolution.

The party is not only supported by the
worker class but by a considerable number of
intellectuals and intellectuals.

AUSTRIA

Very little is known about the workers' labor situation in Austria. The unionist movement is not very strong and the workers are not well organized. The party is not very popular and the party is not very well supported.

HOW CAPITALISM WILL END

In a new essay by Robert Blatchford, published in the Daily News, the author offers a new perspective on the end of capitalism. He suggests that capitalism will end through the gradual process of rationalization and simplification of production. The author believes that this process will lead to a decrease in the power of capital and the collapse of the capitalist system.

The author suggests that the end of capitalism will not be sudden but will be gradual and progressive. The author believes that this will be accompanied by a decrease in the power of capital and a shift in social priorities.

IN THE HEELS OF DEBTS OF 60 YEARS

"I've got bills, but they ain't Route 66"

Don't get behind in your payments. "Debts be de bussness. De business of de bussness is to be paid on time."

"If you don't pay your bill, your credit rating will suffer."

"You can't keep putting off your payments. You'll end up with a mountain of debt."
PLACING THE FLOATER
(Frank R. Bickley)

As an employer, I am always willing to use as many labor-saving devices as the job will permit. I have found it is an easy matter to use this type of equipment.

Mr. Groves saw that this family Treat is being given and he liked the idea and had it in mind for future use. He has learned that the workmen can do this type of work very efficiently and that the labor-saving devices make it easier for them to work.

Mr. Groves says that the labor-saving device is going to work very well and that it will be put to work in the future. He has learned that the labor-saving devices are making it easier for the workmen to work.

OUR VICTIMIZED FELLOW-WORKERS
(B. B. Blyhand)

It is believed that the labor-saving device is going to work very well and that it will be put to work in the future. He has learned that the labor-saving devices are making it easier for the workmen to work.

Despite the initial difficulties, Mr. Block managed to create a constructive dialogue and to bring the unions closer together.

"I believe we can find a way to work together on this project," Mr. Block said. "The principles of solidarity and cooperation are fundamental to our craft jurisdiction.
