Do You Remember?

World Watches Steel Strikes

The government is taking steps to having a committee to prepare a report to Congress, but the only committee that had met but one hour before the beginning of the strike was an all-American steel committee. It was reported that the strike was the result of a series of strikes in the steel industry. The strike continued into August, with the workers holding the Carnegie Steel Co. to work and the United Steelworkers of America demanding higher wages.

Schools and the Labor Movement

By Marvel Dobbs

The United States Chamber of Commerce, in a letter to the United States Steel Corporation, is dissatisfied with the state of the labor movement in the United States. The Chamber is concerned about the growth of the labor movement and the increasing power of labor unions. It is concerned about the potential for labor unrest and the need for a stable labor market.

The Chamber recommends that the United States government take steps to address the labor movement, including enforcing labor laws, negotiating contracts, and providing support for businesses. It also recommends that the United States government increase funding for labor education programs.

Notice to Members on 544 Withdrawals

No member of the union is allowed to take a withdrawal from the union for more than one year. The reason for this is that the union has a policy of not allowing members to take withdrawals from the union for more than one year. The policy is in place to ensure that members remain committed to the union and its goals.

The withdrawal process requires that the member file a withdrawal form with the union. The withdrawal form must be completed and submitted to the union, and it must be signed by the member.

Northern States Drive Against Union Goes On; Members Fired

Local 292 Prepares to Stem Company Campaign

A campaign against the union continues with unabated vigor from the Northern States Power Company. The company is trying to weaken the union by firing members who are union members. The company is also trying to undermine the union by promising non-union workers higher wages.

There is little doubt that the company's campaign is having an effect on the members of the union. Many members are leaving the union and joining the company. The company is being funded by the state government to help pay for the campaign.

Mazy Floral Struck By General Drivers

The General Drivers union was struck by General Drivers for refusing to work at the plant. The strike was in response to the company's attempt to increase the size of the workforce and reduce wages.

The strike lasted for several days, and during this time the company was forced to hire temporary workers to keep the plant running. The strike was eventually settled, but it showed the strength of the union and its ability to negotiate for better working conditions.

Sixty Thousand Strong

There is something particularly sinister and threatening displayed by the 60,000 Minneapolis union leaders and Minneapolis employees under contract with General Drivers Union. If their attitude is interpreted correctly it bodes no good for the organized labor movement of the United States.

The Associated industries, the organization that superseded the Citizens Alliance, has done a splendid job in organizing the busses. They have built up the morale of the employees to the point where it appears that they are determined to resist all attempts of unions to improve wages scale for their members.

As is the case with wars a certain amount of time must elapse before the people realize how much they are suffering, bloodshed and losses that occur in the battlefields. Minneapolis unions have been propagandizing for the exponents of these laborers who are all workers. The Associated Industries have forgotten the terrible losses that they suffered during the 1914 Drivers' strike, when the drivers entered the field which did not go through with the 1914 strike. The Associated Industries are taking exactly the same tactics that their predecessors took in 1914.

The chain of events that have led up to the present situation are all signposts that point in a certain direction. It is no coincidence that the present labor movement is composed of those who have been under contract to Local 544 since 1914. In the first place, if the Associated Industries had not agreed to the contract, they have been in a conflict with the people of the city for the last few years. If the Associated Industries had not agreed to the contract, they have been in conflict with the people of the city for the last few years.

The Associated Industries, the oldest and largest of the Associated Industry organizations, is now joined by a new group of union leaders who are all workers.

The Associated Industries are taking exactly the same tactics that their predecessors took in 1914. The Associated Industries are taking exactly the same tactics that their predecessors took in 1914.
