Government Charges 90 WPA Strikers With 'Conspiracy'

Indict 80 Men and Women for 'Conspiring' to Close WPA Sewing Project — All Arrested and Fined $500, Banded, Escorted in Shackled Hands, Feet

The Minnesota WPA sewing project was on Thursday night the scene of an unusual legal proceeding. In what is considered a first in the history of labor relations, 80 WPA strikers, including 42 in Minneapolis and 38 in St. Paul, were arrested by a federal grand jury and charged with 'conspiring' to close the WPA sewing project. The defendants were then banded and escorted by police to the federal building in Minneapolis where they were held, including 24 women.

The charges were brought in connection with the closing of the WPA sewing project by the Minneapolis-based Women's Work in Industry, Inc., which operates the project.

The defendants are accused of 'conspiring' to close the WPA sewing project by 'interfering' with the project's operation. The charges were brought under the provisions of the National Labor Relations Act, which prohibits 'interfering' with the operation of a labor organization.

The defendants are scheduled to appear in federal court on Monday for a preliminary hearing.

Drivers Officials in Three Cities Arrested by FBI

Early that Saturday afternoon, 12 drivers were arrested in three cities on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice.

The arrests were made in connection with an investigation into the alleged illegal activities of the drivers.

Drivers, officials and union officials are expected to be arrested in the coming days.

Make Minneapolis a Union Town

A union town is one where workers have the right to organize and bargain collectively for better wages and working conditions. Minneapolis is a union town because it has a strong tradition of worker solidarity and a history of successful union organizing.

The Minneapolis Local Union of the United Auto Workers is the largest union in the city, representing over 30,000 workers in the area.

The union has a strong presence in the community, with local chapters in various neighborhoods. It supports local businesses and advocates for policies that benefit working people.
M-Day is Threat To Very Existence Of Labor Movement

Labor has nothing to gain and everything to lose from war and the vast profits of war, yet the bosses cannot have their war without the consent of the American working class.

Labor's support can be gained in two ways. The workers must either be organized and a part of the labor movement or be propagandized into such support. The M-Day Military Industrial program is the most obvious way to organize American workers, as the American employers, will see both methods and face the most immediate threat.

The union may have to bear this business in the Public Interest if it does not. For the M-Day Military Industrial program has the following function: "To consolidate the mass of American workers into Government agencies...to sell all that the public and industry will buy without regard for the actual needs of the country.

To combat every propaganda the workers are not aware of...to establish and rules and regulations for con sentative democracy in the United States...to make a voluntary cemetery of the country. Making It Likey

The Organizing Bureau for Labor

The Organizing Bureau for Labor will immediately begin to organize all the workers in the country under the direction of the United States Labor Bureau.

Under the Service Administration

All industries, all commerce, all labor, even the banks and retail stores, must be organized under direction of Labor Bureau. The Government can now and must now take over and organize all the workers in the country to prepare them for war. Every man must be enrolled in some form of organization to prepare for war. If this is not done, the workers will be at the mercy of the bosses.

Be sure your man signs up to work for the Government. If every man will do his part, the war can be won.
