Organized Labor United Against Its Enemies

The NORTHWEST ORGANIZER
Official Organ of the Minneapolis Teamsters Joint Council
MINNEAPOLIS OFFICE: 351 PLYMOUTH AVE. S.

Organized labor of Minnesota has rallied around the fallen body of our beloved brother and friend, Pat McGovern. Pat was one of us. We have pledged ourselves to find his murderers and to prove that the charge is true.

A week ago this same organization, with the backing of organized labor throughout the country, conceived the idea of a $1,000 reward for information leading to the conviction of the persons responsible for the murder of Pat McGovern. Last week this reward was increased to $2,000. The fund has now been increased to $10,000.

We believe that the organized labor movement of Minnesota has a right to demand justice for Pat McGovern. We believe that the organized labor movement of the Northwest, on the West Coast, as a progressive labor leader, demands that justice be done. We believe that while you laborers by joining your labor union in investigating the murder of Pat McGovern, you are standing united against both the open and disguised enemies of organized labor.

What the Daily Worker Didn't Print

The Daily Worker never reported the victories in the labor movement that were reported by other publications.

It never reported the phenomenal growth of the Teamsters Joint Council - to 17,000 members. The Daily Worker never reported the aid that the Teamsters Joint Council is giving to the prisoners in the Northwest.

It never reported the success of the North Central District of the American Federation of Labor in organizing the state's narrow, roofless, and crowded garment industry.

It never reported the annual re-election, by overwhelming majorities, of the progressive Teamsters leaders.

It never reported the remarkable growth of the Labor Union of Minneapolis.

It never reported the fact that Vern Simmons, Minneapolis' largest union, has grown eight times since Pat McGovern's death. It never reported that the Daily Worker's circulation dropped forty per cent in the past year.

It never reported the fact that the workers of Minneapolis have more money to spend on the products of their labor than they have ever before.

It never reported that the officers of the railroad labor movement have been in full session, all week, under the leadership of Pat McGovern.

It never reported that the organized labor movement of Minnesota is getting stronger every day.

While the Daily Worker has been enumerating the labor movement's gains, it has been steadily increasing its circulation. The Daily Worker has purchased thousands of acres of new land in Pat McGovern's name and has been spending thousands of dollars to build up a circulation.

It has been reported that the Daily Worker's circulation increased from 10,000 to 50,000 in the past year. The Daily Worker has been increasing its circulation by thousands of copies. The Daily Worker has been increasing its circulation by thousands of copies.

It is important that the organized labor movement of Minnesota should know the facts. The facts are that the Daily Worker is not on the side of the workers. The facts are that the Daily Worker is on the side of theizzy.

The Labor Movement in Minnesota and the First World War

By Carlos H. Ison

The Minnesota Historical Society

Introduction

Fellow Truck Drivers: That was the slogan of the World War I strike. It was no idle threat. It was a world-wide event, affecting workers in all countries. The Minnesota strike was the largest and most successful of all. It was fought by the men of Minnesota, under the leadership of the Minnesota Federation of Labor.

The strike was called by the United Auto Workers of America, to protest the unfair treatment of the workers in the auto industry. The strike lasted for ten weeks, and was settled by the mediated agreement of the government.

The strike had a profound effect on the workers of Minnesota, and on the workers of the world. It was a turning point in the history of the labor movement.

The strike began on December 1, 1919, and ended on January 1, 1920. It was the largest strike in Minnesota's history, and the most successful.
