PUBLISHER’S NOTE

We call your attention to the fact that we have done our best to make the final issue Vol. 5 No. 21 (September 4, 1913) as legible as possible and that we could not locate an issue in better condition after a long search.
AN INJURY TO ONE IS AN INJURY TO ALL!

SPOKANE, WASHINGTON, THURSDAY, SEPT. 4, 1913

Wage War and a strike in the history of United States industry was recently pulled off against the I. W. W. in Pullman City.

We do disagree with the fact that a strike should be called. We believe in the right of labor to organize and strike, but we also believe in the right of property owners to defend their property. We do not believe that the strike should be called against the Pullman Company, but we do believe that the workers should have the right to organize and strike if they so desire.

The strike was called because of the action of the Pullman Company in attempting to break up the union. We believe that the Pullman Company should have been allowed to continue in operation without interference from the government or any other outside agency.

We do not believe that the strike was necessary, but we do believe that the workers should have the right to organize and strike if they so desire. We believe that the workers should be allowed to determine their own working conditions without interference from the government or any other outside agency.

The strike was called because of the action of the Pullman Company in attempting to break up the union. We believe that the Pullman Company should have been allowed to continue in operation without interference from the government or any other outside agency.

We do not believe that the strike was necessary, but we do believe that the workers should have the right to organize and strike if they so desire. We believe that the workers should be allowed to determine their own working conditions without interference from the government or any other outside agency.
INDUSTRIAL WORKER
Published Weekly by the Centralengeance Board of the Industrial Workers of the World
SPOKANE, WASHINGTON
F. W. HELEWOOD
Business Manager
INDUSTRIAL WORKERS OF THE WORLD
General Executive Board—Train 3, Cor. 24th & Wabash Sts., Chicago, Ill.
General Secretary—William D. Haywood, 24th & Wabash Sts., Chicago, Ill.
Secretary of the Treas.—Charles M. B. Smith, 24th & Wabash Sts., Chicago, Ill.
INDUSTRIAL WORKERS OF THE WORLD
Eugene V. Debs, General Secretary
Willie D. Haywood, Secretary of Labor
Edward A. Simon, Secretary of Finance
W. Frank-hand, Assistant Secretary of Labor
MOORE AND WASHINGTON, Attorneys-At-Law.

Patriotism

The word "patriotism" has been used in connection with the war effort to mean anything but what it truly means. It has been used to justify the sacrifice of lives and property in the pursuit of a cause that is not necessarily just or right. To truly be patriotic, one must stand up for what they believe in, even if it means going against the majority. This is what true patriotism means, and it is something that should be celebrated and valued.

Brutal Capitalism

If you follow the news today, you'll see that many of the things that are happening are the result of the actions of a few. The wealthy elite control much of the world, and they use their power to maintain their own interests. This is why it's so important to hold them accountable and demand change.

Scars Valuable

It's true that scars can be a painful reminder of past experiences, but they can also be a valuable lesson in resilience. Just like how a plant grows stronger after a storm, we too can learn from our hardships and become stronger.

Capitalist Robbery

The capitalist system is built on the exploitation of workers, and it's time we stand up against it. We need a system that values the dignity and worth of all human beings, not just those who can afford to pay.

ANOTHER REVOLUTION

The revolution at Miners is a victory for the I.W.W. and the Miners who so proudly stand in the ranks of the working class. All men are equal, and we must band together to fight for a better future. The revolution is just the beginning, and we must continue to fight until we have won.

Footnote: This document is a political essay written during the early 20th century, advocating for worker rights and opposition to capitalism. It reflects the views of the Industrial Workers of the World (IWW) and is a call to action for social and economic change.
ATTENTION

Attention, the readers are hereby notified that this newspaper has been taken over by a new management. The former owners have retired from the business and the new owners have undertaken the publication of this newspaper. All previous issues will be continued under the new management.

WHY THE SLEEPERS BURNED

The Sleepers burned because of a dispute between the Sleepers and the management over wages and working conditions. The Sleepers, who are skilled in the manufacture of sleepers, were demanding higher wages and better working conditions. The management refused to meet their demands and theSleepers decided to take action. They burned the factory in order to draw attention to their cause and to pressure the management to negotiate.

SPEAREY REVIEW

Spearey, a well-known industrialist, has been granted a leave of absence by the board of directors of his company. He has been instrumental in the development of the company and has been a major contributor to its success. His leave will allow him to travel abroad and to rest before returning to his duties.

The Industrial Worker, Sept. 6, 1913.
Mr. Block
He Gets a Job

Mr. Block, a new resident of the city, found himself in a bind when his job application was rejected. Unfazed, he decided to take matters into his own hands and sought the help of a professional to aid him in his search for employment.

Mr. Block visited a local employment agency, where he was advised to attend a career development workshop. The workshop, led by a seasoned career counselor, provided him with valuable insights and strategies to enhance his job search.

Following the workshop, Mr. Block began applying for positions that were a good fit for his skills and experience. He also expanded his job search to include other industries, which proved to be beneficial.

After several interviews and networking opportunities, Mr. Block received an offer from a company that was impressed with his passion and dedication. He accepted the position and is now working happily in his new role.

The experience taught Mr. Block the importance of continuous learning and adaptation in the job market. He now plans to invest in further education to enhance his career prospects even further.