Debs Must Be Freed

Debs must be freed. That is the demand the workers are going to force down the throats of the present administration. We must have a reorganization of the government, entirely different from the present one. We must have an administration that believes in the rights of labor and that will make further demands for the rights of labor. We must have an administration that makes the workers free and equal in all respects.

Debs must be freed. Let Attorney General Mitchell Palmer speak for the workers of the United States in this matter. Porter is quoted in a December 15th New York Times article:

"It is not true, he says, that the war is over; nor have we got to let the Germans go. It is not the time to go back to the old system."

Debs must be freed. The workers demand that he be freed, that he be given his liberty, that he be able to continue his work for the workers of the world.

A Picture of the Sub-Boomers

PHANTOM DEMOCRACY

One hasn't been to those days when making the world safe for democracy. The capitalist press, in particular appears to fight for the contagious development of capital, providing for the world's economic and political well-being, for the development of the world's economy and political well-being, and for the development of the world's economy and political well-being.

Amered with a search warrant in their possession, the grand jury indicted and took into custody the bankers of the First National Bank of Atwater, a large group of the town's merchants, and several of the lawyers and brokers employed in the market, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the public in connection with the sale of real estate in the town. The bankers and brokers were held in jail without bond, and the lawyers were released on recognizance. The case was set for trial in the district court next week.

A real estate dealer in the town was arrested on a charge of fraud in connection with the sale of a piece of property to a man who had been living in the town for several years. The dealer had promised to deliver the property within three months, but had not done so. The man had paid in advance, and now refuses to give up his money. The case was set for trial in the county court next month.

A large group of the town's merchants were arrested on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the public in connection with the sale of goods to the town's merchants and brokers. The merchants and brokers had agreed to divide the profits among themselves, and to evade the payment of taxes on the goods. The case was set for trial in the state court next year.
