THE Western world, summoned by Washington on the eve of the Geneva conference to "united action," was "scared, baffled and disunited" (N.Y. World-Telegram, 4/1). In the wake of U.S. H-bomb tests, the Christian Science Monitor (4/2) saw spreading round the world "a dangerous cloud radioactive with potential hate." International anxiety was attributed by the N.Y. Times (4/4) not only to the bomb's destructive power but to "doubts about U.S. leadership and responsibility... lack of faith in U.S. policy, particu-

"With the H-Bomb, of course, more people are going to get killed. It can't be helped. So there's nothing to get excited about."

larly as there had been no such reaction at the time of the Soviet H-bomb announcement." Peking's People's Daily saw Washington as "afraid of negotitions, afraid of peace, afraid of the Geneva conference."

In face of the threats and explosions, the socialist world approached Geneva soberly but calmly. Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov thus evaluated what use of A- and H-bombs would bring to all mankind:

"Untold suffering ... wholesale annihilation of civilians ... destruction of big cities, the centers of presentday industry, culture and science." At the same time the Soviet army's Red Star wrote of the peace-time potentialities of thermonuclear energy:

"The brilliant discovery of the real way of receiving energy from the thermonuclear reaction with hydrogen, made by Soviet scientists, opens before humanity prospects of mastering such forces of nature and a growth of productivity immeasurably

The GUARDIAN published this photo on p. 1 of the Feb. 8, 1950, issue. The accompanying story was headlined: H-Bomb: Deadly Parallel—Will We Yield to Hitler-Style Fear Assault. The story reported that President Truman the week before had given the green light to production of the H-Bomb. The fruits of that decision will be harvested by Grim Reaper Dulles if the American people do not cry halt. For what you can do, see p. 3.

Cannot this paralyzed nation awake?

By W. E. B. DuBois

THERE is today no Peace movement in the United States. No voices of the great are rising in warning nor protest; few writers, few thinkers, few teachers, few preachers. The nation, literally paralyzed with fear, is cringing beneath the leadership of the man who in the front trenches with a spy-glass began the nasty war in Korea.

We face the greatest threat to peace and civilization which this world ever knew. With billions of taxes torn from the poor and threatening our economy with disaster, we are tearing up earth and seas with the most horrible instruments of destruction and murder of which mankind ever dreamed. We are doing this deliberately in the face of spiritual disaster; of government-organized lying; of nation-wide gambling and stealing; with the collapse of our schools and widening crime of our children; with thousands of our young men ruined in body and soul by three wars; with the fatal growth and uncurbed power of our industry, until the Oil Institute replaces the Cotton Kingdom of slavery and the Sugar Empire of the buccaneers.

ANNOT this paralyzed nation awake? Can we not have a great national Peace Congress? Can we not revive the great Stockholm Appeal—the finest word of our century, which two and a half million Americans once signed and five million were ready to sign when Dean Acheson lied them into silence?

Even if the nation is convinced that half the world today threatens us, how do wise and good people treat enemies? Do they follow Jesus Christ and love them, or Nixon and shoot straight at red rats? Which method in the past has brought peace and progress? In fact, today few nations fear the Soviet Union; all fear the United States, which spends billions for bombs and not one cent for peace.

SHALL Gandhi plan our future, or McCarthy? Can we possibly deny that some of the greatest of men of our era have been Socialists and Communists? Today there is no statesman speaking who is the equal of Molotov.

The record of Socialists and Communists is no worse than that of the Christian Church, Big Business or modern Democracy. Human history is, to be sure, a tale told by an idiot—but still the world has progressed, and will progress, if we consult each other in peace and good will and cease to rely on threat, insult and brute force.

Let us return to common sense. Let us save our employment and wage by trade with China and the eastern democracies. Let us appeal to reason. Let this nation drop its alliance with the worst forces of colonial imperialism; cease its war for the rice, tin and rubber of Indo-China, erase the color line, recognize China and admit Hawaii and join in a new and great Peace Crusade. Awake all cowards, scream all women, stand up and be counted all real men!

Sen. Wiley is opposed to admitting Red China into the UN. He told 5.000 Masons (3/25/54) that Red China is not only guilty of invading Korea, but "she is suffly of heinous acts against the conscience of the world..." The able Senator seems to be a bit "mixed-ng". He is accusing Red China of the very things the U.S. is guilty of. The U.S. "invaded Korea." We had no business there. North Korea had no business there. North Korea had committed no "overt act" against the U.S. It was just a matter of Uncle Sam's long nose—so long that it reaches to the farthest corners of the world to poke into other nations' business. We used the first A-bomb—killing tens of thousands of innocent civilians. We used the most "heinous" weapon ever used in ordinary warfare, the napalm bomb. We burned, strafed, bombed villages, towns, cities, slaughtered noncombatants, women, children, aged. Our own Gi's publicly accused us of using germ warfare. How about this, Sen. Wiley? ## Let Congress know: The alternatives -- reconciliation, or holocaust

In the critical situation which the U.S. and the world face as we go to press, the editors are aware that thousands of GUARDIAN readers want to make their voices heard in Washington. This round-up of vital facts is presented to help make easier the formulation of your pleas for reconciliation and peace.

U. S.-BRITISH DISARMAMENT MOVE: Last week's move for new UN Disarmament Commission talks was only "an improvisation" to soften revulsion to the H-bomb tests, wrote Walter Lippmann (4/6);

"... no indication that we are any nearer than we were to having a considered policy to talk about in the Disarmament Commission. The Soviet Union does have a policy to talk about and the time is almost over when we can oppose it successfully with ... a few bits and pieces left over from a policy formulated eight years ago, when we still had an atomic monopoly."

THE BITS & PIECES: U.S. spokesmen outside UN have for years admitted that the Baruch Plan is "obsolete" and its inspection provisions would never be accepted by the U.S. itself. It called for inter-national control and ownership (the latter rejected by Moscow) of atomic power plants, With the U.S.' "automatic majority" in UN, British physicist P. M. S. Blackett (Fear, War & the Bomb) called it a plan "to put the Soviet Union in a situation where she would have been subservient to a group of nations dominated by America."

SOVIET POLICY: First proposing (1946) a total, unconditional atomic ban, the U.S.S.R has modified its approach in an effort at compromise. It now calls for a ban on use of atomic weapons, under mutual pledges akin to the 1925 Geneva Protocol banning use of poison gas. It also insists on the necessity "that not some part but the whole mass of atomic materials be directed completely to peaceful aims." Last fall the U.S.S.R. called in the General Assembly for a world disarmament conference, cutting all armed forces by 13, condemning all war propaganda.

IKE'S POOL PLAN: Last December Eisenhower called for the starting of an international atomic pool for peace. Lippmann commented (12/10/53) that the U.S.'s "real policy" through the years of promoting the Baruch Plan had been that "... far from disarming, we intended to improve our atomic armaments.... [The Pool plan] aban-dons the pretense that we could or would renounce the mainstay of our military power."

IKE'S SPEECH: With "massive retaliation" now the U.S.'s declared policy, Eisenhower was careful in his speech last week not to say the U.S. would not use mass-destruction weapons. The week before, when asked if the U.S. intends to use the H-bomb, Defense Secy. Wilson said:

"Don't you think it would be foolish to spend billions unless you are prepared to use them under some circumstances?"

Eisenhower said "we are not going to start a war," but would use the H-bomb "if they [the socialist world] would attack any of our nations or any part of our vital interests." A few hours before, Secy. Dulles had said China "is coming awfully close" to "aggression" in Indo-China calling for U.S. retaliation against China. Washington's definition of "aggression" apparently takes in social change and movements against imperialism.

STEPS TO PEACE: Finding in the Senate "a profound sense of resistance to U.S. intervention" in Indo-China, NYT's W. S. White (4/5) said this

Indo-China, NYT's W. S. White (4/5) said this

"... may weaken with the passage of time, under certain conditions, [one of which is that the Administration achieve] a good measure of success for [its] campaign to make the country see the peril in Southeast Asia... [Democrats] suggest that Democratic voices will be needed in the Administration's educational campaign."

Faced with the possibility of nothing less than the destruction of civilization if this "educational campaign" succeeds and leads to H-bomb world war, a supreme effort for conciliation is demanded from all sane Americans. This means immediate action—by bringing weight especially on Congress—to:

• Keep U.S. forces out of Indo-China.

· Keep U.S. forces out of Indo-China.

 Move toward outlawing A- and H-bombs by immediate practical steps, such as: (1) Mutual agreement not to use them first: (2) Support of the House of Commons resolution for an immediate Eisenhower-Malenkov-Churchill meeting on arms reduction and · Attend the Geneva conference with a real readiness for honest negotiation.

• Re-orient U.S. policy toward peaceful co-

As Joseph C. Harsch pointed out (Christian Sci-Monitor, 4/1):

"Weapons of mass destruction are not used when political society accepts the concept of live and let live. They are used where the concept of coexistence is rejected.... One way of defining coexistence is the right of any political society to choose its own form of government."

THE INTELLIGENT AMERICAN'S GUIDE TO COLONIALISM

Truth about the war in Indo-China

The Indo-China war, which Washington is desperately trying to "sell" to America, is beyond comparison the most lied-about conflict in which this country has ever been involved. Here are some facts to correct the lies about the military picture in Indo-China from 1945 until today.

THE VIET MINH ARMY: The army now described to Americans as "rebels" was organized underground dur-ing the World War II Japanese occupation; developed its guerrilla tactics by fighting the Japanese and clearing almost the whole of N. Indo-China; co-operated with Gen. Bill Donovan's OSS agents and saved the lives of many U.S. fliers parachuting from damaged planes.

U.S. INVOLVEMENT: In the fall and winter of 1945, U.S. and British ships transported "shiploads of French soldiers, many of them in American maiforms" (N.Y. Times' Foster Hailey in Half of One World) to Indo-Chi-nese ports, to help France recover her colony from the well-established and popular Ho Chi Minh government (which stated its willingness to stay within the French Union).

Not strong enough to defeat the Viet Minh, France signed an accord with Ho on March 6, 1946; broke it with an "atrocious massacre" of Indo-Chinese at Haiphong on Nov. 19, 1946 (Claude Bourdet in L'Observateur, 7/9/53); has continued the war ever since with mounting U.S. support.

CHINA INVOLVEMENT: The Viet Minh army received no aid from Minh army received no aid from China until more than three years later. Marquis Childs reported (N.Y.

later. Marquis Childs reported (N.Y. Post, 3/31) that even now.

".. one third of the Viet Minh troops are equipped with U.S. guns .. another third .. with French arms abandoned by [French] Vietnamese troops. The remaining third is an assorted lot ... coming from Czechoslovakia. Communist aid to the Viet Minh is nothing like as much in volume as the aid being sent to the French from America." The Viet-Minh army has no planes; "so far not one Chinese soldier or one Russian MIG fighter plane has been found on Ho's side" (N.Y. Herald Tribune, 2/6). The French, with millions of dollars' worth of aid, have "killed, wounded or burned by napalm

"killed, wounded or burned by napalm bombs" hundreds of thousands of bombs" hundreds of thousands of Indo-Chinese (U.S. News, 4/2); yet the Viet Minh controls most of Indo-China, has fought to a point where France would have given up but for U.S. insistence to continue the war.

UNWINNABLE WAR: In May, 1950, Max Werner wrote in the GUARDIAN:

"In Indo-China, the military experience of the Chinese civil war is being convincingly confirmed and repeated. The military ability of the Indo-Chinese, came as a rude shock to the French. . . What is shock to the French. . . What is happening in Indo-China . . . is more than a colonial revolution: a change in the relationship of forces between Asia and Western Europe is taking place. . . . 100,000 of Ho's first-line troops have the quality of a regular army. They are applying a regular army. They are applying tactics of modern guerrilla warfare, adapted to terrain and combat con-adapted to terrain and combat conditions, yet they are already fighting in large units and have complete mastery of light weapons.

"The Indo-Chinese troops have endurance, persistence and the fighting skill that precludes any earnest setback. They are wearing down the forces of the best French units, of N. African Arab troops and of the Foreign Legion with its primarily German cadres, to a degree which makes continuation of this campaign an unbearable burden... Paris knows this war cannot be won... The colonial wars of 1950 are wars of suppression against modera revolutionary nationalism, and therefore they cannot succeed."

DIEN BIEN PHU: The other side's appraisal has been withheld from Americans: it is that the French, not the Viet Minh, are continuing the desperate battle to impress the forth-coming Geneva conference. In a cable to the London Daily Worker from Indo-China (3/31), Wilfred Burchett-remembered for his accurate report-ing from Korea—called "a crude distortion" the French-U.S. attempt "to present the battle as a 'decisive ac-tion' launched by the Viet Minh." He said that French Gen. Navarre, as part of his "win-the-war" dropped parachutists into Dienbienphu—far inside the Viet Minh-con-trolled area—on Nov. 20. They were to build a strong fortress from which reinforcements could be sent to the French strongholds of Laichau to the north and Phongsaly to the northwest in Laos. From Laichau forces could be withdrawn if necessary to Dienbienphu to launch a counteroffensive against the Laotian Liberation Army.

But the Viet Minh soon completely urrounded the whole area, cut off the 13 French battalions (except by air), captured Laichau by mid-December and Phongsaly by the end of Februand Phologaly by the end of Febru-ary. With no military justification to maintain the fortress any longer, Navarre decided to sacrifice battalions for prestige at the Geneva confer-ence. Since then Navarre's troops have been making desperate attempts— without success and with heavy casualties—to flee in any direction and through any points where they could pierce the Viet Minh chain of defenses.

HARRY SACHER

On April 5, by a 6-2 vote, the U.S. Supreme Court overruled the permanent disbarment of Harry Sacher from federal courts. Sacher's disbarment had been ordered by Federal Judge Carroll C. Hincks as the result of his defense of the Communist leaders in the 1949 Foley Sq. trial. Judge Harold Medina, the trial judge who called Sacher's manner belligerent, sentenced him to six months for contempt. The Supreme Court decision found Sacher guilty of nothing more than an "excess of zeal for his clients." Sacher has continued to practice in federal courts pending his appeal; a similar action, instituted in the state courts, was held in abeyance until the Supreme Court handed in its decision. Sacher's only comment: "I am profoundly grateful."

Save Walter Lee Irvin's life!

WALTER LEE IRVIN, now 27, was accused with three other Negro youths ALTER LEE IRVIN, now 27, was accused with three other Negro youths on the night of July 6, 1949, of raping a white farm wife. The evidence was flimsy. One of the four—Ernest Thompson—was shot to death by a sheriff's posse. Irvin, Charles Greenlee and Samuel Shepherd were tried by an all-white male jury; Irvin and Shepherd were sentenced to death and Greenlee, only 16, to life on a prison farm.

NAACP attorneys appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court on grounds that the youther were dearlied of sights appeared by the U.S. Supreme that the youths were deprived of rights guaranteed by the U.S. Constitu-tion's equal-protection clause and by the Florida Declaration of Rights. The court ordered a new trial. On a lonely road in the middle of the night the sheriff, taking Shepherd and Irvin back from prison for a retrial, shot Shepherd dead and badly wounded Irvin. Irvin had barely recovered when he was tried, found guilty and sentenced to death again

The NAACP again appealed on the same basis. But the Supreme Court this time refused a hearing and rejected an appeal to reconsider its refusal. The Florida Parole Board on March 23 rejected a clemency plea.

Gov. Charley Johns has not yet set the execution date. Write or wire him, State Capitol, Talahassee, Fla., to commute Irvin's sentence.

APRIL FOOL? Continuing its peace initiative, the U.S.S.R. modified its proposed all-European Security Treaty (designed to end antagonistic military blocs) to meet major Western objections voiced at Berlin: the exclusion of the U.S., and the role of NATO. In a note (4/1) Molotov saw no obstacles to U.S. participation, suggested the West's only way to prove NATO is "defensive" is to let the U.S.S.R. join.

Washington called this proposal an "April Fool's joke," but CSM (4/2) saw it as a deft move with "possibly very perious effectiveness... one of the most shrewd and skillfully timed [Kremlin] moves... in recent years." NYT (4/2)

To most sober observers around the world it looked like another concrete elemonstration—on top of Moscow moves for expanded East-West trade, its initiative at Berlin and for Geneva the initiative at Berlin and for Geneva—that the Soviet goal is peaceful coexistence. In Moscow, reported NYT's Harrison Salisbury (4/2), the most respected Western analysts of Soviet policy were convinced that "Russia wants to bring the 'cold war' to an end, the sooner, the better. . .

VASSALS: The H-bomb explosions had consequences perhaps unforeseen: they had thrown into relief the contrast between Western and socialist world goals and shown where real strength and unity lie. They underlined both the need and the opportunity to change Western policy before it collapsed into the ultimate bankruptcy of war. In the deepening crises of Western policy these factors stood out more sharply:

· The vassal status to which allied governments have been reduced.

the H-bomb tests or their results. While some of the British press blamed his "poor showing" on age, Churchill pointed to the heart of the matter when he said: "We have no power to stop this." The tearful admission came & years and 24 days after his Fulton, Mo., speech which officially launched the "cold war" as the road to revival of Britain's imperial power: one week the "cold war" as the road to revival of Britain's imperial power; one week after the Prime Minister, seeking to epiet mounting fears about Washington's "massive retaliation" policy, assured MP's he had "smooth and friendly" arrangements for consultation with it on use of A-bombs in war.

Washington's "severe rebuff" to Washington's "severe rebuff Churchill, coupled with his refusal to much that the U.S. does not have Abombs in Britain (the Japanese government also refused to answer this question), had shown the meaningless-ness of such "arrangements." Angry popular reaction forced Washington to agree to a meeting of the UN Disarma-ment Commission (where it has con-sistently used its voting majority to block any real negotiations on atomic shock any real negotiations on atomic control), and to supply Churchill with some H-bomb facts enabling him to ride out the storm. But these gestures could not again draw a veil over the real nature of the U.S.-British "part-

U.S.S.R.: prices down again

For the sixth year in succession, the Soviet government March 31 announced a long list of spring price cuts. Affected this year are 71 categories of consumer goods. Sample cuts: gasoline, 44%; kero-sene, 38%; food items, including bread, tea and salt, 10-15%; household goods, 15-20%; clothing and textiles, including cotton yard goods, rayon and silk, 10-20%; nylon stockings, 25%; shoes, 7%; perfume, 10%; toys, 15%; building materials, 10-30%.

The N. Y. Times (4/1) reported that while 1953 price cuts saved Soviet consumers an estimated $1314 billion, this year's cuts would save approximately $20 billion. NYT's special writer on the U. S. S. R., Harry Schwartz, commented:

"The much smaller number of price cuts announced yesterday compared with the April, 1953, reductions ap-pears to reflect the inadequacy of Soviet Government food and con-sumer goods supplies."

nership"; its unmasking would help the rank-and-file Labour fight for British independence.

· Washington's "arrogance . . . irre-

These words were used by Labour MP John Baird in demanding that U.S. forces withdraw from Britain unless the U.S. negotiates with the U.S. S. R. on atomic weapons. The "arrogance" was evident in Washington's determination to continue the tests, in face of worldwide protest and their real pos-sibility of injuring human lives, minds and ways of living. But it was in Asia—where high Indian officials used the word "barbarians" (NYT, 4/4), and India's Nehru voiced Asia's concern at being "always nearer these occurrences and experiments and their fearsome consequences"—that the U.S. attitude was most resented.

When Washington refused to give information sought about the bomb to simplify and speed treatment of fishermen victims, Japanese scientists were so angered that they thereafter refused to ask any American help. Similar refusal to express official regret, and offiattempts to discount injuries to tht fishermen, roused further ire.

Half the world's population live in the area of Asia south of the U.S.S.R. and east of Iran-the "uncommitted peoples" whom Secy. Dulles is trying to win by his "policy of strength" in Indo-China (James Reston, NYT, 4/4). In that area there is, said CSM (3/31),

"... a tendency to link Mr. Dulles with the H-bomb ... [Asians think] with the H-bomb . . . [Assans think] apprehensively about future U.S. strategy. . . Nations in this rich strategic area feel that history has destined them to coexist with Communism and they submit the U.S. is in the same position."

"LACKING THE POWER . . . ": Day by day the delusions of Washington's policy were becoming more manifest. The threat to expand the Indo-China war ran counter to the tide of national opinion in Asia, in all allied countries (except Formosa and S. Korea), and in the U.S. as well. The New Republic (4/5) commented:

"Considering all things, darling, I've come to the conclusion that smoking's worth the risk.

"Lacking the military and political power to enforce his demands on France, China or even the Viet Minh, he [Dulles] calls on the Communists in Indo-China to 'cease and desist.'
That is not a policy. It is not even a sound appraisal of conditions in Southeast Asia."

The March explosions were admittedly designed among other things to frighten Washington's "free world" partners into support for such new adventures, to 'recover its leadership.' But the worldwide revulsion showed that Washington's every step deepens its dilemmas, takes it further into bankruptcy. Indications of what may lie at the end of the road down which lie at the end of the road down which it is marching were vibble in such factually barren articles as Newsweek's (4/5) purporting to show that the U.S.S.R.—ringed as it is with U.S. atom bases—is far more vulnerable to H-bombs than the U.S. Similar indications, similarly bankrupt from any realistic military viewpoint, "were "reassuring" editorials on "the U.S. lead" (while other press accounts said the U.S. is only now catching un with the U.S. is only now catching up with the U.S.S.R.'s technological lead demonstrated last August).

SUPER-HOAX: While the Fresident and Atty. Gen. Brownell sought to whip up new anti-communist hysteria, the emphasis in the U.S. was on the "taking out" of whole cities, mass evacuations, calculations of disaster. Yet as Walter Millis (4/4) commented in pointing this out:

"Almost no one seems to have paid any attention to the chances that such an assault would ever be made." It could not but be concluded that Washington was deliberately trying to prevent Americans and others from paying attention to this question—as, according to the Alsops (4/2), it is deliberately deceiving the people by hiding "the truth about the Soviet hydrogen home and atomic stockniles." If the gen bomb and atomic stockpiles." question were considered, it would lead to realization (Millis) that

"... the best defense against the nuclear terrors... overwhelmingly lies in political and diplomatic policies consciously directed toward the prevention of any serious war situation arising."

HAD ENOUGH? All over the world protests rose against Washington's policies as leading not to the prevention of war but to the use of war, the threat of war and of H-bombs, to achieve domination. In Japan, parlia-ment demanded international control of atomic energy; in Britain a Labour resolution demanding top-level talks with Russia on A- and H-bomb control passed Commons unanimously. (But Labour agreed to let Churchill, who had already said now was not the time, decide when to initiate the talks, Nehru's call for a stand-still agreement, until UN control is achieved, won support in many countries. In the U.S., a small flood of letters to newspapers and Congressmen to stop the tests had

The protests added up to a conviction everywhere that the threat of the H-bomb to mankind is not something beyond the capacity of people operat-ing politically to control. The danger remained that world—and especially American—protest might be dissipated fear, hopelessness and hysteria. The road-signs showed that this could only be avoided by intelligent direction of the protest to the possible, if difficult, task of changing the policies of Washington's bankrupt, anguished crusaders and their vassal governments.

The Church should look ahead

On Aug. 6, 1945, the aeroplane which was to carry the first atomic war weapon set out from its base. Before it took off it received the blessing of the Christian Church... The destination was Hiroshima, a town of some 400.000 people, [of whom] 247,000 died... There were little girls of five... babies still being nursed... boys and girls at school... women... doubtless some children in the womb, but these are not registered in the result.

thermo-nuclear device. Its destructive power was 600 times greater.

... One thing is being overlooked in this successful series of tests. When it is decided (for, of course, completely moral reasons) that the boys and girls, the babies, the men and women (all victims of the Kremlin) who have the misfortune to live at Pskov or Smolensk or Kursk shall be put to death, it should surely not be left to some casually-chosen Chaplain to decide upon the form in which Christ's blessing is to be brought to the work. There is surely a case for a special ceremony. We suggest that it is not too early for the Christian Churches of the Free World to begin conferring in order to decide on a suitable form.

Grandmother gets Rosenberg boys; college dean is named co-guardian

By James Aronson

SURROGATE William T. Collins on April 5 gave Michael and Robbie Rosenberg in permanent custody to their paternal grandmother, Mrs. Sophie Rosenberg. But, over the objections of counsel for the Rosenberg family, he appointed as dual "general guardian" for the children Dean Kenneta D. Johnson of the N. Y. School of Social Work, to "protect" them from outside influences.

The reference to protection was puz-

The reference to protection was puzzling in view of the fact that the Surrogate last week threw out the Welfare Dept. charges that Mrs. Rosenberg had not prevented the children from being exploited and used for propaganda purposes. His action last week supported the contention of counsel for the family that a Bill of Particulars—submitted by the Welfare Dept., to oppose Mrs. Rosenberg's guardianship -was nothing more than a collection of vague generalities.

THREE YEARS LATER: Michael, 11, and Robbie, 6, sons of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, have been living in New York with their grandmother since they were placed temporarily in her charge by Supreme Court Justice Mc-Nally on Feb. 20. McNally's decision Justice Panken assigning the children to an institution. They had been abruptly removed on Feb. 17 from the home of Abel and Anne Meeropol where they had been living happily since last Christmas. Their removal from the Meeropols stirred a world-wide storm reminiscent of the protest against the execution of their parents on June 19, Surrogate Collins' decision last Monday came exactly three years to the day after the sentencing of the Rosen-bergs and Morton Sobell, now serving a 30-year term at Alcatraz.

How sinister can they get?

AP report from Rome in Humboldt (Calif.) Times

ROBBIE & MICHAEL ROSENBERG No substitute . . . for parents

STRANGER IN THE CASE: Attorneys for the family—Leonard Boudin, Gloria Agrin and Prof. Malcolm Sharp—objected to the naming of Johnson on the ground that he was a stranger, that his appointment was unnecessary because Rosenberg family had taken excellent care of the children under the lent care of the children under the most trying circumstances. (Judge Panken, in refusing to allow the children to return to the Meeropols, had stressed the undesirability of "strangers" entering the case.) Philip Sokol, counsel to N.Y. Welfare Commissioner Henry L. McCarthy, declared Mrs. Rosenberg was "not qualified." The Surrogate over-"not qualified." The Surrogate over-ruled both.

Collins opened the hearing with a statement which he said would shorten the proceedings. He acknowledged widespread apprehension that the children would be institutionalized, said that would never happen "as long as I am Surrogate of N. Y. County." He said:

"The welfare of the children is the only paramount issue here; it is the only issue before the court. Hence extraneous matters, such as ideologies, are inadmissible. Nor are we concerned with the irrevocable past normal an upbringing, to as whole-some an environment . . . as is pos-sible in the circumstances.

"It goes without saying that there is no substitute for the loving care of parents. . . Hired or strange hearts are not natural hearts, no matter how solicitously they beat. Next to parents come close relatives whose natural devotion and interest will shield these children from the taunts and shadows of the past, the darts of the present, and who will in sum insure them an approximately normal and secure life free from publicity and contention."

HE WAS SATISFIED: The Surrogate ruled out Mrs. Tessie Greenglass, Ethel's mother, because of age, illness and lack of home space. He said two paternal aunts (both had joined the petition with Sophie Rosenberg and the Meeropols) and a paternal uncle were con-tributing to their mother's support, but were unable to take Robbie and Michael. He said he had read the record of the Supreme Court hearing at which Mrs. Rosenberg appeared and all other pertinent documents, and could ask for nothing further to attest to Mrs. Rosenberg's qualifications.

The grandmother, he said, was get-ting $45 a week from the Rosenberg Children's Trust Fund, created by attorney Emanuel Bloch before his death and at present administered by five trustees. This money was for the care of the children and for religious school of the children and for religious school training. Then he indicated he would appoint Mrs. Rosenberg as guardian unless there were objections.

Sokol rose and asked for a private hearing. After a conference at the bench attorneys for both sides retired with the Surrogate to his chambers. Seventy-five minutes later Collins admitted the press and appropried his mitted the press and announced his decision.

THE RECOMMENDATION: He said Dean Johnson had been recommended by the Jewish Board of Guardians, in Alt, and had been endorsed by the JBG's legal adviser Frank Karelsen, who is an officer of the ultra-conservative American Jewish Committee. Collins said he had received "more than 2,000 letters and cables" with advice which he had solicited. "I have all the workers of France here," he said, pointing to the pile. Throughout the hearing and after he appeared nervous and not overly anxious to prolong the talk with children's "property," also due for a decision that day, he said he had not yet decided. He ordered that the $45 week contribution from the Fund be continued, and that the fund money. estimated at over $40,000, be placed in a savings bank (where it has been since its inception). Lawyers for the family have contended that the Fund, under under the terms of the trust agreement, cannot be regarded as the children's property until they reach maturity. It is being administered with scrupulous accounting.

Dean Johnson head of the N V School, a Columbia University affiliate, since 1949, is a former judge of Children's Court in Quincy, Mass. Welfare Commissioner McCarthy said he was "delighted" with the appointment.

SENATE INQUIRY IS STALLED, BUT . . .

'Joe Must Go' movement gains all over nation

By Lawrence Emery

EW distinguished gentlemen of the U.S. Senate raised a protest last week as a Senate committee continued its dreary—and dilatory—pursuit of a McCarthyite counsel to conduct a "fair" inquiry into Sen. McCarthy's feud with the Army.

First choice of McCarthy committee members, Boston attorney Samuel Sears, blew up in their faces five days after he was given the job. After beSociety. On hand to lend eminence to the occasion were Chief Magistrate John M. Murtagh and Cardinal Spellman himself. The cops gave McCarthy a tumultuous ovation — McCarthy thought it might be the biggest of his career—and some of them shouted: "McCarthy for President!" Police Commissioner Francis Adams also was present.

While New Yorkers pondered this outburst from their impartial upholders of law, McCarthy made a movie for ing represented to the country as an eminent lawyer who never took a stand on McCarthyism and did not seek the job, the was revealed both as a self-starter who had pulled all available strings to get the assignment and as a long-standing, publicly voluble admirer of McCarthy and his works. Red-faced committee members gallantly permitted him to resign and scurry back to Boston with his integrity intact.

COMMUNION: While the Senate stalling went on, McCarthy held what ground he could. One big assist came from New York: on April 4 McCarthy addressed 6,000 N.Y. policemen—nearly one-third of the force—at a communion breakfast of the Holy Name a TV answer to criticism of him by Ed Murrow of CBS. His performance, he said in advance, was "not complete and does not have all the answers to the charges made." Flying to Arizona for some sunshine (he is reported ailing with virus laryngitis), he left behind a $7,500 tab for making the movie; no one knew who would pick it up.

courage was becoming contagious: people everywhere were beginning to talk up to the bully. In Washington, D. C., 52 citizens, unidentified politically or otherwise, signed an open letter to President Eisenhower inserted in the Washington Post as a paid ad:

"For the past three years, with a mounting sense of helplessness and horror, we have watched Sen. Mc-Carthy go from triumph to triumph, leaving in his wake the now all-too-familiar debris: reputations and careers of able and honest citizens blasted; morale shattered in great government departments: seeds of fear and suspicion sown throughout the nation; to say nothing of shocking blows delivered to the prestige of our government at home and abroad.

. We would like to hear you say in your own words that McCarthy's tactics are unwelcome and abhorrent not only to the Republican Party, but to honest and decent citizens of both parties..."

WANTED—BELIEVERS: In the Newark (N. J.) News, 78 citizens chipped in to buy a quarter-page ad headed: "McCarthy, Whom Do You Think You Are Fooling?" On April 7 New York newspapers carried full-page ads signed by 50 citizens from all over the country, soliciting signatures to a declaration of belief in "fraud and deceit" charges made against McCarthy by former Sen. Benton. (On March 5 McCarthy withdrew a $2,000,000 libel and slander suit against Benton because "no one could be found who believed Benton's charges.") Head of the committee sponsoring this movement is Orton H. Hicks, 525 Lexington Av., New York 17, N.Y.

In Austin, Tex., 1,571 Texas University students petitioned H. R. Cullen, oil millionaire backer of McCarthy, to "reconsider" an invitation to McCarthy to speak at Texas' San Jacinto Day, April 21. (Cullen said the invitation couldn't be withdrawn, called McCarthy "the greatest man in America.") But on April 6 the Texas House of Representatives voted 72-55 to kill a motion to invite McCarthy to address them.

PRAIRIE FIRE: The biggest mass movement against McCarthy was sweeping like a grass fire through his native Wisconsin. It began on March 18 when Republican editor LeRoy Gore of the weekly Sauk-Prairie Star of Sauk City suggested a recall election to retire McCarthy. By last week a state organization had been set up and "Joe Must Go" clubs were being formed in every part of the state. Some 40,000 recall petitions with space for 800,000 names were in circulation and more than 160,000 signatures had already been collected (404,000 are needed by May 17). Among the signers were 12 of Madison's 20 aldermen.

Not only signing, but offering to run against McCarthy in a recall election, was Secy. of State and former governor Fred R. Zimmerman, a Republican and the state's champion vote-getter. To him the recall was

"... a step in the right direction if McCarthy ever is to be stopped. I don't think McCarthy is good for the U.S. Senate, and the worst part of it is that he's from Wisconsin."

At a mass meeting April 2 to set up a Madison "Joe Must Go" club, Gore said:

"To night I am prepared to tell you with all sincerity that this movement has a very real chance of success. We can, I am sure, secure the necessary 404,000 signatures. We can, I am sure, jump the Constitutional barriers. We can, I am sure, return Sen. McCarthy to private life."

IT'S CATCHING: Backing for the Wisconsin movement was nationwide. The Los Angeles Daily News published a report by Gore on March 29. Overnight the paper was swamped with incuiries; by April 1 readers had voluntarily contributed $1,200 for the work.

Although Wisconsin state labor leaders did not endorse the recall, unions were jumping in. The AFL Painters Union Local 802 of Madison and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen & Engineers participated in founding the statewide organization. On March 29 in Madison the Dane County Political Education Committee, representing AFL, CIO and independent unions in the county, voted unanimously "as wholeheartedly supporting the movement," urging "all the people we represent" to support it. A day earlier Milwaukee Local 5501 of the CIO Communications Workers of America voted to back the recall and urge five other CWA locals in the area to join.

BROWNELL'S 'ANTI-TREASON' WINDOW-DRESSING

Wire-tap bill steamroller moving fast

SINCE 1934, evidence secured by tapping wires has been inadmissible in Federal courts under the Federal Communications Act. An effort by President Roosevelt during World War II to legalize wiretap evidence in certain types of cases was defeated. The late Supreme Court Justice Holmes denounced wiretapping as "a dirty business." The invasion of privacy by legalized wiretapping has always been repulsive to free citizens.

But last week a wiretap bill, sponsored by Atty. Gen. Brownell and backed by J. Edgar Hoover and President Eisenhower, was being pushed rapidly toward adoption. News of its progress was blanketed under H-bomb headlines, McCarthy antics and threats of war against China.

Brownell's original bill, which vested full authority in him to authorize wire-tapping, met strong opposition. Last December Cleveland's Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver called it "the beginning of a police state" and said "it would open every home to snoopers and witch-hunters." Labor, publication of 16 railroad brotherhoods, warned that "it's not a far step for wiretapping to become a strikebreaking instrument." Sen. Wayne

Morse (Ind.-Ore.) called the bill "part of Brownell's plan for the establishment of a Gestapo state in this nation."

WHAT THE DOCTOR ORDERED: To remove some of this heat, Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N, Y.) introduced a "compromise" bill to legalize wire-tapping if it was authorized by a federal court in addition to the Attorney General's approval. Keating's House Judiciary subcommittee approved this measure, but Brownell continued to fight it, and the matter remained deadlocked. On Feb. 10 columnist Robert S. Allen predicted that "President Eisenhower and J. Edgar Hoover will personally go to bat" for the Brownell bill.

sonally go to bat" for the Brownell bill.

On March 27 Keating surrendered to Brownell, offered a substitute bill just as Brownell ordered it. Because "wiretapping" and by now become an ugly word, the new measure was tagged the "anti-traitor bill." Keating said his mind had been changed by a talk with Brownell and Hoover, who convinced him that prosecutors "would be seriously hampered in bringing to justice the enemies of our country if they were required to obtain court approval before tapping a wire." He said he had been assured that wiretaps have already turned up evidence of "serious crimes involving disloyalty to our country" and added:

"My conscience does not permit me to be responsible in any way for the suppression of such evidence. Those who would destroy us are clever, resourceful, and unscrupulous. They will stop at nothing. They do not deserve kid-glove treatment."

STILL TIME TO ACT: For two days the Brownell bill was hotly debated in the 30-man House Judiciary Committee but on Mar. 31 it was rammed through by a vote of 19 to 9. On April 2 the House Rules Committee cleared the way for House action on the bill this week. Washington experts predict its passage, but there is still time for protest wires to Congressmen and it is still possible to defeat it in the Senate.

OUTLAW BILLS: Meanwhile other repressive measures were either up for action or being planned. On April 5 a House Judiciary subcommittee headed by Rep. Louis E. Graham (R-Pa.) began hearings on 11 bills to outlaw the Communist Party and to make membership in it an offense punishable by up to ten years in prison.

Brownell was urging Congress to enact legislation providing the death penalty for peace-time espionage (maximum punishment now is 20 years imprisonment). He also asked that existing laws against sabotage be "modernized" to cover "possibilities of sabotage by radioactive, biological or chemical agents."

ARMY "RISKS": Others were concentrating on measures aimed at "loyalty risks" in the armed services. Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich.) was readying a bill to ban all such "risks" from service; Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) had a bill to strip "disloyal persons" of all veterans' benefits; Secy. of Defense Charles E. Wilson was proposing that drafted "risks" be barred from rising above the rank of private and kept isolated in "non-sensitive" jobs.

HOW OUR LATIN AMERICAN NEIGHBORS REALLY FEEL

Dulles' paper victory at Caracas

By Kumar Goshal

ON March 13, shortly after the Inter-American Conference had voted 17 to 1 (Guatemala) with 2 abstentions (Mexico, Argentina) in favor of the U. S. anti-Communist resolution, Secy. Dulles left Caracas "with a happy smile of triumph" (N. Y. Times, 3/13).

To buy his "triumph," Dulles re-frained from pointing a direct finger at Guatemala as a "Communist-domiat Guatemala as a "Communist-domi-nated" country, admitted in his reso-lution each state's "inalienable right freely to choose its own form of gov-ernment and economic system and to live its own social and cultural life." Even so, votes cast on Mexican and Uruguayan amendments were "sometimes too close for Dulles' comfort" (Newsweek, 3/22). After Dulles left, many delegates explaining their vote for his resolution "spoke almost as if their consciences had begun to pain them" (NYT, 3/16). Said Uruguay's Justin de Arechaga:

"We contributed our approval with-out enthusiasm, without optimism, without joy and without the feeling that we were contributing to the adoption of a constructive measure." The prevailing mood was that Dulles had won only a paper victory, and had won only a paper victory, and the Latin Americans were not inclined to push anti-communism any further. Indicating this, the Dominican Re-public withdrew resolutions to outlaw Communist parties in the hemisphere and bar hemisphere trade unions from affiliating with such groups as the affiliating with such groups as the World Fedn. of Trade Unions.

THE REAL PROBLEMS: Dulles left his lieutenants to face the music as the Latin Americans took up the problems that most concerned them: inter-American trade, race discrimination, European colonies in America. On all these the U.S. took a qualified or non-committal, defensive position.

Latin Americans complained that the tin, copper, lead, zinc, rubber, wool and other raw materials they ex-port mainly to the U.S. suffer from wild price fluctuations, while manufactured goods they import from the U. S. always go up in price. Recently, while manufactured goods have soared while manufactured goods have soared higher than ever, raw material prices have dropped drastically: Bolivian tin, for example, from the 1952 high of $1.21½ a pound to about 80c, resulting in an annual $15 million deficit in Bolivia's balance of payments.

PARITY, PLEASE: Demand was widespread for some kind of "parity" be-tween what Latin Americans sell to and buy from the U. S.; less foreign capital investment and more loans "to establish industries in areas where raw materials exist alongside potential markets," as Chile's Finance Minister del Pedregal recently told the UN Economic Commission for Latin America; clarification of Latin American countries' sovereignty over the con-tinental shelf (rich in submerged oil and mineral resources), long demand-ed by Peru and Ecuador "disturbed and mineral resources), long demanded by Peru and Ecuador "disturced over U. S. fishing activities off their shores" (NYT, 3/12).

Avoiding any commitments, Washington agreed to discuss these issues at a fall economic conference in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. Latin delegates seemed "convinced that... very little economic aid can be expected from the U. S." (NYT, 3/10). Dulles had already advised them that "what Latin America needed was not pricefixing but cost-cutting" (NYT, 3,7), which would mean lowering their already miserable living standard. The U. S. attitude (Manchester Guardian, 3/4) was that its neighbors should "...slow down the pace of industrialization in favor of expanding primary production. [Latin Americans suspected] that the U. S. wishes them to retain a colonial economy to supply sufficient raw materials for lits] expanded industries and provide a market for lits] manufacturing surplus."

DOUBLE DISCRIMINATION: Guatemala presented a resolution that would:

- Prohibit economic boycotts of any American republic by another American nation or group of nations, considering them as "economic aggression with as grave and deplorable results as armed aggression";
- Declare as illegal foreign mono-polies exploiting mineral, industrial or agricultural resources;

• Recommend that companies exploiting basic resources utilize at least 51% of domestic capital.

Although aware that Latin Americans sympathized with the resolution, the U. S. voted against it; many latin delegates knowing it was aimed. Latin delegates, knowing it was aimed directly at the U. S., solved their dilemma by abstaining. The first two points lost in committee 4-1 (11 abstentions) and 9-1 (six abstentions).

stentions) and 9-1 (six abstentions).

At the start of the conference, when Panama's First Lady Mrs. Cecelia Remon confronted the U.S. with the "embarrassingly direct charge that it was sponsoring ... economic as well as racial discrimination ... against Panamanians" (NYT, 3/10), she won "a burst of applause considerably noisier than that accorded" Dulies (N. Y. Herald Tribune, 3/10). On March 15 the conference carried 19-0 a resolution condemning racial discrimination, calling for measures to abolish it. Guatemala abstained, objecting to the political character given the resolution by the statement that discriminatory practices "promote...a favorable climate" for Communist propaganda. On the ground that it contained features falling within the competence of individual U. S. states, the U. S. cast a limited vote.

NO MORE COLONIES: Heated discussion developed over "European colonies" and "occupied territories" in Latin America. Latin Americans consider as European colonies French Guiana, Guadeloupe, Martinique, and smaller islands; British Guiana, the Bahamas, Barbados, Bermuda, Jamaica, Trinidad and smaller islands; Dutch Guiana and Curacao. They classify as "occupied teritories" British Honduras (Belize), claimed by Guatemala, and the Falkland, S. Sandwich and S. Georgia Islands claimed by Argentina. Argentina and Chile both claim sections of the "American" Antarctic zone.

Over strenuous U. S. opposition, the NO MORE COLONIES: Heated dis-

Over strenuous U.S. opposition, the conference carried 19-0 (the U.S. abstaining) an Argentine resolution to eliminate colonialism from Latin America. A Guatemalan amendment to ask the UN Gen. Assembly to se-cure immediate, total independence for these colonies was narrowly de-feated, but another Guatemalan amendment repudiating force to main-tain colonialism, was corrected tain colonialism was approved.

EMBARRASSING CONSTITUTIONS: EMBARRASSING CONSTITUTIONS: Meanwhile the realities of "benevolent" colonialism were again spotlighted as a British commission flew to British Honduras "to make sure [it] will not become another British Guiana" (Reuters, 3/20). It reported that the situation was grave and accused Guatemala of aiding the Br. Honduras People's Party. As with Guiana, London had given Honduras a constitution under which elections are due tution under which elections are due

April 23; it was conceded that the April 23; it was conceded that the progressive, anti-colonial Br. Honduras People's Party would "win at least eight out of nine seats . . . to be filled by ballot" (NYT, 3/11). In Guiana, this problem was solved by suspending the constitution; last week deposed Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan and his Ing the constitution; last week deposed Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan and his wife were arrested for leaving Georgetown and holding a procession against government orders. In Honduras last month "wide emergency powers" were granted the Governor "to prevent a similar constitutional fiasco" (NYT, 3/21)

The realities were further spotlighted in an Observateur (Paris) report of 12/17/53 on the worsening of Martinique's and Guadeloupe's colonial status since they were made "departments" of France after World War II. The report said that even lumber for the propole's writtened buts protations. the people's wretched huts, potatoes and fresh vegetables were being brought 4,000 miles from France; living costs are 50% above Paris while sugarcane workers earn $34-$43 a month. When their status was changed the people sont Socialist and Commun. the people sent Socialist and Commu-nist deputies to Paris; Paris retaliated with total censorship, violent smashing of strikes (eight deaths in one sugar workers' strike last year), total fraud in local elections which has become "the normal thing for the government."

ONE WAY OUT? The dominant theme of the Caracas conference was economic: among resolutions rushed through by Latin American delegates in the final week, these were approved:

- A Guatemala-Bolivia resolution advocating "a just distribution of land and (abolition of) feudal systems in agriculture" (17 for, U.S. and Colombia abstained);
- A Venezuelan resolution calling upon industrialized countries—mainly the U.S.—to eliminate restrictions on raw material imports (17 for, U.S. and Cuba against);
- A proposal for expanded U.S. production to absorb sufficient Latin American raw materials at "an equitable level of remunerative prices" (18 for, U.S. against);
- A resolution recommending disposal of surplus grain in the world market in ways that would not bring down prices and interfere with national economies (17 for, U.S. and Bolivia abstained).

U.S. delegates fought hard but were "decisively outvoted on five major questions" (NYT, 3/26). Yet the reso-lutions left basic U.S.-Latin American lutions left basic U.S.-Latin American economic conflicts unresolved, to be fought over again at the conference in Brazil. Latin Americans have one ace up their sleeve: expanding trade with the socialist world. This was indicated by a Chilean resolution asking for a conference on sale of lead, tin and copper. Such a conference would show how much potential sales to socialist countries could compensate for cialist countries could compensate for losses incurred in sales of "strategic" materials to the West.

Memo to Caracas

To each of the Caracas conference delegates, the Civil Rights Congress sent a 20-page summary of violations of civil liberties in the U S since the American Declaration of the Rights and Duties of Man was formulated tand since ratified by the U.S.) at the Inter-American Conference of 1948. The memorandum detailed the "Six Year Retrogression Toward a Police State" in the U.S. as exemplified by "loyalty" purges, listing of "subversive" organizations. Taft-Hartley, Smith Act implementation, Internal Security Act, concentration camps, Walter-McCarran Law, violation of Negro rights, oppression of Mexicans and Mexican descendants and of Puerto Ricans, denial of passports, perjury frame-ups, persecution of defense lawyers, the execution of the Rosenbergs.

These developments, CRC told the Rosenbergs.

These developments, CRC told the Caracas delegates show "the development of a climate of political opinion which is the exact opposite of the high ideals of the 'American Declaration' (of 1948)." The conferees were urged to discuss "this historical account of the past six years in the U.S., to reaffirm the high principles of the American Declaration of the Rights of Man, and to condemn all violations of those principles."

McManus IBERTY BOOK CLUB subscribers are now receiving Bowers' monumental Jefferson and Hamilton, a classic origin-ally published in 1925 documenting the struggle for de-mocracy in our republic's first decade. Discussing it for today's public, Dr. Philip S. Foner says it "still stands as the most exciting and colorful portrayal of the decade which opened with the inauguration of Washington as first President and closed with the election of Jefferson." The triumph in 1800 of Jefferson's philosophy that "the will of the people is the only legitimate foundation of any government," against Hamilton's Federalist view that the government belonged to the wealthy, enables the book to end with a chapter entitled "Democracy Triumphant." Foner expresses the conviction that this same title will con-clude "a future book dealing with the present-day descend-

"Where they will sing together" (above) is one of the 23 paintings handsomely reproduced in black and white on large paintings handsomely reproduced in black and white on large (8!2x11") pages. Biberman projects a connected interpretation of contemporary life although the pictures were painted as individual works over the last 16 years. He looks at the bomb, strike-breaking and injustices to minorities but he does not neglect what is good to see. He shows us a beautiful child, joyful singers and the dignity of the people in their struggles.—R. J.

THROUGH NEW YORK'S POLITICAL SEWER - V

Big-time crime is pro-Dewey in Saratoga, Democratic in B'klyn; Wagner names Zombie

By Elmer Bendiner

I-PARTISAN politics was developed by the large-scale crime syndicates long before it was adopted by Congress.

One example of businesslike bi-partisanship is Joseph Doto. Though rarely convicted, he has been arrested for bootlegging, assault, robbery, kidnaping and extortion. In a reminiscent mood before the Kefauver Committee he achaevised of the proportion of knowledged long - forgotten aliases he gave to police during Prohibition: "I have used so many names in those minor conflicts."

In the major conflicts that came when he rose to promi-nence as a business executive and behind-the-scenes politi-cal power, he settled on the name: Joe Adonis.

INNOCENT FUN: His business interests ranged from the Con solidated Television Co. (with partners Frank Costello and Meyer Lansky) to the Kings County Buick Co. and the Automotive Conveying Co. of N. J., which held the exclusive contract for transporting finished Fords out of the big Edgewater plant. (Until recently Adonis was majority stockholder.) He had his finger in countless other ventures including lush gambling casinos in Miami, Saratoga and New Jersey and a N.Y. restaurant.

To illustrate the facility with which he worked with Demo-crats or Republicans, take Adonis' Arrowhead Inn at Saratoga and his little restaurant at 4th and Carroll Sts., Brook-The Arrowhead Inn had five roulette wheels, two crap tables, two bird-cages, five card tables, a "big-six" vertical wheel and, on the side, a restaurant. The game room was as wide open as the restaurant, guarded only by large bouncers.

THE CONNECTIONS: Saratoga is a GOP province. Its race track and seven gambling joints for years have been run by known gangsters working with the police, local political leaders and men very close to Gov. Dewey. Detective Walter F. A'Hearn of the Saratoga Springs Police Dept. was asked by Kefauver Committee Coun-sel Halley:

"Now, what is your general information about what has to be done in order to operate a gambling place in Saratoga?' A'Hearn: "Well, if I was going to operate one . . . I would go to somebody who was operating one and see the right connections."

Halley: "Who are the right connections as far as common gossip is concerned, in Sarators."

A'Hearn: "Well, your political leaders, I would say. . . . " Halley: "And if you did raid any gambling places you would expect to be fired; is that right?"

A'Hearn: "I would expect that something would be done to me, to a certain extent."
Halley: "Now, have you had orders not to raid any gambling places?"

A'Hearn: "No, sir."

Sen. Tobey (R-N. H.); "I think the witness has the ordinary powers of observation and just absorbed that and used tact and diplomacy.

A'Hearn: "That is right."

"THE FINEST PEOPLE": De tective A Hearn, a former FBI man, told how the police helped carry each day's take from Adonis' Arrowhead Inn and other casinos and horse-parlors to the bank. State police officials testified that the oceasional surveys of gambling were filed and forgotten; that the universal corruption was so generally known that it could scarcely have escaped the Governor's knowledge; that Democrat and Republican bigwigs met the state's crime bosses at fashionable crap games.

GOP boss James Leary was cagy when asked: "Is it fair to say that the political leadup there on both sides [Republican and Democrat] do not expect anything to be done about these gambling places in Saratoga?

Saratoga?"

Leary: ". . . I do a favor for this one, and they have done a favor for me, and the like, but I don't know about that."

Kefauver: "Who are your associates?"

Leary: "I have a niece . . . who is received by the finest people in this country . . . and that statement goes all the way from Mrs. Elliott, whose way from Mrs. Elliott, whose mother wrote the Battle Hymn of the Republic. that goes up to the finest people in this country today. She is beyond reproach in every way."

"A LOT OF FRIENDS": Democratic territory Joe Adonis managed with equal facility. His restaurant, conveniently close to Brooklyn's Borough Hall, was a hang-out for the borough's Democratic leaders. Charles Lipsky, a friend and message runner for ex-Mayor O'Dwyer, was asked by the Kefauver Comm. why Judge George Joyce (presently sitting in Kings County Court) was seen so often in Adonis' restaurant.

Lipsky: "In fact, anybody who had a primary fight on the Democratic end was called in there.'

Halley: "Why would they call at Joe Adonis' restaurant in connection with a primary fight on the Democratic end?" Lipsky: "Well, he [Adonis] was looked upon as a fellow who had a lot of friends, and who could help these contestants, both by recommending the contestant, and also he was free with his money in support of the candidate."

DOPE, MURDER, ETC .: Testimony before the Committee and the N.Y. State Crime Commission told of Meyer Lansky's shadowy financing of business deals for Costello and Adonis, of his specialization in the narcotics traffic which did not interfere with his easy so-cial life among the politicians. Testimony also offered an inresiming and othered an insight into a primary fight within the Democratic machine, specifically in the 1949 mayoratty race when the gangsters split. Costello and Adonis sters spin. Costeno and Adons allegedly favored Judge Ferdi-nand Pecora. Thomas (Three-Finger Brown) Luchese and Lansky were said to back Vincent Impellitteri.

Luchese was a dinner companion of Dist. Atty. Miles Lane and his assistant, Armand Chankalian, although he had been arrested twice for murder, once for vagrancy and once for grand larceny.

THE RAF: The evidence of corruption fills whole bookshelves of hearing transcripts. Yet these are the total casual-ties: Joe Adonis served 26 months for gambling, is now at liberty though facing deportation proceedings. Costello served 14 months of an 18month sentence for contempt of Congress, is now at liberty, but last week began his trial for income tax evasion. Lansky has never been indicted, and is currently operating in Palm Springs, Galif. Most of the men cited as their political friends are still in high office.

Tammany boss Carmine De Sapio, now a member of the Democratic National Committee, who was frequently seen with Costello in his palmiest days, is credited with having installed New York's present Mayor in office.

THE ZOMBIE: Other familiar names recur in the present administration. Sidney Moses, when he was leader of the 6th A.D. Democratic Club, was a friend of Costello and business of gunmen Knohl and Jack Perlman, for whom he tried to get government contracts and split the take with them.

The State Crime Commission found that when short he would draw on the club's funds. On one occasion the club "lent" him $1.000. The Commission asked the club's secy.-treas. Irving Dolen why he handed the money over. Said Dolen:

"Whatever he told me to do

I did—practically a zombie."

Last week zombie Delen was appointed assistant to the president of the City Tax Commission-at $5,400 a year.

Government gang-up breaks port's longest strike; ILA confident in face of new NLRB elections

ON Monday, April 5, N.Y. longshoremen went back to their no-contract-nowork strike broken by an un-precedented gang-up of city, state and federal agencies. Dockers had held out against injunctions and jail threats. They had picketed the White House, defied whole troops of police mounted and on foot to keep their picket lines solid against convoys of scabs. They had held out against hunger.

Last straw was the threat f the Natl, Labor Relations Board to rule their union, the ILA, off the ballot in forthcoming elections unless the strike was halted.

STICKING WITH ILA: The NLRE voided the previous elec-tion in which the ILA defeated the raiding AFL union, and scheduled a new vote within 30 days. The ILA pressed for an early election, confident it would win. The strike proved that the ILA still had the dockers' allegiance. The AFL, having led the most savage strike-breaking in its history, was clearly at low ebb.

City, state and AFL leaders sought to delay elections, hoping that fresh prosecutions of ILA leaders' and continued intervention by the waterfront commission might demoralize the ILA, whittle down the vote. The AFL still demanded the ILA be stricken from the ballot. GAINS AND DANGERS: The strike's balance sheet showed these gains: It had been the longest and most effective in the port's history. The union was solid and almost all scabs had to be recruited from outside the waterfront. (The Isbrandtsen Line complained at the strike's end that the AFL was sending them "goofs" instead of dockers.)

The gangland leadership was forced to take a back seat. It had always tried to head off strikes in the past, this time was forced to go along with the rank and file.

The strike showed these dangers: Mayor Wagner, Gov. Dewey, the courts and boards demonstrated a grim effective-ness in strike-breaking that could have precedents across the country. Racket-busting might rival communist-hunting as an excuse for union-busting Application of the method in the ILA's case had behind it a particular objective: mainten-ance of the waterfront commission's regimentation with screening, fingerprinting, state hiring halls. The AFL has not

THE BLIND EYE: By and large, organized labor looked the other way—except for the AFL which openly scabbed. Ex-ceptions included John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers, which supported the ILA consistently: Harry Bridges who spoke out for the dockers de-mands, against AFL strikebreaking and the government's regimentation plan.

The CIO Natl. Maritime Union remained neutral. A spokesman told the GUARDI-AN: "We'll take no sides." | But just before the strike's end the NMU said it would call its men off ships where cargo was im-properly stowed, which would have tied up most scab ships. It came too little and too late.

LATEST VICTIM OF TAFT-HARTLEY

Gold 'guilty,' faces 5 years; jury interference charged

AFTER six weeks of trial and 12½ hours of deliberation, a Washing-ton jury last week found Ben Gold, president since 1936 of the independent Intl. Fur & Leather Workers Union, guilty on two counts of making false statements in a Taft-Hartley antistatements in a Tait-Hartley anti-Communist affidavit. He was acquitted on a third count. Judge Charles F. on a third count. Judge Charles F. McLaughlin continued Gold on $10,000 bail pending sentencing. He faces a maximum of five years and $10,000 fine on each count. Argument on defense motions, including one for a new trial, was set for April 12. Defense counsel Vito Marcantonio said the conviction will be appealed all the way to the will be appealed all the way to the Supreme Court if necessary.

Gold signed the T-H affidavit in August, 1950, a few days after he for-mally and publicly resigned from the Communist Party after 30 years' membership. Government prosecutor Joseph A. Lowther made no effort to prove membership following Gold's resignation, but contended:

"There is no such thing as resig-nation. You can get out only by expulsion. . . . [The fact that there was] no evidence of Gold's dues payments or attendance at meetings is not indicative that he was not a member.

WHITE EQUALS BLACK: Government witnesses, all former CP members and most of them now on government pay-rolls as "experts" in trials, deportation hearings and Congressional probes, testified that Gold used "Aesopian lan-guage" which meant the opposite of what it said in his statement announc-ing his resignation. They swore on the stand that when Gold wrote, "I have resigned but I do not give up my belief in true democracy," the words "true democracy" actually meant "dictator-ship of the proletariat."

In his summation to the jury, which contained five government employes, Marcantonio stressed that the prosecution had offered

ion had offered

".. not a single piece of evidence of membership in the Communist Party after Aug. 24, 1950 ... of aftiliation with the Communist Party... of support of the Communist Party... of support of the Communist Party... The issue has been lost in a fog, a smokescreen of prejudice and lies... Because he took certain positions as a Communist in the past, they claim he remained a Communist Party member after Aug. 30, 1950. His past became his present."

In his summation Lowther told the arry:

"The mere fact that there has been no evidence before you by the Gov-ernment that Gold, after August, 1950, didn't have a party card, didn't at-tend meetings or didn't pay dues, under the testimony of the witness sworn on oaths before you, is no indi-cation that he was not a member. None whatever."

THE FBI APPROACHES: In the trial's fourth week court proceedings were halted while Judge McLaughlin interviewed the jurors one after another in his chambers, following which he dismissed the foreman and later a second juror. He ordered defense attorneys not to divulge the reasons for the dismissals, but later it became known that the action resulted from visits to the jurors' homes by FBI agents.

At 11 p.m. the night before the defense was scheduled to begin its argument, a reading of the trial transcript disclosed. FBI agent Oscar Smasal phoned the wife of jury foreman Leon-ard Abrams. At the hearing Smasal told the judge he was calling all the jurors on the February panel (whether sitting on the Gold case or not) to find out whether they had received in the mail an ad from the Washington Afro-American on the Hugh Bryson case. (Bryson will come to trial soon on a similar charge.) Abrams told the judge his wife said:

"... [Smasal] said there were some allegations that reached him that members of the jury of the February panel had received communist literature, and he asked if she had received any. And she said no."

CALL FOR MISTRIAL: Next day at 9 p.m., the transcript revealed, juror Clif-ford I. Morton received the same call. Smasal also visited the wife of juror Robert E. Beatty at their home. Beatty

"He wanted to know whether I got mail pertaining to this case . . . he mentioned something about, in cases like this, that they more or less had to be careful, because in cases like this there has been tampering with the jury."

Marcantonio called for a mistrial which was refused. He cited a Marcia 8 decision in Remmer vs. U.S.:

"The sending of an FBI agent in the midst of a trial to investigate a juror as to his conduct is bound to impress the juror and is very apt to do so unduly. A juror must feel free to exercise his functions without the FBI or anyone else looking over his shoulder."

THERE WERE OTHERS: Questioned by the judge, three other jurors said they had overhead in the jury room that members had received calls.

Said the Furriers Union on April 3:

Said the Furriers Union on April 3:

"It was clear to all those who attended the six-week trial that this unjust verdict is not the result of any evidence brought out during the course of the trial. The verdict... was brought about by deliberate FBf tampering with the jury in the middle of the trial. Not satisfied with a jury packed with government employes, the FBI intimidated these jurors because it saw the crude frame-up collapsing."

"All of us should know . . ."

"All of us should know..."

If the Pentagon and certain politicians can keep the fear of Communistic agression fresh in the public's mind a few years longer, all our men of military age and many of our women will belong to the professional armies. We will then be a military state similar to that of Hitcher's, with which he terrorized the world. All of us should know that the Pentagon's claim that our Government is in danger of being overthrown by a Communist revolution here at home is non-sense. War with Russian stateck will pass as soon as the public understands that the fear under which we live was generated by the Pentagon to frighten Congress into authorizing our big professional army.

The power of the military caste must be curbed at once.

THE CITY EXPENSE BUDGET

Mayor still dodges hitting big real estate for dough

By Arthur Schutzer

HIGHLIGHTS of the N.Y. City Expense Budget submitted by

Mayor Wagner on April 1 are:

• While bemoaning the failure to obtain increased state aid, Wagner still shuts his eyes to a readily-available source of more revenue—through proper assessment on big commercial and industrial real estate. In this the City needs no authorization from Albany; it can act on its own. According to the Mayor's own budget message, real estate will pay for 1954-55 only 45.8% of city tax revenues; its 1944-45 share was 59.81%.

• The Dept. of Investigation, headed by former Subversive Activities Control Board chairman Peter C. Brown, is given an increase of $26,998 — the better to conduct the streamlined Wagner-Brown witch-hunt among city employes.

• The Office of Civil Defense gets $1,616,741 to waste—although everyone now knows that the only defense against H-bombs is peace.

CRUMBS FOR TEACHERS: 165,000 city employes get brokenpledge crumbs as follows: $450 increase for teachers; a maximum of $250 for the other city workers. (Twice since the budget was released teachers and other city employes have rallied in protest at City Hall.) In his campaign Wagner promised $750 to teachers. The budget does well by top officials, with $350,000 for pay rises, including a $10,000 boost for the Police, Fire and Hospitals Commissioners, $7,500 for the Health Commissioner.

 The Housing and Buildings Dept. gets an increase of $614,685, which will hardly dent the huge backlog of inspection and enforcement in fire-trap tenements.

ALBANY ALIBI: Extension of the 3% sales tax, retention of the auto use tax, are alibied by blaming Albany. Wagner went through the motions of "asking" for more state aid.

The budget cuts school services and supplies sharply below the Board of Education's requests. It proposes almost $39 million less than even the Board asked.

less than even the Board asked.

• Although city relief rolls are climbing as unemployment grows, the Welfare Dept. gets only $15 million more than last year—which signals even further cuts in relief allotments.

• The expense budget, which calls for $1,639,388,325, grossly fails to meet the needs of eight million New Yorkers.

Public hearings on the proposed budget before the Board of Estimate at City Hall will be held on April 12, 13 and 14. Unions of city employes have announced they will be on hand.

FESTIVAL SERVICE

Holy Trinity honors Melish

COMMEMORATING the 50th anniversary of the Rev. John Howard Melish's becoming its rector, Brooklyn's Holy Trinity Church will hold a festival service Sunday, April 11, at 11 a.m. The preacher will be Dr. Karl Reiland, distinguished former rector of St. George's, Stuyvesant Sq.

Dr. Melish was forced out of Holy Trinity by civil court ac-tion at the instance of the diocesan Bishop De Wolfe, beclocesan Bisnop De Wolfe, be-cause of his support of his son, the Rev. Wm. Howard Melish, now acting minister of the parish. In his early ministry in Cincinnati — which under the "Cox gang" figured promi-nently in Lincoln Steffens' Shame of the Cities—he fought for 29 years and was a key factor in the political house-cleaning which has led to the present city-management form of government.

All New Yorkers interested in seeing religion play an active part in shaping society will be welcome at the service.

The Howell Bill — boon to the arts

NEW YORK'S NEW FIRE COMMISSIONER leads a busy life, Just when an off-Broadway theater builds a better show than its uptown neighbors, and the public beats a path to its door, the fire commissioner steps in and calls the place a fire trap. Then, to prove his decision is unbiased, he axes a few more reconditioned basements or oversized parlors which have been functioning as theaters.

Let us have no fire hazards, of course. But what of the hazards to the artists in independent productions who must contend with real estate greed, chaotic competition, antiquated trade union regulations, commercialism.

otic competition, antiquated trade union regulations, commercialism, cigarette-money earnings—and now the fire commissioner? Artists in the theater, like the creative people in other fields, do not prosper in our land. Except for the period of the WPA the arts have been kept in a well-preserved state of beggary. The creasional herefactor is likely to reoccasional benefactor is likely to re-semble Charlie Chaplin's millionaire friend in City Lights. He may be good for a buck or for a night's lodging, but there's no telling when he'll turn and kick the art and the artist down the steps, and then the beggar is on the town again.

CHINK OF LIGHT under the closed door is the Howell Bill (HR 452) now resting in the House Committee on Education and Labor, providing for the establishment of a "National War Memorial Arts Commission and other purposes." Its chief aim is "... to increase the accessibility of the fine arts to the public, and to raise the standard of execution of the fine arts, by professionals and amateurs alike, throughout the Nation."

professionals and amateurs alike, throughout the Nation."

It would appropriate up to $30,000,000 annually to subsidize the theater, music, drama, the dance, literature, opera, motion pictures, television, radio, sculpture and painting. It's a glorious panorama of scholarships, jobs, projects, performances, instruction and entertainment which would start in Washington at the National War Memorial Theater and opera house, and fan out over the country. Cultural exchange would be promoted even on an international scale.

In his bill Rep. C. R. Howell (D-N. J.) provides for the government to make available to non-profit organizations and institutions space in federal buildings suitable for productions and programs. Even more, in designing future buildings which would normally include auditoriums, government architects would give specific attention to "provision for stage and dressing room facilities, stage lighting and related equipment." Section 20 of the bill states:

"Congress hereby reaffirms its belief in the essential"

"Congress hereby reaffirms its belief in the essential nature of the contributions being made by the fine arts to the morale, health and general welfare of the Nation, and in the need of taking all possible steps to further encourage the development and increase the stature of fine arts in the U.S."

TO THIS WE CITIZENS say a fervent Amen. It is not necessary to build a federal arts program from a depression up. What the Federal Theater accomplished should be relived, not merely recorded. 32,000 actors and actresses did exactly what the Howell Bill asks: they "increased the accessibility of the fine arts to the public." They took the theater to the people—26,000,000 of them, and these audiences have not forgotten the experience. Neither have the actors. The troupe that played America's biggest celery center, Sanford, Fla., one November, remember how, when they returned the following March, the kids on the street called to them, "Hello Malvolio" and "Hi there, Sir Toby Belch."

If the people press hard enough, the door will open, the Howell Bill may come through, and we can again have a federal arts project. The arrogant dunces who demanded that Christopher Marlowe be subpensed for his subversive play, gloated when they killed off the Federal Theater in 1939. At that time Lionel Barrymore warned:

"If I were a Congressman I'd try to remember that the American people have never let anything be taken from them—permanently."

Write to your Congressman to support HR 452, and write to Samuel W. McConnell Jr., chairman of the House Committee on Education, Washington, D.C., for action to release this bill.

Reporter just back from China speaks at Guardian Forum Apr. 23

JULIAN SCHUMAN, a newspaperman who has just returned from six years in China, will join the GUARDIAN's own panel of experts, Tabitha Petran and Kumar Goshal, to discuss "China & Indo-China—Peace or War?" at the second Guardian Forum. The date is Friday, April 23, 8:30 p.m., at Adelphi Hall, Room 9B, 74 Fifth Av. Guardian editor Cedric Belfrage will be chairman.

Schuman has reported in China for David Kung's China Press, the Chicago Sun-Times, the Denver Post and John W.

Press, the Chicago Sun-Times, the Denver Post and John W. Powell's China Monthly Review.

Keep April 23 free for this forum, which comes on the eve of the Geneva conference April 26. The forum will discuss the news behind the headlines dealing with today's hottest and most pressing issues. And there will be plenty of time for questions.
