NUMBER 42

Turn On The Glim

The capitalist papers are rubbing their hands gleefully because, as they say, hundreds of millions worth of American products are moving Europeanward at the proper time to relieve the financial strain the banks are undergoing. Thousands of tons of food and clothing will be shipped out of this country, while fifty per cent of the people are not properly clothed and fed. These products to be exchanged for GOLD, that the money loaners and factory owners of free America may be enabled to hold the power of life and death over the people of America. If this panic doesn't bring about an industrial revolution, and goes as far as it has every prospect of going, those blood sucking vampires of Wall street will come out of it with nation practically in their palms, and you, Mr. Voter, you sap headed ignoramus, haven't got sense enough to realize how they do it. When ever the strong ones succeed in paralyzing the money market they know that they have paralyzed everything else; what happens then? Why, God---bless your soul, there is a general rush for money. Every body has to have money to meet their obligations, and that general rush for money forces hundreds of thousands of the small property owners to sacrifice everything in God's world they possess to keep the sheriff from doing it for them. Do you see the point, you red-necked sap sucker that voted against me for county judge? Don't you know that this country has been sold out by the horse toothed tin soldier and his lance jack to the capitalists of this country? Do you suppose that a man could take a maul and iron wedge and open those peepers of yours? Do you know that fifty million dollars of your money has been turned over by bear liver Teddy and his gang to the bankers of this country to shove your miserable cocoanut down out of sight? You have got a bale of cotton; it was worth twelve cents a pound a week ago, now it is worth ten. Are you fool enough to think that that ten dollars difference is not gobbled up by those heartless monsters on Wall street? Every dollar's worth of property you sacrifice in order to get through this crisis will pass on up the line to its inevitable home, which is Wall street. Wall street represents an industrial bull dog with a death grip on the throat of this nation, and the only way it can be made to loosen up that hold is to be shown a better place to chaw on. When Wall street loosens up on the throat of fair Columbia, she only spits out a mouth full of mangled bones and then plunges in and takes a more relentless hold than ever.

Do you know that if the capitalists succeed this time as well as they succeeded in

'73, considering the circumstances, more than half of the people in this country who own homes will sacrifice them to the god of greed? And yet you vote for the very means of subsistence of the workers of this country to be owned by a few heartless individuals who think more of the profit on a dollar than they do of the life of your baby. Don't you know that if the trusts of this country belonged to the public and wages were raised enough to take up all the surplus product that there could not be an industrial panic? The idea of a market being slack when there are millions of under-fed and poorly clothed children in this country! Why, great God, it hasn't been fifteen minutes since a little child of seven years came by my office door from school barefooted, and to-day is the 30th day of October, and it is one of the coldest days we have had this fall. If you are not a natural born dampool you know that if the public owned the trusts and the laborer got the product of his labor that that little child would not be out on this cold, wet ground barefooted; and I say, without fear of contradiction, that if you do not make some kind of an effort to better the conditions of the workers of this country, and that child dies from exposure, you are indirectly guilty of murder, and I defy you to disprove it.

DIED.

Last Sunday morning, October 27, 1907, at nine o'clock, little Jack, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Coombs. Mr. Coombs and family have been here but a very short time from Colorado. Mr. Coombs is foreman of the mechanical department of JUSTICE. Jack was one of a pair of twin boys three years old. He was an exceptionally bright and honest little fellow. It seemed that he had all the sweetness of a child, all the soberness and frankness of a man, and all the friend-making capacities of a lovable woman. His death came as a terrible shock to the family, who prized their robust pair of beauties above everything else on earth. The little fellow died of membranous croup. He was sick but a short time when death struck him. It seems as if this world is not arranged for the pure and noble, and that nothing but the brazen and vicious can survive this terrible struggle for existence. Possibly it is better that the pure and noble be taken away and not be compelled to rub up against this wicked old world and get nothing for their troubles but contamination. Mr. Coombs' brother, A. M. Coombs, of Anadarko, came over to visit the family in their bereavement. He has returned. JUSTICE extends heart-felt sympathy to the bereaved family in this their saddest hour.

Made to order suit for one dollar plus the cost. Competition is the life of trade. Come and see me at the Justice Office.

It's All Over Now

The Stephens county fair is over, and everybody has returned to their regular routine of duties. While the fair liked a great deal of being the equal of the late World's fair, considering the size of the world as compared with that of Stephens County, and you can readily see that Stephens County has got the world skinned as bad as some of those spindle games at the fair grounds had some of JUSTICE's delinquent subscribers skinned who were trying to win a dollar watch for a dime, when every other number had a watch on it. If there is a man in the territorial insane asylum at Normon that doesn't know that a man who is running a game for a living is not going to bet 10 to 1 that you don't draw a watch when half of the numbers have watches on them unless he has absolute control of his machine. I say if there is a man over there who doesn't know better than that he should be turned out immediately and shot and room made for cases that are curable. It is a strange thing to me that a good Christian community that has a law and order league flourishing in its midst that is bitterly opposed to the shooting of craps or the playing of poker, will permit highway robbers to run their thieving graft on the innocent and unwary, who don't know any better than to think that they have a show to win. There is absolutely no gambling connected with those spindle games. It's robbery and nothing but robbery, and it is a penitentiary offense in nearly every state in the Union to run them. If I were to sell you a piece of land and get the money and give you a bogus deed, and then sell the same land to another party and give him a real good deed to it, you consider that you had been robbed, but when you buy a chance at a watch on a spindle game, and he with an invisible spring steals every possible chance you have to win, you are not robbed, you are just hornswoggled. I once heard a sure thing man called a gambler, he promptly called the accuser a dam liar and said: I want you to strictly understand that I am not a gambler, I am a thief; I take no chances.

In The Days of Forty-nine

The president of these United States was forty nine years old Sunday. Isn't it strange that a jackass like him can browse around over this mundane sphere nearly half a century, butting his presumptuous nose into every thing that got in reach and having to kick out backwards so many times, and not make a mislick and kick his own worthless block off? There wasn't but a few of us that knew when the birth day of that razor toothed political accident came, and it won't be twenty years till every body but a few outraged niggers and benefited capitalists will forget that there ever was such a rabbit chocker in existence. Why the daily papers haven't even given out who held the bear that he shot while in Louisiana yet. Take him out of the White house and he would be lost in the soggy fog of political oblivion in fifteen minutes.

FRIDAY, NOV. 1, 1907.

Under Socialism nearly all horse races would be on the square.

When an old idea comes in contact with a new fact there is something doing.

The editor of this journal got taken in at the fair on the monkey beating the balloon down. We bet he didn't.

A man who will run a spindle game should be sent to the pen, and a man who will play one should be sent to the insane asylum.

Don't get it into your noggin that because your great grandfather wore knee breeches and red stockings that he knew how to handle an issue that didn't come into existence until a hundred years after his death.

Geo. E. Owen of Oklahoma City was a pleasant caller at the mill of JUSTICE last week. Owen is a boiler insurance man and from the roll he wears under his chin he must be making a living out of it. George is a class-conscious, evolutionary, revolutionary Socialist and is in the insurance business to make a living and push the cause of Socialism. He says that when we get Socialism we will not need any insurance, but in the mean time we had better carry a little insurance, as we can cancel it when we get the reins of government in our hands. One thing about a fellow like George, he doesn't make anything out of his Socialism and he is too darn good natured to be classed with the cranks, and too well loaded with scientific facts to permit any little pin headed slave minded fanatics to get away without a good roasting, he also weighs 225 pounds, which is a very essential feature in the fight for economic freedom. Owen isn't paying a cent for this but actually I believe he is a bully good fellow and don't care who knows it.

Bill Nye's Cow

(Judge's Library)

Bill Nye, the humorist, once had a cow to sell and advertised her as follows:

"Owing to ill health I will sell at my residence, in township 19, range 18, according to the government's survey, one blush raspberry cow, aged 8 years. She is of undoubted courage, and gives milk frequently. To a man who does not fear death in any form she would be a great boon. She is very much attached to her present home with a stay chain, but she will be sold to anyone who will agree to treat her right. She is one-fourth shorthorn and three-fourths hyena. I will also throw in a double-barrel shot gun, which goes with her. In May she usually goes away for a week or two and returns with a tall red calf with wobbly legs. Her name is Rose. I would rather sell to a nonresident."

Something For Your Brain

You folks who think that Capitalism will endure forever, had better consider these astonishing facts:

In fifty years more of capitalist rule, judging by the past fifty years, and that is all we have to go by, there won't be a virtuous woman on the face of the globe.

In fifty years more there won't be a sober person on the face of the globe.

In two hundred years more there won't be a sane person on the face of the globe.

In one hundred years more this world will be entirely populated with opium fiends.

In seventy-five years more this earth will belong to one man.

In fifteen years more fifteen men will own the controlling interest in the earth.

In ten years more the virtuous woman will be in the minority.

In five years more a man who is not as far advanced as the ordinary so-called radical is to-day will be considered a dam fool.

In three weeks more a man who hasn't paid up his subscription to JUSTICE will be in danger of being left in darkness without an intellectual guide.

If the money market doesn't ease up a little in the next three days I am going to draw my overdraft out.

If wages don't rise in the next twenty-four hours over three hundred girls in the United States will be forced to sell their bodies to buy bread.

If the preachers in the United States do not quit assailing every movement for the betterment of humanity in the next twenty years they will be preaching to empty seats.

The preachers that take up the cause of worldly salvation in the next five years are the coming evangelists.

Old men who think they are smart just because they are old will learn a great deal in the next five years.
