Defend Pat and Unions
Against Labor's Enemies

Organized labor of Minneapolis has rallied around the fallen body of Pat Corcoran, a minor and friend. Pat Corcoran, a labor organizer, has pledged his life to avenge his death. To find and punish the killers of Pat Corcoran, organizers from all over the state, headed by 8,000 members of the Minneapolis labor council, have declared a tit-for-tat war on the labor movement's enemies.

St. Paul Laundry Workers
Win Pact With Employers

First Agreement Between Unions and Laundry and Dry Cleaning

Achieving the first signed agreement covering calling all laundry and dry cleaning workers in Minnesota and Wisconsin, the St. Paul Laundry and Dry Cleaning Works, Inc., and the American Federation of Labor, have signed a pact which will go into effect on Jan. 1, providing for a weekly wage of $35.00.

The pact was reached after several weeks of negotiations between the two parties. The agreement is expected to be in effect by the end of the month.

Defend Pat Against the Enemies of Labor!

What Is Coming Next

Some two days ago, press, those names are listed on Harold Bean’s blackboard don’t know what is coming next. Some may have heard of the incident, but the majority remained unaware. The worst is that the union members have been divided. Some are willing to fight back, while others have given up. It is a critical time for the union, and we must stand together.

Why Do They Do It?

Bean and his boys have a tough job on their hands. They can’t sell a lid of goods like that to the Minneapolis workers. Then, why did they try to break up the movement? It’s because they don’t want to lose their money. They want to keep their power and control over the workers.

Trying to Crawl Out of It

Naturally, there will be an increase in litigation from the Union. The Minneapolis Labor News is printed in the Twin Cities. As part of their strategy to gain public support, they have called for a union-wide strike in the Twin Cities.

St. Paul’s Laundry Workers Win Pact With Employers

After months of uncertainty, the workers at St. Paul’s Laundries, Local 101, have finally won a new agreement. The contract is the result of negotiations between the Laundry Employers Local 101 and its employees.

The new contract includes some significant changes. Employees will now receive higher wages and improved working conditions. The union has also secured better health and safety provisions, which are expected to enhance the overall work environment.

The bargaining committee, composed of union representatives and company officials, met several times to iron out the details of the new agreement. Both parties are pleased with the outcome and believe it will benefit the workers and the company alike.

Organized Labor Wrote This

Our editorial this week is one written for us by the leaders of the labor movement, an organization that assembles to consider ways and means of furthering the search for Pat Corcoran's killers.

Over one hundred and fifty officials of the Minneapolis labor movement assembled Monday night at the call of the Minneapolis Labor Federation. These labor leaders and their allies had already—during the twelve days that had elapsed since Pat Corcoran's death—met with the Teamsters' Council in an effort to stop the hunt for the brutal attacker. The various steps that have been taken to push the search for the murderers are reported in another story in this issue.

Organized labor of Minneapolis, in special session summoned by the Minneapolis Labor Federation, has requested a full and immediate investigation of the murder of Pat Corcoran, its secretary, and has asked the labor movement to take positive steps to bring the murderer to justice. The labor leaders have concluded in this vital issue. The resolution follows in full:

"WHEREAS, the Minneapolis Labor Federation called a special assembly of its members to consider the announced resolution of the Teamsters' Council, a blow at the labor movement and an inspiration to the workers,

"WHEREAS, in order to protect the labor movement and its officials, it is evident that every one of its members, knowing that those who carry criminal tools together as a result of their common interest, will be attacked, must continue to cooperate,

"WHEREAS, in order to protect the labor movement and its officials, it is evident that every one of its members, knowing that those who carry criminal tools together as a result of their common interest, will be attacked, must continue to cooperate,

"WHEREAS, in order to protect the labor movement and its officials, it is evident that every one of its members, knowing that those who carry criminal tools together as a result of their common interest, will be attacked, must continue to cooperate,

"WHEREAS, the daily press controlled by the employers, and the employer-controlled unions, have united in an attempt to smear the trade union with the accusation that "gangsters are at the root of this crime," a charge which would be futile for the murderer, constitutes a foul slander on the honor of the labor movement. The daily press has shielded the real murderers and the dark forces behind them,

"WHEREAS, a public meeting has been called for Wednesday, December 2, at 7:30 in the afternoon by a group of "Laboring Committees," under the announced slogan, "Agitationist Labor is the Labor of the 21st Century," in protest against the results of the recall of the labor movement; and

"AND BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: We ask for a meeting to be announced for Wednesday, December 1, at 9:30 at 7:30 in the afternoon by a group of "Laboring Committees," under the announced slogan, "Agitationist Labor is the Labor of the 21st Century," in protest against the results of the recall of the labor movement;

Negro-White Solidarity Wins for America

Washington, D.C.—The biweekly style of attack directed against the Negro community in the United States is being intensified, largely under the leadership of the National Urban League and the National Negro Business League, which has granted recognition to the colored people in the United States and has been granted recognition by the colored people in the United States.

The striking drivers were those who made the strike known to the public, and were told to tell all. "The strike is not over yet," they said, "we are making our stand against the Negro rulers in the city." The Negro city drivers were forced to give up, but the drivers who made the strike known to the public were forced to continue, and they were forced to continue with the strike.

Fargo Drivers Hold Corcoran Memorial

Fargo, N.D.—A memorial service was held in Fargo on Thursday, December 17, at the request of the Mayor and City Council. The service was held in the City Hall, and was attended by the mayor, the city council, and a number of the citizens of Fargo.

By the way, the program was given by the Colorado Labor Federation, 217 S. Washington St., and was attended by the mayor, the city council, and a number of the citizens of Fargo.
