Are Open Shop Murderers Protected by the Police Department?

Some years ago, under the rule of Chief Mathew Kiely, the St. Louis Police Department was conducted as a branch office of the Citizens' Industrial Alliance. The brutality practiced by the managers of the department toward Organized Labor reached its climax when Chief Kiely issued his memorable order: "Shoot and Shoot to Kill!"

This was about ten days prior to the Carriage Drivers' strike, at a time when there was no trouble or disturbance whatever.

Kiely was the tool of the Citizens' Industrial Alliance. Our labor press, supported by Organized Labor, went after Kiely and his political allies good and strong, and the Democratic party machine was compelled to either drop the brute at the head of the police department or get into an open fight with the labor movement, not only locally, but all over the

Col. Creecy was appointed as Kiely's successor by Governor Folk. Col. Creecy was a gentleman. And while Chief of Police he acted like a gentleman. He insisted that the police department be not used against the labor movement in cases of strikes. He introduced reforms in the department that proved the old gentleman to be a man of higher education and a believer in a higher form of civilization. "Old Creecy" opposed the idea of making Russian Cossacks out of the St. Louis policemen. In every police officer he recognized the fellow man, the husband, the father of a family And this was his weakness, according to the Citizens' Alliance anarchists and allied "Big Business Interests."

The enemies of Organized Labor hated the old gentleman at the head of the Metropolitan Police Department. They decided that he would have

The "Big Business Interests" needed a strong man to run the police department of St. Louis. In their cruel frankness they admitted that "Old Creecy" could not be relied on in cases of labor troubles.

When at the last election Hon. Hadley succeeded in climbing into the gubernatorial chair in Jefferson City the "Big Business Interests" in St. Louis concluded that the time for action had come. Citizens' Alliance influence and political pie-hunting worked wonders. The local Republican party machine and Governor Hadley's state machine were put in operation. As a matter of "practical politics" the St. Louis Police Department had to be reorganized. This gave the "Big Business Interests" a chance to get rid of "Old Creecy" and put a strong man at the helm of the police department.

The Governor appoints the St. Louis Police Commissioners, hence the Governor and his appointees select the Chief of Police. To get the police force cut off from Democratic politics seemed quite an item for smooth Hon Hadley and his Republican machine.

When the John Healy steal in the Police Relief Association was dis covered, Governor Hadley's St. Louis machine politicians got busy. Every possible attempt was made to mix Chief Creecy up with the Healy affair. A dozen or more of flimsy charges were drummed up against the old gentleman in order to bring about a radical reorganization of the police depart-

Chief Creecy again proved to his enemies that he was a gentleman. He fought to protect his honest name. He resigned as Chief of Police to es cape the slimy work done against him.

The present Chief Young was appointed as Creecy's successor. Young had the support of the same "Big Business Interests" that were anxious to get rid of Col. Creecy.

Chief Young is a strong man. Just the kind of a strong man the Citizens' Alliance was anxious to have. While he is not as clumsy and unvarnished as ex-Chief Kiely, he is a strong man, nevertheless.

Recent events seem to demonstrate the fact that Chief Young is doing his level best to del'ver the goods to his capitalist masters.

A negro strikebreaker, by the name of James Weathers, shot and killed Business Agent William Keane of Teamsters' Union No. 700 and Patrick Kane, a member of the same organization. It was pointed out by members of the Central Trades and Labor Union that the strikebreakers are enjoying the protection of the police department and that the murderous rowdies are permitted to carry and display revolvers without the least interference on the part of the police.

Weathers, the murderer of the two Union men, is looked upon as a kind of a hero, and if he repeats his murderous work in the near future he may have a chance of being promoted to a patrolmanship under Chief Young's regime. We are also informed that the Citizens' Alliance will take care of Weathers' defense. The strikebreakers repeatedly attempted to provoke Union teamsters and create serious disorders, but Chief Young seemed to know nothing about it. Had a Union man killed two strikebreakers Chief Young would have mobilized the entire police force, and his capitalist masters would have compelled the daily papers to fill their front pages with sensational articles about the "Murder and Anarchy of Union Labor."

In this connection the attention of the public must be called to these vital facts:

The strikebreaker, Weathers, is employed by the Ehrler Drayage Co., that is making the fight against the Teamsters' Union. Mr. G. H. Ehrler, president of the Ehrler Drayage Co., is a cousin of President Woerheide of the Board of Police Commissioners.

If you know how to add 2 and 2, you may figure out for yourself why it is that the police department under Chief Young don't care to protect Union labor against murderous strikebreakers.

There is no representative of Organized Labor in the Board of Police Commissioners to defend the cause of the murdered Union men. Governor Hadley is a great "friend of labor" during political campaigns. Why did he not give the 45,000 Union men and women of St. Louis proper representation on the board? Why did he not give the Central Trades and Labo Union a chance to select at least one member?

We do not blame the rank and file of the police force for the deplorable conditions; the responsibility rests with the machine at police headquarters, Chief Young and the Commissioners, and Governor Hadley and his St. Louis machine, which is being used in the fight against the labor movement.

We ask Chief Young: How long will you permit the murderous work of Citizens' Alliance strikebreakers? How long will you permit the Citizens' Alliance and "Big Business Interests" to use the Metropolitan Police Department in their fight against Organized Labor?

Answer, please!

The people of St. Louis will not stand for Open Shop anarchy and murderous strikebreaker activity under the sanction and protection of the police department, irrespective of whether the Chief's name is Mr. Kiely or Mr. Young. G. A. Hoehn.

Thanks to the intelligence and moral courage of a woman and to the sincerity of a judge of the court, the women of Portugal have secured the right to vote. Mrs. Dr. Angelo, a physician, insisted that her name be entered on the voters' list for the general elections. The election officials refused. The brave woman took the matter into court, claiming that the clause of the constitution which grants the suffrage to "every Portuguese over 21 years of age" must also apply to women, because they were neither British, nor Spanish, nor French, but Portuguese. The highest court, presided over by Judge Dr. Baptista da Castro, decided the case in favor of Mrs. Dr. Angelo, and this is why to-day the women of Portugal have the same right to vote as men. How the smart lawmakers got caught!

Now for Labor Day?

To make this year's Labor Day a decided success must be the object of every Union man and woman.

Organized Labor of St. Louis must be thoroughly aroused. There is no good reason why West End Heights should not be the gathering place of 50,000 people on Monday, September 4.

The Labor Day celebration will be given under the auspices of the Central Trades and Labor Union and the Building Trades Council. It is superfluous to say that almost every militant Socialist is also an active member of his trade union, and as such it becomes his duty, as class-conscious worker, to do all in his power to make the Labor Day demonstration of 1911 a great success.

State Senator Winfield R. Gaylord of Milwaukee will be the principal Labor Day speaker in St. Louis, and we may assure our readers and friends that the Socialist Senator will know how to handle the great labor problem on this occasion. He has fought many a battle for the working class in the Wisconsin state parliament and is thoroughly acquainted with the history, struggles, aims and mission of the modern labor movement.

Impress on every wage worker's mind the slogan:

"ON TO WEST END HEIGHTS ON LABOR DAY!"

Vote for the Capitol Bond Issue

Tuesday, August 1, 1911, a special election will be held in the State of Missouri to decide the question of the three and one-half million dollar bond issue for the new State Capitol building SCRATCH NO in Jefferson City.

The Citizens' Industrial Alliance crowd is lining up against the bond issue, because they insist that scab labor should do the work.

We advise our comrades and friends to vote for the bond issue by scratching the "NO" on the ballot.

Don't fail to vote! The polling places are the same as in regular elec-

OSCAR AMERINGER OF OKLAHOMA

Will Lecture in St. Louis August 23, 24, 25 and 26.

Comrade Oscar Ameringer of Oklahoma City, the well-known Socialist lecturer and campaign speaker, who helped to capture Milwaukee for Socialism, will speak in St. Louis from August 23 to 26.

He will deliver four lectures under the auspices of the Socialist Party of St. Louis. Further particulars as to subjects and places of meeting will be announced in due time.

Comrade Ameringer is one of the most popular speakers in the American Socialist movement, and I feel convinced that the St. Louis Socialists, Union men and wage workers in general will not fail to give him a most cordial and rousing reception.

Politically Bankrupt

The present Municipal Assembly proves the absolute political bankruptcy of the Republican and Democratic parties in St. Louis.

Since the elections in April no legislative work of any importance for the good of the people has been done. Neither the Council nor the House of Delegates have paid any attention to vital questions affecting the public welfare.

Neither in the Council nor in the House has there been a single man who could emancipate himself from the petty capitalist peanut and machine politics. Not one man possessed of the manhood, political independence, intellect and moral courage to call a halt to the contemptible and outrageous work of wirepulling and obstruction which has been going on in the Municipal Assembly during the last three months.

During the last hours of its existence the old Municipal Assembly sanctioned Jeptha Howe's Southern Traction steal, whereby operation of an electric railway line over the Municipal free bridge is to be made the monopoly of a private corporation for fifty years.

Up to this date the new Assembly has not even attempted to reconsider that franchise steal

Personally they are "good fellows," every one of them. Politically, hey are the most helpless, pitiable creatures. Their every act and action in the House and Council attests to the political bankruptcy of the party machines that put them into office.

The obstruction carried on by these municipal legislators is criminal. There are 14 Kreismannites (including the 5 Democratic "metlopers") and 14 Kielites. In order to break the tie vote and force vacation adjournment the Kreismannites resorted to "kidnaping" methods. City Central Committeeman Reichmann, a saloonkeeper, invited Alderman Klose (Kielite) to have a few drinks with him. Then Riechmann invited Klose to an automobile ride to the county, where they had many more drinks, and where the Alderman was kept drinking and joy-riding until late in the evening, i. e., just long enough to miss the meeting of the House of Delegates.

Of course, this was a smart piece of political work in the eyes of the peanut statesmen.

The people of St. Louis think that it was a most contemptible piece of rotten politics.

There is a limit to this shameful work by municipal legislators who were elected to represent and protect the best interests of the people of St. Louis.

The day of reckoning will come. In the near future the working class of St. Louis will rise en masse, throw off the shackles of capitalist politics, rally to the banner of the Socialist Party, elect their own representatives to legislate for them and clean out the Augean stables of capitalist peanut politics.

Solidarity or Ruin — Which?

The attempt of the Building Industries Association to disrupt the Carpenters' District Council by smuggling Boyd's organized strikebreakers into the A. F. of L., via the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners, was promptly exposed and counteracted by the Central Trades and Labor Union. That the central body would not stand for organized scabbery should have been well known to the gentlemen who were engineering the schemes against the Carpenters' District Council. Our raders' attention is called to the C. T. & L. U. meeting report on page 5 of this issue of ST. LOUIS LABOR.

We have no desire to meddle with the internal affairs of the St. Louis building trades. We recollect the story told by Joe Buchanan, one of the pioneers of the American labor movement, about his "thankless and hope-The speech delivered by Comrade less job" of trying to harmonize the K. of L. and A. Presents for Our County Fair

To Our Comrades and Friends:

This year's fall festival of the Socialists of St. Louis will be held at Risch's Grove, Sunday, September 10.

Like in former years there will be a "County Fair" connected with the picnic. The Committee of Arrangements asks all comrades and friends to give such presents for the "County Fair" as they may be able to give. All presents should be delivered at headquarters, 966 Chouteau avenue. The time is short and no time should be lost in getting the several thousand presents together. Committee of Arrangements.

Politeness and brotherly love reigns supreme in our House of Delegates. Alderman Lahiv asked Alderman Becker a question. Becker replied rather "sassy," and Lahiv responded, disappointedly: "You are a damned fool!" Alderman Becker stepped aside, walked toward the press table and indignantly announced: "That fellow Lahiv is 'verrueckt'! If he wasn't crazy I would give him of e in the snoot!" Our honorable Alder-"That fellow Lahiv is 'verrueckt'! If men would make first-class Sunday school teachers.

One man was burned to death and the lives of forty others were endangered by a fire in the Salvation Army barracks, 13-15 North Third street. Who is to blame for the death of this man? The building has been known as an old firetrap for years. For many years it was used as a newspaper office. It is about time that the city authorities pay closer attention to these Salvation Army barracks. Have they already forgotten the catrastrophe on Ninth and Market streets, where a number of men lost their lives? Of course, the victims were poor hoboes and tramps, and there are plenty of them!

How Socialism is Coming.

By Winfield R. Gaylord

In three ways, principally, may it be said that Socialism is coming now in all of the civilized world. The first to be mentioned is the Co-Operative Movement; the second is the Trade Union Movement; and the third is Political Action. It is not intended that the order in which these are mentioned shall be taken importance in the writer's mind. Each is important, and all appear to be essential to the development of society up to that form of out fear. That is the great practical out fear is the great practical out fear. social organization which we sum up under the name of Socialism.

The Co-Operative Movement. First, then, Socialism is coming through the co-operative movement. We speak of The Co-Operative Commonwealth as one of the synonyms Socialism completed. I can hardly do better here than to give this message from Kautsky's essay "The Co-Operative Consumers'

Societies and the Labor Movement." Says Kautsky: "However little suited even to-day the endeavors in some localities may be for the creation of a great co-operative, however much consumers' societies may the trade-union battle for influencing the conditions of production, alongside the struggle of the proletariat for power in the municipality the extension and multiplication of the branches of production to be riat. How untrue! And it is the controlled and administered by them, same at Brussels, the same at Jolithe co-operative movement is called to play no inconsiderable part in the emancipation struggle of the prole-

"And what else is the picture which we sketch for ourselves of the Socialist society (of the future) than that of a gigantic consumers' co-operative society, but rather, at the same time, a producing co-operative whose enterprises produce for the consumption of its own members?"

Another phase of the question is presented in Von Elm's brochure on "The Co-Operative Movement (also quoted by Kampffmeyer), in which "It is not sufficient to snatch away only the political power from our opponents, but it is equally necessary to gradually conquer the economic Without this, it is inconconceivable that we can attain our goal. I do not at all believe that the thing will develop in such a fashion that one fine day, in possession of the political power, the entire Socialist society can be organized from one mistaken idea, and is also an inherent contradiction to our democratic way of looking at things. In this matter I adopt the point of view of La Salle, who declared: 'The revolution will only be successful when of the co-oper it has already come to maturity in over the world. the womb of (present) society.' the working class must first acquire a greater measure of economic power and must create a mechanism with which the further construction of the Social-Democratic organization can connect itself." Hard to Work Without a Master.

In Belgium the Socialist movement has gone far in the development of its own economic institutions, so far that they have their own club houses and trade schools, as well as their own stores and bakeries. And in speaking concerning the function of the co-operatives, at a meeting in Paris, in 1900, E. Anseele, who is one of the founders and managers of Operative Movement had something to say which opens up another view of the question: It racy is being practiced now. so illuminating that we quote it at length. Anseele said:

" * * * Working for a master is sometimes difficult, especially to satisfy him, because he stipulates for so many things. You remember Figaro's saying: 'For the virtues which masters require in a servant, very few masters would be worthy of being one.' Working for a master, then, is difficult. But for many workmen working without a master is FOR THE BODY OF ONE MAN, still more difficult; and that is what we must teach the workers—how to work without a master. That is one of the reasons why in many trades co-operative production cannot succeed; that is what we must get the proletarians to learn—to master themselves, to work of themselves, without having forced on them the will of an authority."

"What I am going to say will, perhaps, draw down an uproar on my head," Anseele proceeds. "I shall say it all the same. I say there must be order in industry, order in the is true. And that is true wherever factory, discipline in labor; the lattere is a labor organization. borers must know that it is their duty to push on the production of all for the gain of all. If only every one had a character of intellectual and moral strength, strongly equipped with professional skill and abounding in energy! But find me such a rare bird. Find the manager who can be employed in a productive co-operative society. Moral qualities and knowledge of the trade are his world. Find me that in every village, every quarter, every trade. Alas, no; the working class, we must say it out loud, has not yet reached that point as regards either personal qualities, technical knowledge, or professional knowledge of trades. That is why the distributive co-operative societies, which help to form and support the productive ones, are as any indication of their relative of immense benefit and service to the education, which end of distributive co-operation and of productive co-operation."

There is another very important aspect of the co-operatives in their relation to this working-class movement, which was touched upon by Anseele in his Paris address, and it comes out characteristically in the following extract: "We had a few weeks ago ten thousand strikers among us, thousands of flax-spinners and the carpenters' lockout, and there was a general meeting at the 'Vooruit.' I was then, as you are now, sitting listening, and they were there in the hall, thousands upon thousands: They said: 'You know, be the means of making the workers there's the strike'-'Yes, yes'-'That narrow-minded and of frittering means money'-'Of course it means narrow-minded and of irittering means money away their strength in unfruitful money—"The Society will give something"— "All you want," was compromising experiments; sooner something— "All you want," was or later in every country, alongside the reply; 'you have free course, you can use the chest as largely as you wish, according to circumstances. And after results like that, people come and say that Co-operation lesand the state, alongside the efforts of sens the Socialist spirit, the class-the municipality and the state for consciousness, the class-war, the spirit of revolution in the proletasame at Brussels, the same at Jolimont, at Liege, at Bouvy; go north south, east or west, you will every where see big bakeries topped by the red flag."

The co-operative movement, then when successful, brings to the workers, at the least, control over the economic channels of production and distribution, to the extent to which it has been developed; it brings by the very process of its development the discipline, the training in self-restraint and self-direction, the capacity for social self-control which is absolutely necessary for the Co-Operative Commonwealth. And it brings meanwhile the sinews of war for the present battle, as well.

There are plenty of people in America, as well as other lands, who call the working people "cattle," and ridicule the idea of their ever attaining the capacity of running their own affairs. Worse still, there are many working people who believe in their hearts that they can never learn, nor their children, how to manage their own affairs. They think they must central point. That is an entirely have some superior person, who shall "give them a job" and look after the business. If these people are right, then Socialism can never come. But they are wrong, for Socialism is coming now in the tremendous success of the co-operative movement all

And so we can say it in this way: am accordingly of the opinion that Wherever the workers succeed to any extent by their own organization in securing control, through ownership, of the means of producing and dis-tributing the comforts and necessities of life for their own advantage, there, for those workers, and to that extent, the principles of the co-op commonwealth are being erative practiced now.

A Second Way in Which Socialism Is Coming.

Again, wherever the workers succeed to any extent, by their own organization, in securing control over the hours of their own labor, their wages of labor, and the conditions of their labor, there, to that extent and day.
for those workers, industrial democ-value to the workers of the twentieth century must give the workers selfgovernment in their daily DEMOCRACY MEANS TO THE SOCIALIST THE SAME THING FOR THE BODY OF SOCIETY THAT SELF-CONTROL MEANS MEANS

There is no part of the life of the people more important to them than time which they spend in earning their daily bread. And a democ racy which does not give the work-ers self-control of their work, while they are at work, is not a democracy at all—it is an hypocrisy and a mockery. Therefore Socialists demand an industrial democracy. The fact that this industrial democracy is being realized in any degree means that to that degree Socialism is in process of coming wherever that

There are those who say that organized labor has not accomplished anything for the workers, that all its efforts have been wasted. But no one who knows the history of organized labor in this country alone can say that organized labor has been a failure.

About 13 per cent of these battles resulted in partial success.

Only about 37 per cent of these battles ended in total failure.

These were the openly fought battles for shorter hours, for better wages, for improved working conditions, against child labor, and to improve the condition and the pay of the women workers. And over 50 per cent of them were completely successful.

Besides that, it must be borne in mind that many of these strikes and lockouts resulted from the unorganized condition of labor. Organization this: prevents more strikes than it causes. And there must be taken into accided by agreements without ever coming to an open battle or strike.

Labor's Benefits Were Not Gifts from the "Good Capitalists.

At this point there are those who claim that organized labor, for all that it has won so many victories, has not gained any real benefits for the workers. Such a question cannot be the time when the City of Washington, D. C., was first built-about one hundred years ago. We are told that the workmen in the building trades worked fourteen hours a day at that time, and that they received dollars PER sixty-five ($65.00) YEAR, sometimes being provided with lodgings in addition. This is typical of the labor conditions of that

Imagine the memb ing trades working fourteen hours now-or consenting to receive pay at the rate of sixty-five dollars a

The printers have the eight-hour day; the brewery workers have an eight-hour day; so have the cigarmakers, and about two-score more of the organized crafts of to-The average working day for all kinds of labor to-day is less than eleven hours. The standard of living, of education, and of inde-pendence of the individual worker has been tremendously improved.

How did this all happen? Was it by the organized benevolence of the employers of labor? Did they call their workingmen together, and say to them: "Please, now, gentlemen, will you not consent to work for a shorter number of hours if we will pay you more wages?" Did they!

By no other method than by the stubborn, persistent and costly fights of organized labor have these benefits been gained. Through years of struggle, agitation, suffering and toil have the workers won their way to their present position of strength and self-

Because ceeding, to an increasing extent, in controlling their hours of labor, their wages and the conditions of some blood-letting. Find me this paragon of a manager, and find a hundred of them combining all the superior qualities which make a man superior in his own place, which make him one of the smiths who shall hammer out the new The United States Labor Bureau their wages and the conditions of labor to their own advantage, there-labor to their own of organized labor have resulted in Organized Labor Vs. Theory."

But there are others who say that the very fact that the unions are gaining improved conditions for the workers is a thing which prevents built. the coming of Socialism. It has been said for years, in the labor movement of the world, that "when the workers have their bellies full they will not think." There is an old motto going the rounds of the labor movement to the effect that "The worse off the people are, the better."

Those who hold this idea are sincere enough. What they mean is that fullness They think breeds contentment; that only those who are miserable become discontentcount the fact that many strucgles ed; that only those who suffer pain between labor and capital were de- and deprivation will rebel; and that, therefore, only when the people are miserable enough, only when enough of the people are miserable, will they turn against their oppressors, overthrow the existing system, and thus make way for something new and better.

For this reason many honest enthusiasts have opposed the existing trades unions, and do so to-day. But settled by a glance at the history of they are exactly wrong. "The worse even a ten-year period. But let us off the people are"—the worse off look at a longer period—look back to they are. And that is all there is to

> If hunger made Socialists, should have had many more votes for Debs in 1908. But hunger does not make Socialists. It only makes degenerates! I do not deny that most of us could with some benefit to ourselves go without solid food for a week-provided we had been well fed previously! But to go on half rations for six months, then to starve for three months, and THEN to go without food for a week-that means either death or insanity. The starved cells of brain and body refuse to work without sustenance, and when forced too far they simply die. When only part of them die, it means a DEFECTIVE person; when all of them die, it means a dead person And neither defectives nor dead ones are of much value to the Socialist Party.

We Need Men; Not Starved Degeneratess.

No! it is not men empty-belliedand, therefore, empty-headed; not men who have been starved into subcrawl for a crust; not men who have been bullied, browbeaten, terrorized and beaten into the gutter-not that kind of men will serve very much in the building of a new civilization. They have had all the juice taken out of them. They are not to blame. They are but the by-product of a senseless and dying capitalist system. But they are not the material of which victorious armies are made. And what we must have is a victorious army, which shall march to a new kind of victory, over a road built by the army itself, into a land prepared and reconstructed by the genius and labor of the army that marches to take possession.

No! that takes men with plenty of

from the domination of the foreman and the boss. Men who have learned by practice to think and will TO-GETHER. This-and more-we need if the new civilization is to be

Proof of this, if proof is neded, is to be found in the make-up of the membership of the Socialist Party of the world. In the United States over 70 per cent of the dues-paying membership of the Socialist Party comes from the ranks of organized labor. These are men, trained and experienced in organization of labor, resourceful and strong, with a record of successful battles behind them, who are capable of fighting greater battles in the future, and WINNING THEIR BATTLES.

Organized Labor Vs. Individualism. Another great work that the labor unions are accomplishing is their effective education of the workers out of the old ideas of individualism which are so characteristic of Amer-

Few of the workers have realized that individualism, when it is logically stated as a theory, and developed into a doctrine, becomes nothing else but philosophic anarchism. Probably fewer still have learned that the first book on anarchism to be written in any language was written by Josiah Warren, a successful Yankee business man in Cincinnati. After that, and in other languages, other men wrote books on anarch-But the American soil furism. nished the first book on the subject.

That was natural enough. In the early days of this country, when the anarchist motto of "Do as you please had a boundless prairie ahead of He did not care for a sheriff-the

And this idea of individual liberty, absolute and complete, with as little law as possible, crept into our American blocd and thought, until it became a popular thing for politicians to play upon, and even statesmen gave utterance to it. Not out of place altogether a hundred years ago, mission until they are willing to it is to-day completely out of place, because absolutely impossible of practice, now and here, in the twentieth century.

Nevertheless, men like Uncle Joe Cannon, Theodore Roosevelt, William Jennings Bryan, etc., are teaching and trying to put into law the esential principles of individualism. They claim that civilization rests upon free competition, and that individualism is the corner-stone of progress. Also, men like Chas. W. Post and

David M. Parry are constantly advising working men to assert their "independence" of any "walking delegate" and to keep free from the "tyranny of labor unions." These gentle advisers of the working class work for whom he pleases, as long who have had enough to eat for quite chooses to accept; that it is none of his business what arrangements he

"Misery time to will their own will, away terms in which they want the government to make the laws, i. e., in terms of "one man."

That Imaginary "One Man."

But there is no "one man." There ever was "one man" since civilization began. You cannot find "one man." And if you do find such a being, you will have to put him in the insane asylum.

You cannot get "one man" started. The only starter for "one man" would be just "a baby." Not a son, nor a grandson, but just "a baby." If you could reach up in the air, wave a magic wand, and then blow "a baby" out of your sleeve, that would be a good starter for "one man." But it would only be a start. There is still the food and clothing, the housing and warming, the cleaning and tending, the mothering and nursing, before the baby becomes a man. And such a being, having been nourished by all the myriad processes and forces which modern society affords, would show scant intelligence or comprehension of his own life and what made him possible by declaring when he had reached the period of maturity that he was an "individual," and that his business was his own and nobody's else.

Least of all is there any such being as "one man" in the world of labor to-day. There the world's work is done by industrial armies, who march and countermarch according to the blowing of the bugles on factory roofs, and keep step according to the pace set by factory wheels.

The invention of labor-saving machinery has led to the building of big and mind your own business" could machines. The proper use of this be practiced by any man who cared machinery compels its use on the to take an ax and a rifle and walk to- largest possible scale—for the saving ward the setting sun. Every man of labor. When modern machinery could be a law unto himself when he is properly used, the result is that one great organization of machinery domhim, and no one to care whether he inates an entire industry. There are killed a deer, a bear or an Indian about four hundred "trusts" listed by Moody in his book, "The Truth sheriff would be sure to be too late. About the Trusts"; while it is acknowledged that there are one thousand two hundred corporations doing business in violation of the Sherman

This is not because John D. Rockefeller is either a very good man or a very bad man-though he is probably both. It is because the nature of modern machinery compels its use on the largest possible scale.

You Cannot "Do as You Please."

But the significance of this big machine work for the worker is this: There is no such thing as "the work of one man" in the operation of a modern industrial plant. Modern nachinery, to be properly used, must be operated by an industrial army. No individual member of this army an "do as he pleases and mind his own business"—primarily, because he can have no "business of his own" to mind. He must enlist in the army of industry; take his place in the ranks where the captains place him and that may not be to-day the place for which he is best adapted; he must march with the rest of the army at the blowing of the steam bugles; his pace is set for him by the speed of the factory wheels, and he halts again only when the army pauses at a signal given by those who must act as its officers now.

The Missouri Controversy

National Headquarters Socialist Party.

Chicago, Ill., July 18, 1911.

To the National Executive Committee:

Dear Comrades-I report herewith upon the consideration given to the subject matters submitted under date of July 6th, relating to Missouri, as contained in two propositions, as follows:

First. The request by the State Committee of Missouri for the National Executive Committee, at its own expense, to investigate the quesceeding by which the charter of the tion of Local St. Louis violating the National Constitution in the spring of the Missouri State organization campaign of 1909.

Upon the first proposition Comrades Hilquitt and Spargo voted in in the affirmative. Other members not heard from.

Upon the second propostion Comrades Berger, Hillquit, Hunter, Lewis and Spargo voted in the affirmative. Other members of the committee not heard from. No action has, therefore been taken on the first propo sition; the second has been adopted. Upon the two questions Comrade carey submits a motion as follows: "That action be postponed until the Milwaukee session of the National Executive Committee." Comrade Lewis submits the following motion: 'I move action on No. 1 be defer red till the National Executive meeting, August 12th."

The letters of the members are herewith transmitted: Letter of Comrade Hillquit, Dated other of the two proceedings proposed, and since we have no discretion in the matter of the petition, but are bound to initiate the referen dum under the provisions of our constitution, the petition must prevail over the invitation to investigate. I wish, however, to add in all frankness, that even in the absence of the petition for a referendum, the invitation of the Missouri State organization would not commend itself very favorably to me. The controversy in the State of Missouri arose over the alleged violation of our National Constitution by the St. Louis Local in the municipal campaign of 1909, but it also involved the question of ceeding by which the charter of the local was revoked. The resolution mpaign of 1909.

"What we principally desire is to re-establish a harmonious and efficient organization in the State of Missouri and not merely to fasten the negative. Comrade Hunter voted the blame for the present deplorable state of disruption, and rest satisfied

"The National Executive Committee has time and again offered its good services to the State organization of Missouri to restore harmony in the movement of that state, but the Missouri State Committee, instead of facing the situation in a straight and direct way, has been fencing with us and has to my mind shown more re gard for cavils and technicalities than for the cause of Socialism and an efficient organization of Socialists. The petition of the five hundred and twelve Missouri comrades, if acted upon by the National Executive Committee, will leave the entire mat-ter in the hands of the membership of the State of Missouri, and as far as I am concerned, I trust implicitly in their collective wisdom and broad ness of mind to settle it in the best interest of the Party.

"But 'State Referendum A' mere ly provides for an investigation of original charge against Local St. Louis, and does not make it possible for the National Executive Committtee to carry its investigations further into the subsequent actions of the Local Quorum. This is manifestly no way to set about the solution of the difficulty.

"But even if the referendum had been wholly satisfactory to me, I should regard it as useless to vote for the motion based upon it in view of the petition upon which motion No. 2 is based. As I read the National Constitution, we have no option in the matter. Its provisions are absolutely mandatory. Except for your own satisfaction there seems to me no reason why you should even submit the question to this committee. Automatically, the receipt of such a petition makes the taking of a referendum by the National Office imperative.

'Of course, you will satisfy yourself that the signers of the petition were all members in good standing at the time the controversy arose. seems to me that you ought not to accept the mere assertion of any body in this matter, but demand and secure satisfactory evidence of such membership.'

They forget that the board has to look after the interests of all the taxpayers and all the children. In Bulgarian Parliament

Sofia, Bulgaria, July 9.—Three years ago the young Socialist Party of Bulgaria could not muster over 2500 votes. Three weeks ago, on June 18, the election for the national parliament took place and 13,000 Socialist votes were the result.

Much to the surprise of the old political machines that have been running the public affairs under "Little Czar Ferdinand's" direction the Socialists elected one of their candidates to parliament.

In the city of Troyan, Comrade W. Wlaskowsky, a leather worker, was elected, receiving 1920 votes.

In several other cities, like in Sli-wen and Samokow, the Socialists polled more votes than the old parties combined, but were outvoted by the rural portions of these respective election districts.

In Sofia the Socialist vote increased 400 per cent, while in Philippopel, Warna, Rustchuk and Plewna the Socialist Party cast the second highest vote of all the parties.

The Socialists will make a determined fight against the despotic regime of Prince Ferdinand, whose "Czarish tendencies" general indignation among the radical factions of the Bulgarian people.

One splendid feature of the propaganda work in Scott county is the regular distribution of literature that is being carried on

The locals and individuals make egular contributions each quarter. This money is turned over to Comrad Hafner of the "Kicker," and he buys the leaflets, pamphlets or whatever may be decided upon. The literature is then divided among the hustlers in after the facts became public of the various parts of the country, who have been previously selected, and is then distributed where it will do the most good.

FROM LOS ANGELES

The McNamara Case Stirring Up Things in California.

(By National Socialist Press.)

Los Angeles, Cal.-John J. Mc-Namara sends the following greeting through the National Socialist Press to the workers who are so deeply interested in his welfare and the progress of the battle on the Pacific

"Give a word of greeting to my comrades in the field. Tell them I never for a moment unmindful of their kindly interests, their efforts and their good work. We are all fighting for our cause, each in his own place. At present my place is not the most pleasant, but I know that much good is to come out of this by knitting the working class to-gether. It is through solidarity that labor will win its battles and come into its own.
"Tell my brothers to keep up the work of education and agitation to the end that our struggle will result in emancipation of the workers. Keep something doing all the time, and we will win in the end."

John J. McNamara looks strong and robust. Despite the fact that he takes daily exercise and works to keep in trim, he and his brother, James, are gaining in flesh and are philosophically making the best of their surroundings in the county jail.

"I have scarcely written a line today," said John, in speaking of the constant stream of visitors that poured into the county jail all day to see the McNamara boys. The secretary of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' Union spends much of his time writing and devotes his spare moments to reading and making notes. He is closely watching every move of the attorneys for the defense and the action of the court. No detail of the proceedings is not watched and understood by him. He explains the finer points to his brother Jim.

"We will be ready when the trial opens and we are eager for the fray. Tell the boys everything is going as well as could be expected, but we must win this fight for labor," the final word of the big, handsome secretary as he turned to greet a party of friends who had just arrived

San Francisco, and it is likely the former will make a trip to Chicago before he returns to Los Angeles. Job Harriman and Joseph Scott are handling the multiplicity of details in Los Angeles, and it is believed the defense will have a much stronger case when the time for trial arrives.

The failure of the District Attorney to get Mrs. Emma McManigal put into jail or to force her to testify before the grand jury was a serious blow to the prosecution.

The woman broke down and came near dying in the corridor of the court house on Monday after the ordeal of hearing the assistant prosecutor plead to have her sent to prison for her refusal to answer questions propounded by the labor-hating members of the grand jury. The judge's decision to the effect she need not, testify in cases where indict ments have already been returned was based on good law as well as good judgment.

Public sentiment took such a decided swing in favor of the defense torture of Mrs. McManigal that the prosecutors became alarmed. Mrs. McManigal's troubles have scarcely ceased a moment since she arrived in Los Angeles. She was tortured into insensibility in the grand jury anteroom. Then, while the prostrated woman was on the way home the brutal Burns operatives, who had given her the "third degree." contrived to cause a collision between ran down little Evelyn McManigal and seriously injured her. The detectives' machine was running without lights and it was a wonder the child was not killed.

George Behme, uncle of Ortic Mc-Manigal, is in Los Angeles, and has paid two visits to his nephew. Behme is a locomotive engineer from Portage, Wis. He says the story told by Ortic is fantastic and that he can disprove a part of it; that Ortic was with him at the time some of the dynamiting was alleged to have been done by him.

Behme declares that Ortic acts strangely, as if his mind were affected, or that he is strangely influenced in some manner. He is convinced the detectives are wielding a mysterious power over the young man and that he is weak enough to yield to the Burns men.

Mrs. McManigal says she will visit her husband no more, as it seems to be a futile task to try to persuade him to tell the truth about the whole affair. She had hoped that he would abandon the Burns outfit and tell the whole truth about the influence the 'operatives" are exerting over her husband. She believes he could shed a great light on the methods of the Ortie McManigal has lost eighteen pounds in weight since his confinement in Los Angeles county jail. He is thing, gaunt and has a hunted look. No one but the Burns detectives are allowed to speak to him or to see him. Burns' man McLarin spends a couple of hours daily with the selfconfessed dynamiter. It is the common expression among newspaper men and officials at the jail that Ortie is "getting his daily lesson" when McLarin calls. Operative Mills, head of the local Burns headquarters, declares he was working for the Pinkertons during the Moyer-Haywood-Pettibone case. He knew Harry Orchard well. In comparing the two "confessors," he says Ortic McManigal is a much better subject than the notorious and discredited Boise stoolpigeon. Mills says Ortic will stand pat and stick to the story agreed on and that there is little danger of their man weakening.

"Forward"-Workingmen's Consumer's Society

The Workingmen's Consumers' Society, "Forward," decided at its last meeting to open their first store as soon as possible.

A committee was elected to work in conjunction with the Board of Directors and report suitable places for the location of the store. A special meeting of the society will then decide on some particular one. In a few weeks, it is expected, the store will be ready for business.

It is to the interest of every working man and woman to investigate the aims and objects of this society. It is built on the same plan that has proven so successful in England, Germany, Belgium, Austria, Denmark and other countries.

Millions of dollars has been saved to the workers and employment has been given to thousands of blacklisted union men and women. The bakery workers in the co-operative bakeries did not need to strike for the eight-hour day, nor was a law needed. The workers, who control these bakeries and other co-operative enterprised, adopted the eighthour day as a matter of course.

It is stated that such things are possible in European countries, but that they won't work in America. The argument is very flimsy. workers of this country should, at least, be as able to run their own business as are the workers of Europe. As Socialists claim the workers are capable of attending to their own business, they should make a start and stick to it. With hard work uccess will be their reward.

Among the credentials submitted were those for three delegates from Local No. 801, Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners, the same union which was dropped from the roll for non-payment of dues some six months ago.

The delegates from the local unions of the United Brotherhoods of Carpenters and Joiners, who were present in full force, objected to the seating of the Amalgamated delegates on the grounds that Local No. 801 had permitted itself to be made the tool of the combined unfair contractors in the fight against the Brotherhood men represented by the Carpenters' District Council.

The complaints or charges against the Amalgamated carpenters were plainly set forth in a letter of Secre tary Lyons of Carpenters' District Council, which reads as follows:

The organization referred to is known as the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters. Said society is nary business to be transacted could now receiving the application of be seen by the intense interest displayed by the delegates the moment ganization and labeling them union men. It is hardly necessary to tell the delegates to the C. T. & L. U. meeting to order.

This society is now taking advantage of the condition of our members, and realizing that some of them are in straightened circumstances, are inducing them to join their organization.

"Per J. C. Lyons, Secretary."

As the above letter shows, Local Union No. 801 of the Amalgamated Carpenters' Association agreed to accept Boyd's organized strikebreakers and scabs and thus attempt to lead them into the A. F. of L. with a view of disrupting the St. Louis Carpenters' District Council, i. e., the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. A representative of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters, Mr. granted the floor to resistance, plead for the admission of his local

> The motion that the delegates be substitute that the credentials be laid over until the "Amalgamated their troubles with the Brotherhood.

Substitute and amendment were lost and the motion not to readmit the Amalgamated Carpenters' Society was carried almost unanimously.

The debate preceding the final vote was hot and exciting. Delegates Kreyling, Stopp, Galoskowsky, Shanessy, McDonough, Conroy and others took the floor, and most of the speakers made it very clear that the Central Trades and Labor Union will not stand for organized scab bery, no matter under what pretense or name it might be attempted.

Stronge Resolutions Adopted Denouncing Scabbery.

The rejection of the delegates of Local No. 801 did by no means end the subject, for Delegate Shanessy, in a very emotional way, offered the following resolution:

"St. Louis, July 22, 1911.
"Whereas, On April 1st, 1911, members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners went out on a strike for an increase of wages to 65 cents per hour, as per notification served on the contractors July

"Therefore, we, the Central Trades and Labor Union, most forcibly denounce and condemn the said Amalgamated Society of Carpenters for their outrageous and most unprincipled action, and we earnestly request all trades affiliated with the Central Trades and Labor Union to refuse to work with these pernicious disrupters of the labor movement; and be it further

"Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the Executive Council of the A. F. of L.

By practically unanimous vote the resolution was adopted.

Long Hours of Labor for Women in City Institutions.

The Legislative Committee submitted a report referring to the wirepulling methods in connection with the Hospital bill in the Municipal Assembly. It has been reported to this committee that women employed in city institutions are compelled to twelve, fourteen and more hours a day. In order to protect the interest of these women wage workers the Legislative Committee moved that the C. T. & L. U. offer an amendment to the Hospital bill stipulating the eight-hour workday for all female employes in the city institutions.

For the State Capitol Bond Issue.

The Legislative Committee, in its report (signed by McDonough and Shanessy) again recommended the endorsement of the State Capitol bond issue, to be voted on at the special election on August 1. In conclusion, the committee's report says: "We have every assurance that the Capitol bond issue will carry with a substantial vote in favor of it, in spite of the efforts of the Assassins of Industrial Peace, who have flooded the State of Missouri with their circulars, demanding that open-shop conditions shall prevail in the building of the new Capitol. This organization, the Citizens' Industrial Association, are at this time, we are informed, sending out an appeal for funds to their dear beloved members (?), which fund shall used to defend one James the negro scab who two members of the Weathers, murdered Teamsters' Union on July 11, 1911. Just how long the labor movement of this city will tolerate the deliberate murder of their members by hired thugs armed with deadly weapons is for them to say. Your committee hopes that some action be taken by this C. T. L. U. at this meeting to put an end to the murder and persecution of our members. The circular sent out by this unholy organization has published on the back page of the circular a clipping from a Chicago paper calling attention to some professional gun men in that city, supposed to be members of labor unions, but we believe they ought to get out another circular and advertise the fact that professional murderers will be defended by the Citizens' Industrial Association.

"This outfit say that unless the State Capitol is built by the openshop method the the Capitol bond issue August 1st. They said August the 4th, a year ago, that they would elect a man in the First District to the Legislature, and also on January 31st that they were going to jam a charter down the throats of the citizens of this city, but they did neither, and they will not defeat the Capitol bond issue if Union men will but do their duty on August 1st.

After a short discussion the matter was endorsed by the meeting.

Murdering of Union Teamsters Stirs Central Body.

The thermometer of emotional temperature marked an exceptionally high point when the committee re-ported on the action of the Citizens' Industrial Alliance in behalf of the negro strikebreaker, Weather, who shot and killed Brothers Kane and Keane, two members of the Teamsters' Union, at Broadway and O'Fallon street. The report declares the Citizens' Industrial Association is collecting be given to prevent people from be-funds to defend Weathers, and urges ing sent to the district. The Secreaction in retaliation. A motion that the expenses of Weathers' prosecution be paid by the central body was

Delegates Conroy, St. Clair, Shanessy, Negele, Stopp and others went after the police department without gloves and openly charged that the "men higher up" in the department were doing the work-of the Citizens' Industrial Alliance anarchists. St. Clair said that for some time past the strikebreakers, who seemingly enjoyed the protection of the police department, were making systematic these scabs by police, gunmen and private detectives, and into the brick wall of the house where one of the Union teamsters been continually arrested and perselives, undoubtedly for the purpose of inducing the man to get outside and be "done up."

Woerheide an Interested Police Commissioner.

Mr. St. Clair also volunteered the information that President Woerheide of the Board of Police Commissioners is a cousin of G. H. Ehrler, the president of the Ehrler Dray age Co., by whom the strikebreaker, Weathers, was employed when he shot and killed the Union teamsters, Kane and Keane.

After considerable debate, a me tion was adopted to refer this Teamsters' case to the Legislative Committee, with instructions to use all honorable means to induce the Circuit Attorney to prosecute this murderer to the fullest extent of the law all expenses to be borne by the C. T. & L. U. Should the Circuit Attorney refuse to push prosecution, the President and Secretary stand instructed to send notice of his action throughout the state.

To Present Case to Attorney General.

Another motion was carried authorizing the chairman and secretary of the Legislative Committee to go to Jefferson City and present the case to the Governor and Attorney General, and insist on them giving the matter their atention and see that the law be enforced by the St. Louis authorities

Senator Gaylord to Take Mayor Seidel's Place.

The Labor Day Committee reported that owing to previous engagements Mayor Seidel of Milwaukee could not accept the invitation to de liver the Labor Day address in St. Louis, and that the committee would make an effort to secure some other speakers.

(We have since been informed that State Senator Winfield R. Gaylord of Wisconsin has been secured as the Labor Day speaker in St. Louis. The celebration will take place in West End Heights.

Important Warning Issued to Int. Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers.

To Affiliated Unions-Greeting:

This letter has been prepared and is being forwarded as a matter of information and protection for past and present officials and active mem bers of the International Association.

It has, of course, been known in a general way that the unfair employers have for years past attempted to destroy our usefulness by the hiring ever seek any office of prominence, as of private detectives and the placing of spotters and spies in our ranks, would incite and bring about trouble of all sorts and then cast odium on our organization and the entire labor movement by their Judas and Harry Orchard tactics.

It is awell known fact that international officials, both past and present, as well as local officials and active members of the rank and file. have had their every step closely watched for years and years. In spite of all this, it was necessary for Burns, Drew & Co. to violate very law, throw all decency to the winds and abduct Secretary-Treasurer McNamara in their attempt to discredit not only our International Association, but other labor organizations as well.

The recent actions of Burns and his thugs and character assassins were so clearly persecution instead of prosecution, as the latter should be thoroughly. It is not a theory, but an conducted, that there has been a complete and healthy reversal of public opinion, and the indications are that this reversal of opinion, which is highly favorable to us, will continue to grow from day to day as the rottenness and corruption of our persecutors is exposed.

It naturally follows that our enemies will leave no stone unturned to bolster up their lying statements, and it is right here that our members should guard themselves and that our officials should guard their or-

International and local officers both past and present, as well as any active members of the rank and file, may as well make up their minds now as any other time that their every movement is watched and watched carefully both day night. Watchers will be switched frequently; one time it will be a neat, clerical individual, then a middle aged working man, and the next week a young girl in her teens that will look and act like anything but a private detective, but do not be de-ceived. They have ways that are wary and devious. Their duty is to watch and follow, and become familiar with not only one particular individual, but to start and perfect a system of espionage against anybody and every-body that gets in touch with labor union officials, providing their actions indicate in the slightest degree that any information of an organization character may be obtained.

Even worse than the plan outlined above is the scheme of placing spotters and spies in our own ranks, so that a system of checking up may be carried on from within as well as without.

The course usually followed is to have hired spies on the pay rolls of our enemies join organizations in localities where it is easy to procure membership and operate either there or, if necessary, transfer to some other local union where their services may possibly be made beneficial to employers.

The spy has an advantage from the start, even in a new territory, because he can obtain funds to go on and can also procure work, no mat-ter how plentiful men may be, for employers and see to it that he (the spy) is kept employed on any par-ticular job or in any particular lo-becomes doubly apparent.

is carried out in spite of the foreman or superintendent on the job.

The activities of the spotter or spy within the organization are varied and many, and are governed according to the ability of the individual.

One of them wil manifest a hatred of unfair employers in general and non-union men in particular and will suggest all sorts of weird illegal and unlawful plans against unfair employers, unfair jobs and non-union ing the officials or active members in a position to give advance information to the employers and the authorities. A second will start a campaign of criticism against the policy of the organization and the manner in which its business is being conducted, the officials will also be held up to villification and abuse, and Mr. "Spy" will, by the expenditure of money and a goodly supply of "hot air," gather around him a following, and to them he will recite his good palities, what he has done years ago at some far distant point and in some other organization and what sacri- in that manner. fices he is willing and ready to make if the "bunch" will but elect him to abuse and vilify the international of-

This type seldom if they are content to remain in the background and "pull the wires" whereby a less intelligent tool is directed.

This in a general way outlines the methods used by spotters and spies both within and without the organization.

Of course, occasionally, an individual of considerable ability will act in two or more capacities, while his less fortunate companion in deceit will have to be satisfied in a single role.

Spotters and spies usually room alone, attend all union and committee meetings, work pretty steadily, always have funds, do a great deal of writing, receive many letters, generally at he general delivery or a post office box, and are good talkers and

This is the condition that confronts us, and our members should understand it, and understand it assured fact.

All our officials, and active members as well, can make up their minds that their movements are carefully watched and that everybody and anybody that gets in touch with them in any way, shape or form, will receive similar treatment.

While this spotting and spying has been going on for years and is nothing new to us, we feel positive that it is more acute now than ever before, because our enemies, with all their unfair tactics, have been unable to fasten any wrongdoing on our organization.

In view of their many failures these traitors will be more active than ever at this particular time, and all our members should be more careful than ever, so that the best interests of our organization may be protected.

The way to offset the rotten tactics of unfair employers and private detectives is to take an active interest in the affairs of the organization and by your voice and vote see that the organization is conducted in an entirely honest and upright maner.

See to it that capable, honest and efficient officers are elected from time to time, and they in turn should see to it at all times that their corre spondence, minutes, records and finances are in such shape that all the detectives in the universe could inspect them and not find a flaw.

As to correspondence, great care should be exercised by officers and members as to what is written and placed on file. The same applies to telegrams.

It has come to such a pass that we believe private detective agencies in the employ of the labor crushers can invade the postoffice department steam open certain mail, examine the contents, reseal it it and then for ward it on to its destination.

The same holds good as to the tele graph companies and, in many instances, detective agencies and news papers obtain copies of important telegrams before they are delivered to the person to whom they are ad-

> Speaking of photographing letters and telegrams, it would not be amiss to state that efforts were made both in Cleveland and Indiapolis to bribe persons working in the office of the International Association so that inside information may be obtained and in Indianapolis a local detective agency wanted to photograph any important letters or telegrams that were in the files at headquarters and promised to have them returned fifteen minutes after receiving them.

Even supposed private conversamen, with the intention of implicat- tions are not always as "private" as we think, for the fellow in overalls of the organization and thereby be leaning against the electric light pole at the corner and who looks like o 'Dago" or a "Hunyak" was simply an operator of a private detective agency.

Telephones in the offices of local anions, building trades councils, central bodies and even in the homes of officers and prominent members are not as private as we might imagine and instances have come to our notice where telephone lines have been secretly tapped so that detectives, municipal and private, may become familiar with the conversations of union labor men that were carried on

The daily press and popular maga zine articles are exploiting another office at the first oportunity. This agency for prying into affairs of a same individual never overlooks an private or secret nature, namely, the opportunity to find fault with the "dictaphone." Briefly, it is an in-"dictaphone." Briefly, it is an inmanner in which the business of the strument somewhat similar to the International Association is being transmitter of a telephone. It is conconducted, and is always on hand to nected up with ordinary dry cell batnected up with ordinary dry cell bat-teries and electrical wiring and can ficials—in short, do everything and be concealed in desks, gas or electric anything that will tend to break down and destroy the effectiveness of the organization.

A third will construct the effectiveness of the organization.

> By having outside spotters, it is an easy matter to ascertain just who enters and leaves any particular place, also days and dates.

Another favored way for private spotters to obtain information of a business or organization character is to rent adjoining rooms or rooms in the same building; if that is not practical, rooms'in the immediate neighborhood are secured that are so located that the interested person or places can be readily watched at all This scheme applies particularly around offices, but it has occurred that when a single individual was being hounded, the spotter secured accommodations at the same hotel or boarding house; if that were impossible owing to the person being married, living at home, or something of that sort, then Mr. Spy would secure accommodations in the immediate neghborhood and as convenient as possible.

Thus is our supposed privacy invaded bands of thugs, criminals and ex-convicts sailing under the title of spotter, spy or private detective.

Organizers and business agents can depend upon it that they have 'shadows," male or female, young or old, at hotels and other places they may chance to be.

The selection of local officials is more important than would be imagined at first blush. Fancy what a handicap an organization is working under that has a traitor for a presi dent, business agent, recording or financial secretary, treasurer or member of the executive board, to say nothing of the harm he would be able to do as a trustee, member of the examining board or on an imporcommittee. Each additional tant traitor in office, of course, means an added burden for the organization to

The extent of this spotting and spysystem can best be understood when it is stated that the Wm. J. Burns Agency has upwards of five thousand men on its pay roll; three hundred of them are employed in a single city -Chicago. Of course, they are employed on various cases, such as "The Black hand," "bank robberies," "divorce - evidence," "blackmailing," spying on labor officials, and a dozen others, too numerous to mention.

We should bear in mind that this is but a single agency; nothing is said of Pinkerton, Perkins, Baldwin, and many more of national reputation, and in every center of any size several companies of lesser light can be located by simply referring to a city or telephone directory.

We should also bear in mind that labor unions, labor troubles, strikes, lockouts and the like "legitimate graft" and easy money and are al- much. ways at the beck and call of designing and greedy employers.

In this circular letter we have attempted to set forth briefly a few of the disreputable practices of private detectives agencies as they apnly to organizations such as ours, and to warn our members against these practices. Much more could be written if time and space would permit, but we believe what has been writthem the necessity of being extreme-

Of course all local unions are not infested with spies, but the point we want to make is that the supply is large, and that they are unscrupulous, and will go to any length to make a point against us either by fair or foul means, and that if the slightest opportunity presents itself they will be on the job.

It was a wise man who said: "We had two eyes and two ears, but one mouth," signifying that we should see and hear twice as much as we said. Silence is the most deadly enemy of the traitor and the spy, and our members should practice it in the company of strangers or suspicious persons. Silence applies to organiza day tion work that is purely legitimate, whe for all institutions have information ess secret if it is to be effective; if silence is not maintained, our enemy obtains the information in advance and is in a position to checkmate our moves, no matter how expensive or extensive they may be.

It should not be inferred from all that has been said in this letter that we are face to face with any insurmountable proposition. On the contrary, it is quite easy to overcome.

First: Elect men of known honsty and integrity to office. Second: Conduct the business of ords in a proper and legal way. Third: Respect the obligation, re veal no private business, and work is necessary, and that but tempora-basis, the better it will be for all concerned.

Our members should not take it from this letter that the calling of our rivers; we see great skyscrapers the spotters and spies is a bed of roses. Far from it.

At best, their career is a short and dishonorable one. It takes but a few months, or years at most, until their sins find them out, and as soon as that occurs they can no longer be used as tools by the employers and are cast aside, and being exposed, as far as the workers are concerned. their lot is inded a sorry one.

The spy, spotter, traitor, informer, not only disgraces himself, but his wife, children, relatives and friends, and can only look forward to a life of dishonor and disrespect. All that the most of us have is our reputation among our fellow men, and when that is gone all is gone.

Neither should our members understand us as finding fault with honest and called for criticism; it is always in order, and does a world of good, no matter how high or mighty the individual against whom it may be directed. However, our experience has shown that in very, very many instances criticism both of local and international conditions have come from persons living in glass houses who should have been the last ones to cast a stone.

We need no great amount of se crecy, irrespective of what anybody may say to the contrary, and the best evidence of that assertion is that the conventions of the largest and strongest organizations are open to the press as well as to any visitors who may care to attend. To bear out this assertion, we need only note that such organizations as the American Federation of Labor, the United Mine Workers and the International Typographical Union conduct their conventions on that basis and they are none the worse for it; in fact, it goes a long way toward disarming the very object of this letter-the naid spotter and spy.

With kind regards and best wishes,

Fraternally yours,

F. M. RYAN, President. Attest: H. S. HOCKING,

Acting Secretary-Treasurer.

What Can a Socialist Do

It has often been asked, "What can a Socialist do if elected?" And if the question means, what legislation can he get while in the minority, it must be admitted that if he sticks closely to Socialist princples and the entire good of the producing class, he cannot do a great deal. However private detective agencies consider if it means what can he do toward in dicating what his party will do when it becomes the majority, he can do

Sumner W. Rose, away down on the gulf coast, in the City Council of Biloxi, Miss., has now been seven months a Socialist officer. He says he has so far succeeded in getting no legislation carried into effect for the laboring class, but that he has succeeded in placing the old party Councilmen on record on a number of embarrassing propositions that will go hard with some of them at the next city election.

For instance, Mississippi has ery obnoxious road and street tax. He endeavored to have this eliminated from the ordinance book of Bi-The ordinance was permitted the majority of the ol party vote, three old party men voting with Rose for its repeal.

Rose attempted to defeat a "vagarncy" ordinance, recently passed and when he saw that he could not do this, he attempted to amend it so to include illegal whisky sellers and dog and rooster fighters within its as it was reported that some of the City Council were among those who broke the laws along this line. Rose's amendment was defeated, but the old party members were placed on record.

Rose offered an ordinance requiring a minimum wage of $1.50 per of eight hours for city work, whether done for cash or in working out a tax or a fine—the per day of on hand that must be kept more or ten hours minimum wage now, when working out the street tax, is fifty cents—but the ordinance was defeated seven to two. Those who voted against this ordinance were placed on record, and Rose notified them that they would find their action staring them in the face during the next city campaign.

The above are but samples of the foundations that are being laid by the Socialists in office over the entire country for future campaign, and the working people are beginning to take notice. The Cheapest Thing Is Human Life

As we note the great progress in our American cities there is always sense of pride, and we hoast and are proud of our citizenship. We see great bridges built of steel snanning going up and feel proud of the great achievements, but how many think of the awful price that has been paid by the sacrifice of life? There is not a day passes but there are bread win-ners killed. Without a moment's warning men are hurled to their death; they fall, a crowd gathers, the ambulance comes, takes the body to the morgue and the work goes on. The employer, as a rule, rushes to his lawyer to see if he can prevent the payment of money to the widow and children. No thought of the future of those who were dependent on the one killed. Compensation acts declared illegal, judges ruling no cause for action on the ground that the worker assumed all the risk. Just a few friends gather at the humble home to offer condolence, just a few gather at the grave to see him lowered into Mother Earth. The widow and children are left to weep alone; all but the Trades Unionist forgets all about it; they alone do their part to help the widows and the orphans. The Significance of the Strike at the to the ridiculous. Next day a Republican writer in one of the capitalist papers came out with an earnest appeal to his party to arrange just such a picnic, in imitation of the Socialist picnic, for the purpose of har-monizing the Republicans and rais-ing campaign funds. Just fancy! Would not a picnic composed of Standpatters and Insurgents be a picnic, indeed!

It is evidently the design of the

to come to their rescue. Let us see

Philadelphia stands among the larger cities of this country as the city where labor organization is weakest. Philadelphia is the great scab center of the United States.

Where and whenever a strike of any

Philadelphia was the seat of the gen-of a militant character, with which,

during or about the year 1886, al-

PROSPECTUS OF THE "HISTORY OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES."

By Gustavus Myers,

Author of "The History of the Great American Fortunes," Etc.

No established institution in the United States is more powerful than the National Supreme Court, nor is thre any, the actual story of which is less known or more wrapped in exalted mystery.

Irrespective of what Legislatures or Congress or lower courts may do, the nine men composing this court have the power of nullifying or setting aside any law as unconstitutional. Of these men a majority of five can and do dictate what our laws and government and conditions are to be, thus becoming a dictatorial and irresponsible body, swaying the welfare of ninety-five millions of

The ruling class is willing to allow every other institution, political or social, to be criticised, but it has ever demanded that the Supreme Court of the United States be held above reproach and above criticism. reason is obvious. This tribunal has been the most powerful instrument of the ruling class, the studied and persistent policy of which has been to proclaim its sacred characted and to inculcate popular reverence for it.

It is urgently necessary to narrate the facts concerning the Supreme Court as it has been from the start and as it is to-day. This, up to the present, has never been done; nothing but eulogistic and flowery accounts have been written.

To get the accurate facts, Comrade Myers has had to spend a protracted period in difficult research. They are not mere nominal facts or those of a superficial character. They are the authentic underlying facts, all taken from court and other public records, and for the first time will present the actual story of the United States Supreme Court. These facts will show overwhelmingly and indisputably the following:

That the majority of the men who drafted the Constitution of the United States drew it up expressly to safeguard the ruling class and to allow the accomplishment of vast schemes of plunder under color of organic law. That the greater number of those men were themselves already deep in the schemes of personal plunder, and that immediately after the government was organized put through still greater schemes of pillage. An abundance of acts hitherto never brought out will be presented. That the Supreme Court of the United States was designed to be the arch protector of the inviolate rights of personal and corporate property; that it was designed to be the author itative mandate of the ruling class, and has consistently remained so. That from its incention the Su preme Court Justices have been men carefully selected because of their wealth, their powerful connections their interests, or their proved subserviency and bias. For the first time Comrade Myers will present the detailed and hitherto unknown facts from the time of John Jay, the first Chief Justice, to Edward D. White. the present incumbent of that office. facts connected with a great also be brought out. That some of the most important decisions of the Supreme Court-decisions which have been cited as precedents in thousands of cases and which are the literal law to-dayhave sprung in many instances from the personal interests of the judges making them or of their associates The real, startling history of these will be fully described. The facts are certain to make a great sensation. That the successive Chief Justice have represented the special interests of the particular dominent section of the capitalist class of their day. This will be demonstrated in detail and beyond question. That just as the Supreme Court judges of early days were interested in great landed estates or schemes to obtain great racts of land (the landed interests were then the dominant interests), so to-day the majority of men of the Supreme Court bench have been attorneys for railroads, banks, and other corporations. Here also the continuous, specific details will be given.

This work is certain to be of the greatest propaganda value. It will be Milwaukee. He will inform you of nothing but the verified facts, with the references from the records for every fact given.

Corruption in Austrian Elections

It will perhaps interest the readers of the Labor Leader to know something of the conditions under which parliamentary elections Austria are conducted. It will not be · A few days ago a delegation from Drohobyer waited upon the Home Office at Vienna, protesting against the wholesale corruption and bribery initiated for the benefit of govern ment candidates. They pointed out the fact that 1400 totally imaginary names have been placed upon the electoral register, but no notice has been taken of the protest. Later, when the electors of Drohobyer, disgusted with the general corruption, seeing that there, inside the committee room, thousands of votes have been bought and falsified-knowing that the true will of the people could not prevail under such conditions, attempting to prevent this by forcing their way into the committee room -military arrive, and without warning five volleys are fired and the ground is littered with 20 dead and 40 wounded. And those morally guilty of this terrible bloodshed, guilty of despising the will of the people, gloat with satisfaction. New elections will come and maybe the names of the victims of this outrage will be used as voters in favor of the Conservative candidate!

These are some of the conditions with which the Austrian Socialists have to contend, and, taking this into consideration, it is astonishing how they have succeeded in getting more than 80 candidates elected, and this, notwithstanding the fact that all the candidates stood as Socialists, and Surely Socialism has made wonderful progress in Austria since I left that country fifteen years ago.

A further striking instance of the remarkable length to which election corruption can be carried on in Austria is shown by the following facts: At the second ballot in Cracow, on June 21, the Conservative committee room was searched by the police, in response to an urgent appeal by the Socialists. In sight of the police, 40 men, including several high city officials, fled from the premises, leaving behind in their haste 453 voting papers, which had been bought and filled up with the Conservative candidate's name. In an adjoining room many suits of clothes were discov ered, which had been used for the purpose of disguising paid men in accordance with the description of the voters from whom the ballot paper had been bought.

Picnic Galendar VOTE FOR THE STATE CAPITOL BOND ISSUE!

The attack made by the Citizens' Industrial Association on the Capitol Bond Issue to be voted upon August 1st, has resulted in lining up for the proposition, the friends of labor in Missouri almost to a man. The Issue has been sharply drawn. It has been stipulated in the Law governing the construction of a new Capitol, that preference is to be given Missouri material and to Missouri labor. A statement from members of the Board of Permanent Seat of Government, assures the employment of organized labor in the construction work. The election is therefore labor's opportunity. The defeat of the proposition which requires the approval of two-thirds of the votes cast, would be a blow at Missouri working men, while the success of the Bond Issue will be one of the most important victories that labor has ever won in the United States. The special election to be held August 1st, is the first election for such a purpose ever held in Missouri.

The Constitution of the State authorizes the Legislature to submit at terpart in the history of the State. At least, we hope that the citizens of the price of a couple of good cigars. Missouri will never again be confronted with the necessity of resorting to this provision of the Constitution, because we hope that no such emergency as that which exists to-day will ever be repeated in Missouri's experience.

the Missouri, in a most picturesque location, described by Bayard Taylor as commanding one of the most beautiful views in the world, was destroyed the adoption of the $3,500,000 proposition on August 1st you can save not as the result of a bolt of lightning which set fire to the dome, the conflagration resulting in the total destruction of the building. Consequently Missouri is without a home. Our State government has necessarily been crowded into insufficient quarters wholly unfit for the transaction of public business or for the preservation of public records. Missouri is, therefore, the only State in the sisterhood of states without a Capitol.

To met th's intolerable condition, the Legislature submitted two pro positions, one of which must be approved or Missouri will be without a Capitol for years to come. The first of these is the proposal to be voted on at the special election August first. If it fails the Legislature provided an alternative—the bond issue of $5,000,000 to be voted upon in November, 1912.

The $3,500,000 proposition is the cheapest and best the people will ever have submitted to them. They have an opportunity to avail themselves of an economical and reasonable plan for the immediate construction of a Capitol at a minimum cost with a corresponding minimum of tax burist, of McGee, Ark., dropped in at den from year to year. The $3,500,000 must be paid in thirteen years, and headquarters last Tuesday for a visit. is redeemable at the option of the State in eight years. To meet this necessary obligation of the State there is to be levied a tax amounting to the insignificant sum of two cents on the $100. Because the debt must be paid in thirteen years you would have this tax to pay for not exceeding thirteen years. In the last decade the taxable wealth of Missouri has increased approximately forty per cent. We have splendid reasons for believing that the growth of the State's wealth will not be less in the ten years that are to follow. For this reason it is propable that these bonds would be entirely paid off in from eight to ten years, owing to the increase in the revenue because of the increase in taxable wealth. Below is given a statement as to what it will cost taxpayers owning property assessed at sums ranging from one hundred dollars to four thousand dollars.

Assessed	Amount	Probable	Possible
Val.	Per Year.	10 Years.	13 Years.
$100	 $0.02	$0.20	$0.26
500	 .10	1.00	1.30
1,000	 .20	2.00	2.60
2,000	 .40	8.00	5.20
4,000	 .80	8.00	10.40

When you consider that your property is only assessed at one-third of special elections proposals to incur State indebtedness only when necessary its value, you can see that the probable cost to you will be very small, to meet grave public emergencies. Such proposals must receive the ap- while even the possible cost is not burdensome at all. A man worth proval of two-thirds of those who vote upon the question. This election, $25,000 will not have to pay more than $1.60 Capitol tax per year, while therefore, is an extraordinary one, and doubtless will never have its counthe man whose assessment foots up $1,000 is only out 20 cents per year,

On the other hand, you will be confronted with the $5,000,000 proposition if the first one is defeated. This $5,000,000 may run for fifty years, and will doubtless run at least thirty. Do you not prefer to clear The historic Capitol, which has stood since 1837, upon the banks of up this expense within 8 or 10 years rather than be paying taxes upon the Capitol, which you have to have, for 30 years, and maybe 50 years? By only the $1,500,000 on the principal, but equally as much in interest, as well as preventing two or three years of expensive delay in the completion of the building.

> Some people favor direct taxation for public improvements, but it is proper to suggest that the $3,500,000 proposition is practically nothing more than a direct tax so exceedingly small as to be scarcely worthy of attention, considering the great public consideration involved. The Legislature has not submitted any proposals except the two named. Even if both should fail, which is inconceivable, the Legislature will not meet again until January, 1913. Under the Constitution a proposition for the approval of a direct tax cannot be submitted at a special election, so that even if a direct tax proposal could be submitted in 1913, it could not be voted upon until 1914. Is any Missourian so blind to the interests of the State, so inconsiderate of the safety of public records, so little concerned about the efficiency of the public service as to be willing to wait until 1915 until we could start building a Capitol?

> The amount that you will save upon a Capitol would be enough to build many miles of good roads, greatly improve our public school system or to do other laudatory and needed things in which the public is extremely interested. In the interest of economy the $3,500,000 proposition to be voted on August first is a proposition that commends itself to the judgment of good citizens.

> Not only is the first proposition a good one from the standpoint of economy, but it properly safeguards the public interest and prevents every possibility of graft. The building is to be erected under the direction of a commission composed of two Republicans and two Democrats, to be selected by Governor Hadley, Attorney-General Major, Secretary of State Roach, Auditor Gordon and Treasurer Cowgill. Contracts or sum expended in excess of the $3,500,000 are expressly made illegal and void. Furthermore, no one of the Board, nor any employe of the Board, engaged in superintending the work, can be in any way interested in any contract for the construction of the building, the furnishing of material or supplies of any kind, under extreme and rigorous penalties of the law. Do not forget the date, August first, and do not forget the facts as the have been given here.

Do not fail to go and vote. Vote YES-Scratch NO.

Victor Berger spoke at the big picnic given by Columbus Socialists, and took occasion to expose the hypocrisy of those Republican insurgents shout against "the interests" and then oppose reciprocity with Canada in order to safeguard the graft of Big Biz. Berger quoted facts and figures given out by the anti-So-cialists' themselves in Milwaukee to prove that all their talk about the Socialists "driving business out of town" and bringing hardships upon the people was just so much rot.

Peabody and the Peabody School. St. Louis, July 27, 1911.

Editor ST. LOUIS LABOR:

George Peabody, the philanthropist, realizing better than most men the value of education, gave generously during his life time vast sums for educational purposes.

For the erection of dwelling houses for the working classes in London, England, Mr. Peabody gave two million five hundred thousand dollars. He was honored shortly before his death by the United States Congress "for his many large gifts to public institutions in America.' This was long before the day when political bi-partisan school boards were invented.

A former public school board of this city honored the name of "Pea body"; therefore we have the Peabody School, near Lafayette Park.

Evidently the present Board of Education (bi-partisan) did not know or respect the memory of the great philanthropist, Peabody, very much, port, for it permitted the Peabody School to become "unsanitary and unsafe" and closed up the school. Gaylord's Meeting in Iowa.

Hiteman, Iowa.-A large and merry throng turned out to the Socialist picnic here to hear Senator Winfield R. Gaylord of Wisconsin deliver the day's address. The Socialist Senator did not hide anything, but dealt with economic problems in his usual manner.

This is the second time that the people of Hiteman have listened to Gaylord, and they are not yet satisfied. The picnic covered two days, and on the second day M. J. Halapy editor of the Mine Workers' Journal spoke, and he did not handle the capitalist system with gloves. Socialists here wish to thank both Gaylord and Halapy for their splen-
