Federal Workers Serves to Unite Unemployed Workers With Trade Union Movement

Continuing its series of articles on the history and activities of the Minneapolis union, the Northwest Organizer is presenting a follow-up which offers a look at the activities of the unemployed workers of the Trade Union Movement in the Twin Cities area. The Federal Workers Section was one of the first to organize and take the lead in the movement for the recognition of the unemployed workers. The organization was formed in the fall of 1934 and has continued to grow ever since. The group is composed of unemployed workers who have come together to fight for their rights and to demand recognition of their union by the employers.

Rotation

The new arrangement of a federal work program that will be brought about in 1937, the Independent Truckers on WPA are going to be faced with many new and drastic decisions. Because of the large number of truck drivers who are now unemployed, the program will have to face many new and difficult challenges. The new organization will have to find a way to keep the number of truck drivers to a minimum, while at the same time providing work for all the unemployed.
