Whalenism and a New "Red" Scare—Little Disarma-ment Coming—The New Supreme Court Vacancy —Some Hopeful Signs in the Nation

THE POLICE AND THE COMMUNISTS

is clear from their own statements that the Communists do not believe in or desire immediate beneficial results from their petitions and demonstrations. Indeed, they want to prove the folly of peaceful methods under a capitalist government. They are not terrorists and do not throw bombs but unquestionably in line with their tactics they seek to make it hard for the police. The police fall in line with Communist tactics when they run amuck. It has been repeatedly proved that the police can manage a Communist demonstration without brutality. The troubles of March 6th were in nearly every case the fault of the police and in most cases did not occur when the police kept their heads. In New York eye witnesses seem to agree that the worst troubles were caused by police and plain clothes men who contrary to orders waded into the crowd with their clubs while the police chiefs by milder means were heading off the unauthorized parade. None of these men has been punished. Commissioner Whalen instead boasted that he saw his own spies in the role of Communists helping to stir up trouble at which he "split his sides laughing." But far worse even than this is Mr. Whalen's assumption that he can succeed where the Czar of Russia failed. He seeks the use of spies to blacklist those whom irresponsible undercover men brand as active Communists and so lose their jobs. Commissioner Whalen even proposes to fight school children in his connection. To the credit of New York, such a monstrous policy is arousing opposition. The Commissioner responsible for it by any decent American standards should be removed from his job. It is our business to see what Mayor Walker and ultimately Governor Roosevelt may have to say on this subject.

Add to this police policy a Federal registration of aliens such as is now being considered in Congress, and there isn't much about America that Thomas Jefferson would recognize.

STATESMEN WHO FOLLOW

STATESMEN cannot get too far ahead of public opinion but it is the business of statesmen to lead public opinion. That is where President Hoover and the American delegation at the London Conference have fallen down. Public opinion may instinctively be against even so mild a measure as a promise to consult with other powers what should be done in case a nation deliberately broke the Kellogg Pact. But public opinion should be enlightened and not misled by Secretary Stimson and his colleagues. When Secretary Stimson indicates that this promise which France and other nations want from us as a condition of reducing their navies is similar to the Franco-British understanding on navies before the war he draws a misleading and dangerous parallel. The Franco-British pact was secret. This would be open. The Franco-British pact was an alliance against other nations. This would be a world agreement. It is moreover logical for our country which is necessarily involved with other countries to the extent that it feels it cannot reduce its own navy without regard to those countries to answer the reasonable French inquiry, "What will you do with your navy in the event an aggressor nation breaks the Kellogg pact? Will you insist on lending your money to it and providing it with munition, using your great navy to back you up? If so, we cannot reduce our navy." It is idle to reply that we are sure the Kellogg Pact will never be broken. If we believe that why bother with any navies at all? Under these circumstances it is at least reasonable to promise to consult, in what we hope is the improbable-event of the violation of the Kellogg Pact, as to what steps should be taken, making it very clear that by this promise we do not commit ourselves under any circum-stances to go to war to enforce peace. If the European powers want more than a reasonable assurance that we will not use our navy to supply the military needs of an aggressor nation they want what we should not grant. But we should at least meet them on this point, otherwise we shall have little disarmament and less

WHOM WILL HOOVER APPOINT

r was a singularly dramatic coincidence that on the day when Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes' fellow citizens were celebrating his 89th birthday, both his associate, Justice Sanford, and the recently retired Chief Justice William H. Taft should die. Of Judge Sanford it can only be said that he was an undistinguished conservative jurist. William Howard Taft had an outward honor that never has come and probably never will come to any other American. He had been both President and Chief Justice. Yet his fame in history will depend on the offices he held rather than any especial greatness. He was a lovable personality with some administrative and some legal gifts who was far happier as Chief Justice than as President but who had none of Judge Holmes' vision of the relation of law to life. He simply—and sincerely—served the dominant forces of his time. If the court follows the line he laid down and which Judge Sanford even more rigidly folline he laid down and which Judge Sanford even more rightly followed it may be the ultimate factor in making peaceful economic revolution impossible in America. For that reason it is of enormous importance whether President Hoover will appoint another Hughes or look around for a fit companion to Holmes and Brandeis.

WHAT HOPEFUL SIGNS?

IN a world where police do their utmost to prove the Communist thesis by beating up the unemployed, where Gandhi begins a struggle for independence by a new method of non-violent civil disobedience against an unyielding British raj which has not known the day of its salvation, where the London Naval Conferon disarmament threatens an increase in armaments, where millions of farmers suffer from agricultural depression and millions of industrial workers from even more tragic unemployment, and where our Senate concocts the most shameless log rolling tariff yet devised, I have been asking myself what things I had read or seen to applaud, what things might give us hope.

SOME hope there is in the apparent success of the Haitian Commission in laying a feasible plan for relaxing American rule in Haiti, some reason for congratulation that the Dominican revolution in the same island was bloodless.

MORE than ever I think hope may be found in the Miners' convention in Springfield, Ill. Farrington and Fishwick have been relegated to the rear by the rank and file and less vul-nerable leaders brought forward. How completely hopeless is the Miners' union under Lewis one has only to look at the records to see. There is no union in most of the bituminous coal areas and for this not merely a difficult situation but Lewis's own conduct and policies are to blame. He has well been called a wrecker. I speak as a result of some first hand knowledge of men and conditions in the coal fields on this and preceding trips.

PUBLIC OPINION TURNING?

THERE are also some signs of hope that public opinion isn't completely crazy. Some police, e. g., in San Francisco, Baltimore and even Chicago, showed humanity and good sense in hand-ling Communist unemployment demonstrations on March 6. Where the police went cruel and crazy as in New York and Detroit there has been encouraging protest. (It was a real source of joy to this returning traveller to read of the vigorous Socialist protests in New York.) Labor showed some real spirit in the tremendous funeral for Carl Markley in Philadelphia and the A. F. of L. has shown fine sense in getting the help of such an engineer as Geoffrey Brown in its Southern organizing campaign. The Jews and the Protestants, or many of their leaders including the Federal Council of Churches, and the Presbytery of New York have shown a wholesome opposition or reluctance to being dragooned by the exploitation of Communist intolerance into an unwarranted and terribly dangerous holy crusade against Russia. public sentiment has been aroused on the London Conference as shown by the signatories to the cable to Mr. Stimson.

These things are in line with the more intangible evidences I found on my three weeks' trip of greatly increased interest in social questions, both on the political and economic side, everywhere I went. What I have seen and heard on the busiest three weeks' trip of my life makes me think we have no reason for despair in facing the tremendous challenge to Socialism as the way

PRINGFIELD, Ill. - The con-Synthography, who are in rebellion against the John L. Lewis administration of the United Mine Workers, opened its sessions in the Knights of Columbus Hall at nine o'clock, March 10, three hours before the time design nated in the convention hall. By 11:21 the delegates had adopted the first article of the new constitution which provided for name of the organization. T following the advice of counsel they sought to outmanoeuvre the Indianapolis convention and clinch their constitutional existence.

The Springfield convention bears all the signs of a protest move-ment, protest not only against John L. Lewis, but also in no small measure against the officialdom of Illinois District 12. This was shown immediately upon the openng of the convention.

John Brophy of District 2, Penn

ylvania, amended the report of the Committee on Credentials, excepting for the present the name of Frank Farington from the list acceptable delegates. Brophy was backed by the conention

Immediately afterwards Fishvick proceeded to carry out his duties as chairman by endeavoring to appoint a Committee on Rules and Order of Business. There was wild protesting by the delegates who made it clear that he was not wanted as permanent chairman. He withdrew as graciously as he could and Alex Howatt, President of Kansas District 14, famous for his opposition to the Kansas In-dustrial Court Law, was elected hairman by unanimous vote.

On the second day an effort was tade to keep Walter Nesbit, Secretary-Treasurer of District 12, om the secretaryship of the con-ention. John H. Walker, President of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, and Powers Hap-good, former Harvard man who turned miner, were put in nomination against him. Some unpleasant things were said about Illinois of-ficials but in the end both Walker and Hapgood declined in favor of Nesbit and the latter was elected On numerous occasions a strong undercurrent of resentment agains the officials of District 12 revealed itslef in the convention both in resolutions and in general speech-

Although about half of the five hundred delegates come from Illineis, the convention took on more and more of a national character as it went on. Delegates from the states arose to tell of their struggle with John L. Lewis and his organizers. Because of the informal manner in which the sessions have been conducted all the pent up indignation of the men have had a chance to come to the week members of the National Executive Committee of the Socialist Party will be enroute to Los Angeles, breaking the journey to California by speaking at public meetings in many important cit-ies. The schedule of meetings thus far arranged number almost s hundred and the complete list will ndoubtedly run over a hundred.

This is the first time that a meeting of the committee has been held on the Pacific Coast and it is also the first time in the history of the party that committee members have spoken at so many meetings. While in Los Angeles numerous mass meetings will be addressed by members in near by cities and it is figured that the Cal-ifornia movement will derive much benefit thereby.

In San Francisco March 25

One of the largest demonstra-tions to be held has been arranged in San Francisco for Tuesday, March 25. This will be held in Eagle's Hall with Morris Hillquit as the principal speaker. Labor men and Socialists are expected to attend this meeting within fifty miles of San Francisco and the nittee in charge is prepared to through the northern tier of states and travel down to Los Angeles from Portland, Ore., and Seattle, Wash. Morris Hillquit will follow the central route after leaving Chicago, speaking in Kansas City and Salt Lake City. Mayor Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee will follow a similar route through Iowa and Colorado. James Oneal will take the southern route from a point in Kansas, speaking in Texas and possibly in Arizona. Secretary Senior has about 25 stops enroute to and from the meeting.

50,000 at Funeral of Murdered Striker

Philadelphia.—With upraised right arms, 50,000 men, women and children took a pledge at the funeral of Carl Mackley, mur-dered hosiery striker. The pledge was read by Edward F. McGrady, organizer for the American Federation of Labor, and the tremendous crowd repeated it word for word. The pledge follows:
"I hereby solemnly promise that I will continue the struggle against low wages, poverty and oppression, and that I will not falter nor be intimidated by hired assassins, nor discouraged by a subservient and ofttimes tyrannical judiciary.

"That, if necessary, we too, will lay down our lives in order that all those who toil may be delivered from industrial enslave-ment by the un-American, avaricious industrial despots. "To all of which I, at the grave of our martyred brother, Carl Mackley, do pledge my most sacred word of honor."

Chicago Hears Socialists at Albany Washington Socialists to Demand Effective Bill on Pensions

Dr. Laidler Proposes great majority of the citizens of Four Amendments -Louis Waldman Urges Constitutional Amendment Be Sought

a New Leader Correspondent) LBANY,-The Socialist party A through Harry W. Laidler and Louis Waldman, appeared at the legislative hearings on the proposed old age pension law here Tuesday and urged the enactment of a real pension bill which would give at least $350 a year to all men and women over the age of 65. Waldman and Laidler attacked the present Mastick bill as a snare All members and friends are urged and a fraud designed to give only the appearance of an old age pen-sion. Waldman said the bill is less liberal than the existing poor law. It might be necessary, he said, to have a constitutional amendment passed before a real pension bill could be possible. Those in favor of a pension bill should not run away from this, he said.

> Laidler Lists Amendments Dr. Laidler proposed several amendments to the existing bill. He said, in part:

"We are heartily in favor of an old age pension law for the State of New York. We Socialists are here to urge such amendments to the Mastick bill which will take it out of the category of poor laws and place it in the category of old age pension bills.

"1 .- If this bill is to be regarded as an old age pension bill it mus give a pension and not an indefinite allowance. We demand that the bill be amended to give all reaching a specified age who come within the provisions of the bill, a stated amount as a pension, which amount should be at least $350 a year.

22.—We believe that a person reaching a certain age should be entitled as a right to obtain this sum if he satisfies certain objective tests; if he has been a worker on the farm and in industry for a specified number of years and durng his working period his earnings have been insufficient to ensure himself old age dependency.

"3 .-- We believe that the age valifications should be 60 years ld, not 70 years. As a compronise and as a temporary measure 65 years might be decided upon, but the needs of the present situaion cry for a lower age limitthat of three-score years. Out of 38 countries which a few years ago had adopted old age pensions only even had the age as high as 70.

"4.—We believe that the admin istration should be a state administration, and not under public welfare offices whose administration is based upon poor law practices and is of every diverse char-acter in the different counties of the state. The present law will lead to favoritism of every kind to political manipulation and probably to political corruption.

The attitude of the delegation organized by the American Association for Old Age Security was most disappointing. Leader Raps Police Milwaukee Leader, organ of the Socialist Party, demands a complete investigation in an editorial denouncing the behavior of the police in raiding Communist headquarters.

"Yesterday's riot scenes in Milwaukee," says The Leader, undoubtedly were precipitated by a silly desire to create excitement there none existed. To that end the Milwaukee Police Department was made to look foolish. Among the more tragic consequences were the breaking of heads, the suppression of free speech, and the idiotic raiding of the Communist headquarters. "Inquiry so far indicates that the whole violent proceeding resulted because an afternoon newsmenaced Klein with their firsts and then attacked him. Police came to his defense and the fight among those sent to the hospital. "There should be an immediate investigation of the affair.

"The Leader holds no brief for Communistic philosophy and it has little time for the who are taking advantage of the serious unemployment situation to cause trouble. But the fact remains that they, as well as all other groups, have an unquali-filed right to undisturbed assemblage.

The story of the Battle The Milwaukee Leader carries the following account of the riot and the incidents that followed: The fict had its start and flamed up with almost the twinkling of an eye when a counter demonstration was started in the city market against the efforts of the Communists to incite the crowd.

A member of the Milwaukee "army of the members" "army of the unemployed." Charles Klein, 2117 Wright Street, had mounted a concrete block to praise the city's food station in the Armory, established yesterday and to give credit to Mayor Hoan for starting it.

Tells of City's Help
Another Communist then began to speak when Klein mounted a cement block on the suggestion of Sidney Kaufman, a reporter on an afternoom Milwaukee newspaper.

Peter J. Zisch, one of the leaders in the movement for relief of the unemployed, counseled against Klein's taking any part in the demonstration but Kaufman and Klein thought it would be a good thing to tell the 'crowd, while it was assembled, that the city was doing its utmost to help the jobless.

Zisch, an eye-witness, declared.

"Kaufman got the photographers of his paper circled around him for a picture and the crowd came rushing over to see what was going on. The crowd was orderly at the start.

"A few of the Communist leaders ran over and began to elbow through the crowd. A woman in particular seemed to be especially angry and forcing her way up to Klein began to heckle him and shook her fist in his face.

"There is no need of being riotous in the face of unemploymen," Klein began, for everything that can be done is being done and we must keep level heads.

"Klein had hardly spoken So words when he uttered the word Communist and the tumult began. More leaders came over and Klein's voice was drowned out with externals. Klein simply stood on "The Communist woman shook her first at this point within a few inches of Charley's nose and one of the Communist leaders struck him in the jaw knocking him from his perch on the cement block."

At this point many witnesses coincide with Zisch in saying that the police, led by Motorcycle Sergeant Dan Kugler, rushed into the milling crowd around Klein to give him protection.

One of the ricters seized the billy of Patrolman Sheridan Hagle, who was in the front of the mass of invading police, and struck Sergt Dan Kugler over the head, causing a deep cut in his scalp which bled profusely.

Inflamed by the sight of blood and enraged by the thwacks from police billies, which descended upon some of the heads, the melee quickly grew to serious proportions and Sergt. Erwin Bucholtz and Patrolman Clarence Koepke were added the list of injured police.

Joseph Hart, 42 years old, who said he was an innocent bystander, received a severe cut on the head and was treated later at an improvised hospital established at the Communist headquarters by police surgeons.

Some of the veterans of the force, detectives and uniformed men, became jovial, greeting their friends and conceiving more or less witty ways to tell the crowds to keep moving.

"Just Like Cossacks"

Someone gave a new order to clear the sidewalks. Mounted police again charged up and down the walks. They performed in as excellent fashion as would veterans of the Pennsylvania Cossacks. Standing silently most of the while at Fifth Street and Juneau Avenue was Chief of Police Jacob G. Laubenheimer, his hands thrust deep into his overcoat pockets. Police capitains and heads of the detective squads would occasionally dash up to him and give him short reports of happenings by word of mouth.

newspaper reporter whose insistence that Klein speak had promoted the riot, was heard to make a remark with humorous intent, that "When we reporters cannot

Charles Klein later reported at the office of Peter Zisch and it was found that his injuries consisted of nothing more serious than a bloody nose. He repeated his offer to cooperate in every possible way in relief work for the unemployed, although he himself is Jobless.

"I assert that all the Communist organizations in this country combined do not have the membership which Commissioner Whalen credits to them in New York City alone. The Miners Seek Democracy

SPRINGFIELD, ILLINOIS

THEY began writing a new page in the labor his-United Mine Workers of America who met in what they call a "Reorganization Convention" of their union, in this city early in the morning of March 10.

From the first bang of the chairman's gavel throughout all the proceedings that followed, one could sense among the four hundred delegates the spirit of revolt against the administration of John L. Lewis, for the past eleven years President of the U. M. W. of A, and a fighting determination to bring about a new deal for the coaldiggers of America.

Here was essentially a gathering of the men of the picks. These were obviously workmen who car move familiarly enough among underground entries and working-places but are ill at ease when expressing themselves before a crowd. Nevertheless they forgot that when once they started in to tell of the wrongs which they charge their leaders have inflicted upon them and they were articulate enough when it came to democratic procedure in conducting a convention.

Always in the back of the mind of every speaker there seemed to run memories of days not so dis-tant when the United Mine Workers of America were the largest and strongest and most militant group inside the organized labor movement of the country. And practically every speaker, no matter how cut and dried his motion might be, made it evident that this convention, at any rate was composed of men resolved to restore that old prestige of the miners.

Not that this is a radical convention. Extremists soon discovered that they were not wanted in the hall. No time was spent in the discussion of theo-ries. No soner had President Harry Fishwick of the Illinois Miners called the assemblage to order and the official call to the convention containing its blistering indictment of Lewis's leadership and its hot demands for the ousting containing containing its best read by Walter Nesbit, Secretary of the Illinois Miners, then the convention got right down to business.

A temporary credentials committee headed by Charles Clements read off the list of delegates and instantly the motion was made by John Brophy of Pennsylvania that all except Frank Farrington be accepted and that Farrington's name be referred back to the committee for further consideration Farrington is in ill favor with a great number of the delegates for having accepted a position with the Peabody Coal Company of Illinois, although he has since that time been readmitted into the union and his credentials were approved by his local union.

Farrington was not in the hall when Brophy made his motion, though he later showed up at the con-

Brophy's motion precipitated a long wrangle over procedure which came to an abrupt halt when the delegates began shouting for Alexander Howat, of Kansas, (a hero with the rank and filers) to take

Fishwick yielded to Howat and the latter soon had things running smoothy.

In defiance of the usual procedure at such gatherings the delegates then demanded that members of the various committees be elected rather than appointed by the chair and furthermore that the election be by districts so as to assure equal representa tion on all the important committees of all the twelve districts represented.

Democracy under these conditions is a slow pro-edure. These men were bound together by a common desire for something new and very different from the conduct of their union affairs. But they did not know one another and so it was necessary to have the various nominees for the committee jobs go up on the platform and be looked over by the crowd. A trying ordeal, but one hugely enjoyed by the diggers who constituted themselves the judges

There was all the way through, a tenseness about this Springfield convention that has not been present in a labor gathering of consequence for many years. The delegates, every last coaldigger, realized well enough what it meant to have a hand in setting up a rank and file organization in defence of the powerful Lewis machine. Now and then reports would come from Indianapolis where Lewis was gathering his forces, as to the doings there. Springfield convention started by stealing a march on the Lewis faction, if, as is altogether probable, litigation will ensue from these two rival gatherings. A eleven twenty-one o'clock on the first day, the Reorganization Convention declared that it was an authorized convention of the United Mine Workers of America and thereby staked out its prior claim to the use of the famous name. The Indianapolis meeting did not get around to organizing until noon.

"But all that legal stuff won't amount to anything," said a pick-miner, one of a strong delegation from Franklin County in Southern Illinois, usually supposed to be a Lewis stronghold, "once we get started bumping up against the Lewis outfit. Then we'll find out whether a bunch of rank and filers like as is going to run our over union or whether we've to take our orders from Indianapolis."

In and out among the delegates moved men who in days past have led many desperate fights on behalf of the miners, Adolph Germer, Powers Hap-good, come all the way from distant Denver to be in on this fight, Oral Daugherty of Ohio, John Brophy, who ran against Lewis for President of the miners and August Dorchy of Kansas who came up with Alexander Howat. There, too, were men from the Lewis camp, looking on anxiously as the convention appeared to be making progress, and a scattering of interested labor progressives, including A. Muste and Tom Tippett of Brookwood Labor College, Paul Porter of the League for Industrial Democracy and Clarence Senior Secretary of the Social-

Reporters from all the large news services and many of the Eastern dailies were at the presstable and there was also a host of economists and freelance writers come to see how democracy fares among the miners today.

DORIS KIRKPATRICK.

An Open Letter to Joe Stalin . . .

Now, you're what I call a sensible fellow. C urse, you have no publicity schemers like Grove Whalen to provoke you into the dumb stunts you Union Square tovarishes have been performing these spring days; but I do know what emotions hurry-up hollerers you have to contend with ove in your neck of the farm . . . and believe me, certainly feel worried about the "liquidation of the Kulak" campaign. Not that I give a sniff oborscht for the whole pack of those gazooks; bu all of us know that you just can't make an ole dog do new acrobatics with the stroke of a pen. Those farmers of yours aren't one bit differen from ours when it comes to giving up land and things they honestly believe came out of it with their own work. Machinery can put them out o business . . . just as it is doing to our money minded proletariat here . . . just as you have com menced to do it with your State farm projects.

And when you took a page of Lenin's diary and showed me you've got brains . . . and you know how to use them. A deuce of a lot more than . . . backwatered on the whole bloody business . could say for the bimboes who waste the Soviet's good roubles in the Third International. . .

Say, big boy, when will you call in that expensive bunch of pen-pushers and put them to work writing menus and laundry tickets? If you keep them at their revolution-making business much longer, you won't have a whole head left among the tovarishes in foreign lands. Or maybe it is your own subtle wisdom that keeps them on the job so that you can liquidate in this devious man-ner all the numbskulls and emotional mobbists who have done so much harm to the cause of the Soviets abroad . . .

I've just a sneaky notion that the Third Interationalists were responsible for spilling the beans on the five year plan, when the Belgian match factories were suddenly faced with an influx of Soviet matches at ruinous prices. . . What was the idea of showing the capitalist world your eimple and splendid plans of pulling the props from under riving or work of the property of the under private ownership of international industries before you really got started? Now you didn't pull that bone . . . of that I'm sure. It was done by some of those power-drunk tea-sippers who just couldn't suppress their kiddish urge to show off. . . . Gosh, I'm sore as a busted boil over that bull. . . . Now what's the result?

You've got every manufacturer in America scared into a closed mouth reticence about telling your country anything more or helping your peo-ple with technical advice and equipment. One very large manufacturer of tools informed me the other day that he has washed his hands completely of a long projected plan of his to establish a factory in Moscow for the manufacture on a production scale of highly necessary material. . . "Why should I build my own funeral?" was the way he put it. . . . And he mentioned the match business by way of illustration. Of course, all of us know it will take a long time for Russia to reach anywhere the productive power of any of our in-dustries. . . . And that there is no danger of competition from your side for decades to come. All the more reason then to have kept shut-trap about the industrialization plan, and allowed no such inconsequential matter like matches to squee

But business men are terribly credulous people. And once you give them the least suggestion of hurting their trade, you've got a fearful task ahead to undo their suspicions and establish new confidence. What did you need all this for? Gosh, I'd like to be you for just long enough to sign the deportation papers for the whole Third International The Chinese desert would be a swell place . . . so like the old Roman Cato at Carthage, they might sit and ruminate with sombre reflection mess they have made of everything they have

Now, as Chernechevski one said, "What's to ?" I'll be woozled if I know. Except perhaps to come out with an honest statement on what has been done to date, and how long would take for Russia to become industrially selfsufficient . . . let alone flood the world with manufactured export. I'd get some American engineers

It wouldn't be a bad idea to organize all the Atheistic Societies into a sort of salvage and r pair crew to go around all the factories mow work ing and keep all the machines and tools, all the tractors and agricultural equipment, all the rolling stock, dynamos and the like in good shape. stock, dynamos and the like in good shape. . . . Some of the Third International boys could be employed wiping off rust and greasing the tough spots. . . . Of course, that might be dangerous. Such guys might ball up the works by starting a demonstration or something in protest against something or other . . . and you'd be in a fix

Excuse me for taking up so much of your time with this idle chatter. But everything suggested here is done in the best of good feeling. I think you're the right lad for the right place. I believe Russia will succeed in spite of all obstacles if you keep the helm during the stormy days ahead. But I'd hate to see you go along handicapped by the advice and acts of the greatest society of mis-fits and political liabilities history has ever known. Try liquidation on the Third International. have nothing to lose but trouble. have a world to gain.

MEI LAN-FANG

CHINESE DRAMA at the National

THE Chinese Theatre carries us te are the conditions underremote are the conditions under-lying its convention, so broad a leap of understanding do they de-mand, of power to put oneself in another's place, that if the reonse of the American audience to Mei Lan-Fang be genuine, we are nearer than I imagine to heternational harmony and peace.

The Chinese art of the theatre, like many things Chinese, is cloak-ed with tradition of the centuries. While these-except of course in the few "new" theatres that copy western models — prevent changes in the general form and themes of the drama, they encourage and make possible a perfection of technique rarely otherwise achieved It is evident, indeed, both from the attitude of the Chinese in the audience and from the presentation itself, that Mei Lan-Fang is flower of the ages.

The theatrical art of the Chinese, as presented in the work of the present company, comes closer to our opera (though still far-away) than to any other western There is a constant orches tra—of sounds unlike any our mu-sicians emit—which emphasizes the moods and moments of the drama, sometimes seriously, sometimes with as broad a humor as our vaudeville orchestra thumping when the comedian falls. There is singing, for at any emotional mo-ment the voice breaks from conversation into song. There is danc-ing; in truth the movements are all so admirably cadenced, so rhythmically held and balanced, that the entire play is in one deep vense a dance.

The stories are drawn exclusive ly from Chinese history and legend. A few of these (though apparently in greatly condensed versions) Mei Lan-Fang gives entire: the little tragedy of "The Suspect-ed Slipper," where the returned hero unknowing kills his son; and the story of the fisherman and his daughter (Mei Lan-Fang plays the feminine roles) who kill their cruel overlord. The remainder of the program consists of dances or scenes of combat from long plays, showing the highly conventional-ized, exquisite delicacy or length-ily deliberate farce of the Chinese drama. It is as though the fragile beauty of old vases came to life. In the land of the cherry blossom and the pea orchard, indeed, eu-logies have been addressed to the various respects of Mei Lan-Fang's person and personality, as displayed in his acting. His eyes, his ears, the movements of his neck, of his shoulders, of his waist, are all described and analyzed, and new modulation doubtless watched for as eagerly as a changed emphasis at the Theatre Français. The whole performance has the quiet grace of self-cognizant beauty, of beauty that needs no flaunting, being sure.

TSUTSUI OF KYOTO

JAPANESE PLAYERS at the Booth Theatre.

The Japanese Company at the Booth presents quite another aspect of the Orient than that we wipe out the human race needs see through Mei Lan-Fang; as less sugar-coating. true, no doubt, in its way, and in-teresting, yet wholly different. For while the Chinese player has brought us the classical drama of land, the troupe from Kyoto is revolutionary, it has done new dramas in the new way, and for its American presentations has had its work supervised by Michio to, long known to the American

The plays Tsutsui is presenting are fairly easy to follow, even without the printed synopsis as guide. For the scenery is realistic, and the plots as well. This enables us to see that the imitation of the west keeps a few stages behind our own development; for the our own development; for the scenery is to us old fashioned, and the plots are trite. The interest these plays have for us lies, artistically, rather in their difference from us than in their resemblance.

Socially, their interest is of another sort. We can gather, from these presentations, some confir-mation of our ideas of the Orient. The Japanese, less sure of their traditions, more eager to match the "smarter" if not wiser western world, the go-getters of the east, offer us a stale version of occidental realism. The more patrician Chinese, proud—as they may be— of the best elements of their an-cient civilization, the oldest persisting unit, are more reluctant to cast this aside for the spacious advantages of an ephemeral present, hold to their classic theatre. It is of interest to note that the Chinese program offers the story of an honest fisherman killing an or an honest inherman kining an unjust lord, and the Japanese selections include, in "The Shadow Man," an even more elaborate account of the common people's rising against the cruelty of those in power. As both plays are based on old atories, it is clear that the fun-damental problems of labor have been much the same in the Orient Author of Broadway's Newest Mystery Play

OUR BABYLON

THE GREEN PASTURES." By Marc Connelly, Mansfield Thea-

"What did God look like when walked the earth?" One pickaninny asks the question at Sunday His teacher doesn't just rightly know, but remembers that when he was a boy he always pictured God in the likeness of the Reverend Mr. Du Bois. This ortho-dox source of his features makes it a simple matter, for the rest of the play, to have God walk all over man's earth.

God doesn't think much of man's earth, and He has cause. For Adam and Noah and the rest of the old Biblical figures come through the naive imagination of the negro (as imagined by Marc Connelly) with the characteristics of persons in the world today; the sinners of Sodom tote their guns, the night clubs of Babylon might be speakeasies; the whole bloomin' mess, in other words, reminds us that if God were as interested in this planet as He was when He wrote the Bible, He'd volunteer to end another flood.

ntroduces us to black heaven. I more than a yellow or a red deity could supervise a white man— therefore there is no sacrilege. But the success of the play is intimately bound with the production, for the choruses that swell and surge with appropriate spirituals between the many scenes, and the rhythmic or rowdy stir of the mass of players, alone could carry over the idea of a directing, omnipotent God. The thought that the best

Carola Goya to Dance At Carnegie Hall

Carola Goya announces a gala season's farewell recital of Spanish dances at Carnegie Hall for Friday evening, April 4th, on which occasion she again will have the assistance of Beatrice Weller harpist, and Iturbe Ortiz, pianist Miss Gova had expected to reap pear in two Sunday evening re-citals at Hampden's Theatre during March, but because of the uncertainty of official action on Sabbath dance performances, she finally decided upon a single week day appearance in the much larger Carnegie Hall instead.

In this recital Miss Goya intends giving the most comprehensive survey of the Spanish dance field she ever has made in a single performance. No less than eighteen of her thirty Spanish dances will be on the program and they will illustrate the traditional iances of nearly every province in Spain, besides revealing her own interpretation of dance music by odern Iberian composers.

"Sergt., Grischa" at Globe

Scores of screen tests were made and weeks of time were con-sumed before Herbert Brenon discovered the ideal player for the title part in Radio Pictures' "The Case of Sergeant Grischa," which opened at the Globe theatre Friday. In conducting his search Brenor was confronted with the problem of finding a young actor capable of throwing off all traces of modern life and sophistication. It was necessary for him to have the ability to display the privations, sufferings and heartaches of one who, puppet like, served as a cog in the great military machine of the World War. Grischa, as described in Arnold Zweig's best-selling novel, is a Russian peasapt, a simple, honest creature whose spirit is filled with bitterness, then resignation under the oppression of the war. When Brenon made a voice and when Brenon made a voice and er European countries where it screen test of Chester Morris, the young artist of "Alibi" fame, he knew he had found Grischa. Anastasia Rabinoff's First New York Recital

Anastasia Rabinoff, who prior to her sailing for Europe three years ago, was hailed in Chicago and other western cities as a new star in the operatic firmament, just returned to America and is making her first New York appearance in a program of songs and Arias in seven languages at the Guild Theatre, Sunday afternoon March 23rd at 3 o'clock.

The "brilliant young prima donna," as she was called by music critics of national reputation, achieved more in not quite five years than many of our greatest artists do in twice that time. Her notable appearances with the San Carlo and Cincinnati Opera Companies, as Santuzza in "Cavalleria Rusticana," just before she sailed for Europe, created nothing short of a sensation. She did the opera after only two years of study. The wards them until a few months ago. A New Personality Now Under Cork

In the older days of minstrelsy, blackface comedians were in such abundance that they almost over-crowded our stages. Going back, however, the last ten years or more and considering the fact that outlets for stage talents have increas ed two fold by a hundred fold, it is interesting to note how few great personalities, who do their own work under cork, have held, or are holding, public attention. Eliminating Eddie Cantor, A Jolson, Eddie Leonard and Morar and Mack, whose standing in the world of the theatre needs no commenting on, what other big names are there? This brings us to a new blackface personality about whom we are going to make prophecies. Pardon us, as we gaze into the crystal—we see Nate Busby, blackface comedian, who is currently making a great hit as Jasper, the butler in Jimmie Cooper's hair raiser 'The Blue Ghost," and relieving the tenseness of this melo-drama with his comic antics, a box-office attraction destined to take his place with those great figures of minstrelsy of the past.

'Son of the Gods" at Strand

Playing its first engagement at popular prices, "Son of the Gods," starring Richard Barthelmess and featuring levely Constance Bennett comes into the New York Strand Theatre Friday, (March 14th). The picture recently had a $2 run at the Warner Theatre. "Son of the Gods" is a First Theatre on Monday evening, March 10, under the direction of A. H. Woods. The play is an adaptation National and Vitaphone production, partly in Technicolor. It was adapted to the screen from the novel by Rex Beach and was directed by Frank Lloyd.

"Gen. Crack" Held at Beacon Having shattered records set early in the season by "Gold Dig-gers of Broadway," "General Crack" starring John Barrymore in his first all-talking picture, is being held over at Warner Bros. Beacon Theatre, Broadway and 74th street. The second week of ts run starts Friday (March 14). Featured in the cast with Barrymore are Lowell Sherman, Armida Marion Nixon, Hobart Bosworth and Jacqueline Logan. Greta Garbo Talks in "Anna Christie" at Capitol

Whalen Should Resign

HAVING by his own admissions induced his agents in the Communist Party to initiate provocative acts at the Union Square demonstration, Commissioner Whalen follows up his lawless acts by making his department a private agency for employing corporations. Public funds that are appropriated for the maintenance of a city department are diverted to maintaining an espionage service for these corporations and to promote a system of blacklisting workmen in the employ of these corporations.

But even this does not reach the limit of Whalen's offending. It is proposed that the list of suspects shall be used for the purpose of deporting those who are not cit-This brings a protest from eightcen Columbia professors of law who cer-tainly are not Communists. They declare that this is a violation of civil liberties and that on the same principle "Jews, Catho-lics, atheists, Republicans, Presbyterians, militarists, pacifists and labor unionists militarists, pacifists and laboratory ex-might under the stress of temporary excitement be similarly proscribed." fessor Cattell supplements this protest by pointing out that Whalen is violating Sec-tion 19 of the Federal penal code which tion 19 of the Federal penal code which provides a fine of $5,000 and imprisonment for not more than ten years for such actions as Whalen sponsors.

This pompous police head either does not know the law or considers himself im-mune from it. In either case he has rehis utter unfitness as an official should be compelled to hand in his resignation. He is a dangerous and irrespon sible man and no more fit to serve in publie office than a fourteen-year old child. It is not the first time that he has run amuck and followed a lawless policy that threatens the elementary civil rights of every citizen of New York City.

We are not Communists. We have opposed their methods and their ideas since their organization eleven years ago. We have done more than all the witless Whalens in this country to combat what Communism represents. And yet we submit that however absurd political and economic views may appear to us and to others it is not a crime to publicly urge those views. On the contrary, it is the duty of public officials to protect all groups in their right to be heard. If individuals violate the law while proclaiming their views it actions, not their opinions, that become matter for action by the authorities.

Whalen is pursuing ideas, not illegal actions. Even the violence on Union Square was in part incited by Whalen's own agents who were acting under his instructions. On the score of those instructions, his use of his department as a private agency for employing corporations, and promoting a private blacklist he is guilty of more fractions of the law than all the Communists whom he now holds in jails.

Moreover, the Communists are not the only persons who are imperiled by Whalen's conduct. There is not a person or organization outside the range of Tammany politics that cannot be so treated if actions are not challenged. call that on several occasions in the past few years the workers on the Interborough lines have struck against a company Whalen's department has helped to beat the strikers into submission. Has he also used his department as an espionage agency for the transit corporation? Whalen should resign. The Socialist Party has begun the job of circulating petitions demanding his resignation. that every individual and organization in-terested in avoiding Whalen's inverted Bolshevism will circulate these petitions and root this child-man out of his position so

The Pre-Whalen Era

FROM some unknown correspondent The New Leader has received a circular mailed by the Adams Express Company of Detroit to its agents in the Michigan division on April 9, 1913. subject of the communication is a list of publications that are denied transmission through the mails and through the express companies. was the glorious era of "making the world safe for democracy." Considering our indictment of Police Commissioner Whalen this twelve-yearold document turns up at an opportune moment.

Here various issues of the New York Call are listed as being denied shipment by the express companies. The Milwaukee Leader is completely banned. An article by William Hard in the March issue of the Metropolitan Magazine bearing the title: "Is America Honest?" is listed. Hard is now one of the regular contributors to the monthly magazine of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce which indicates how "dangerous" his ideas must have been in 1918.

Then we come across this curious item: 'Pamphlets issued by the Victor Talking Machine Co., advertising and promoting the sale of phono graph records of German martial music, including songs relating directly to the present war." The Columbia Graphaphone Co., gets a knockout for selling similar phonograph records. One issue of the White Plains Daily Argus at White Plains, N. Y., received a knife thrust from the censor. The February number of Young India which urged home rule for India met the same Oligarchs at Washington were selling "democracy" abroad and putting it in chains at home. Give pompous upstarts liberty to act as they please and they will be pleased to give us none at all. Whalen must resign!

The Ford Empire

NAPOLEON and Alexander had their visions of world empire and yet their range of conquest was insignificant compared with American capitalism. The empire of Henry Ford has expanded all over Europe. Sir Percival Perry, chairman of the Ford Motor Company, Ltd., surveyed the vast domain of the American overlord the other day and said:

"This company and its associated companies are employing Englishmen, Irishmen, Dutchmen, Frenchmen, Belgians, Danes, Germans, Italians, Spaniards, Swedes, Finns, and Turks, and they are all working in their respective countries and doing the same job with similar tools under equal factory conditions. We compare how long it takes each respective man to complete his work.'

Here is a world empire issuing out of American capitalism that is more significant than any territorial ambitions of any man in history. It has spread through thirteen nations. Frontiers have no more force than paper toys. Millions of workers of various nationalities and languages come more or less under its sovereign power. It s not an elective empire. Its subjects do not choose their allegiance. The empire chooses its subjects. Its heavy artillery is mass production that batters down old forms of production. Its absentee feudal master rules the lives of millions through his loyal chiefs.

And now, gentlemen of the press, of upper class politics, of solemn university halls, tell us again your fairy tale of "individualism." Where s the individual in this monstrous offshoot of your blessed social order? We note one in Detroit at the top of this empire. We note a few others like Sir Percival himself who reviews this world But what of the unknown millions swallowed up in this colossus of economic power? What of their "individualism?" It is no more evident for them than in a belt in the machinery which they operate.

This is capitalism at its highest and at its vorst. Socialism is essential to democratize these oligarchies.

IN A NUTSHELL

Senator Grundy of Pennsylvania is grieved that capitalist interests. He wants to know who owns this government, anyway.

Hunger is not among the postponable wants, and a day, even a few hours, in such a condition is often the crisis of a life of ruin.-Tom Paine.

President Hoover's investigation commission in Haiti is said to have wired him a plan to give freedom to that country. We doubt whether New York bankers will give up their sovereignty in the island.

Socialism has a world policy as well as a national one-a corollary to its belief in the brothernood of man. It alone can banish national jeal-pusies from the Foreign Offices; it alone offers the guarantees of peace, which are a necessary preliminary to disarmament.—J. Ramsay MacDon-

The Fight For The Aged

Washington, March 1.—For the first time in the nation's history old-age pension hearings were held by a committee of Congress.

by a committee of Congress.

This record was made at the request of the American Federation of Labor, which years ago indorsed the principle of old-age pensions. When Congressman Kopp, chairman of the House Labor Committee, arranged for hearings, President Green informed individuals and groups that have been interested in this question.

Mr. Green's publicity resulted in the largest crowd that has attend-ed any hearing in this Congress. Pension advocates generally agreed that the government should appropriate money for the States that would match this money dollar for dollar.—A. F. of L. Weekly News Service.

WE wish that the above statement squared with history ge pensions in Washington. Others

The late Victor L. Berger, So cialist Congressman, introduced a bill for old age Pensions in 1911 but he obtained little support, Trade unions were not aware of paid no attention to it.

Later, Meyer London, anothe ocialist Congressman, introduced a similar bill and obtained a hear ing on a proposal to have a committee study the question and report a bill. Unfortunately, Sam uel Gompers appeared at hearing and opposed the bill although some years earlier the American Federation of Labor had approved the principle of old age nsions but little was done to legislation.

For years no encouragement whatever came from any A. F. of L. spokesman in favor of pensi ing the workers who are being scrapped by the industriad masters at the age of fifty. Progressive trade unionists and Socialists in the meantime, seeing the growing importance of this legislation have carried on an intensive agitation for it.

Finally at the Toronto conven-ion of the American Federation of Labor last year this legislation was approved with but one dissenting vote. It has now become a burning issue throughout the country. We are glad to know that the labor chieftains have caught up with the sentiment of those who saw the need of old age pensions years ago, out many of them opposed it for years and candor requires that credit be given where it is due.

Live A Human Life

THEY live as idiots and machines all the time, at work and in their leisure. Like idiots and machines, but imagining that they are living like humans, even like gods. The first thing to do is to make them admit that they are idiots and machines during working hours. . . . You've got to do it; otherwise the whole fabric of our world will fall to bits and we'll all starve. Do the job, then, idiotically and mechanically, and spend your real hours in being a complete man or woman, as the case may be. . . . The genuine human life in your leisure is the real thing. . . . Don't be deceived by the canting rogues who talk of the sanctity of labor and the Christian service that business men do their fellows. It's all men do their fellows. It's all lies. . . . If you believe in business as service and the sanctity of labor, you'll merely turn yourself in-to a mechanical idiot for twenty hours out of the twenty-four. Admit it's dirty, hold your nose and do it for eight hours, and then oncentrate on being a real human being in your leisure. A real complete human being. Not a newspaper reader, not a jazzer, not a radio fan. Soviet Campaign Recalls A French Proverb; The Reactionaries Turned Tolerant

By H. N. Brailsford

LONDON.

O one who watches the international religious campaign against Russia can doubt that a political purpose inspires it. The prime mover in this country are die-hard Conservatives, who have used every other stick to beat the Soviets until it broke in their hands. On this occasion one must pay a tribute to their astuteness. but, unfortunately, it does not. It gion is one of the primary pas-was not the first hearing on old sions of mankind: if it can inspire the noblest heroism or promote in-sensate folly it is its peculiarity to rouse men to every effort save clear thinking.

It is easy to retort that the record of the Conservatives is one of hostility to the ideal of toleration, the importance of this measure and and one of indifference, when no motive of interest intervenes, to the sufferings of persecuted Christians. No Conservative proposed to break off relations with Tsardom when its police was organizing the massacre of Jews, while the Holy Synod persecuted the Baptists and drove the harmless Dukhobors to seek refuge in Canada. This same party was Abdul Hamid's apologist in the bloodiest days of the Armenian massacres. I cannot recall that English Protestant Churches spoke a word of rebuke when the French Republic was closing the schools of the congregations and expelling the monastic orders from French soil; indeed, it was during these years of the sharp struggle against the Cath-olic Church that the Entente Cordiale was formed.

But such an answer is insufficient. If I were a believer, and were satisfied of the truth of these monstrous tales of the torture and massacre of Christians, for no offence save their faith, I should not be content to demand a breach with Russia: I should burn to carry a rifle against her on my own shoulder. Even if one were to stop short of diplomatic breach and content himself with prayer instead of rifles (which is supposed to be the Christian method of resisting evil), a scalding foun-tain of mischief would still re-main. It is no light matter to think of one's fellow-men as "red Let us try, then, to arrive at the facts.

The Soviet method of handling the legal problem of its relations to organized religion is open to riticism, and I shall not shrink from it. But it is grossly misleading to speak, as the Archbishop of Canterbury has spoken, of "the persecution of all who profess any form of religion in Russia." On the other hand, the churches are open and often crowed, and their rites go on unmolested. To that I can testify, for it happens that I enjoy the music of the Eastern ritual, and I attended many services both in 1920 and 1926.
