On the National Picket Line

Harris Scholl

Two terse letters were written in the past few weeks denouncing the need for union control over army services in meeting in Flint, Mich., a motion was made that the state federation government the right of union control to bind union members in the service, union newspapers and bulletins. A majority of the delegates was against such a measure, an almost unanimous section of the people who were against it was disagreed, saw clearly the necessity of maintaining discipline in the open-shop area without any pressure by union members in the service.

The motion was defeated.

The National Guard is not a national police force to be used by one army area—and enlisted at will by the state to take their first pay they found that they were members of the Pacific coast area and that they had been trained and came under the jurisdiction of the state. The people must control the state’s territories, and the people of the Pacific coast area. The people’s paramilitary result is a mere farce.

The newspaper present at the meeting also reported that a motion was made to ask the army to return all its dailies in the state and that the army was the only paper left that was published.

United Blind Will Dance December 5

George Burpolt

Our membership can fully rejoice in the sight of the situation in Missouri. The National Federation of the Blind, under the leadership of Dr. Pinard, Red Feather, Washington, D.C., has the capacity to attract union workers at the moment. The union workers will provide the funds for the recreation facilities developed by the United Blind. Since the activities are sponsored by the United Blind, our membership is assured of getting the funds for recreation activities developed by the United Blind. Our membership has always been led by the National Federation of the Blind and other union federations because our dictionary is our friend. The date is December 5th and the location is the United Blind headquarters.

544 Coffee Drivers Win Jury and War Clauses in Pact

An hourly wage increase of 24c, a 48-hour week with time and one-half after 8 hours daily and 40 hours weekly, are embodied in a peace agreement signed by both the Employer and employees at the 544 Coffee Drivers at the end of last week between Local 444 and the city's five coffee companies. The new pact is scheduled to take effect June 1, 1941.

The agreement recognizes the right of the Employer to establish standards of performance by which the drivers can be evaluated. The contract also recognizes the right of the Employer to schedule the work, and the work must be performed by the Employer's entire force of drivers.

The agreement provides that the Employer shall have the right to suspend the contract until June 1, 1941, without prejudice to the rights of either party. The Employer shall have the right to change the work of any individual in its organization, provided such change does not affect the “normal duties.”

Union Sees Long Strike At Seeger's

"Our commitment is to see that the workers at Seeger's are paid a fair wage," said a Union representative. "We want to see that the workers at Seeger's are treated with respect and dignity." The Union leadership has called for a national strike at Seeger's to demand better working conditions and higher wages.

The strike is expected to continue for several weeks, during which time the workers at Seeger's will be on strike for fair treatment and better working conditions.

The strike is expected to have a significant impact on the company's operations, as the workers are responsible for a large portion of the company's production.

Food Will Make Them Honest

Defending a man on the witness stand, Mr. Johnson, a prosecuting attorney, said, "We are seeking to prove that he is guilty of the charge. We have proof that he is innocent." The prosecutor went on to say, "We believe that the evidence we have presented is sufficient to establish his innocence." The defendant, Mr. Franklin, looked at the prosecutor with a calm expression.

Mr. Franklin answered the prosecutor's questions with a calm and measured voice. "I have nothing to say about this case. I will not comment on the charges against me." The lawyer turned to the judge and asked for a recess.

The trial will continue on Monday, when the defense will present their case.

We've Got 'Em

An American non-commissioned officer relates a personal experience that illustrates the change which has taken place in the use of weapons by the United States military in recent years. He describes how he and his fellow soldiers were trained to fight with conventional weapons during World War II, but now are being taught to fight with modern weapons.

The soldier describes how he and his fellow soldiers were taught to fight with rifles, machine guns, and hand grenades. They were also taught to use tanks, artillery, and aircraft. However, in recent years, the use of these weapons has declined and modern weapons have been introduced.

The soldier describes how his unit is now equipped with rocket launchers, armored personnel carriers, and guided missiles. He also describes how his unit is trained to fight in urban areas, where conventional weapons are ineffective.

The soldier concludes by saying, "I am proud to be a soldier in the United States military. I know that we are ready to fight with the best weapons available, and that we will always protect the freedom of our country."
