DR. OBERLAENDER - A PORTRAIT OF THE BUTCHER IN THE BONN CABINET ... P. 3

"ONE DOES NOT REVOLT AGAINST DE GAULLE" That's what the General said last September, but he was wrong

ADMINISTRATION MOVE MAY SLOW FIGHT

New civil rights plan throws vote bill backers off balance

By Louis E. Burnham

THE CIRCUMSTANCES surrounding Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers' an-nouncement of a plan to protect Negroes' voting rights in the South led many civil rights proponents to question whether the belated Administration initiative would help or hinder their efforts to enact a civil rights bill before the 86th Congress adjourns.

Rogers proposed on Jan. 25 that voting referees, appointed by the Federal courts, be empowered to certify applicants as eligible to vote in areas where the courts

In this issue PAN THE BOMB

New ammunition p.	2
ALGERIA AND OIL The Sahara storyp.	4
'Don't rock the boat'p.	5
New book debunkedp.	6
A step forward	7
DR. H. CHANDLER DAVIS Goes to jailp.	10

have found that a "pattern or practice" of discrimination exists. On behalf of such applicants, supplementary decrees would be issued by the court binding state officials to register the aggrieved citizens, permit them to vote and count their ballots. The referees would have the right to inspect the conduct of these electoral functions. Defiance of the courts' decrees would make offending officials liable to confinement for contempt of court. The procedure would apply to state as well as Federal elections.

(Continued on Page 8)

THE GENERAL'S HOUR OF DECISION

Algeria revolt ends but the crisis remains to haunt shaken Paris

By Anne Bauer Guardian staff correspondent

PARIS N INE DAYS after European settlers in Algeria launched an uprising in defiance of President de Gaulle, the insurgents were forced to surrender. One of their leaders was jailed, a second was in flight and a third was missing. In Paris on Feb. 2 de Gaulle asked parliament for emergency powers to rule by decree. But the basic problems that led to the revolt remained.

The insurrection started at noon on Jan. 24 when 5,000 Algerian ultras—Eu-ropean diehard colonialists—gathered in the Algiers square called the Forum to demonstrate against de Gaulle for what they considered his appeasement of the Algerian National Liberation Front (FLN). Ironically, it was in the same Algerian Bal Afro-America "Isn't it abo ut time to bring them back into the Union, Sam?"

French Army launched their May 13. 1958, revolt which brought de Gaulle back to power and inaugurated the Fifth Republic.

Leaders of the Jan. 24 insurrection were Joseph Ortiz, Pierre Lagaillard, Rob-ert Martel, Auguste Arnould and Jacques Susini. The most influential of this quintet is 47-year-old Ortiz. owner of a cafe near the Forum and founder of the 14,-000-member French National Front (FNF). He burst into the headlines in 1957 when he served two months in jail for complicity in the "bazooka" murder of the then Algerian Supreme Comman-der Gen. Raul Salan's aide-de-camp. FNF insignia is the "Celtic Cross"-cross within a circle.

NEW PROMINENCE: Lagaillard, 26, is the former leader of the Assn. of Stu-dents from Algeria (AGEA), which had been spearheading opposition to the Paris government in recent years. A former paratrooper still enamored of his uniform, his star was waning when the Jan. 24 insurrection brought him back to prominence.

Martel is a 42-year-old farmer from the Mitidja region south of Algiers. He the Mitidja region south of Algiers. He is president of the 5,000-member "May 13 Popular Movement" and served a jail sentence for his part in the "bazooka" murder. Arnold, 40, a pilot of the Air Algerie Aviation Co., leads the War Vet-erans Assn. Susini, 26, is Ortiz' right hand man and the present president of the AGEA. the AGEA.

24 KILLED: Six hours after the insur-rection started, gendarmes attempted to disperse the crowd. In the ensuing battle 24 persons, including eight gendarmes, were killed, 140 wounded. The insurgents set up barricades in the streets bordering the Forum, ignoring de Gaulle's radioed (Continued on Page 4)

KEFAUVER THREATENS PRICE CONTROL OF DRUGS Senate hearings disturbed by tranquilizer profits

By Robert E. Light

D OCTORS ACROSS the country re-D centry received a handsomely pack-aged long-playing record from Carter Products, Inc., of Soviet violinist David Oistrakh playing a Smetana concerto. On the other side, a chorus of doctors sing the praises of Carter's tranquilizer, Miltown, as an aid to expectant mothers.

The company is also generous to its president, Henry H. Hoyt. It pays him an annual salary of $100,000 and in 1957 it granted him stock options which at current market prices offer him a profit of $2,760.000.

But Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.)

mutinied at Carter's bounty. He thought it was coming from people who pay $5.42 for 50 Miltown tablets which cost 35 cents to produce. He said that Federal price control of drugs might be necessary "if something isn't done."

THE PROFITS: Most of the uneasy story of enormous profits on tranquilizers was brought out in six days of hearings by Kefauver's Senate Subcommittee on Antitrust and Monopoly. Four major man-ufacturers—Smith, Kline & French, Carter, American Home Products Corp., and were confronted with charts CIBA that showed their profits were three to four times higher than the general industrial average. The hearings also learned that: (1) the companies charge identical prices although their costs are not the same; (2) the companies sell abroad at a fraction of the price they charge here; (3) tranquilizers can be dangerous to some people if not administered properly; and (4) the American Medical Assn. has tried to cover up misleading drug advertising.

To the charges of overpricing, the companies answered that inordinately high research and development costs neces-sitated high profits. They insisted that profits must also cover the costs of un-successful research projects. These argu-

(Continued on Page 8)

THE MALL

Don't be surprised CIRCLE MONT

CIRCLE, MONT. Our political leaders are about to come bearing gifts and mak-ing great promises for the peace program they shall have to offer us. It will be hard indeed for form or great politically and us. It will be hard indeed for fear-crazed and politically and socially illiterate people to re-sist such an easy and pleasant prospect. It seems almost certain that the mantle of fascism will be accepted in the name of peace.

Peace, in its true sense, is not possible without truth and jus-tice. Our leaders cannot and will not offer us either. We must tice. Our leaders cannot and will not offer us either. We must achieve both by our own effort. It is necessary that we assume dangerous and difficult respon-sibilities long neglected if demo-cracy is to be revitalized and peace made possible. So, when the official peace beandwagen comes along with the

So, when the official peace bandwagon comes along with the flags flying and bands playing the Star Spangled Banner and Yankee Doodle; when millions of momentarily happy people are climbing on for the ride; don't be surprised if I get off the road to avoid the dust and then go trudging on, alone if need be, toward that peace which can come only from understanding the need of universal coopera-tion and brotherhood among all men in an undivided world. Hobart McKean

The little Smithereens too

NEW YORK, N.Y. It seems silly but I can't help thinking how aptly the name Brinkley Smithers fits that man who built a $50,000 fall-out shelwith space for his family and three servants. S. Bai

Rise of anti-Semitism

CHICAGO, ILL.

We believe the statements suggesting that "communists" may be the instigators of attacks on be the instigators of attacks on synagogues is unfortunate and misleading. This suggestion only serves to confuse and divide, and obscures any understanding of the basic causes of this regrowth. First: It should be rememberbered that Nazism's prime tar-gets during its rise to power in Germany were the working class organizations and left-wing po-litical parties. Second: While the current at-tacks contain an element of in-tacks contain an element of ju-venile hooliganism, they show the existence of a reservoir of backward anti-Semitic prejubackward anti-Semitic preju-dice which can be utilized ef-fectively by political reaction. The focal point of the disease is in Germany. American policy in Germany bears a major share of the responsibility for the cur-rent wave of anti-Semitic at-tacks in Germany and their re-flection in other parts of the world, including America. Third: American big business and finance

Third: American big business and finance looked favorably upon the rise of Hitler in the

How Crazy Can You Get Dept.

The formation of an organization to fight the movement of Negroes into Park Forest was announced Wednesday by one of the suburb's homeowners. He is Herschel W. Ward, 51, of 307 Winnebago, who de-scribed himself as a private consultant for personnel se-consultant for personnel se-curity work. Ward charged that Park Forest officials "took advan-tage of the Christmas spirit" last Dec. 28, when they "plan-ned, plotted and schemed" to admit the first Negro family to the village. "We are not opposed to Ne-groes," said Ward. "We are not opposed to any race. We just don't want them in Park Forest . . ."

Forest . . ." —Chicago Sun-Times, 1/21 One year free sub to sender of each item printed under this head-ing Be sure to send original clip with each entry Winner this week Anonymous, Chicago, Ill.

and gave him moral and material encouragement. They say in the nationalistic and mil-itaristic Hitler regime the cretaristic Hitler regime the cre-ation of a spearhead aimed at the Soviet Union. A generation later American capitalism is confronted by a powerful Soviet Union which promises to outproduce it, given time and opportunity for further time and opportunity for further development.

development. It is well to ask, at this his-torical juncture, if American capitalism's answer to the So-viet challenge may not lie partly in the attempt to revive the dor-mant but living monster of Nazi militarism—and if the cancer militarism-and if the cancer-ous spread of anti-Semitic attacks is not an early phase in tacks is not an early phase in this revival. The Jewish community — and all of us—have a right to be ap-prehensive before this foul echo of the disaster of the 30's and 40's. The danger is real, and must not be hushed up. To meet the danger, the first essential is to seek clarification on its na-ture and source. It is necessary to understand how the fascist menace grows out of the struc-ture of capitalist society in cris-is, and is as capable of growing on American soil as elsewhere. on American soil as elsewhere. Howard Mayhew

Little brother

LITTLETON, MASS. One cannot refute D. K. Hal-ter's contention (in Promethean Review) that the British Labor party was and is a handmaiden of the capitalists.

party was and is a handmaiden of the capitalists. The Labor party's determina-tion not to disturb the perma-nent civil service or the struc-ture and personnel of the for-eign office, or take any other step that might shake the do-mestic power of the capitalist class at any decisive point dur-ing the years it held office, proves emphatically that any party representative of the people that does not have a Marxian base is doomed to failure. The cocoon of "socialism through evolvement from capi-talism" has been the socialists' lot for decades. It has rendered them impotent in every capital-istic nation in the world to the point of creating a spectacle. As

Ten Years Ago in the Guardian

N NEW YORK, the Committee for the Negro in the Arts suggested to the American Broadcasting Co. the possibility of special Negro History Week broadcasts. Replied ABC: "We have no special plans for the observance.... Just as we plan no special observance dur-ing the year of an exclusively Caucasian history or any other such feature which would designate one race from another in this nation. We believe that, in a democracy of our kind, all men should be color blind in matters such as this." The committee answered: "Were Negroes to close their eyes, they would still smell the ghetto tenements and feel the slap-in-the-lose of meninging. You may believe in democracy face of prejudice. . . You may believe in democracy . . . but on the record of your letter, the only conclusion which can be drawn is that you use the word democracy to cover undemocratic actions." --From National Guardian, Feb. 8, 1950

a formidable opponent of the capitalists they can be written off as a little brother timid about disturbing big brother. James Pacy, Jr.

Norval K. Harris

SHELBURN, IND. We have all lost. I know you at the GUARDIAN feel the loss very deeply. I have never seen such genuine grief for any citi-zen. He stood by his guns. What more can be said?

Elza Wells

Sack race

NORRISTOWN, PA. By eliminating 20,000 workers by eliminating 20,000 workers in one year through automation, Armour will save (figuring about $75 weekly wage per worker) about $75,000,000 a year. Let us assume that increased wages, outlays for machinery and creening infla-due to silent and creening infladue to silent and creeping infla-tion will amount to 25, or even tion will amount to 25, or even 30-35 million a year (this amount by the way does not come out from the company's pockets): who then gets the au-tomation leftover-windfall of 40 or more million dollars?

How very nice of the Armours How very nice of the Armours to try to relocate—at much suf-fering and cost. I presume, and a lower standard of living in the final result—the 20,000 workers thrown out on the industrial junk-heap. True Christians, al-most saints, those Armours; their hearts are bleeding for the workers they themselves have workers they themselves have thrown out of work.

thrown out of work. How union officials can agree to be parties to such a swindle-business is beyond me. Armour gets the sack of gold, the work-ers just get the sack. G. Burnstein

Daily a word from our treas-urer . . . 'Goodbye' " "Now

Last pigeon-wing

Last pigeon-wing SIOUX FALLS, S.D. The big press of this country has used millions of words to impose on the minds of the peo-ple that President Eisenhower is the only one who can direct the way to peace and economic jus-tice. Why should we be taken in by any such imposition?

tice. Why should we be taken in by any such imposition? The insuperable power of nu-clear fission rules the world to-day, rather than so-called popu-lar men. The power of nuclear fission has done much to recon-cile men who have been trained in the art of killing, but all such men must come to know that universal disarmament is the only possible avenue leading to a permanent peace in the world. only possible avenue leading to a permanent peace in the world. Many millions of people throughout the world have been intelligently and courageously pleading and fighting for uni-versal disarmament for the past ten years Let us cast our lot ten years. Let us cast our lot with the millions-not with some with the millions—not with some particular popular individual. Many people learned far ahead of Gen. Eisenhower that the late John Foster Dulles was not the man best suited to help bring peace to the world. In the vernacular of the Hoos-ier, Mr. Eisenhower is now cut-ting his last pigeon-wing, but here comes his prodicy. Bichard ting his last pigeon-wing, but here comes his prodigy, Richard M. Nixon—a man inspired to ut-ter special revelations and pre-dictions. He is always revealing something, but he never pin-points anything. If Nixon is elected to the Presidency that will be Ike's major mistake. At this time the Democrats do not find it easy to build up an op-position to Eisenhower. Should the Democrats remain too cow-ardly to build up a case against the President, many will be the President, many will be driven from office, and justly so. C. E. Ranney

SUBSCRIPTION RATES: U.S.A. Pos-essions, Canada, Latin America, Phil-ippine Islands, $5 a year. First class and air mail on request. United King-dem 35s a year payable to GUARDIAN Lundon Bureau, 16 Talhot $6,. London W2. England; otherwise $6 a year over-eeas. GUARDIAN Paris Bureau, 103 Avenue de Gravelle, St. Maurice (Seine), France. Single coples 15c. Reentered as second class maîter Feb. 20, 1953, at the Post Office at New York, N.Y., under the Act of March 3, 1879.

JAMES ARONSON General Manager Editor

Editor-in-exile General Manager Editor EDITORIAL STAFF: Louis E. Burnham, Lawrence Emery, Kumar Goshal, Robert E. Light, Russ Nixon (Washington), Tabitha Petran, Robert Joyce (Art), David Reif (Art Library), Norval D. Welch (Production). LIBRARI-AN; Jean Norrington. PROMOTION and CIRCULATION: George Evans. ADVERTISING and BUYING SERVICE: Lillian Kolt, GUARDIAN EVENTS: Theodora Peck. FOREIGN BUREAUS: Cedric Belfrage (London), Anne Bauer (Paris), George Wheeler (Prague), W. G. Burchett (Moscow), Anna Louise Strong (Peking), Narendra Goyal (New Delhi), Ursula Wassermann (roving correspondent). LOS ANGELES representative; Jack Fox, 465 So. Detroit St., Los Angeles 36. Phone: WEbster 8-8065.

February 8, 1960 401 Vol. 12, No. 17

REPORT TO READERS

New ammunition

S OME BIG GUNS are joining the fight for a ban on nuclear weapons tests.

 weapons tests.
In New York the Federation of American Scientists held a press conference at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria to express the Federation's view that the risk that some violations of a test ban might escape detection is "far less important than the gain in security to be achieved through agreement to stop testing nuclear weapons and establishment of an operating international inspection and control system.

The spokesmen for the Federation-its president, Dr. David R. Inglis, senior physicist at the Argonne National Laboratory; Dr. Viktor Weisskopf, professor of physics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology; and Dr. Hugh C. Wolfe, head of the physics department at Cooper Union—pointed out that techniques of detection can be greatly improved, and suggested that an effort in this direction be made comparable with that made by Dr. Edward Teller and his associates "on figuring out how to cheat on the agreement."

• In Ann Arbor, Mich., a group of scientists and public figures called to the campus of the University of Michigan by Gov. G. Mennen Williams for a three-day conference, called upon the U.S. govnen williams for a three-day conference, called upon the U.S. gov-ernment to speed nuclear disarmament. "The time to act is now," the Michigan gathering declared in a statement made public by Gov. Williams, "Unlimited increases in retaliatory power, on both sides, will make the balance more unstable, and every new hand that controls the bomb makes its control more difficult."

Like the Federation spokesmen in New York, the group at the University of Michigan pointed out that no detection system would be 100% effective, but added that the risk to the nation's security that some tests may escape detection must be weighed against the risk of allowing negotiations to break down and the arms race to continue unabated.

The Michigan conferees also stressed the importance of encompassing the People's Republic of China in any arms agreement. "In any general reduction of conventional armaments, or the establishment of inspection zones in Asia to guard against surprise attacks," their report said, "its [China's] participation is essential." The Michigan group included Dr. Benjamin H. Cohen, former

U.S. U.S. delegate to the U.N. and President Truman's disarmament adviser; Dr. William Davidon of the Argonne Laboratory; Prof. Hans Morgenthau of Johns Hopkins; Prof. Eugene Rabinovitz of the University of Illinois, editor of the Bulletin of Atomic Scientists; Prof. J. David Singer of the University of Michigan, and Prof. Al-

Last week we urged Guardian readers to act on the appeal of the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy for letters to the State Dept. and U.S. Senators in behalf of negotiation and Sen-ate approval of a comprehensive treat: heaping all tests week we ate approval of a comprehensive treaty banning all tests under a minimum workable inspection system. The foregoing views may be useful in such letters.

THE COMMITTEE TO SECURE JUSTICE for Morton Sobell is preparing a pamphlet based on a study of public concern over Sobell's continued imprisonment submitted to President Eisenhower Dec. 28 in a closely-typed 16-page communication.

In addition, the Committee has just received from Israel the text of an appeal sent to President Eisenhower by 15 eminent in-dividuals associated with Dr. E. J. Jarus of Tel Aviv, chairman of the Israeli League for the Rights of Man. The signers endorsed the recent appeal of Lord Bertrand Russell of England and Prof. Martin Buber, Israeli philosopher, for Sobell's freedom. The signers in addition to Dr. Jarus were Dr. Ludwig Bahr, engineer; Samuel Hugo Bergman, professor-emeritus of philosophy at Hebrew University, Jerusalem; Nathan Bistritzky, author, of Ramat Gan; Nathan Chifski, chairman, Israel branch, War Resisters International; Dr. Samuel Eisenstadt, professor of law, Tel Aviv University; J. Grunbaum, former Israell Minister of the Interior; Dr. Martin Hirshfeld, Weizman Institute of Science, Rehovot; Mrs. Margot Klausner, Tel-Aviv film director; Martin Nathan M.D., Haifa; M. Reiner and Naftali Schneid, Israel Institute of Technology, Haifa; M. Reiner and Naftali Schneid, Israel Institute of Technology, Haifa; M. Reiner and Naitali Schneid, Israel Institute of Technology, Haifa; Ernst Simon, professor of education, Hebrew University, Jerusalem; Prof. N. H. Tur-Sinai, president Academy of the Hebrew Language, Jerusalem; and Anna Weizman, professor-emeritus, Weizman Institute of Science, Rehovot, a sister of Dr. Chaim Weizman, world Zionist leader.

YOU CAN'T SET A NAZI TO CATCH A NAZI

Butcher in the Bonn cabinet: The case of Theodor Oberlaender

MONTREAL MONTREAL O N NOV. 15, 1959, Chancellor Ade-nauer told the London Sunday Times that he "tolerated no dyed-in-the-wool Nazis in responsible positions." The case of Dr. Theodor Oberlaender, Minister for Refugees in the Federal German Repub-lic, may well make Adenauer eat his words, because Oberlaender, according to the most substantial evidence, is a Nazi very dyed in the wool.

On Jan. 3, 1951, the Jewish Commun-ity Council of Munich protested Oberlaender's cabinet appointment on the ground that he was guilty of Nazi crimes (South Bavaria Volkszeitung Jan. 3. 1951). The magazine Spiegel renewed these accusations three years later. In its April 21, 1954, issue, it said that Oberlaender had been "a prominent member of the Nazi Party and a prominent Nazi personality in East Prussia." At the same time accusations poured in that Oberlaender was filling his ministry with Na-zis. On Oct. 15, 1955, Terence Prittie, Bonn correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, said over the BBC that Ober-laender was packing his ministry with the "old experts of the Eastern Department of Ribbentrop's Foreign Ministry" who, Prittie said, "still have the idea of a German-Polish condominium east of the River Oder."

SCHROEDER STEPS IN: These charges brought routine denials from Bonn, but the magazine Die Tat lowered the boom in its issue No. 39 (September, 1959) by publishing detailed evidence of Oberlaender's complicity in Nazi crimes -evidence dug up by the Assn. of the Victims of Nazism (VVN). Bonn imme-Victims of Nazism (VVN). Bonn imme-diately confiscated that issue of Die Tat, and Minister of the Interior Gerhard Schroeder, himself a Hitler Storm Trooper, applied to the West German Federal Administrative Court for a ban on the VVN because of "Communist infiltration.'

But several other papers had reprinted

In. I. Wiescoschaft, Erziel Reconstant, I. Wiesenschaft, Erzichung a. Valkabildung. Preuss. Ministeriam f. Wissenschaft, Kunst a. Valkabildung. Personalakten

A NAZI'S PERSONAL FILE

Oberlaender's official record from Hit-Oberlaender's official record from Hil-ler's archives: Holder of green party card No. 419; head of the East Prussian Branch of the Union of German's Abroad: participant in Hitler's first putsch (1923); lieutenant in the Storm Troops from July 1, 1938; Nazi Party member No. 2,331,552.

the shocking story. On Oct. 2, 1959, the Frankfurter Rundschau demanded that Oberlaender be removed. It said: "The speeches and general behavior of Herr Oberlaender permit only one conclusion: that he has learned nothing from the experiences of our recent past and still ad-heres to the same positions as in the days of Nazi rule."

A PRESS CONFERENCE: Bonn dismissed all these accusations as "Bolshevik propaganda fictions" designed to dis-credit West Germany. But the Neue Rhein Zeitung (Oct. 7, 1959) quoted U.S. h'

BUT OF COURSE HE DIDN'T KNOW WHAT WAS GOING ON THEN Oberlaender (standing) tells the press he was just a young innocen torian Alexander Dallin in support of the charges. On Nov. 4, 1959, the Social Democratic Party said that "to keep Ob-erlaender on as a minister is contrary to all the dictates of political reason and Oberlaender was forced to call a press conference on Sept. 30. According to Die Welt of Hamburg, he appeared with "drawn face and shaking hands" and admitted that he had served in the Night-ingale extermination battalion in June 1941. But he denied he had known of or taken part in any atrocities.

A WITNESS' FATE: Just two weeks later a sinister event occurred: On Oct. 15 the West German news agency DPA reported that Stepan Bandera, a former company commander in the Nightingale extermination battalion, who had offered to testify in the Oberlaender case, had fallen down a flight of stairs at his home in Munich. On arrival at the hospital he was found to be dead of cyanide poisoning. Hans Schmitt, head of the Munich homicide department, said:

"The culprits will be hard to find. They evidently have to be sought in circles which the criminal police normally cannot touch at all

The Berliner Zeitung (Oct. 20) declar-ed that "it was an established fact" that Bandera had been "got out of the way" on Oberlaender's instructions. The Suddeutsche Zeitung drew the same conclusion.

ORDER OF THE BLOOD: Among the many documents released in the Ober-laender case is one from the Reich Lead-ership Office dated March 31, 1936. It states that Oberlaender "was a member of the movement as far back as 1923, of the movement as far back as 1923, took part in the march through Mun-ich on Nov. 9, 1923, (Hitler's first putsch) and has applied for the award of the Order of the Blood" (a personal award by Hitler to the earliest and most faithful of his followers). Other docu-ments show that Oberlaender was a Haupsturmfuehrer in the Storm Troops, and that Reichsfuehrer SS Heinrich and that Reichsfuehrer SS Heinrich Himmler had gained "many useful ideas" from him.

The Fuehrerlexikon (leadership listing) for 1934-35 notes on p. 100 that Ober-laender was Reichsfuehrer for the East Prussian Division of the Union of Ger-mans Abroad, the Hitler organization charged with fifth column and sabotage activities in countries due for Nazi takeover. At the outbreak of war Ober-laender was appointed—for his "knowl-edge in the sphere of theoretical and practical anti-Bolshevism"-to serve with the Wehrmacht High command as an "expert" on the "scientific elaboration" of of the problems of the Germanization of the conquered territories.

Martha Schlamme sings at Town Hall Feb. 14

M ARTHA SCHLAMME, well-known folk singer, will give a N.Y. reci-tal at Town Hall, 123 W. 43rd St., Sun-day, Feb. 14, at 8:30 p.m. Miss Schlamme, who sings in 12 languages, will sing folk songs of many lands. Tickets from $1.50 to $4 at the box office.

100 PER CENT GERMAN: In the April, 1940 issue of the magazine Neues Bau-erntum (New Agriculture), Oberlaender wrote: "The preservation of the purity of the race is only possible if the alien racial element leaves the area completely. ....People of alien blood should not be allowed the honor of cultivating German soil.'

Oberlaender urged 100% "Germanization" of the Eastern regions by "such methods as resettlement and expulsion." The methods the Nazis used to achieve "resettlement and expulsion" were mass extermination, deportation to slave labor and the gas chamber.

JUNE, 1941: Paul Leverkuehn, a former top Nazi intelligence officer, and at present a member of the West German par-liament, writes in his book Der Geheime Nachrichtendienst der Deutschen Wehrmacht im Kriege (The Secret Broadcast-ing Service of the German Army in the War), page 136, that the Nightingale bat-talion "distinguished itself" in June, talion "distinguished itself" in June, 1941; that its commander was Dr. Albrecht Herzner, and that his political of-ficer was Prof. Theodor Oberlaender. According to eyewitness Philip Friedmann (now a professor at Columbia University) in his book The Extermination of the Jews of Lvov (1945), June, 1941, saw mass battalion that "beat all previous records for bestiality."

in Russia, 1941-45 (1957), says that the Nightingale battalion "displayed con-siderable initiative, conducting purges and pogroms." As political officer in charge, Oberlaender was directly responsible.

SAME OLD NAZI: That Oberlaender still endorses the Nazi views he has held all along is made clear in his public speeches. On March 23, 1953, he declared, according to the Passauer Neue Presse: "We are working towards one goal, to regain the German East, Neigoal, to regain the German East. Nei-ther war nor millions of dead, nor hun-ger, can daunt the German people." On June 3, 1957, the Berliner Zeitung re-ports him as saying: "There in Russia land awaits us. There we must sink deep robts."

Bonn has announced that it is setting up an "international committee" of in-quiry into Oberlaender's "alleged" crimes. The committee is to be formed, according to the Stuttgarter Nachrichten and other West German newspapers, by the West German branch of the Union or Resist-ance Fighters for a United Europe (URPE), which is entirely financed by the Bonn Chancellery, Those sitting in judgment will include a former Nazi ma-jor, Wolfgang Mueller, secretary of URPE; Flor Peters, a notorious Belgian Nazi sympathizer; and Kurt Schoch, who was described by Walter Schellenburg, former head of Hitler's secret service, as to the Stuttgarter Nachrichten and other former head of Hitler's secret service, as being associated with Nazi organizations working in Switzerland during the war.

WHAT MAY HAPPEN: Oberlaender may well be kicked out of the Bonn cabinet but, like Otto Brautiegam, who was dismissed as head of the Eastern Department trick Post-Dispatch Same old trail?

1956—when publication of his diaries proved he had taken part in the murder of hundreds of thousands of Jews—he'll still be kept within the Bonn fold.

Brautiegam was appointed Consul in Hong Kong, where he awaits recall to a more important post when the heat's off.

News is breaking fast these days! SIGN UP A NEW READER TODAY-$1 FOR 13 WEEKS (Name) (Address) (City, Zone, State)

(Sub sent by)

Mail with $1 for 13 weeks to:

NATIONAL GUARDIAN 197 E. Fourth St. New York 9, N.Y.

murder and torture by the Nightingale of the West German Foreign Office in

BEHIND PINAY'S RESIGNATION Oil from the Sahara Desert a factor in Algerian crisis

PARIS RENCH FINANCE Minister Antoine Pinav's department Pinay's departure from the govern-ment last month did not shake the country as much as the latest Algerian crisis. But it did reveal a few hard facts about one of the mainstays in the propaganda arsenal of the French extremists in Algeria: Sahara oil.

The oil is no great bargain under pres-sent conditions that require constant troop and helicopter guard along the Sahara pipelines. Despite low transporta-tion costs to European ports, Sahara crude oil today costs almost a third more than Middle Eastern oil—50c a barrel against 36c for Middle Eastern. And Sahara oil cannot be easily processed and commercialized outside the refinery and distribution network of the seven big companies, predominantly U.S. and Brit-ish, that dominate the industry internationally

Paradoxically, a peaceful and independent Algeria would greatly facilitate the sale of Sahara oil outside this network.

TIGHT MONOPOLY: The Big Seven control 80% of non-Soviet oil reserves in the world. All but one attempt to break this monopoly have failed. When the Mossadegh government nationalized the Iranian Oil Co. in 1952, it could find only one small Swiss tanker-which was soon put out of business—willing to carry the cargo. Greek shipping magnate Onassis was forced to give up his project to help the ruler of Saudi Arabia in 1953 to break away from Aramco's control.

Duttweiler of Switzerland last year made an offer to the West German government to build a refinery at EmJen and sell its oil 2c below the price main-tained by the Big Seven; Bonn had to call off the deal under threats to undercut the West German coal industry by PARIS a reduction of fuel prices.

So far, only Italy's maverick Enrico Mattei and his ENI, by offerin: Middle Eastern governments a 75% (against the Big Seven's 50%) share in oil profits, has successfully developed an independent Italian oil industry with Europe's largest independent oil fleet and refineries

CONTROL IN FRANCE: The Big Seven monopoly is firmly established in France. It owns ten of the 14 refineries and distributes 59% of all oil products sold in France. When Sahara oil began to flow abundantly from Hassi-Messaoud and Edjeleh, France, with its share in Iraqi oil, faced a 70,000,000-barrel oil surplus in 1961 and an estimated 210,-000,000 barrels in 1965. It was taken for granted that the Sahara oil would be commercialized through the Big Seven.

But last December Paris attempted to negotiate the sale of some oil directly with the European Common Market countries. The Big Seven reacted sharply, but failed to halt the negotiations even with the assistance of former U.S. Am-bassador Douglas Dillon. Industry Minister Jeanneney announced the creation of the SIP (Societe Industrielle des Petroles) with 87% state participation. SIP was to build a national network of re-fineries and gas stations for the Sahara oil companies.

Then Pinay stepped in with a veto. He had long been dissatisfied with Presi-dent de Gaulle's lukewarm attitude towards a common market of all West Eu-The power conflict between Anglorope. American and French oil interests soon Pinay's "economic liberalism" and Pre-mier Debré's "state capitalism" (Pinay calls it socialism). Debré finally won, but many who admired the former Finance Minister as a fighter for Free En-terprise believed Pinay left the government with his chances enhanced as de Gaulle's possible successor.

PRESIDENT DE GAULLE INSPECTS AN OIL WELL IN THE SAHARA wly-tapped wealth has a big role in the Algeria story

What happens to SIP remains to be seen. In the past 20 years many have advocated freeing French economy from Seven domination. Today, howe Big the idea has assumed a particular political coloring: to pro-"French Algeria" ex-tremists, it appears as a watertight economic means of tying North Africa firmly to metropolitan France.

But therein lies the paradox. For many potential oil customers are reluctant to buy Sahara oil from an Algeria that re-

These two diehards had been organizing armed commandos and contacting sym-pathetic army officers, and alarming reports of their activities were appearing in Paris newspapers.

The supremely confident French President's answer then was: "One does not revolt against de Gaulle." But events showed that an ex-paratrooper and a coffee-house owner could defy the Pres-ident of the Republic and the Army-a state within a state—could vacillate be-tween its sympathies with the insurrectionists and its training to obey orders tionists and its training to obey orders of the head of state. Even though these manifestations were temporary, they neverthless served to expose the fiction of French democracy.

HOUR OF DECISION: The behavior of the ultras and the vacillation of the Army were understandable. The ultras had grown arrogant in the belief that they had initiated the putsch in May, 1958, that put de Gaulle in power to keep Al-geria French; since de Gaulle never repudiated their support, they naturally were confident they could overthrow him if he showed signs of allowing Algerians to decide their own fate. The Army has been suffering from an acute sense of frustration since the loss of Syria, Lebanon, Indo-China, Morocco and Tunisia; it could be persuaded to believe at least temporarily that self-determination for Algerians would mean they had fought the FLN in vain.

This would seem to be de Gaulle's hour of decision. The insurrection in Algeria has troubled France's NATO partners and worried Bonn's Chancellor Adenauer, who has been counting on de Gaulle to carry the ball for him at the summit meeting in May. It has caused Algerian Provisional Government Premier Ferhat Abbas to express doubt that de Gaulle's recognition of the Algerians' right to self-determination would settle the problem, "since the application of this right would rest subordinated to the good will mains a French province and thereby risk alienating Arab goodwill and jeopar-dizing the African and Middle Eastern markets.

The Big Seven can afford to be patient and diplomatic for the present. The monopoly has offered—without any firm commitment — to take over 60-80% of the Sahara output. It also holds a trump card: recent discovery of abundant, close-to-the-surface oil in Libya, an independent country.

Besides, in this contest over oil in a war-torn country, the Big Seven may even have received some promises—if not something more tangible—from the Algerian National Liberation Front.

of an army of occupation and the ultras." THE BIG QUESTION: The FLN leaders were having second thoughts about a cease-fire de Gaulle has demanded as a precondition for Algerian self-determina-tion; for they know that, once they lay down their arms, it would take years to rebuild a revolutionary force if that be-came necessary. Pending further clearcut action by de Gaulle, they urged at the African People's Congress in Tunis on Jan. 31 UN intervention in Algeria and appealed to "brother and friendly countries" to form international brigades in support of FLN fighters. The appeal was wildly cheered at the Congress.

With the present overwhelming support by all shades of political opinion behind him, will de Gaulle take this opportunity to smash the fascist insurrection as well as free himself fully from those to whom he feels he owes his rise to power in 1958? His Jan. 29 broadcast gave little hint of such a forthright decision; it was, in fact, so obscure on basic issues that many ultras are already interpreting it in their favor. If the ultras are right, the future would seem to be dark for France and for an early settlement of the Algerian war.

First Unitarian Church offers H3 talk Feb. 12

C ECILIA ROSENFELD, M.D., recently returned from a visit to the clinic of Dr. Anna Aslan in Rumania and health centers in Moscow and Leningrad, will speak on "New Medical Horizons: A Report on the Treatment of Novocain (H3) Practiced in Rumania and the Soviet Union" at the First Unitarian Church of Los Angeles Friday evening, Feb. 12, at 8 p.m.

Dr. Rosenfeld attended conferences with Soviet geriatric specialists and brings back first-hand knowledge of medical developments abroad. Admission to the forum is $1. Tickets can be purchased at the church office, 2936 W. 8th St.

Algeria revolt

(Continued from Page 1)

order to disperse. Troops brought into Algiers next day from outlying areas openly sympathized with the insurgents. Paratroop commander Gen. Jean Gra-cieux said: "I would never order an attack on patriots."

Shops closed in a general strike. Thou-sands of Europeans brought food and wine to the barricaded insurgents, shout-ing "Algeria is French." By the second ing night, the insurrection had spread to other Algerian cities. On the third day thousands more brought arms and supplies and joined the insurgents behind the barricade and Parisians were shocked to learn of the Army's "benevolent neutrality" toward the insurgents

DE GAULLE SPEAKS: On Jan. 29 de Gaulle donned his general's uniform, went on the air and made a characteristic speech, clear in its command to the Army and the insurgents but cloudy in its reference to offers he had made to the FLN. He called the insurgent leaders "liars "liars and conspirators" who tell their followers that by granting "free choice" to the Al-

Dr. Du Bois to speak in New York Feb. 12 W. E. B. DU BOIS, Negro scholar

DR. D and historian, will speak in celebra-tion of Negro History Week Friday, Feb. 12, at 8 p.m., in the Grand Ballroom of the Victory Mutual Life Insurance Co., 110 E. 125th St. (off Park Ave.), New York City.

Dr. Du Bois will speak under the aus-pices of the Market Place Gallery in the second lecture of a series devoted to the contemporary scene. Contribution is $1.50. Reserved seats may be purchased in advance from the Market Place Gallery, 2305 Seventh Ave., New York 30.

gerian Moslems de Gaulle planned "to abandon" the Europeans, "withdraw from Algeria" and surrender Algeria to the FLN.

"I am the supreme responsible one, de Gaulle said. "It is I who bear the destiny of the country. I must there-fore be obeyed by all French soldiers [whose] duty is to attain order. I have given—I give— the order for it."

By the time de Gaulle gave this order, all political groups in France except the extreme right had rallied behind him. By Feb. 1 thousands of fresh troops had arrived in Algiers; they dispersed the supporting crowds and sealed off the barricaded insurgents. Afterwards. 8 face-saving formula allowed the insurgent rank and file to keep their arms by remaining "at the disposition of the army." Lagaillard was flown to Paris for trial. Ortiz had gone into hiding and Martel's whereabouts were unknown.

"I'm presenting my motion of censure.

DIMMED GLORY: Although the ultra's revolt is crushed, the Fifth Republic will never be the same again. France's "grandeur" will fade and de Gaulle's glory will dim. It was no secret in Paris that Ortiz and Lagaillard had been planning the insurrection since last September when de Gaulle announced his offer of self-determination to the Algerians.

THE ROSY GLOW FADES UNDER A CLOSE LOOK

President's economic report a GOP campaign document

By Russ Nixon Guardian staff correspondent

WASHINGTON MA LL'S WELL, don't rock the boat," says the Economic Report the President presented to Congress Jan. 20.

Prepared by the President's Council of Economic Advisers, the report, proclaims the "Prosperity" part of the "Peace and Prosperity" slogan which the Republican National Finance Committee says "describes the two monumental Eisenhower accomplishments." As it did for the Conservatives in Great Britain last October, the slogan is counted on by Republicans to bring them victory in November.

The report is thus a prime piece of Republican Party campaign literature. A mixture of fact, fancy, and Philistine philosophy, it represents the best case a conservative Big Business government can make for itself and its plans for the future. The main points are:

• The economy is booming and "the outlook is good for an extension of growth through 1960 and beyond."

• The U.S. has the "highest living scale in the world" which can continue to rise in spite of "a heavy defense burden."

• Everybody should "be good." A Presidential sermon says "consumers should spend wisely . . . buy carefully for price and quality"; corporations should reduce prices whenever they can; and labor should speed up its output and slow down its demands for more wages.

• Not much legislative action is needed, except not to spend more than the President requested, and to use his projected budget surplus to reduce the national debt. A "system of shared responsibility" is described "to get the job done by individuals and private groups and by government at state and community levels ______ and lessen the danger of Federal encroachment _____"

PROFITS AT PEAK: Within this smug account are some hard and significant facts. The total output of our nation's goods and services, the gross national product, reached an annual rate of $482 billion at the year's end—the half-trillion mark, $500,000,000, will soon be passed. Profits before taxes hit a record peak of $53 billion in 1959 just before the steel strike.

A special statistical appendix details "The Diffusion of Well-Being, 1946-59." The real per capita disposable personal income (after income taxes and after adjustment for price rises) was $1.891 in 1959, a rise of $286 since 1946. Average family income after taxes and after correction for price changes rose from $4,760in 1947 to $5,830 in 1959. Seventy percent of all families own an automobile, 61% of non-farm dwelling units are owner-occupied, 90% of all wired homes have TV, 98% have refrigerators, and

Eccles, London Daily Work "Gentlemen . . . Leap Year"

93% have electric washers.

In this period since World War II, the infant mortality rate per 1,000 live births has fallen from 33.8 to 26.3, and the maternal mortality rate fell from 1.57 to 0.38. Diptheria has dropped from 16,354 cases in 1946 to 930 in 1959, TB from 119,256 to 75,000 cases, typhoid fever from 3,268 to 900 cases, and smallpox has disappeared entirely.

A CLOSER LOOK: But the President's rosy picture fades under critical examination. Concern over recurring recessions is minimized, and the report belittles the fact that about half the time since World War II our economy either has been sliding down or climbing out of the trough of a recession.

The President is cautious in his economic forecasting: "It is always difficult in a dynamic, free economy such as ours to depict in advance the course likely to be taken in production, employment, and income." But he does "expect" the present expansion to hold up during 1960, and he even says with only a couple of "ifs" that it might continue "well beyond the present year."

The Economic Policy Committee of the AFL-CIO charged that the President "failed to grapple with the fundamental problem facing the American economynamely, that a full year after the end of the recession, 5% of the labor force is still unemployed and almost one-fifth of the nation's productive capacity still lies idle." The President's report claims that "in general, unemployment rates in the U.S. have not been high."

THE OMISSIONS: With all its statistics, the report does not make clear how many workers exhausted their unemployment benefits, or correct its jobless estimates to include involuntary part-time workers and would-be workers excluded from the labor force by lack of job opportunities, nor does it point out that about 12,000,-000 workers experienced unemployment during 1959. The significant chart in last year's report which showed the big unused manufacturing capacity was deleted this year.

The report conceals in a welter of general averages and "total" figures the economic hardship of millions of low-income people, including especially minority groups. The suffering and insecurity of millions of aged persons is drowned in "overall" social security data. The income data does not reveal that more than 50% of all American families have annual incomes below the level of carefully calculated minimum family budgets.

The President reports that "the shortage of housing . . . has been virtually eliminated," and thus ignores the existence of widespread slums and the decay of our cities. The steady erosion of the standards of social security, minimum wages, and unemployment compensation is not revealed. The widely acknowledged educational shortages are hidden behind statistics showing increased school enrollment, more dollars spent for education, and more Doctoral degrees being granted. Our lag in scientific research and training is glossed over with the observation that "since 1946, close to half of the Nobel awards for contributions to medicine, chemistry, and physics have been bestowed on American citizens."

The fact that we have fewer physicians and dentists per 100,000 population today than we did in 1949 is carefully tucked away in Table C-30, page 147. Hit-and-run treatment is given the fact that the realized net income of farm operators from farming fell from $13.1 billion in 1958 to $11 billion in 1959. The relatively new problem that for the past two years the U.S. has had an annual $4 billion deficit in its international balance of payments was met simply with a hope that the situation would improve.

SOME DISSENTS: The nearest thing to a Democratic answer to all this appeared in a majority report of the Congressional Joint Economic Committee on "Employment, Growth, and Price Levels." Issued Jan. 26 and prepared under the guidance of Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.), the document charged the Eisenhower Administration with causing economic growth to stagnate at a 2.3% rate since 1953. To gain the recommended goal of a 4.5% rate of growth, the Committee Democrats urged an end to the Republican hard money, high interest rate policy and called for tax reforms with increased Federal spending, especially for aid to education.

Walter Lippmann criticized the President's report for its dangerous philosophy of "reducing the share of the national income which is spent by the government" and making maximum production of consumer goods our economic goal. This leads, Lippmann wrote, "to loving our liberty to enjoy consumer goods so much that we cannot afford to educate our children." Harvard Professor and Democratic Party economic adviser Kenneth Galbraith developed this criticism in his book The Affluent Society when he argued that "we must find a way to remedy the poverty which afflicts us in public services and which is in such increasingly bizarre contrast with our affluence in private goods."

Perhaps the Republicans are entitled to be smug about the November election. But behind this short term complacency, a specter is haunting all economic reporters, including the President. His report doesn't anywhere mention the words "capitalism" or "socialism," but the socialist economies with their nearly 10% steady annual growth in gross national product and their planned priority programs for education, research, health, social security, urban and resource development are beginning sharply to challenge the U.S. economy with its bare 3% growth rate and its economic anarchy of starved schools and fancy big-fin Cadillacs.

SMITH ACT PRISONER MOVED TO NEW YORK HOSPITAL Serious illness sparks demand for Winston parole

HENRY WINSTON, one of three Smith Act defendants remaining in Federal custody, was rushed from the Medical Center for Federal Prisoners at Springfield, Mo., on Jan. 30 for emergency medical treatment by private physicians at the Montefiore Hospital in New York.

Despite the requests of his family, attorney and friends for unconditional medical parole, Winston was kept in the custody of Federal Bureau of Prison officials as he awaited an operation for a possible brain tumor. He had hardly been settled in a room at Montefiore Hospital when guards from the West Street Federal jail in New York arrived to place him under 24-hour surveillance. Only a protest from Winston's lawyer, John J. Abt, forced the removal of one of the guards from the room of the sick man who has lost the sight of one eye, suffered failing vision in the other, and is unable to walk. The guard took up his station at the nurses' desk in the hospital corridor.

MEDICAL HISTORY: Winston's ailment began as early as last April when he complained to visitors at the Federal penitentiary at Terre Haute, Ind., that he suffered from recurrent dizzy spells. The prison medical officers at that time diagnosed his condition as high blood pressure. For months, no more serious condition was suspected.

But the dizziness continued and by last fall Winston suffered from severe headaches and a periodic failure of vision. He also began to notice some impairment of his motor functions. Nevertheless, he maintained the customary prison routine as best he could. Whenever he appeared on the prison sick line he was given Dramamine pills for "dizziness."

Finally, at the insistence of his family and attorney, Winston was placed in the prison hospital in mid-January. When facilities for diagnosis proved inadequate he was removed to the Springfield, Mo., medical facility on Jan. 21.

THE CASE FOR PAROLE: Meanwhile, the U.S. Parole Board in Washington had under consideration Winston's appeal for a reconsideration of his parole application. On Jan. 27 the Board met and heard an appeal for parole from a citizens committee headed by Rev. Edler Hawkins, pastor of St. Augustine Presbyterian Church in the Bronx and moderator of the New York Presbytery. Presenting the legal arguments for the group was Conrad Lynn, a prominent civil rights attorney.

The group pointed out that Winstonformer organizational secretary of the Communist Party and one of the first group of Smith Act defendants—had served more than the minimum time prescribed under his five-year sentence; that since his trial the Supreme Court had invalidated the grounds under which he had been convicted; that the additional three-year sentence imposed on him for failure to surrender for imprisonment in 1951 was harsh and vindictive, especially in light of his later voluntary surrender; that his continued imprisonment worked a cruel hardship on his wife and two young children; and that the very practice of jailing political dissenters was repugnant to the nation's democratic professions.

PROTESTS URGED: The Board took the plea under advisement and deferred a decision. With the matter still pending there, U.S. Prisons Director James V. Bennett moved to place Winston under the private medical care which his family requested, but maintained him in Federal custody on condition that upon recovery he would be returned to prison.

Civil liberties spokesmen urged a widespread public demand for immediate unconditional parole for Winston, who underwent a serious operation on Feb. 2 and faces a long and difficult period of convalescence. Parole may be granted by the U.S. Board of Parole, George J. Reed, chairman, H.O.L.C. Building, 101 Indiana Avenue, Washington, D.C.

JOURNALIST OR SECRET AGENT?

Lowell Thomas Jr.'s fanciful tale of Tibet

By Anna Louise Strong Guardian staff correspondent

PEKING PEKING N HIS NEW BOOK, Silent War in Tibet, Lowell Thomas Jr. claims that Tibet is a separate nation, suffering "centuries of Chinese intervention" but attaining "complete independence" in 1913, only to be overwhelmed again by the Communist Chinese in 1951 because the free world gave them no support. The Tibetans "resisted with ferocity"

The Tibetans "resisted with ferocity" but were beaten and have since been engaged in "silent war" against the "vastly superior Red Army," trying to maintain their religion, their customs and their ethnic existence, while China carries on a "systematic destruction of the Tibetan people, and replaces them in their own land with millions of forced Chinese settlers."

Lowell Thomas Jr. went to Tibet with his father in 1949, and did a world promotion job for Tibetan independence which any journalist has a right to do. But it is deceiving the readers when a writer claims to be only a journalist, as he did, while he carries messages between governments and seeks arms and military advisers to set up one more of those socalled "independent states" under Washington's control, to "contain Communist China."

LETTER IS PROOF: That was his mission and it has been exposed by a letter he wrote to the Lhasa government May 10, 1950, which was found in the files last spring, and is now on exhibition in Peking. The exhibition shows an enlarged Chinese translation of parts of the letter, but I handled the original letter in full.

On seven pages of heavy yellow-cream stationery, water-marked Strathmore Bond Rag Content USA and monogrammed with a neat green LT in the upper left-hand corner, and the address of Lowell Thomas Jr. at Hammersley Hill, Pauling, N.Y., Mr. Thomas conveys the details of his father's health, his greetings to the Dalai Lama and a report of his talk with President Truman ("to whom I delivered your message") and with Secretary of State Dean Acheson. He asked Truman for arms and military advisers, but Truman was noncommittal, expressing only his "hope to organize the moral forces of the world against the immoral," and recognizing the Dalai Lama as a "moral force."

Lama as a "moral force." Secy. Acheson went further and suggested that Lowell Thomas Jr. make another trip to Tibet and take with him a "disguised government representative" for closer contacts—a Mr. Max Thornburg whom Thomas recommends to the Tibetans as a man with whom Thomas himself "worked two summers in Turkey and Iran," and who is "well-qualified for the assignment" of top-level undercover anti-Communist activity. This makes clear that for at least three years Thomas himself engaged in secret anti-Communist jobs for the U.S. government, a background to be considered in estimating his views on Tibet.

ODD VIEW: Mr. Thomas' view of Tibet as an essentially independent nation since 1913 seems an unusual distortion of the thousand years in which Hans, Tibetans, Mongols, Manchus, Moslems and scores of other nations were welded into a unified "Chinese Empire," with various national dynasties succeeding each other in rule. All Chinese, and most Tibetans, consider that Tibet has been part of China for 700 years. A Tibetan noble whose family has been high in government for a thousand years—they were "kings" before the "political unification"

TOKYO STUDENTS PEER OVER A BARRICADE THAT DIDN'T WORK The piled desks, benches and chairs in a corridor of Tokyo's International Airport were intended to block Premier Kishi's departure for the U.S. to sign the new U.S.-Japanese Security Pact—but Kishi left by another route. Unrest over the pact—signed in Washington on Jan. 18—continues in Japan. Last week Japan's Asian neighbors—the U.S.S.R., China, North Korea and North Vietnam protested the treaty as a danger to world peace. February 8, 1960

THE THOMAS LETTER FOUND IN THE DALAI LAMA'S FILES He proposes a visit by a "disguised government representative" —told me: "It was Kublai Khan who took Tibet into China, in 1275 A.D."

Nobody denies that movements of separatism occurred in these seven centuries, the last being in 1911 when the Empire split into warlord provinces. But "independence" never became unanimous in Tibet, and I personally have seen in an exhibit in Peking the letter sent by the Kasha. Tibet's local government, in 1942, appointing "deputies to the All-China National Congress" under Chiang Kai-shek, and also photographs of the Tibetan deputies to the Congress in 1946. Whatever Tibetans may have thought in 1911, they were joining up again by the 1940's. In 1951, when they learned the "nationality policy" of the present Chinese government, they accepted unanimously—the Dalai Lama by wire in the name of "all the monks and the laity"—their inclusion "within the borders of China," with the People's Liberation Army as their "national army of defense."

In all the seven centuries, no foreign power ever recognized Tibet as an independent nation, or sent an ambassador to Lhasa; and even when Britain's army marched to Lhasa and forced a treaty in the Potala Palace, which aimed at driving a wedge between Lhasa and Peking, the 750,000 pounds indemnity was billed to Peking and paid by the Chinese court.

WHICH TIBET? So much for "independence." When Mr. Thomas next charges that China "is sending millions of forced Chinese settlers" to "replace Tibetans in their own land," I think he knows that this is the kind of half-truth that is worse than a bare lie. Not a single Chinese settler has been allowed in the past ten years in Tibet proper.

But besides the "Tibet" you find on your map, there is a "greater Tibet" which Mr. Thomas, and recently the Dalai Lama, claim. This is all the territory Tibetan tribes once roamed over, and where many Tibetans live today, mixed in with Hans, Mongols, and other nationalities. Tibet proper, which is left to Tibetans, is 469,194 square miles of land with 1,200,000 people, a big enough place for anyone. But some 1,600,000 Tibetans also live in Yunnan, Szechuan, Kansu and Chinghai, with millions of other people, and "Greater Tibet" might include onefifth of all China, including some of the best oil lands.

The picture Mr. Thomas gives of the 1950-51 period, when "the Reds struck with enormous strength in October, 1951, against ferocious Tibetan resistance," hardly fits the facts. The only fight was the battle of Chamdo, October, 1950, outside Tibet proper in the province then known as Sikang. Part of the Tibetans came over and joined the Reds and the general staff was captured, and, on learning the terms and plans of the People's Liberation Army, they advised the Dalai Lama to make a deal. Then the Reds sat down for eight months and waited in Chamdo for the negotiations, which were signed in May, 1951. By October. 1951, the Chinese Army, which had not entered Tibet until they were invited, were being banqueted in Lhasa and conducted to their posts on the "national border" towards India and Nepal by Tibetan military appointees. The Dalai Lama was wiring Mao Tse-tung of the "unanimous support."

"AN UTTER LIE": The deadliest charge by Mr. Thomas is that China is trying to root out the Tibetan people, and that the Tibetans wage "silent war" against obliteration. This is an utter lie. The Tibetans have really been dying out, along with the Mongols, for the last seven centuries, from serfdom and monasticism, from childbirth in stables without care, and venereal disease which follows the monasteries like a plague.

But as of the year 1959, this long death of the Tibetan people is over, for on July 17, 1959, serfdom was legally abolished and the Tibetan people became masters in their land. For 700 years they were really silent; neither Lowell Thomas nor any visitor could have openly interviewed the serfs. Now they are not silent; they are singing, and talking and holding meetings and forming peasant associations, and dividing the land.

Everyone who enters their country, and all of the Hans who work with them, are surprised at the burst of dramatic and poetic talent, in the songs and dramas the Tibetan people now write. I saw many such plays and gathered some of the songs. One of them is:

Dalai Lama's sun shone only on the lords;

Chairman Mao is a sun, shining on the people.

Now the sun of the lords sets, And our sun rises."

BREAKING DOWN JIMCROW

New York rail clerks elect Negro president

WHEN Thomas Watkins was installed as president of the predominantlywhite Lodge 173 of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Railway Clerks on Jan. 21, he became the first Negro to hold that position in an integrated lodge of the union. His election was a step forward in the New York area lodge's fight against the brotherhood's anti-Negro policies, but the battle is far from won.

Until 1947 the brotherhood's constitution contained a "white only" clause. For a time thereafter, Negroes were permitted to join auxiliary lodges. When the brotherhood won the union shop in 1951, they were given a choice of setting up all-Negro lodges or joining white ones. Now, of some 13,000 lodges, 1,000 are integrated and 150 are all-Negro.

Lodge 173 became integrated in 1955. Two years later it elected William R. Scott, a Negro, secretary of the Protective Committee, the body charged with policing the contract. In December, 1958, Scott ran for chairman of the committee, a four-year post, roughly equivalent to business agent. He was elected by a vote of 328 to 173. The slate he headed, including six Negroes and nine whites, won by similar margins over an all-white ticket.

ELECTION CHALLENGED: The defeated candidate, Anthony J. Riccio, appealed to Brotherhood president George M. Harrison to disallow the election on the ground that Scott did not meet the eligibility requirements of the constitution. Without a hearing, Harrison invalidated Scott's election and that of three others because they were not employed "continuously" for more than a year.

Scott and the others appealed Harrison's ruling to the union's highest council and to the convention. But each time Harrison was upheld. Scott is now suing for reinstatement in the New York State Supreme Court; a hearing is expected in April. Meanwhile Riccio has remained in office.

Under the union's agreement with the New York Central Railroad, workers "shape-up" for jobs on a seniority basis. There are two kinds of positions: "bulletin" or regular jobs and "extra" men who work only occasionally. A "bulletined" worker may be bumped to the "extra" category by a man with higher seniority. A worker's status may vary depending on the number of jobs open and his relative seniority.

THE ANSWER: Scott has worked for the railroad for more than three years. He has often been a "bulletined" worker, but has frequently been bumped onto the "extra" list. To the railroad, for purposes of vacation, sickness and other fringe benefits, he is considered a regular employe.

In his appeal, Scott pointed out that Harrison's interpretation of the constitution had never been used against any other officer although many are also "extra" workers. The former chairman of the union's New York Central Division was an "extra" man, as are officers in two of the division's lodges. About 30% of Scott's lodge are "extra" men. Scott also asked why no objection was raised when he served as secretary of the committee.

To many, Scott's color held the answer. Scott's court appeal charged that brotherhood vice president Harold J. Chapman had assured other "extra" men who hold office and are white that Harrison's ruling would not be invoked against them.

NO REPLY: J. Carlton Yeldell, labor relations secretary of the Natl. Urban League, after investigation, concluded that the action against Scott was discriminatory. He sent a report of his findings to Harrison last May with a request for a reply, but none ever came.

Yeldell's report served as the basis for an amicus brief the NAACP filed in Scott's behalf. Among other things, it said that brotherhood organizer Edward Lanza "sided with Riccio on racial grounds. We have information which indicates that Lanza did not want Negroes in integrated lodges to hold any key posts within the lodge."

The report also said that "information in our possession" indicates that brotherhood representative James W. Hartley "had conversations . . . which expressed his dislike and contempt of Negroes. He is reported to have said, among other things: 'You don't have to worry about them damn niggers or take any crap off them because we white members are in the majority in our brotherhood'."

Lodge 173 has 800-1,000 members; twothirds are white. Negroes work as freight handlers and "breakadors" (operating the lorries that carry freight from the docks to the terminal). Clerks, with three or four exceptions, are white.

LESSON LEARNED: Traditionally the lodge was dominated by the clerks. The chairman of the Protective Committee was always a clerk until 1957. There was a great deal of turnover in the post because many were promoted into management positions shortly after taking office. There was a standing joke among lodge members that the best way to become a foreman is to get elected to union office.

Shortly after Scott came into the lodge he organized a successful campaign to enlarge the Protective Committee to three members with the provision that all three must be present when grievances are argued with the management. As he puts it: "The members were getting suspicious of all those promotions."

Following the enlargement of the committee and Scott's election as secretary, grievances were handled with dispatch and to the members' satisfaction. Scott won the support and respect of the overwhelming majority of the members. At meetings there are rarely more than five or six votes in opposition to his resolutions.

Watkins' election by a two-to-one vote represents a victory for Scott's efforts to vitalize the lodge. Lodge 173 seems to have learned brotherhood, but has Harrison?

NATIONAL GUARDIAN 7

FOR DISARMAMENT

Representatives of 15 nations at 'Foothills' talk

By Cedric Belfrage

LONDON N THE GRAND committee-room of the House of Commons Feb. 2-5, the world disarmament movement took on a new dimension with the convening of a "Foothills Conference" on a major scale. Formally known as the East-West Unofficial Round Table Meeting, the conference brought together members of parliaments and other non-governmental personalities from at least 15 countries. It stemmed out of two smaller "foothill" gettogethers held last year, the first of which was convened by Sweden's veteran Socialist Sen. Branting.

Sparking the conference was a committee of British Labor MP's including former minister and Nobel Peace Prize winner Philip Noel-Baker, "shadow" Minister of Labor Fred Lee, 1958 Labor Party chairman Tom Driberg, Lord Faringdon and Konni Zilliacus.

The agenda: (1) Technical problems of disarmament, introduced by Noel-Baker; (2) international action to cushion the economic consequences, introduced by chairman Arzumanian of the Soviet Institute of World Economy and Intl. Relations; (3) political problems of disengagement (including the German question) introduced by Finn Moe, chairman of the Norwegian Parliament's Foreign Affairs Commission.

SOLUTIONS SOUGHT: Introductory papers were circulated in advance to delegates to ensure down-to-earth discussion. The conference sought on the various levels practical solutions to the basic problem before the world's governments: how to move with minimal risk to each nation's interests from the outdated balance-of-power concept to the UN Charter concept which assumes a general will to peace.

A week before the conference the organizers were heartened by prospects of a strong U.S. delegation, including Rep. Charles O. Porter, Nation publisher George G. Kirstein, Stewart Meacham of the American Friends Service Committee, and Cornell nuclear physics Prof. Jay Orear, chairman of the Fedn. of American Scientists' disarmament committee. Others expected were:

Canada: Rt. Hon. Milton F. Gregg VC CBE, former minister in the St. Laurent cabinet.

Italy: Deputy chairman Lombardi and secy. Vittorelli of the Socialist Party's Intl. Relations Committee.

France: Sen. Leo Hamond (Gaullist), and Anxionnaz (Méndes-France spokesman), Pierre Cot and Emanuel d'Astier (Progressive), editor and Paris Councilor Claude Bourdet (United Autonomous Socialists).

West Germany: Evangelical Pastor Mochalski of Darmstadt.

Sweden: Sen. Branting, Agrarian Party, Sen. Bengtsson.

U.S.S.R.R.: Ukrainian playwright Alexander Korneichuk, novelist-journalist Ilya Ehrenburg.

Delegations from Poland, East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria.

Korneichuk and Ehrenburg will attend as members of the Supreme Soviet, which twice recently appealed to the world's parliaments to follow its disarmament moves. They are expected to stress that these moves are not made in isolation but in the context of a call for total world-wide disarmament.

Bonn Social Democrats decided to boycott the conference and banned all contact with Communists because of the "irreconcilable opposition between socialism and communism."

Fifty foreign delegates were present at the opening session.

Go Guardian for the tour of your life

A PARTY with Cedric Belfrage, Konni Zilliacus and (if he's in town) Paul Robeson in London, dinner with progressive VIP's, a fashion show and a visit to the Renault factory in Paris, tours of factory clubs, co-op farms and the newest and oldest synagogues in Czechoslovakia, a possible official reception in Krakow, Poland—these are just a few of the events in store for the lucky travelers departing from New York on May 15 on the GUARDIAN's first European Tour.

Letters received this week from Editor-in-Exile Belfrage and correspondents Anne Bauer in Paris and George Wheeler in Prague, tell of plans to make the tourists' stay in their respective capitals an exciting one. Writes Wheeler: "Count on a visit to a nursery school, dinner at a wonderful restaurant overlooking the Moldau, and Laterna Magica, which combines theater, movies, ballet and other arts in a unique presentation." And Miss Bauer offers—in addition—her husband Pierre, "the most knowledgea.Je person I know," as a Parisian guide!

F LIENDS IN SWEDEN, the Soviet Union and Poland are making arrangements for concert tickets, parties and special tours for the group, which will spend four days in Stockholm, two in Helsinki and nearly four full weeks touring nine major cities in the first land of socialism before returning via Krakow, Prague and Paris. Full details on all special plans for the traveling VIP's will be ready soon.

hoim, two in Heisinki and nearly four full weeks touring nine major cities in the first land of socialism before returning via Krakow, Prague and Paris. Full details on all special plans for the traveling VIP's will be ready soon. The 45-day tour by land, air and sea (boat trips from Stockholm to Helsinki, and from Sukhumi along the Black Sea coast to Yalta and Odessa) is planned to take advantage of the late spring months, finest season in Europe.

TOUR CONDUCTOR will be Peggy Middleton, popular London County Councilor, whose contacts abroad will afford intimate glimpses of the countries visited. The $1,795 "package price" covers all transportation, meals and lodging, sightseeing trips, guides, baggage transfers and normal tips. Reservations are coming in steadily, and those who want to take advantage of this trip of a lifetime would do well to reserve now. Write Guardian Tour, 197 East 4th St., New York 9, N.Y.

One of the sights you'll see in Prague

Civil rights plan

(Continued from Page 1) DEADLINE SET: The proposal came as a climax to a long record of Administra-tion indifference on the civil rights issue and on the eve of probable heated debates in the Senate and House. Senate Major-ity Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas), an unannounced candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination, has set Feb. 15 as the deadline for consideration of civil rights bills now being discussed by a subcommittee on Rules and Ad-

REPORT ON CIVIL RIGHTS A volunteer panel of distinguished citizens heard complaints of Southern Negroes who had been denied the right to register for voting in a civil rights hearing conducted by several organiza-tions in Washington on Jan. 31. A full report will appear in next week's GUARDIAN, ministration. This tactic was found necessary to overcome the obstruction of Sen. James O. Eastland's Judiciary Committee which has bottled up civil rights measures since the opening days of the Congress in January, 1959.

In the House the progress of civil rights bills has been equally slow. Chairman Howard Smith (D-Va.), heading a Southern Democrat-Northern Republican coalition in the Rules Committee, has block-ed the way to floor debate on HR 8601, a mild Administration proposal. Efforts to take the bill out of the hands of the Committee through a discharge petition, requiring the signatures of 219 Congressmen, have thus far foundered on obvious Republican disfavor. Of 190 signatures on the petition, only 30-odd Republicans were recorded as of Jan. 29.

FOLLOWING IKE: It was clear the Republicans were following the line of the President and the Administration. In his State of the Union message President Eisenhower made only a passing and unenthusiastic reference to civil rights. When, a few days later, he was asked about another plan protecting voting rights—the Civil Rights Commission's proposal for temporary Federal registrars —he cast doubt on the constitutionality of the plan.

His statement drew the fire of the most conservative member of the Commission, Robert G. Storey, former dean of the Southern Methodist University Law School. Storey presented to the civil rights subcommittee of the Senate Rules and Administration Committee a long history supporting the constitutionality of the proposal for registrars appointed by the Administration.

In light of this record, the immediate and long-term impact of the Rogers proposal was the subject of widespread debate. The New York Times (Jan. 28) felt that "in proposing a major strength-ening of the Civil Rights Act of 1957, President Eisenhower's Administration has taken the curse off the almost casual approach to this subject he showed in his State of the Union message early this accuse the pharmaceutical industry of

The $64,000 political question

month." The Washington Post, however, felt that "one of the effects of his proposal for Federal court referees instead of Federal registrars to prevent racial discrimination in voting is to throw off balance many supporters of civil rights legislation.

PROS AND CONS: The imbalance was caused by legal as well as political considerations. Rogers urged adoption of his plan on the ground that it embraces state as well as Federal elections and that, by the two companies generally make bids that are identical "to a thousandth of a cent."

SUIT FILED: While the hearings were in progress, the Justice Dept, filed an antitrust suit based on its own study against the two companies. The suit charged that the companies conspired to exclude other manufacturers from producing meprobamate and to fix prices. The government asked the court for an order to require Carter to make its patent available without charge to anyone desir-ing to use it, or to set up a licensing system involving reasonable royalties. Rep. John A. Blatnik (D-Minn.) testi-fied that a drug inquiry by a House subned that a drug inquiry by a House sub-committee he headed two years ago was "thwarted at every turn" by the AMA. Nevertheless, he said, his committee learned that "false and misleading ad-vertising of tranquilizing drugs was prevalent." He said many were introduced "with a minimum of clinical testing." "with a minimum of clinical testing." He added: "Certain medical groups . . exhibited an appalling lack of knowledge and have attempted to whitewash, cover up and minimize the seriousness of the problem.

AMA officials denied Blatnik's charge and said they had clarified advertising standards for their publications. In 1958 AMA publications received $6,000,000 in advertising from drug companies.

THE ANSWERS: At the hearings two prominent psychiatrists testified that Miltown, Equanil and other "mild" tran-quilizers could be habit-forming. Dr. Fritz Freyhan said that after extended, heavy use, "when Miltown has been with-drawn convulsions have been observed."

When Kefauver asked Carter's medical chief, Dr. Frank Berger, why Miltown advertisements did not carry warnings of possible addiction, he answered: "You don't put a warning on a beer bottle [although] beer and whiskey can be ad-

February 8, 1960

restricting jurisdiction of voting to officers of the courts, the plan would be more likely to survive legal challenges than the several bills providing for Federal registrars.

But Sen. Philip A. Hart (D-Mich.) contended "it was more appropriate to keep the administration of voting in Congress and the executive than to put it in the courts." He felt that "if the courts move no more quickly on voting than they have on school integration, the Rogers system would take too long."

CONFUSED SITUATION: The political implications of the Rogers proposals were clear. The initiative would be used to save the Republicans from the embar-rassment they have suffered for their inaction to date. An effort would also be made to turn the proposal to the ad-vantage of Vice President Nixon, Rogers, a close friend and political confidant of the Vice President, announced that Nixon had seen the plan and approved it. Within the Congress itself, however, the situation was more confused than than ever. The prospects were that Adminis-tration leaders would push for priority for the Rogers proposal in both Houses. If this should mean piloting a bill through committees and onto the floor for eventual debate and vote, it could delay Congressional action until the last days of the short session. The alternative -considering the plan as an amendment

dictive."

The hearings closed with the questioning of T. H. Davies Haines, president of the American division of CIBA, a Swiss company. He said his company had spent millions to develop resperine from an Asian plant and therefore had to charge druggists $39.50 for 1,000 tablets. A small company, Panray, sells the same product for $2.65. Haines said the lower price was possible because the smaller com-pany does not spend money on research and advertising.

The hearings will reopen later this month and will deal with antibiotics and diabetes medicines. If Kefauver plans to introduce special legislation, the drug companies don't give it much chance of passing. Drug officials point to revelations of price-fixing in the steel and auto industries made by Kefauver's commit-tee two years ago which died with the committee's report.

NO CHANGE SEEN: The Wall Street Journal reported (Jan. 27): "There is no apparent evidence that the drug com-panies are considering any significant changes in their admittedly expensive promotion practices."

The same paper reported after the De-cember hearings: "Drug producers insist the inquiries will bring little, if any, change in present research and market-ing activities. . . Drug executives doubt that Sen. Kefauver . . . can develop a case strong enough to get legislation or court action."

Reports of drug profits for 1959 in-dicate record levels. It will be a while before fourth quarter figures are in, but American Home Products, for example, estimates that sales and profits will be  $10\,\%-12\,\%$  higher in 1959 than for the previous year. This may cheer the companies' directors, but it is not likely to tranquilize the anxieties of people who cannot afford to buy the drugs.

Tranquilizer profits (Continued from Page 1)

ments were also given at the committee's December hearings by steroid hormone manufacturers.

The defense of high research costs didn't hold up for the committee's first witness, Walter A. Munns, president of Smith, Kline & French. The company sells about $50,000,000 a year of chlor-promazine under the brand names Thorazine and Compazine. But the drug was developed by a French company. In Paris the drug wholesales at 51 cents for 50 tablets; Sydney, Australia, 94 cents; Dusseldorf, Germany, 97 cents; London, 77 cents. But in the United States Smith, Kline & French sells it to druggists for $3.03.

REAL GROWTH: For the first three quarters of 1959, the company showed a net profit of 19.5% of sales against 4.9% for all industry. Kefauver told Munns: "This is a burden on taxpayers, sick peo-ple, the government. You have a monopoly position. Don't you think you might have a little compassion?"

Munns replied that his company's prices were "a great bargain and very reasonable." Without tranquilizers, he said, mental hospitals would have to care for an additional 50,000 patients. Thus, the drug companies are saving the nation $75,000,000 a year. The committee staff showed that if a person bought 225 shares of Smith, Kline & French stock for $9,900 on Dec. 31, 1948, he would have received by the end of 1959 $20,070 in dividends and his stock would be worth $244,013. Munns com-mented: "Doesn't this typify a real growth company?"

"I ACCUSE": Mike Gorman, executive director of the Natl. Committee Against Mental Illness, told the committee:

America of contributing to the return of thousands of mental patients to mental hospitals because of the high price of tranquilizing drugs." He said the companies were not really interested in basic research because they turned down government grants which require waiving exclusive patent rights. Much of the industry's research, he said, is in determining whether "the American housewife prefers a blue pill to a green pill."

Most roughed up at the hearings were Carter and American Home Products, ex-clusive manufacturers of meprobamate. Carter developed the drug and holds a patent on it which it licensed only to AHP. Carter markets the drug under the brand name Miltown; AHP sells it as Equanil. Although Equanil costs its manufacturer twice as much as Miltown costs Carter, both are sold to the druggist at the same price. On government orders

NATIONAL GUARDIAN 9

BOOKS

American Utopians

E SCAPE TO UTOPIA is the seventh volume* in Hastings House's Amercan Procession Series on important as-pects of our history that tend to be left out of the formal studies of the political and economic development of the U.S. The series includes, to date, works on our early naturalists, Yankee inventors, the buffalo hunters, the first western land rush and other important by-ways of American history.

The latest addition is the story of a uniquely American phenomenon: in little more than 50 years some 100,000 persons belonged to one or another of 130 "com-munes." Its author, Everett Webber, is a professor in a Louisiana college and has written two novels set in Louisiana and historical pieces for a number of popular magazines.

Prof. Webber has collected much first-hand material for his lively account of a score of communal groups ranging from the Shakers through Robert Owen's New Harmony, Etienne Cabet's Icaria, George Ripley's Brook Farm, the Phalanxes to the Oneida Community of John Humphrey Noyes, Many lesser com-munities are also depicted here. They were led by schemers, fools, crackpots, or all three combined, such as James Jesse Strang, who had himself crowned King James I of the Latter Day Saints (Mor-mons); William Miller, who set 1843 as the year for the end of the world and gave rise to the various Adventist sects; "Father" George Rapp, whose Rappite followers abstained from both sex and tobacco; or Thomas Harris, founder of the Brotherhood of the New Life and a self-announced deity.

ONE LIMITATION of the volume is • that no genuine distinction is made between two different kinds of colonies or communes. Some were seriously dedi-cated to freedom from exploitation through economic forms and relations radically different from those of the world outside. They were revolts against the failure of the American and French Revolutions to bring liberty, equality and the opportunity to pursue happiness and equally against the failure of the indus-trial revolution to bring increased leisure and more of life's goods to all people.

ø

0

1

1-It

y, ta

le it

1-to

In

Others rested on nothing better than individual idiosyncracies or religious "revelations" at best, and on scheming scoun-drels at worst. In Webber's treatment these experiments in communal living are all presented as equally utopian and their leaders appear to be cut from the same cloth.

Insufficient distinction appears between such pioneer and creative thinkers. no matter how unrealistic and illogical they could be at times in their revolts against Puritanism, rising capitalism, or both, as Margaret Fuller, Frances Wright, Etlenne Cabet or Robert Owen, and the religious fakirs and fakers who had reve-lations to guide them toward celibacy. free love or the end of the world.

THE AUTHOR can well justify himself on the ground that the various kinds of utopias often got pretty much mixed together as did their respective theories He correctly shows that "religious or sec-ular, the prophets had the basic idea of providing for the pooling of labor and goods and of living from a common supply." He does see their origin in the preceding centuries of European history and gives a brief account of some of Europe's conflicts, from the Protestant Reformation, Cromwellian Revolution, etc., to the industrial revolution, and from Thomas More's Utopia, with its unforgettable indictment of early British capitalist accumulation, to the political philosophy of * ESCAPE TO UTOPIA: The Com-munal Movement in America, by Everett Webber. In the American Procession Series, Hastings House, New York. 444 pp. $5.50.

Hobbes, Locke and Rousseau, as providing the basic impulses for American communalism. Yet Prof. Webber's book singularly lacks adequate dimension. That so many of the people in his book. whether lead-ers or the nameless ones, had impractical schemes that could never solve the very social problems they were designed to meet, no one can doubt. At the same time it must be said that the author has little feeling for the passion these people had for building "Jerusalems" in Amer-ica's "green and pleasant land." The experiments in communalism all failed, it seems, not through the social and econo-mic forces of capitalism that doomed them from the start, but because of their leaders' failure to undersand "human nature." He has not learned a lesson from anthropolgists or the great socialist achievements of our time

C INICISM pervades much of the book. It seems to be due to the absence of any genuine social-economic theory or perspective that the writer can substitute for the utopian farms and villages of the nineteenth century. Instead, there is a Menckenian smart-aleckness and contempt for the masses.

The volume suffers, too, from the absence of any setting of these utopian ad-ventures against the economic and political background in the U.S. Jacksonianism and the early labor movement are strangely missing, the anti-slave struggle barely enters, and except for a reference to the panic of 1837 there is nothing on the fluctuations of the economy and only the most passing references to the actual conditions of factory operatives and small farmers. There is no suggestion, either, that Frances Wright and Robert Dale Owen, to whom considerable space is given, played a role in the early labor move-ment and its struggle for political action. There were giants in the land in those

500 march in bomb protest in San Francisco

M ORE THAN 500 people marched through downtown San Francisco Jan. 16 in protest against nuclear weapons testing. The parade was under the auspices of protest against nuclear weapons testing. The parade was under the auspices of the Unitarian Fellowship for Social Justice. Marchers gathered at noon in the courtyard of Grace Cathedral on Nob Hill where Rev. Harry B Scholefield of the First Unitarian Church told them: "We walk not simply because we would protest the excessive and unimaginative reliance of our government and other governments upon the bomb . . . we walk because we believe there is a better way and we would seek to be part of it." As a carload of police watched the procession, it stopped at the French consulate where a protest was filed against the forthcoming Sahara tests. The walk ended with a meeting in Union Source.

a meeting in Union Square. Included in the march was a group of shoeless "beatniks." They carried signs: More Bardot, Less Bombs and More Wine Testing, Less Bomb Testing.

days and, however impractical their dreams were, it little behooves today's Americans to make light of them. Some few, at least, of Webber's "cranks" appear in quite a different light in Volume I of Philip Foner's History of the Labor Movement in the United States.

To one who accepts capitalism at its face value, these early movements are at most amusing and entertaining aberrations—just so many weird mistakes; and Webber concludes that "The song is sure-ly done." Indeed, such "experiments" are no longer taking place in little spots in New York State, Ohio, Indiana or Texas -but rather among whole great nations on a global scale.

-Howard Selsam

Let The People Speak!

Let its readers speak for this book ... for they ARE speaking from all over the world.

A VOICE: "ON THE BRINK can provide the courage and the tools to face the dangerous decade ahead."

BOOKS

-Harold Snyder, Director, The International Affairs Seminar of Washington

A VOICE: "Readers of this book will be following the road to freedom as they read it, because they will be walking in the way of truth -the truth that 20th century man desperately needs to know."

-Edwin T. Dahlberg, Pastor, Delmar Baptist Church, St. Louis, Missouri

A VOICE: "ON THE BRINK is top rate . . . Here is a book of interest to all those who work for a constructive peace; here is a book which will shock those who need to be shocked, and will inform those who seek information on the most vital issues of cur time. It is thought provoking and cuts into our apathy."

-Peter Charlton, Chairman, Sane Nuclear Policy Committee of California

A VOICE: "On a flight to the Southwest, I started reading ON THE BRINK with such interest that I did not put it down until reading every page, after which I called it to the attention of other passengers or the long flight. You are to be commended for producing it at this time.

-Daniel E. Taylor, General Secretary, Board of World Peace of The Methodist Church

With two goliaths straddling the globe with atomic weapons in their hands, we stand on the brink of disaster. Now, two leading authorities on international affairs dig to the roots of this potentially catastrophic condition . . . give us startling, often shocking, insights into the Taproots of War. The Meaning of Sputnik, Our New World, Nuclear Weapons. The Security Myth, Our Unrealistic Attitude on China and much more!

You go behind the scenes of the basic social, economic and political forces of war and actually learn what we as individuals and as nations can do to ward off a modern Armageddon . .

Unbiased, Hard-Hitting Answers To These Crucial Questions:

. Is there any defense against atomic attack?

- Is there any defense against atomic attack? What is the real importance of the Eisenhower-Khrushchev exchange visits? What are the Facts, Myths, and Consequences of the Cold War? Does the U.S. always practice what it preaches? Is there any alternative to Co-existence? Should China be admitted to the United Nations? How effective is American Military Power against another nuclear power? Is World Government the answer to the threat of total war? How effective is fuel of the Source of the Cold Source of the Source of the Cold Source of the Cold Source of the Source of the Cold Source of the Cold Source of the Cold Source of the Source of the Source of the Cold Source of the Source of the Source of the Source of the Cold Source of the Source of t

BOOKS

- How can the Golden Rule play a vital role in international relations?
- . What can we do to achieve World Peace?

ON THE BRINK by General Hugh B. Hester and Professor Jerome Davis is a blunt, bold and original book.

People really concerned with world survival will want to own a copy of ON THE BRINK. Those who can afford them will want extra books for their friends.

Steve Allen just ordered 150!

Get yours today. The book is available at bookshops every-where—or you may order directly from the publisher by using the coupon below.

There is no more timely book on the world we live in. Order your copy today.

Lyle	Stuart,	Publisher
		-

225 Latayet	rre st.	•	New	TORK	14
Lyle Stua	rt, Dept. G-3	3, 225 Lafaye	tte St., N.	Y. 12

Enc	losed is my check o	r money order	for $	Please send me	copies of Of	THE BRINE	K by General	Hester and Prof	essor Davis at $2.9	5 each,
NAME	******	***************	********	*********
			se Print)
STREET
			*
CITY		***********	**********	*******
ZONE	STATE			*******

ANOTHER VICTIM GOES TO JAIL

Dr. H. Chandler Davis surrenders to serve six months for contempt

DR. H. CHANDLER DAVIS, 33-yearold Providence, R. I., mathematician, the third First Amendment defendant to be imprisoned in the past three months, surrendered to the United States Marshal in Grand Rapids, Mich., Tuesday, Feb. 2, to serve a six-month prison term for contempt of Congress.

term for contempt of Congress. As he surrendered, Dr. Davis charged that the House Committee on Un-American Activities, some of whose questions he had refused to answer in 1954, had "established in the minds of too many people that there is such a thing as political heresy," a concept which he rejects. "It is wrong to take away a man's freedom of speech," Dr. Davis also said, "not only because it hurts him, but because it hurts the country by frustrating the circulation of relevant opinions from which the sovereign people can make unforced judgments."

REVIEW DENIED: Dr. Davis appeared before the committee in Lansing, Mich., on May 10, 1954, while teaching mathematics at the University of Michigan. He told the committee it was conducting a "political inquisition" and refused to answer 26 questions about his own political beliefs and associations and those of others at Harvard University where he had received his Ph.D. and with his alleged authorship of a pamphlet attacking the House investigating group which had been published by two campus organizations at Michigan.

Last Dec. 7 the Supreme Court refused to review his conviction for contempt.

Dr. Davis was dismissed from the Michigan faculty, an action which was condemned by the faculty executive committee, student groups, the American Assn. of University Professors and the American Civil Liberties Union.

He taught at Columbia University and later spent a year as a member of the Institute for Advanced Studies in Princeton, N.J. He then became an editor of Mathematical Reviews, published in Providence by the American Mathematical Society, the learned society of the country's 6,500 research mathematicians, a job he will resume when released from prison.

February 8, 1960

ONE OF 36: In prison he hopes to continue his correspondence for Mathematical Reviews with mathematicians throughout the world in regard to research papers they have prepared. He will continue his studies of languages and his own mathematical research in the field of functional analysis—and to play chess by mail with his six-year-old son Aaron, the oldest of his three children.

Dr. Davis is one of a total of 36 Americans with similar First Amendment cases. Two, Lloyd Barenblatt and Dr. Willard Uphaus, are already in prison.

Willard Uphaus, are already in prison. As he went to jail, Dr. Davis said: "We have to restore the responsibility of dissent. I think such an effort is sufficiently important to justify extreme measures. It was an extreme measure for me to risk jail. I won't enjoy it. But it will be a satisfaction to affirm by this act that I value free speech this highly."

CALENDAR

CHICAGO

SIBERIA — DECISIVE FRONTIER OF THE 20th CENTURY. LeRoy Wolins presents, by popular demand repeat performance. More color slides! More tape recordingsi Fri., Feb. 26, 8 p.m. 32 W. Randolph, 9th floor. $1.

S C O T T N E A R I N G "THE SOVIETS MOVE TOWARD COMMUNISM" FRI., MARCH 25, 8:15 P.M. V. Randolph, 10th fl.

LOS ANGELES

SOBELL COMMITTEES present DL, ANNETTE T. RUBINSTEIN: ALTA-PASADENA: SUN., Feb. 14, 6:30 p.m. "New England's Emly Dickinson, Thoreau, Emerson" THE VALLEY: Sat., Feb. 20, 8:30 p.m. "Theodore Dreiser, Voice of the "New' American" THE HARBOR AREA: Sun., Feb. 21 Buffet Supper-4:30-7 p.m. Lecture 7 p.m. sharp, "Gorky and Nexo" Contribution: $1.25*

Nexo" Contribution: $1.25* (*Harbor Area Buffet Sup. & lecture $ For address, info-call HO 4-4725

UNITARIAN PUBLIC FORUM Fri., Feb. 12th, 8 p.m. 2936 W. 8th St., presents Cecilia Rosenfeld, M.D. "NEW MEDICAL HOBIZONS"-H3 Treatment in Ruma-nia & in Soviet Union. Dr. Rosenfeld has just returned from Bucharest and Moscow. Adm. $1. - Question period.

Negro History Week Event Sat., Feb. 13, 8:15 p.m. Geoffrey W. White, Socialist Writer and Educator, "THE CHANGING NEGRO STRUGGLE." Also, first-hand report of Racial Segregation at LA.'s Dorsey H.S. Questions - Discussion - Refreshments. Ausp: Socialist Workers Party. Forum Hall, 1702 E. 4th St., AN 9-4953, Cont. 75c

Echo Park Guardian Readers Group Presents: DR. SANFORD GOLDNER speaking on "Causes & Cures of Ant Semitism." Thurs., Feb. 18, 8 p.m. 1559 Altivo Way, L.A. 26

PORTLAND, ORE.

Lecture & Discussion Series by SCOTT NEARING "THE ROAD WE ARE TRAVELING" 1. Sun., Feb. 14, 6:30 p.m.-1910 N.E. Davis, "THE USA, LAST OF THE EMPIRES" Next 3 lectures at Portland Public Li-brary, 801 S.W. 10 Av., Room "E." 2. Mon., Feb. 15-"THE SOVUET UN-ION AFTER SPUTNIK" 3. Tues., Feb. 16 - "CRINA'S GREAT LEAP"

4. Wed., Feb. 17-"THE CHOICES BE-FORE US"

FORE US" Ausp: Oregon Chapt. Meth. Fed. for Soc. Action. No admission charge; collection will be taken to defray expenses.

SAN FRANCISCO

NEGRO HISTORY WEEK Freedom in '63? Speaker: ALLAN WILLIS Speaker: ALLAN WILLIS Auspices: Socialist Workers Party Fri., Feb. 12th, 8:15 p.m. 1145 Polk St., S.F. Contribution 50c; Students 25c.

PHILADELPHIA

PAUL NOVICK, Editor MORNING FREI-HEIT, returned from 12 weeks in Soviet Union, 5 weeks Israel & extensive travels in East Europe last year, will speak on "Jewish Life in Socialist & Capitalist Worlds," Adelphia Hotel, 13th & Chest-nut Sts., Fri., Feb. 12th 8:30 p.m.

n-at. rd

d

d

d

NEW YORK

Thurs., Feb. 4th at 8:30 p.m. "Soviet Education" will be discussed by ELIZABETH MOOS, author of the re-cent pamphlet by same name. Third in "World Today" lecture-series. Adm. $1.

• What

Fri., Feb. 5th at 8:30 p.m. "The 'Proletarian Literature' of the 1930's" What place in the mainstream of American literature? What special significance for readers & writers today? Admission: $1

Automatical Action of the second seco

THE FACULTY OF SOCIAL SCIENCE Room 227 80 E. 11 St. GR 3-6810

AMERICAN THEATER (CA 8-6810 AMERICAN THEATER (CA 8-6875) 238 E. 3 St. (bet. Aves. B & C) WED., THURS, FRI., FEB. 3, 4, 5 Two outstanding Russian Pilms: ADMIRAL USHAKOV (18th Cent. hero of Potemkin & Catherine Great era) speciacular naval battle in Black Sea. Directed by M. Romm, music by Khat-chaturian. Also: Songs and Dances of the Visiula.

Round Table Review Presents "EXODUS"

by Leon Uris by Leon Uris with readings by professional actors. Commentary by Dr. Frederic Ewen. Di-rected by Phoebe Brand & John Randolph SUN., FEB. 7th, at 8:30 p.m. Admission 31.50 Master Institute Theater, 310 Riverside Dr. (103 St.) UN 4-1700.

"NORTH STAR" • BEST ANTI-NAZI PICTURE •• By Popular Demand SAT., 7:45 & Sun., 3:39, FEB. 6 & 7 POLONIA CLUB 201 Second Av. (near 12 St.) All Welcome! Adm. Free!

CELEBRATE NEGRO HISTORY WEEK

with SHIRLEY GRAHAM Noted Negro Author on 'A F B I C A T O D A Y ' Wed., Feb. 10th at 6 pm. TIMES SQUARE HOTEL 43rd St. & Sth Av. uspices: Garment Freedom of the Press committee Cont. 49c

KEEP THIS DATE OPEN! SUNDAY, FEB. 28th For Welcome Home Luncheon honor of Mr. Richard Morford lonal Council Am-Sov. Friendsh

Memorial Meeting For IDA LEVITT Fri., Feb. 12, 8:30 p.m. Hotel Beacon, Broadway & 75 St. (Silver Room) Representatives of various organization will speak. Appropriate program: Sponsor: West Side Com-munity Club. METROPOLITAN FRATERNAL CLUB MEETS! Fri., Feb. 5th, 8:30 p.m. "Broth-erhood Program". — Prominent Speaker. Room 11-D, Adelphi Hall, 74 Fifth Av.

"EMERGING AFRICA & NEGRO PEOPLE'S FREEDOM MOVEMENTS" Featured speaker, LOUIS E. BURNHAM, of NATIONAL GUARDIAN, Fri., Feb. 12, 8:30 p.m. Celebrate Negro History Week with the N.Y. Intercultural Society, 111 W. 48 St. Discussion, refreshments, social dancing. Contribution $1.

DR. W. E. B. Du BOIS, speaking Frl., Feb. 12, 8 p.m., in celebration of Negro History Week, 110 W. 125 St. Cont. $1.50. Auspices: Market Place Gallery.

ALGERIA. . . FRENCH OR FREE? The Crisis of the De Gaulle Regime, a Socialist Analysis. Speaker: Shane Mage, recently returned from Algeria. Sat., Feb. 6, 8:30 p.m., 116 University Pl. (cor. 13 St.) Auspices: Young So-cialist Alliance. Pl. (cor. 13 cialist Allian

"THE CUBAN REVOLUTION" An Eye Witness Report on Cuba by Henry Gitane Special Reporter for the Militant Frl., Feb. 5th, 8:30 p.m. 116 University Fl., Near Union Sq. Contribution 5de Ausp: Militant Labor Forum

In Celebration of Negro History Week hear CONRAD J. LYNN, attorney for the "Kiss Case" speaks on "Africa & the Struggie for Negro Equality in the U.S." Chairman: Gladys Barker, Socialist Workers Party candidate for U.S. Sen-ator in N.J. Fri., Feb. 12, 8:30 p.m., 116 University Pl. unear Union Sq. Con-trib. Soc. Aus: Militant Labor Forum.

CLASSIFIED

GENERAL

NATURAL HYGIENE Reveals the Secret of a way of life that is healthier, hap-pier, and less expensive. Learn about it from the American Natural Hygiene So-clety, 5210-NG Bayshore Blvd., Tampa 11, Florida. ciety, 11, Fl

PUBLICATIONS

RESORTS

HILLBERG FARM (Kerhonkson, 1 Open all year. Unconventional at phere, relaxed people, gournet's t Natural surroundings, superbiy be ful. Phone: Kerhonkson 8008-W. coln's & Weshington's Birthday no Bessare Now! N.Y.)

There Is TRUTH IN HEALTH

As There Is As There Is TRUTH IN SOCIO-ECONOMICS To maintain and regain robust and v orous health only normal elements living must be supplied. Learn to add to the laws of life and glorious her can be vours.

NATIONAL GUARDIAN 11

KPFA, in Berkeley, Calif.,

and later KPFK in Los An-geles. Both are thriving although they have no sponsors. They exist on $12 - a - year subscriptions

For his money the subscriber gets a bi-weekly folio listing programs in ilsteners. So does

GALLER

REMEMBER RADIO? There was a time you could turn to it for information and entertainment. But a decade ago television came along to claim the great home audience and radio was be-queathed to cross-country truck drivers as a cheap substitute for

No-Doze pills. In many homes radio has been used only as a way to wake up or as a base for flower pots.

dust off the dial. There is a station in town that doesn't think radio belongs to Lux soap and believes that programs can be entertaining and adult at the same time. It is KBAI-FM, operating at 99.5 mega-cycles, owned by Pacifica Foundation, a non-profit educational in-

DALAN Ø

But it is time for New Yorkers to throw away the flower pot and

Ten years ago Pacifica opened a listener-sponsored station advance. He also gets a station that is not bound by the tabus and inanities of commercial broadcasting. A station which, according to Pacifica president Harold Winkler, is "free to express every shade of responsible opinion and free to explore familiar and new chan-nels of artistic creativity."

*

WBAI HAS BEEN OPERATING under Pacifica management w since Jan. 10 and has compiled a worthy record. There has been something for everyone. For children there is a 75-minute program every day at 4:30 which has offered folk songs and music such as Prokofieff's "Peter and the Wolf"; a BBC series, "How Things Be-gan"; serialized readings of Kidnaped and Alice in Wonderland. Classical music, including works by modern composers, receives a generous share of time. Jazz and folk music are also offered regularly, along with discussions and interviews. Occasionally special musical events, as the Furtwaengler Festival in Berlin, and music from the Vienna Youth Festival, are presented. Discussions and lectures on art, music, photography, dance, theater and movies are regular features. There are also full-length dramatic presentations by top actors from the BBC. The station is unique, however, in its coverage of world events. For comment it has sought out a spectrum of opinion ranging from

Russell Kirk of the right-wing National Review to Chester Bowles, Norman Thomas, Albert Bigelow, James Warburg, Leo Huberman, Corliss Lamont and Herbert Aptheker. A review of the Soviet press and answers to questions about the U.S.S.R. by William Mandel is

O F A SPECIAL NATURE, the station presented a two-hour rec-ording of the proceedings at the Communist Party convention, held in New York in December. There was also an illuminating discussion on Germany with John Peet, former Reuters correspondent now living in East Berlin.

On Feb. 1 (repeated on Feb. 3) Dr. W.E.B. Du Bois lectured on the significance of socialism, followed by a report on China by Shirley Graham Du Bois. On the same day there was also a report on "Radiation and the Unborn Child." Subscriptions are tax-deductible and should be sent to WBAI, 30 E. 39th St., New York 16, N.Y. For a limited period the station will send sample program folios to anyone who writes for them. The station can be heard in a 75-mile radius of New York City which in-

C OMMERCIAL RADIO AND TELEVISION have always been

Creatures of the advertiser. Consequently, they have become pillars of conformity. Programs on world events are presented occasionally as a sop to egghead critics who might make trouble in Congress. But where opinion is even mildly libral, it is accompa-nied by an announcement that it is not reflective of the network's

It took the quiz show scandal to get the Federal Communica-tions Commission to force ABC-TV to present one hour of "public service" programming a week. Reluctantly, the network agreed to do the "egghead bit" sandwiched between Sunset Strip and Lawman because somewhere in the law it says the airways belong to the

By the rate at which people are subscribing (2,000 in two weeks), it looks as though the try will be successful. It is not only worthy WBAI is an attempt to treat the people's property with respect.

-Robert E. Light

PAINTER-private work our specialty. Good materials. Reasonable winter prices. Phone: JE 8-4113.

INSTRUCTION

MATTHEW KAHAN CLASSIC GUITAR MANDOLIN Studied with Rey de la Torre Mandolin Soloist in Town Hall, Radio Phone: NI 6-1000

FOR RENT

3-RM. APT., modern Green. Vill., rent reduced to 350 in exchange for light janitorial duties. Ideal for souple where wife wishes to stay home yet add to family income, YU 4-7247 after $ p.m. or week-ends.

cludes some areas in New Jersey, Connecticut and Pennsylvania.

views and certainly not of the sponsor.

CALVIN FORD

MOVING STORAGE Good used furniture for sale. 645 Allerton Av. Phones: OL 2-6795 and 2-9033

BUDGET MOVERS & STORAGE: CH 3

7312. Station-wagon, vans-pickup serv-ice anytime, any place-Insured Esti-nates given.-Economical-PSC 859.

WE MOVE YOU WITHOUT TEARS Economical, insured household moving Vans, station wagons-24 hours, 7 days Ločal, long distance-small, large THE PADDED WAGON-AL 5-8343

RED WAGON Moving, storage, packing, crating, Inexpensive, insured profession-al. Vans, trucks, station wagons. Any time, any place. RED WAGON SP 7-2555 PSC 768 of support; the returns are eminently rewarding.

from

WBAI.

T H

E

stitution.

a regular feature.

people.

to the parts. Write For Brochure PAWLING HEALTH MANOB Route 9, Hyde Park, N.Y. Robert B. Gross, D.C., Ph.D., D Clyde K. Miller, M.D., Consul' Phone: Turner 9-2121. Director sultant.

MERCHANDISE

TUNE IN FOR BIG BARGAIN-GRANCO TABLE MODEL RADIO (AM-FM) Reg. 33.95, now 33.95 Siandard Brand Distributors, 143 Av. (nr. 14 St.) GR 3-7819. -1-hour free parking!-4th

LARGE SAVINGS ON MODERN FUENT-TURE! Good modern furniture at low markup. Come in and see N.Y.C. 856 Lexington Av. CY 8-6010 White Piains: 41 Mamaroneck Av. WH 8-4788 Manhaset: 2046 Northern Blvd. MA 7-0444 Plainfield, N.J.: 311 E. Front St. PL 7-0111

RUGCRAFT, INC. Three branches now serving Queens and Manhattan with honest values & integ-rity that Guardian readers have long enjoyed.

enjoyed. 210 St. and Northern Boulevard Bayside, Long Island BA 5-6600 Large assrt. rolls, remnants & room-size rugs. Open Thurs. & Fri. to 9 p.m. Free Parking

Free Parking 218 St., & Jamaica Ave. Queens Viliage, Long Island HO 5-9000 Smart, up-to-date floor coverings, tiles, vinyls, linoleums, broadlooms. Mon. & Fri. to 9 p.m. — Free Parking. CARPET MART (Division of Rugcraft) 128 E. 32 St., N.Y.C. LE 2-2453 Decorator Showrooms by appointment to: Guardian Readers. Free Parking.

Large selection slightly used RUGS $18 up. All sizes, all colors; runners heavy quality, $3 per yd. BROADWAY CARPET SERVICE 1968 Amsterdam Av. WA 7-4900

CLEARANCE SALE! Discounts up to 75% HELEN'S GIFT MART 287 Amsterdam Av. (bet. 73-74 Sts.) Helen Milgrim, prop. TR 3-8060

HELEN'S CHINA OUTLET

announces CLEARANCE SALE!

with discounts up to 75% Amsterdam Av. (bet. 74-75 Sts.) 304

SERVICES MAILING, PHOTO-OFFSET MULTIGRAPHING MIMEOGRAPHING Custom Letter Service ion Square AL 5-8160

FOOT COMFORT is available in FOOT SHAPE SHOES Individually molded over corrected plas-ter casts of your feet. REASONABLE — GUARANTEED . NATHAN FINK, POD. D. by appointment N.Y.C.-129 Lexington Av. (nr. 29 St.) LE 2-2820 Bronx-15 E. Mosholu Pkwy, (nr. Jerome Av.)-OL 3-1114

If you are thinking of remodelling your fur coat-the most reliable place is: MAX KUPTERMAN 315 7 Av. OR 5-7773 Also: Good Buys in Alaskan Seal coats, Mink Stoles in all styles. Phone for ap-pointment.

UPHOLSTERY CRAFTSMAN RE-WEBBING & REPAIRS - done in your home: Reupholstery, slip covers, drapes foam rubber cushioning. Serving all boros. Fraternal attention. HY 8-7887.

BILL'S RADIO & TV SERVICE

Written Guarantees - Itemized Bills Prompt - Reliable - Reasonable 268 Bleecker St. Phone: WA 9-0813

TELEVISION & AIR-CONDITIONING UNIVERSITY TELEVISION SERVICE (Bronx, Manhattan, Yonkers) 150 W. Kingsbridge Rd., Bronx 63, N.Y CY 8-0420

FREE LIFE INSURANCE ANALYSIS

Most coverage for least payment RENE M. SCHENRER 420 Lexington Av., NY 17 MD 3-2837 Personal, business, fire, bealth, accident

NORMA CATERERS: Now booking for Fall & Winter Weddings, bar mitzvah, anniversary parties at home or temple. Office parties & home parties serviced anywhere in the metropolitan area.

MOVING AND STORAGE EXPERIENCED PIANO MOVERS Profit by my 20 years experience Call Ed Wendel, JE 6-8000 on any moving problem.

ACE EXPRESS (formerly Jim's express) Vans-Panels-Station Wagon Bonded - Insured, 24 hr. service, $3.50, $4.50 per hour. per man. 80 7-7378.

BUSSIE BROTHERS (Union Mevers) Moving, storage local & long distance. We buy and sell new and used furniture for Rogers Avenue, Brookin. Phone 80 4-3988 (24 hrs.) or IN 9-3431.

anywhere HU 7-1561.

A MAIL ORDER SERVICE OFFERING CONSUMER TESTED ARDIAN C

Books, Music and Art To Honor

NEGRO HISTORY WEEK

Harvest Talk, by Charles White (see below)

EACH YEAR NEGRO HISTORY WEEK falls during the sec-EACH YEAR NEGRO HISTORY WEEK fails during the sec-ond week in February. All GUARDIAN readers will agree, however, that an understanding of Negro history and an awareness of the link between the battle for Negro equality and the fight for a democratic America should be cultivated 52 weeks a year. One of the ways to realize this understand-ing is through a deeper familiarity with Negro writing, mu-sic and art. Here are some of the finest examples of con-temporary Negro art to honor the occasion, and to help make the fight for equality a year-round job.

The Art of Charles White

Six fine-screen lithograhs, each  $10\frac{1}{2}$ " x 16", of the extraordinary art of Charles White, with an introduction by Rockwell Kent. The six drawings are The Mother, Dawn of Life, Let's Walk Together, Ye Shall Inherit the Earth, Harvest Talk, and Lincoln. Originally published by Masses and Mainstream at \$3. Suitable for framing. A lovely gift. CUARDIAN PRICE ....\$2

197 E. 4th St., New York 9, N. Y.
Description of Item	Amount
(N.Y.C. buyers add 3% sales tax)
(N.Y.C. buyers add 3% sales tax) TOTAL	I
TOTAL Orders filled only in the U.S.	make check
TOTAL Orders filled only in the U.S. No COD's. Full payment must accompany each order. Please or money orders payable to Guardian Buying Serv	tce.
TOTAL Orders filled only in the U.S. To COD's. Full payment must accompany each order. Please or money orders payable to Guardian Buying Serv Name	tce.
TOTAL Orders filled only in the U.S. No COD's. Full payment must accompany each order. Please or money orders payable to Guardian Buying Serv	108.

NEWSPAPER

the SPECTATOR 4 Youth fights back

T HOSE MEMBERS of the House Committee on Un-American Activities who might have seen us on January 28 in Washington D.C., must have been very much surprised. Five young New Yorkers had been subpenaed one and a half weeks before to appear at hearings on their participation in World Youth Festivals and perhaps the Committee thought nothing could be done in so little time.

Yet there we stood on Capitol Hill, 75 members of Youth Against the Un-American Committee—all in our teens and twenties—determined to spend the day urging Congressmen, newspapermen and representatives of national organizations to object to the hearings.

A few minutes after we had arrived, we stood studying maps of Washington and pinned protest badges on our coats. Two tall policemen told us that no one was allowed to wear or carry any "controversial" material on "The Hill." So minus badges, we set out in small groups of four and five—undaunted—to catch Con-

carregite male—One of Robe-son's finest records, containing two gems—the "I have given the state some service" reading from Othello, and a short reading and song from Boris Godunov. panii 1958. d in $3.75

MUSIC

(Any Three for $10)

V 9051 - PAUL ROBESON AT CARNEGIE HALL-One of Robe-

M 580 - PAUL ROBESON FAV-ORITE SONGS A Monitor release of Robeson's favorite songs, accom-panied by Alan Booth or Lawrence Brown. Hammer Song features Sonny Terry and Brownie McGhee.

ODETTA

V 9059-MY EYES HAVE SEEN-A wonderful album which has not yet received the attention it de-serves. Prison song, work song or spiritual, Odetta knows the mean-ing of the songs she sings. $3.75

LEON BIBB

V 9041—LEON BIBB SINGS FOLK SONGS, with chorus and orchestra conducted by Milt Okun, and Fred Hellerman on the guitar. A collec-tion of American songs beautifully sung and arranged.

SIDE ONE: Sinner Man, East Virginia, Turtle Dove, Darlin', Rocks and Gravel, Poor Lolette. SIDE TWO: Look Over Yonder, Red Rosy Bush, Take This Ham-mer, Skillet, Jerry, Dink's Blues and Irene. 83.75

POETRY OF THE NEGRO, read by SIDNEY POITIER—A treasured ad-dition to any library. Fifteen poems by Paul Dunbar, James Weldon Johnson, Countee Cullen, Langston Hughes, Gwendolyn Brooks, Carl Holman and Armand Lanusse read by the actor. A NEW GBS PRICE $3.50

JOHN SELLERS

MP 505. BROTHER JOHN SELLERS —"BIG BOAT UP THE RIVER." Sellers is a jazz-folk singer who learned to sing in church in Missis-sippi, developed his style from work with Mahalia Jackson and Big Bill Broonzy and matured as an artist in nightclubs and theaters in the U.S., Canada and Europe.

Songs include: Big Boat Up The River, Feelin' Sad and Blue, Trouble is A Woman, Something Strange Is Going On Wrong, When I Was A Little Boy, You Get A Line And Til Get A Pole, Strange Fruit, Chain Gang, City Called Heaven, Watermelon On The Vine, Prison Wall Hiues and Martha Blues $3.75

BOOKS

TOWARD NEGRO FREEDOM, by Herbert Aptheker. Historic high-lights in the life and struggles of the Negro people from colonial days to the present. $1.50 the present. LIKE ONE OF THE FAMILY, by Childress. "An amusing, CRUSADER WITHOUT VIOLENCE —A Biography of Martin Luther King, by L. D. Reddick. The back-ground of a leader and the fascinat-ing story of his involvement in the historic Montgomery bus protest, by a scholar who was one of his col-leagues and advisors......$3.95

7

Children's Books (Ages 5 to 9)

ENTER IN, by Laura Lewis, with gressmen before they left for lunch. This was not the only difficulty we had with polic during the day. Evidently word had spread rapidly throughout Capitol Hill that we were there; at one time or another, most of our groups were stopped by the police for some reason or another. A repeated tactic was to delay groups so that they were unable to see their Congressmen. For example, one was asked to step outside the office of Rep. Seymour Halpern (R-N.Y.) and wait for a "lieutenant"— who never came. After waiting 20 futile minutes, the young people were told they could go, but naturally—it was too late. Rep. Halpern had another appointment.

O THER GROUPS were stopped and warned that they could not leave any literature for Congressmen unless specifically asked to do so.

But possibly the worst incident of the day happened when or group was asked to leave the office of Rep. Chet Holifield (D-Calif.) after he had called the police.

We did get to see many Congressmen, however—in spite of the police—and some reactions were very encouraging. Rep. John Lindsay (R-N.Y.) promised to do all he could to "bring about a face-to-face meeting with this group of young people and the lead-ership of the House" [Speaker Rayburn and Majority Leader McCormack].

Rep. William Meyer (D-Vt.) expressed his opposition to the methods of the Committee and said: "I am opposed to any body which seeks to punish by publicity that which is unlawful to punish by law.

And there were many others who supported us, either by endorsing the right of young people to attend Festivals or by criticizing the actions of the Un-American Committee: Rep. William Bray (R-Wis.), Rep. Chester Bowles (D-Conn.), Rep. Byron Johnson (R-Colo.), and Rep. Frances Bolton (R-Ohio).

JUST BEFORE we started for home, we rushed to report our results to the newspapermen gathered at the Willard Hotel for a press conference with three of the subpenaed young people on the Festival and their attitudes toward the Un-American Committee.

Most of us had been up since 4 a.m. and wanted to sleep on the way home to New York. But we couldn't. There was so much to talk about; one tall blond 17-year-old jumped on his seat, bumping his head on the baggage railing as he excitedly told of the really wonderful statements from the Americans for Democratic Action, the American Council on Human Rights, the American Veterans Committee and the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Each of us felt that we had struck a blow for our generation that day. We knew that the Committee was not interested only in five individuals but that it wanted to intimidate all young Americans that interested in peace and prevent them from participating in internatonal exchanges.

But we have not been intimidated and we will not be

By the time this is in print, we will have been to Washington again, for the hearings of the five beginning Feb. 7. We will We will demonstrate our protest by attending and picketing these hearings. And this time, we will be 200 strong.

-Youths Against the Un-American Committee.

illustrations by Ernest Crichlow. A charming book of verses for 4- te 9-year-olds, with illustrations of Negro and white children playing together. $2

TWO IS A TEAM, by Lorraine and Gerrold Beim, with drawings in black and white and color by Er-nest Crichlow. Two boys, Negro and white, overcome a childish quar-rel and together build a coaster which brings them adventure and first-hand experience in the value of teamwork. A delightful be $2.50

February 8, 1960