The Need for Area Councils

Excerpted from the Speech by International Vice-President Dave Biek at the April 9th Central States Highway Drivers Council Meeting.

1. I realize the opportunity to be here today is on our hands. The question is what are the current problems of the highway and what can we do about them. Are we members of the Central States or the Pacific Councils and do we have a sense of purpose? These are all great questions. Let's face it, our members are at the mercy of the climate. The state of agriculture is not good, and the cost of living is high. The job market is not what it used to be. What can we do to improve these conditions?

2. The current type of job offers is a struggle, but we can see some glimmers of hope on the horizon. The member who is not willing to stand up and be counted is not doing his job. We must be proactive and take charge of our destiny.

3. We are facing a time of uncertainty, and it is important that we work together as a team. We must have a clear understanding of the challenges we face and be prepared to face them head-on.

4. The future of our communities is in our hands. We must be proactive and take charge of our destiny.

5. The need for area councils is more than just a forum for discussion. It is a platform for action. We must be ready to take action and make a difference.

6. Let's take charge of our destiny and make a difference in our communities. The need for area councils is real, and we must be proactive and take charge of our destiny.

7. As members of the Central States or the Pacific Councils, we must be ready to take action and make a difference. The need for area councils is real, and we must be proactive and take charge of our destiny.
