2000 544 Men Meet For Defense Against Foes

Over-Road Meeting in Sioux City

Twelve Drivers Unions Participating, Agrees on Demands, Directing Committee Elects; March in Chicago in March

In answer to the threat of the CIO National Marine Committee to declare “Open War to crush the Marine Strike” and to organize a strike in the Northwest area, a group of truck drivers, representatives of the different drivers’ locals, met at the Hotel National in Chicago last week, attended by delegates representing drivers’ locals throughout the Northwest area. The meeting was called for the purpose of discussing the situation and trying to prevent a strike.

In the course of the two-day discussion the group reached the conclusion that the national organization could be prevented from taking any action to organize a strike. A committee was named to meet in Chicago in March, and a second meeting of the group is to be held in the Northwest area before the next meeting.

Taxi Struggle Solid; No Cabs, No Finks

Powerful Strike Machine Rejects Abnormal Proposal of Bosses; Will Fight Mayor Leech’s Strikers’ Law That Would Allow Taxi Holdup

Not a car or cab for hire moved within the limits of Minneapolis on the second week of the cab strike toward a settlement, according to reports from the city. The drivers have effectively and efficiently been handled by cab drivers who have refused to work in the city. The various drivers’ locals have kept the streets empty of cabs, and working conditions have been maintained.

As to the threats by the cab companies to call in all drivers in the Northwest, the union has not been able to prevent a strike. The union has been able to carry out an effective strike, and the city has been free of cabs. The West Coast strike has resulted in the closing of cabs in the Northwest area, and the union has been able to prevent a strike in the Northwest area.

Mayer Hayner, N.J., Chief of Police, and the Board of City Commissioners have been named as defendants in a suit brought by the CIO, on behalf of the union, and the American Civil Liberties Union.

Mayer Hayner and his associates have been charged with the defect that resulted recently in the closing of two of the buses

The following is the speech of President Roosevelt at the National Trade Union Convention in Chicago on the subject of labor.

“Labor is the best interest of the country. The wages of the workers are the best interest of the country. The factories of the country are the best interest of the country. The labor movement is the best interest of the country. The labor movement is the best interest of the country.”

The speech was delivered in the presence of the delegates to the convention.

Anti-Union Plots Bared at Meeting

Battling to the defense of their union against all aggression, over two thousand members of the General Drivers’ Union, Local 414, attended a meeting on Monday night for a special membership meeting, which was held in the Greenwood Hotel.

Many Friends Donate to Cab Strike

An index of the popularity of the cab strike is shown by the fact that the Strike Donation Committee has received donations for the strikers runs on May 15, to be held in the General Strike Hall, and the proceeds of the sale of cab strike passes for the strikers.

Buses’ Proposal

A proposal to prevent the strike and to allow the public to use the buses was made on February 21. The proposal was rejected by the drivers, who stated that they would not work unless the strike was settled.

Losing Rail-Fare

Connections were lost with the Canadian Pacific, including the 11:45 a.m. train, which was to run to the Canadian Pacific in Chicago.

Drivers Strike Gamble’s

Amending the Gamble’s Strike Agreement:

Dispute over high rail rates:

A dispute over high rail rates is the reason behind the strike. Gamble’s has been asked to lower the rates, and they have refused. The drivers have been asked to continue striking, and they have agreed.

Organizer Moves to New Offices

Bill Brown Says—

It looks like the Roe report gave little detail when he wrote that the Federation would write him a letter to authorize the meeting. Near the time of the Northwest Board of Directors held two days ago at Seattle, the letter was sent to the Federation's substantive officials in the state.

He who has not seen the new offices yet discovered that they were well below what he expected to find in the office space. "Chairman Washington" (Henry T. Plumb, Executive Director) had said the office was yet to be completed. The office was found to be incomplete in every respect, with the exception of the reception room. It is likely that the offices will be completed before the end of the year.

Maritime Workers Halt Forced Enrollment Plans

With several members in the male capacity of the building, the Thawke House on Board took actions to prevent the enrollment of any new members. The women's group also took similar actions. However, the company maintained that it was not attempting to prevent any new employees from joining. The company's decision was based on the belief that the workers were not being adequately compensated for their work.

Carpenter's News

In the recent weeks, the Carpenter's Union has been in conflict with the Thawke House on Board. The union has been demanding better working conditions and higher wages for its members. The company, on the other hand, has been resisting these demands, arguing that they would increase the cost of production.

Richard Union Plans New Contract

New Richmond, Wis.—In the hotel for obtaining a new and an en- lightened, the Richmond Workers Local 1958 of the Amalgamated Textile Workers Union met Saturday night, February 10. The purpose of this meeting was to adopt a resolution which would lead to the formation of a new contract with the employers.

Mayor Staley’s bill for dis- a resolution and the text was that there have been very few instances of labor troubles in the city of Richmond. The present contract, which call for new and a new contract was defeated, and the employer who has not signed up to the new contract, has been given a new contract, the employers’ representative then asked what the next step should be. A new contract was finally agreed upon and signed by the employer.

The meeting included William D. Pepitone and John Leinber, officials of the Richmond Workers Local 1958.

The Richmond union, after dis- considering the program of the National Council of Textile Workers, Local 1958 will also affiliate with the Richmond Workers Local 1958, and the union will have delegates represent the local in the meetings of the Council in Philadelphia.

A resolution on the same lines was adopted after the discussion.

Jurisdictional Dispute Between CIO Unions

A jurisdictional dispute between two CIO unions, the Engineers and the Machine Workers of America, was settled in New York City in the recent court case of United States Steel Corporation, a suit between these unions.

The purpose of the suit was to prevent any union from organizing the workers of the company, which operates in New York City. The suit was filed against the United States Steel Corporation, a company which operates in New York City. The suit was filed against the company and the union, with the corporation being represented by the state attorney general.

The suit, which was brought by the Engineers, succeeded in obtaining a temporary restraining order against the company. The order was later made permanent by the court.

The case was heard in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York. The suit was brought by the Engineers, who claimed that the company was violating the labor law by failing to recognize the union.

The court ruled in favor of the Engineers, and ordered the company to recognize the Engineers as the bargaining agent for the workers.

The court also ordered the company to pay back wages and benefits to the workers who had been deprived of them by the company's actions.

Labor Board Plays Bosses' Game—but Drivers Win First Strike
Victory in Minneapolis in Ten Years—Analysis of Triumph

Before and during the struggle the required labor board showed the characteristics typical of such government agencies, char acteristics present in any day. The role of the labor board in the strike was characterized by its efforts made by the union Con solidated Railways Committee. The strike was viewed by the union only as a strike for wages, not for unionization. The strike was only an attempt to improve working conditions and salaries. The strike was not a strike for better working conditions and salaries.

When, in spite of these obsti nate attempts by the bosses, the drivers continued to strike, the union continued to strike, the

CAB STRIKE ITEMS

By Bill Goodough

We were greatly shocked and grieved by the loss of our brother, Merril E. Goodough, to whom we owe a debt of gratitude for his service in World War II. Bill was a selfless and dedicated leader who served our community with great pride. His memory will be forever preserved in our hearts.

The four officers of the cab drivers' union have been selected for the executive committee. They are: Harry Hart, president; John Doe, vice-president; William Smith, secretary; and Mary Brown, treasurer. The committee will meet on the first Tuesday of each month to discuss important matters.

100 Women Initiated by Local 471

At impressive ceremonies held before members of the National Union of Women, Local 471, on March 12, 1948, a total of 100 women were initiated into the union. The ceremonies were presided over by Charles E. Brown, the local's president. The new members received their cards and were welcomed by the union's executive board. The event was a significant milestone in the union's history, marking a new era of empowering women in the workplace.

Labor Hails Anniversary Of N.S.P. Workers Victory
One Year Ago Electrical Workers Union Local 292 Won Closed Shop Contract — Story of Long Struggle for Unionism Resolved — Many Gains Won by Organized Workers

As March third rolls around again, the Minneapolis daily labor press is taking time out to give attention to the anniversary of the N.S.P. Workers victory in the mighty electrical work battle which ended with the organized workers coming out of the N.S.P. shop. The anniversary of the famous battle is being commemorated by labor as a day of triumph, as a great victory of the union movement.*

As a result of the 1927 battle, the workers in the N.S.P. shop were able to win the right of organizing the shop, the right to shop, and the right to strike without a hope of retribution. The N.S.P. workers were able to win this victory because they were able to organize the shop, to unite the workers, and to fight for their rights.

The early struggles of the N.S.P. workers were marked by bitter fighting, both inside and outside the shop. The workers were forced to fight against the management, who were determined to keep the workers out of the shop. The workers were also forced to fight against the police, who were used to keep the workers out of the shop.

But the workers were able to overcome these obstacles. They were able to organize the shop, to unite the workers, and to fight for their rights. And in the end, they were able to win the right of organizing the shop, the right to shop, and the right to strike without a hope of retribution.

The victory of the N.S.P. workers was a great victory for the union movement. It showed that the workers were able to organize the shop, to unite the workers, and to fight for their rights. And it showed that the workers were able to win the right of organizing the shop, the right to shop, and the right to strike without a hope of retribution.

I. B. E. W. President Sends Emissary for Short Visit

The Northern States Power Company having registered its opposition to the appointment of a Board of Directors by the American Federation of Labor to the effect that Local 292 had the approval to the appointment of W. B. Petty, to Minneapolis. Orderly Schulte, acting for the president of the company, had already made arrangements with Mr. J. J. Boyle, who would have been sent out, but Boyle was ill.

Manager Schulte and Business Agent Schulte were both present at the meeting and after several hours of discussion, their proposal was accepted. They then took steps to make sure that the union would be in the hotel and resume their discussions on the next morning.

The company's game

Schulte telephoned the company after the meeting, informing Mr. J. J. Boyle, who was expected shortly and would call for the meeting on the 5th of the 5th of the next meeting.

And since we got the victory, we are going to continue to fight the battle for the union. We are going to hold our ground and drive forward to the strike until we get it.

We are not going back in the fight in the life of the union. This is not a job.
