THE USE OF THE LAND "ONLY LITTLE"

(By Taylor McRae, Editor the Cooperator.)

(The Rebel takes much pleasure in speaking to the readers of the famous Farmers Union editor—Taylor McRae. Pay particular attention to the paragraph dealing with Alberta. There is brains and character enough in Texas to do as well as our Canadian cousins and do it now.—Ed.)

To The Rebel:

I read with much interest and delight the proceedings of the convention of renters, or rather tenant farmers and am much pleased that a movement has at last been put forth to bring relief in that most oppressed class of men, the tenant farmer of Texas and the South, in fact of the whole nation.

The doctrine that the use of the land should be the only title to the possession of the earth; is the correct one, and is one that no just thinking man who believes that man was given the land in the beginning for his use and not for the use of any one individual or set of individuals will dare deny. The effect of the above doctrine can be seen on all sides of us in the misery and discomfort that is come to the tiller of the soil, who has to pay a landlord a portion of the results of his toil and that of his dear ones.

Any one can look upon the hard life of the tenant farmer, and then dare to declare that he is a follower of the Lowly One, is a paradox that it is hard for an honest man to understand, and certainly is a shame to the nation that such a man prays to God at night for the power to pray upon his fellow man during the coming day.

We all admit that the use of land should be the only title, but what is to be done to bring about the practical application of that doctrine, true though it is? The land has already passed into the possession of individuals and corporations of one kind and another and under our present system it seems impossible to realize the grip that has fastened itself upon the strife. Of course I has got to be done and it should be done as soon as possible and in a peaceful manner. Now I notice that application is to be made to the legislature for a constitutional amendment authorizing a tax on land values to the limit, and that use and occupancy be the sole title to land.

Does this include all lands that is of the small holder and of the speculator as well? There is a principle here that should be understood before that should be made decision.

To my mind, proper distinction is to be made between the actual holder and user of the land and one who holds only to earn a profit from the hard labor of another, without laboring or using the land at all. I do not see how it be a fair proposition that the man who toils and improves his holding of land should be taxed to the same extent as the man who does nothing. What do you propose as a solution of this difficulty? Some definite ideas should be set forth when application is made to the legislature so that when the people vote can be gotten through their legal minds. Now, of course this is a new subject, and probably but few have thought about it, but I am going to give my view and then let others do the same, and possibly out of all our brains something good may result.

Now taking the claim that to the user should be land-holding, it logically follows that he who holds his land in this manner should have the benefits. This being so then to my mind the thing to do in this matter of taxation is to place the greater tax upon the man who gets his profits from the unearned increment that comes to him from the toil and sweat of the man who uses his land for the good of himself, his family and the world, and not so now upon the user of the land.

The custom is in this country, as we all know, for the tax assessor to raise the user of land's assessment every time he makes any kind of improvement, even when he turns the sod of new ground with his plow. Is not that so? Then if the reverse rule is adopted and the man who does not work and does nothing for the good of himself and the country with his land, but holds it for the profits he unjustly gets from the labor of his fellow man, is made to pay the larger tax, who can complaint and say it is not fair? Has not the burden been borne by the other to, during the many years, and has any one claimed that this was unjust and that it should not be so? What is fair for the goose is fair for the gander" is very appropriate in this connection, it seem, to me.

In this confection I would like to say that this idea is already in force, not in this great republic of so called freemen, but in a province of Canada, which as you know, is under the jurisdiction of a king, from whom we are always rejoicing that we are free. The province of Alberta, one of the states we might call it, of the Dominion of Canada, has set the pace in this matter. They declare that in the first place, there is not a acre of land for sale at any price for others than the actual settler and user of the land. They have in addition to this placed a law upon their statute books that the speculator in lands or one who holds any part of his land for gain by higher prices without use, such pay EIGHT TIMES as much tax as the man who uses his land for his and the public good. What do you think of that for a system under a monopoly? The result of this has been that speculation in land has ceased and men who have held for the unearned increment, have hastened to place their lands upon the market, finding buyers among the users of land.

Now my idea is to ask the legislature to do as Alberta Province has done, make the speculator pay eight times or ten times the tax that the user does in Texas and then get behind this demand and with all our power force them to give the law to us.

It is going to take time, my brethren, but it has taken time to build up the present condition of things, and it is only with an awakened conscience and a determined people that any thing is gained for the user of land or any other great principle.

I trust that The Rebel will pardon me for taking up so much of its space as in unknown man, but if it will just ask Friend Morgan, for whom I voted in the last election, he will tell you what sort and how long I have stood as I do

WILL THEY DARE.

Written for The Rebel by J. Edward Morgan, Oakland Cal.

Will they hang the McNamaras?
That depends on you and mine.
Can jackal judge or servile jury
Set aside the king's decree?
Justice! ah a two faced harlot
Mistress to the Lords of power—
Damned the cause that pins its faith on Shylock's gold-bought paraphour.

In cave of Cyclops gagged and pinioned
With the holy ours in awe—
Judge and jury, priest and headsman
Faithful to their master's law.
Wolves without a pelt to whetten
Judges reign and headsman's knife.
Doomed the helpless, fettered captive
Trusting Justice for his life.

Damned and doomed the McNamaras
If no Comrades from without
Storm the Cyclops cannoned fortress
King and judge and headsman rout.

POWER be labor's God forever,
Might 'gainst might her battle cry,
Hail quick bolt that sends thrones crashing
When labor hurls a man's defy.

If you are a Socialist, don't let the fatal first of February and now without a poll tax receipt. You can't afford not to qualify as a voter. Next year is presidential year. Do it now!

Renters Union of America.

GREAT ORGANIZATION SUCCESSFULLY LAUNCHED TWENTY-TWO COUNTIES REPRESENTED.

It is difficult to write about the First Convention of the Land Renters of Texas in a calm, matter-of-fact way. The occasion was so big, so fraught with promise of good or evil, according as statesmanship or blundering guided the councils of the delegates that now, when the convention has ended, and success has been achieved, greater than the most hopeful expectations, the desire is to shout in our enthusiasm and tell the story of the fine points in the story. Accordingly I shall put the brakes on and tell the story from the record without flourishes or frills.

On Friday, November 3, the advance guard of delegates commenced to arrive at the headquarters in the Bristol Hotel. By midnight delegates from twelve counties had arrived and we all knew that the convention would be a success. Rumors at least. Rumors been flying around for some days that various political parties would seek to capture the convention and that landlords would make a determined attempt to break it up in a riot or at least cause disorder. The best heads were needed at this and determined that in so far as their power lay that partizan politics should be kept out of our councils. In this laudable move the delegates agreed unanimously, the politicians was relegated to the rear and thus one great stumbling block to the success of the convention was removed by the good sense and wisdom of the delegates.

At the stroke of 9 a. m., Saturday, November 4, A. G. Maxey, of Lorena, secretary of Falls county Union No. 1, called the convention to order. From one to four delegates from the following counties presented credentials: Collin, Fayette, Mitchel, Kaufman, McCullough, Navarro, Hamilton, Dallas, Hascell, Bills, McLennan, Bell, Falls, Wharton, Lavaca, Milam, Val Verde, Williamson, Erath, Eastland, Palo Pinto, Parker, Cherokee and Limestone. There were also a number of delegates from Oklahoma. C. M. Pressley of O'Brien, Haskell county, was elected chairman, and J. C. Smith of El Campo, Wharton county, was elected secretary. The two officers constituted the committee on credentials. The most important committee, that of constitution and by-laws, was next appointed. The constitutional committee were Van Norman, Perkins, Mitchell, Moore, La Grone. To this were added Edwards of Dallas and Hickey of Lavaca in an advisory capacity. Mr. Hickey had been the president and chief promoter of the convention which by this time had every delegate in his seat with over one hundred outside visitors gaily decorated with red badges; local sympathizers filled the big hall. When Hickey closed the reading of the preamble the chairman called for its adoption by a rising vote. The vast audience among which were many charming ladies arose as one and then broke out such a storm of pent-up enthusiasm cheering and hand clapping as is rarely witnessed in a convention.

This is the preamble:

"As modern industry develops and the spread of commerce covers the nation, it becomes apparent that land, the source of all wealth, is going into fewer hands of speculator in the gift of God to all his children increases and thus we find that each year it is harder to secure a place to build a home. We believe that the home is the foundation of our civilization and that any cause that operates to prevent honest, industrious men from building a home should be promptly removed in a lawful manner through the organized efforts of those most affected.

"We believe in the bonus system, the increased crop shares, cash rent, the credit system, the holding of land for speculation, out of use and withholding it from those who would put it to profitable use in cultivation, and subrenting, unjust, inequitable and unreasonable rents will result in the destruction of the home. We realize that the logical working out of the above mentioned fruits of landlordism has resulted in a steady and continuous increase in tenantry, and that present tenant conditions are worse than we have ever known them to be. We realize the necessity to promote our common interests, in the Land Renters' Union of North America and declare the following purposes:

"To organize, establish locals and apply the Golden Rule; we shall always struggle with all our power against unlimited ownership of land.

"To destroy the bonus and cash system and refuse to rent for more than a third in grain and fourth in cotton.

"To assist our members in securing places and refuse to compete for the same.

"To educate ourselves in science of government; to establish reading clubs and learn the methods of our exploiters.

"To maintain our organization without sectarian or partizan bias.

"To promote co-operative farming as far as possible, realizing that the machinery needed to farm in the modern style, is beyond the reach of any individual renter.

"To promote in every honorable way the initiative, referendum and recall, believing that the master the government is brought to the people the better will be for the people.

"To lend their influence together in one great army of emancipation from landlordism and all its attending evils so that the American home may be builded on rock, that the teachings of the Bible be carried up to the golden city in the end that we shall live under our own vine and fig tree and raise our children to that they may receive a thorough education as befits the sons and daughters of the producers of wealth.

"Finally, we believe with the good book that the land is mine and shall not be sold forever, for ye are strangers and sojourners with me."

Resolution.

The committee on resolution then reported with two resolutions that will make history in the near future. The first resolution sets forth clearly the reasons that underlay the calling of the convention. The two concluding paragraphs were wildly cheered. The resolution reads:

Whereas, the acreage of cultivated farming in Texas has decreased from 125,000,000 in 1900 to 109,000,000 in 1910.

Whereas, white tenants have increased from 165,000 in 1900 to 209,000 in 1910, and the number of negro and Mexican tenants and farm laborers have greatly increased.

Whereas, the cost of machinery necessary to obtain the best results in farming has greatly increased.

Whereas, many landlords demand contracts that interfere with the politics and personal liberty of the tenant as well as the manner in which he cultivates his crop.

Whereas, the present tenant system, through lack of proper improvements, overcropping and single cropping is causing the soil

THESE PERNICIOUS PARVENUES.

As the tide of revolt against unrestricted representative government grows space and the initiative, Referendum and Recall sentiment rises steadily from day to day all sorts and conditions of men arise to protest against the "rule of the mob." To a well posted man the capers these worthies cut are truly laughable, particularly so when we examine the family tree of these parvenues who profess to fear the people.

In Texas we have Governor Colquitt, who says that I and R would mean mobocracy. Why should Oscar Budweiser fear the common folks? It is not so long ago since he was as poor as a church mouse; had one pair of shoes in two years and came nobr getting sun stroke on the fourth of July because the condition of his pantaloons was such that he had to wear an overcoat to keep from getting locked up.

Another shining statesman is Senator "B." Popular government is a stench in his nostrils and yet his honest father pedaled cheese at a Mississippi cross roads joint and the only harm popular government could do the Bailey house and he when it U. S. revenue officer came sniffing around the dump.

Comes now a third democratic dignitary, Governor O'Neal of Alabama. He is fearful of the "mob." It would undoubtedly deserve it if property rights is what he thinks. Let us see about him. One of his neighbors tells us about this worthy and we follows:

Phenix, Ala., Oct. 26, 1911

T. A. Hickey, Editor Rebel, Hallettsville, Texas.

Dear Comrade: I hate just read your article: "O'Neal of Alabama" and enjoyed it very much. As I happen to know the governor, the power that elected him and the methods used. It is said by his home town people that previous to his last plunge into politics, he couldn't buy a sack of flour on credit.

I would like to have a bundle of the Oct. 14, issue, containing the O'Neal article. Can you furnish them? If so, at what price.

J. P. Marchant.

And these are typical examples of the gentry who while managing and governing America hate (every name of democracy). Fortunately the type is well known. We have them in all countries. The Germans have a couplet to describe the scurvy tribe:

"Der Emporkömmling kann es nicht ertragen Seinen früheren Stand zu hassen."

Meaning: The parvenu never can quit hating his former station.

But the waves of democracy beat ever higher on the shores of time and they will ultimately drown and merge the pernicious parvenus.

REFERENDUM 1.

Now that we are getting under a full head of steam and the dawn of the Socialist republic is in sight, we must look to the laying of an organization. That danger does not "lie across the Alps" but is within our organization. It consists in the plotting, planning and maneuvering of a few big brows who imagine that the rank and file would invade a State and throw other States in endless turmoil. In proportion as the membership realize its power it is going to make these pseudo statesmen look like a jelly fish on an iceclad. So tell the boys in Missouri they must settle their scrap without DeLeonistic interference from on top. Eternally swat that fly called Referendum D.

THE CONFLICT OF THE AGES

(M. M. Mangasarian.)

In my mind's eye, I see a wonderful building, something like the Coliseum of ancient Rome. The galleries are black with people; their faces tier rise like waves the multitude of spectators who have come to see a great contest. A great contest indeed! A contest in which the world and all the centuries are interested. It is the contest—the fight to death—between Truth and Error.

The door opens, and a slight, small, shy and insignificant looking thing steps into the arena. It is Truth. The vast audience bursts into hilarious laughter! Contemptuous. Is this Truth? This slouchering thing in tattered clothes, and almost naked? And the house shakes again with mocking and hisses.

The door opens again, and Error enters—clad in cloth of gold, imposing in appearance, tall of stature, glittering with gems, sleek and happy looking, and wearing the building to tremble with the thud of its steps. The audience is for a moment hushed into silence, then it breaks into applause, long and deafening. "Welcome!" it shouts. "Welcome!" is greeting from the multitude. "Welcome!" about ten thousand throats. The contestants face each other. Error, in full armor—backed by the sympathies of the audience, and Truth all by itself. The cheering of the spectators, and Truth, scorned, scoffed at, and hated. "The issue is a foregone conclusion!" exclaims almost unanimous audience. "Error will trample Truth under is big feet."

The fight begins. The two clinch, separate, and clinch again. Truth holds its own. The spectators are alarmed. Anxiety appears in their faces. Their voices grow faint. Is it possible! Look! See! There! Error recedes! It fears the gaze of Truth! It shuns its beardless eyes! Hear it shriek! Hear it yell! It feels Truth's grip. It is making for the door. It is gone.

The spectators are mute. Every tongue is smitten with the palsy. The people bite their lips until they bleed. They cannot explain what they have seen. "We would have believed it!" "Is it possible!" they exclaim. But they cannot doubt what their eyes have seen. That puny and insignificant looking thing called Truth has put ancient and well reached Error, backed by the throne, the altar, the army, the press, the people, and the priests to flight.

The pursuit of truth! It is not that worth living for! To seek the truth, to find the truth, to live the truth! Can any religion offer more!

McNAMARA.

The McNamara case drags wearily on. Commencing with October 11; now on November 11 there are only four men in the jury box, all of whom will be challenged. Darrow and his associates are making a desperate effort to get every juryman for cause so as to save their peremptory challenges. The judge is understood to be friendly and instead Darrow and Davis, McNamara's attorneys, is bitterly attack him at times. One of the lawyers for the defense is trying to save his challenges to the last line is the fact that the keys of the jury room are kept from anyone from sitting on a jury who are not property owners. The property owners are a class organized in Los Angeles which makes it almost impossible to secure a fair jury. It is for this chief reasons for the kidnaping to Los Angeles. In the present time one of McNamara's counsel has arrested the city primary. The Socialist ticket elected largely by non-property owners. Incidentally Carnegie is the man behind the kidnaping remains in seclusion and we are all watching his partner in the crime, the Men and Religion Forward Movement, leader, J. Pierpont Morgan.

Under old-party rule the negroes are organizing a bank at Fort Worth. Under Socialism the white fellow won't organize banks, much less negroes.

THE REBEL SCROLL, OF A GREAT PEOPLE.

To my desk this morning came the Oakland World proudly displaying on its front page a generous sized picture of Mike Devine. It is one of the classics of socialist literature. Everything that has to do with the making of this picture and as the attending circumstances had a great influence on the struggles of our time, I think a short sketch as to how it came to be written would be appropriate.

In 1895 the Rebel was national organizer of the Socialist Labor Party. Socialists at that time, so far as organization was concerned, were as scarce as hen's teeth. In the course of an organizing tour that covered the country from New York City to San Diego, Cal., and from there to Butte, Mont., and back to New York, that took eleven months and two weeks to make, I found that the main topic of discussion among thinking people was the establishing of the first bull pen in America by the mining plutocracy. This bull pen was placed on the north of the little town of Wardner, in the northern promontory of Idaho, on the 29th day of April, 1899. Eight days earlier—the 29th of April—Harry Orchard and his associates, while prospecting around the mine owners, had blown up a concentrator in that town. The men thus placed on the north of the first bull pen in America by the mining plutocracy. This bull pen was placed on the north of the little town of Wardner, in the northern promontory of Idaho, on the 29th day of April, 1899. Eight days earlier—the 29th of April—Harry Orchard and his associates, while prospecting around the mine owners, had blown up a concentrator in that town. The men thus placed in the bull pen were miners who belonged to the Western Federation. Governor Steunenberg declared martial law and President McKinley sent the federal troops including the 9th colored cavalry from Spokane to the seat of the trouble. Things caused scenes of savagery such as can only take place where civil law is suspended and the rule of the day is marked by the bayonet. The bull pen just mentioned was simply an inclosure fenced around heavy timber, in a naked field covering two acres, with a board roof. The part of it where the men slept is bunks set in tiers like those in an old emigrant ship. The miners were arrested in their beds and as they came off shift in the wet clothes they were hustled down to this pen without warrants or hearing or any other process of civil law. To get out of this pen subsequently had to show a permit that provided that they: One of those arrested was an old miner named Jones, and this old Irish miner named Mike Devine, he was a stalwart union man. He was in the hospital when Harry Orchard committed his crime, and after coming out of the hospital he went to the office of the sheriff, a negro soldier. He struck the negro and was bull penned for the offense. In his constitution sapped from the illness he was in struction with pneumonia in the bull pen. As he lay dying on the straw he asked for a priest. Col. Iain Sheridan, the white officer in command of the negroes refused the request, commenting that never occurred even on the battle field in a war between civilized nations. This man of our class who died as he lived, a martyr, a hero, whose fame will resound when we've passed from this life and our class slaves no more in the plutocrat mine.

When free men will lay wreaths on his grave and repeat the words of the hero, "Don't sign."

Seventeen hundred and seventy saw Yankee men shot dead.
In fifty-nine Abe Lincoln was hanged—read ye the Biters red.
King George went down; black slavery died, ye capitalists, mark the sign.
Ye tolled the knell of our system's rule when you murdered Mike Devine.

Listen, O, workers, and answer, how shall we best serve the Cause.
He was murdered for defending; how best change the brutal laws
That they torture him to death, heed the words of Mike Devine.
Vote to own the mine and workshop; for the robber class "don't sign."

Death to the rule of the robber; raise ye the Socialist flag.
From Germany, Belgium and France they cry, "Why do our comrades lag?"
Give the world this message: "We are building a monument fine
With the broken chains of the wage-slave, in memory of Mike Devine.

The memory of Mike Devine lives in the hearts of the men of today. Let us hope that the workers will soon take up his dying words and when looking at a capitalist ballot they will say: "Don't Sign."

to her, for fertility and yield unanimatory returns.

Whereas the increase in real values has made it impossible for the people to buy or hold land for their own use, and

Whereas, these conditions are forcing the landless farmer to live as tenants, slaves and keeping the women and children in the hands to toil, and

Whereas, the land is the foundation of all wealth, and the moral and physical well being of our people and a menace to the homes and social institutions of our state. Therefore, be it—

Resolved, That we declare that the present system of land ownership is unjust, unsocial and unchristian, and

That we pledge opposition to all parties and candidates that decline to endorse our demands.

3. That the officials of our organization prepare and present to the citizens of our state for signatures a blank petition demanding of the legislature the calling of a convention in January, 1915, to submit to the people a constitutional amendment authorizing a tax on land values to the limit, and one and occupancy to be the sole title to land.

There were frequent cries of "amen" as the above were read.

Mr. Hickey had the gathering from the resolutions that it was desired to put members of all political parties on record.

This remark was greeted with a roar of "You bet we do."

"Put 'em all on record." "They are either with us or against us." A petition will be circulated under the auspices of the Renters Union. It is expected to carry 300,000 signatures of earnest determined men who have pledge themselves to annihilate any political party or individual that will not support the above demands to separate the title to land and taxation to the limit on all lands held for speculative purposes. 1912 promises to be a fighting year in Texas.

Mr. Hickey announced that he would be in the city hall of the day that it would take another day at least to complete their labors. A motion was then made and carried unanimously that the committee be instructed to draft the constitution that it be sent to a referendum vote of all the delegates for adoption. Then M. A. Smith sang "We all must have a home," a motion to adjourn followed and amidst roars of cheers and much enthusiasm the convention adjourned.

A BIT OF HISTORY.

While we are not at liberty to say what the committee on constitution will finally decide upon, yet a majority of the committee expressed themselves as favoring the following essential provisions:

Condemning the bonus system, cash rents, increase in crop shares, graded land taxes, the holding of land for speculative purposes, renting land for more than a third in grain and a fourth in cotton; to assist members in securing and refusing to compete for leases or with owners; sectarian or partisan questions, though "to establish reading rooms and libraries in the methods of our society; to promote co-operative farming as far as possible realizing that the size of farms needs to farm in modern style is beyond the reach of the individual renter.

Membership is limited to "all white persons over 16 years of age who are farm renters and farm laborers; provided that land owners may join to encourage and cultivate their own land are eligible. No one who holds land for speculative purposes, or who endorses or who rents more than a reasonable amount of land or who employs labor in excess of a reasonable amount of laborers necessary in an emergency, shall be eligible.

Dues to be 15 cents per quarter and initiation fees 50 cents per member.

The organization is styled "Renters Union of America, State Division No.1." "It shall issue charters to other State organizations whenever there are ten members as many as forty locals." It is provided, however, that each State organization shall have autonomous control over its own affairs. Under no pretext shall any member of the union interfere in the affairs of another State union.

"State conventions to be held the first Tuesday in June, 1912, at Waco, and every year thereafter at such places as the convention may decide."

There will be no useless national officials.

Thus in a business like way that carried the respect unto admiration for friend and foe the first convention of land renters ended. It was a historic gathering. The maiden before it to supply homes by destroying landlordism to 5,000,000 renters in the United States. Let us all get together and work as never before and build up the Renters Union of America until it grapples with landlordism and destroys it. Then we can all say at last, the battle is ended the land is mine and shall not be sold forever, saith the Lord.

Let the day dawn soon.

Rebel Lecture Bureau.

The lecture Burean idea with Hickey and Hamilton as the lecturers has caught on with the comrades. The first one to hear from was the irrepressible Bill Cross of Rockdale who writes us: "It will take 200 cards. They sell like hot cakes and we want to hear Hickey lecture on "Law and Land" with Hamilton's sledge hammer blows."

Charley Davidson of Waco is the man who was chiefly responsible for the big Debs lecture success. He says he and his comrades can easily get rid of 200 cards. West Texas is also in line with one date in Stonewall county.

County Secretary J. M. Haggard expects to land a date for Gainesville.

Quite a number of locals in central and north Texas are preparing to "come through."

Now comrades the time is short. We want to make this the big gest propaganda tour ever undertaken in Texas. Get busy at once. Bring it up at the next meeting of your local. Write us a card for particulars. Remember—your local sells 250 30c cards good for 40 weeks each and you get free of the strongest platform ever put before the people of Texas. Don't be afraid to spend a few dollars in the way of advertising as well, in the form of posters, window hangers, circulars and cards—WRITE US NOW—and boost your local movement for the 1912 campaign.

GET THE MUM.

"I was sick of all your kicking about the hole and how impossible it is for us small fellows to get ahead. The big guys grow rich, I'm marked the small business man's prey, my wife sore at me and my children neglected."

"What's touching you now? Some politician been stuffing you?"

"No sir, it is President Taft. I have in mind, just read his thanksgiving proclamation. He declares 'We are rich beyond the precious possessions and unmeasured resources wherewith the unstinted bounty of God has endowed us.' Rich! Get that? We are rich in endowment given by God."

"Then I suppose that the children shivering at the cotton mills are for a night are deeply thankful for their prosperity. What!"

"Well, I didn't think of that. Let me see, they have got this whole national mum game doped out!"

"All right, sez, it's like this. I got the latest national size up of the gouging the mum game from Professor Brooks of Columbia College, New York. They say that there are at present 18,000,000 families in their United States and that of all the wealth sure equal-ly divided that each family would have $6,500.

"Now you Socialists did not believe in dividing up."

"Of course not. It is this dividing up business I am going to explain to you now. Of the 18,000,000 families I mentioned a minute ago tell us that one per cent of the population own fifty per cent of the wealth and ten per cent of the population own 90 per cent, leaving 90 per cent of the people with ten per cent of the wealth. They then go and divide the ten per cent to take four divisions according to their wealth. The first division in wealth and the smallest in numbers include all who have from $6,500 to $65,000 each. The number 125,000 families less than one per cent of the total or one family in 144, or one family out of every 720 people. The next division own money and property to the value of from $65,000 or one in sixteen families or one family to every 60.

"The next comes a big division that owns from $650 to $6,500 each included in this are widows with their children and persons with furniture and Mogul no more or less of ground with 500 or more cattle. They number 30,000,000, or one in three families. The number of all—the miserables—crushed under the divide up load. They number 38,000,000 in 5,000,000 families and own "wealth" from nothing up to $650. Their food is scanty and scrubbed, their pay is pitifully small, they own no homes; their wives and little children have to work out to help the family purse. Education impossible, culture is unknown, protection? A subsidiary of and vice flourishes in their midst. Theirs but to work and slave and be robbed. I hope under the present capitalist system of dividing up.

"Now remember, the wise conclusion of the last division is the greatest in numbers. They must be lifted up or they will infect all the rest. Now, I'm for God's sake get busy, join the Socialist party and help lift these unhappy ones out of the mire, will all have a genuine thanksgiving and will get the mum."

THE NOBLE WORK OF NOBLE

Iuffkin, Texas, Nov. 4, 1911.
Editor The Rebel, Comrade:

W. S. Noble has just finished a ten days lecture in this, Angelina county. He organized a local here 'ith eighty-two members. This gives us eleven locals in this county. Prospects are good for double membership in these new rade Noble wound up his lecture locals at their next meeting. Comtour at Lufkin Saturday with a big street meeting where he spoke to about 400 people. The Socialists of the county were well represented at the meeting by 125 delegates all wearing red badges. That was a big day for the Socialists of Angelina county. Comrade Noble, notwithstanding his thirty days tour through the piney woods of Nacogdoches and Angelina counties, seemed to be at his best. The 125 delegates from different parts of the county seemed to enthuse him and cause him to forget his fatigue as he tore through the piney brush. Every

OUR MISS.

This has been a strenuous week for The Rebel. We were down to 6 Wms. and took part in the great gathering that is destined to make history, as that river flowing past Austin has never before seen the like. As you read about it in this issue, I am sure you will feel as we do that we are equal to have a six figure circulation to the justice to this great subject and other great subjects that are to come up on our how. I have a hunch that if The Rebel had over one hundred thousand circulation with a 7 column paper and the extra talent that we could hire then it would be only a question of time until we would Milwaukeeize every city in the State and land a governor in Austin with a legislature behind him that would settle landlordism in a great big hurry. We are putting on over a hundred a day, but will have to do better than that to reach the 30,000 by Nov. 1. I would suggest that all reps get in on that lecture bureau plan and at once. Any live local can order a lecture and it will be sent free of charge with lots of time to sell them before you pay us a cent. Just try it and see how it will work. Last week in M. P McKeuky of Deport, Texas, with 31 patients that we promised to send a good start. Amongst others sendors in clubs we notice:

Rebels Victorious.

MANY IMPORTANT CITIES FALL INTO OUR HANDS.

The past week has been one of fierce fighting in eighteen different states in the union. In seventeen of these states the rebels against the present regime fought on the political battefield; in the 18th state first regiments were drilled and a plan of campaign prepared for a terrific assault on the ramparts of landlordism in every state in the union.

From messenger reports received the big political battles of Tuesday, Nov. 7, we learn that the greatest old party slaughter occurred in Ohio and New York, although it looked up to 2 a. m. Wednesday like the Socialist Rebels had stormed the capitals at Jackson, Miss.

In New York we captured a seat in Mr. Morgan's legislature for the first time in its entire history. This legislature is nearly as reactionary as Austin. The lone fighter who is now entrenched inside the lines of capitalist boodlers is Comrade Herbert E. Merrill from Schenectady. He has fallen comfortably into our hands. The Rebels laid siege early and after terrific fighting succeeded in placing enormous charges of intellectual dynamite and exposure nitro-glycerine all around the intrenchments of the elephant and the donk. After terrific hand to hand fighting the indomitable Socialist veterans and raw recruits, led by General George R. Lunn, captured the city hall and court house while heavy firing in the distance announced the breaking into the legislature which is eighteen miles away from Schenectady on the Albany interurban line.

The following press dispatch from the scene of the carnage will give our readers some idea of the fight:

Socialists' Heavy Vote.

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 7.—For the first time in the history of the county the Socialists have polled a counting vote; thirteen hundred and fifty-one votes and the majority of the county officials, which will make the new board of council and probably the county board of supervisors Socialistic.

Rev. Dr. George R. Lunn, pastor of the United People's Church and editor of the Citizen, a Socialist weekly was elected mayor by a plurality of 1,999, or practically two-thirds of the total vote.

Early returns indicated that Herbert M. Merril, Socialist, will represent this county in the assembly, as he carried the city and a part of the town of Rotterdam.

The platform of Dr. Lunn called for thorough reforms, chief among which was a municipal paving plant to "bust" the so-called paving trust; cheaper gas and a cut in the city pay roll by eliminating useless officeholders.

Dr. Lunn began his career as pastor of the First Reform Church, the oldest and most aristocratic in the city. About three years ago he was compelled to resign because of his socialistic preachings, and then organized the United People's congregation.

It is well to remember the significance of this victory when we realize that Schenectady is the home of the largest factory in America, the General Electric Works, employing 18,00 wage slaves and is controlled by the commander-in-chief of the capitalists forces —J. Pierpont Morgan of Wall street and a host lackeys.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Mayor Keerton, republican, was re-elected by more than 4,000.

Across the line in the Buckeye state the fighting was fast, fierce and furious from start to finish. Rebel forces entered eleven big cities and gave no quarter except in Canton, the home of the late martyred President McKinley. We learn of the victories from the Dallas News as follows:

Marked socialistic strength has developed at various points, notably in several of the municipal contests of Ohio where ten cities elected Socialist mayors.

The New York Call tells us what these cities were that are now held as outposts before the grand united march on the capital at Washington, D. C. Among the great steel cities: St. Mary's, Martins Ferry; Fostoria, Mount Vernon, Salem, Barberton, Mansfield, Cuyahoga Falls and Canton.

In Pennsylvania, the fight was desperate, particularly in Newcastle, where the Socialist rebels carried the enemy with terrific losses. This is the great stronghold of the United States Steel Corporation where the octopus had our Irish editors, Colonel McKeever and Major McCarthy held as prisoners of war for some time. They were released on parole. The wires were not down at this point, so we read in the New York Call:

New Castle, Pa., Nov. 7.—Early returns indicate an overwhelming Socialist victory, the Socialists having a majority in three of the eight wards, and a plurality in another, which will give complete control of the city even if the remaining wards are lost.

The Socialists have found a straight class fight, the capitalist press bombarding the party with charges of "free love," "anarchy and all the usual rank lies. In addition, threats of violence were made by the old party politicians, but nothing availed to stem the irresistible sweep of the Socialists tide.

The next mayor is Walter Y. Tyler, a brakeman on the Pennsylvania Railroad. The ticket is working class from top to bottom.

Reports of other successful engagements in the East indicate that the rebels advanced until they are within the outer environs and gained victories in Auburn, N. Y., Bridgeport, Conn., and Elizabeth, New Jersey. Heavy drawn battles with immense gains for the Socialists were also fought in Missouri and Kansas. In California the Socialist rebels fought with tremendous victory in Los Angeles, made a determined attempt to capture the capitol at Sacramento. The dead were whipped early and went over to the repa; the rebels engaged their forces and at sundown it was like the close of the first day at Gettysburg.

Coming South but one great battle was fought. This was in Mississippi. Not since the siege of Vicksburg was there such carnal carnage. The following dispatches Sumter and telegraph to the Houston Post gives some idea of the fighting:

Jackson, Miss. Nov. 7.—As was accepted at a certainty before the election, Mississippi voters elected the entire democratic state ticket without a fight. The strength shown by the Socialist candidates, however, was an extraordinary incident.

In the presidential election of 1908 Socialist voters polled 978; in 1910, at the congressional election, 1,500. Today James T. Leger, candidate for lieutenant governor in opposition to Theodore G. Bilbo, democratic nominee, if the ratio shown by meager figures at hand at midnight is maintained, will have in excess of 8,000. Leger led his ticket, which was the only opposition to the democratic nominees.

Later we learn from the News:

Jackson, Miss. Nov. 8.—at 2 o'clock this morning the claim is made at Socialist headquarters here that their candidate for lieutenant governor, James Leger of Jackson, has been elected over the democratic nominee, Theo. G. Bilbo.

The whole South is ablaze with excitement. The vicious guerilla warfare carried on by Jno. H. Kirby and similar democratic commanders on defenceless non-combatants—women and children has aroused all the fighting spirit of the old South. Other and greater victories than those mentioned above will occur with increasing frequency.

General Debs, the commander-in-chief of the revolutionary forces, was seen at the close of the battle with head bandaged, quarters on the banks of Wabash at Terre Haute, Ind. Our fearless commander had passed through the various battles unscathed. Asked what were the prospects of the rebels and when the war would end he said: "This is a fight to a finish. It is nation-wide and world-wide. It is the great decisive fight for human freedom. I am overjoyed at the tremendous victories we have won in all parts of the country. We must without a moments delay prepare for the great general engagement of 1912. We must storm the capitol of the nation where the enemy is entrenched. Our recruiting is going on magnificently. The fring squadrons, in all the cities and the wonderful work while the Scouts of Texas and Oklahoma are shaking the woods in splendid style; the commissary is in good condition, the heavy artillery of the Appeal and the cavalry of the Rebel, with the great bodies of the infantry in the Leader Call and Socialist with 10,000 other divisions that are hurling intellectual dynamite into the ranks of the enemy fills us with hope that the next battle will be victory, victory, victory, vice and ignorance will be successfully fought out by election day 1912.

Since the above was written we learn that the following additional cities were stormed by the fighting Socialists.

Crookston, Minn.; Reading, Pa.; Eureka, Utah; Murray, Utah; Manti, Utah; Stockton, Utah; Tintee, Utah.

Many Socialists Chosen.

The following cities elected Socialist officials:
Haverhill, Mass., one state legislator.
Dayton, Ohio, four councilmen.
Toledo, Ohio, one alderman.
Kalamazoo, Mich., one councilman.
Newport, Kentucky, one commissioner.
Auburn, N. Y., one alderman.
Findley, Ohio, one alderman.
Akron, Ohio, one alderman, two assessors.
Bridgeport, Conn., one alderman.
Columbus, Ohio, four aldermen.
Everett, Wash., three councilmen.

Bulletins.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 8.—The Socialists elected four councilmen by large pluralities and A. C. Fby, Socialist candidate for mayor, is running even with Mayor Marshall for second honors. The election of the Socialist aldermen was without precedent. They will hold the balance of power in the council.

Toledo, Ohio, Nov. 8.—One Socialist councilman was elected, the first to be chosen in Toledo.

LAW AND LAND.

The Rebel knows that the Battle of Bunkum is fought on the outposts of the principality of the people is played out as a political issue and would not decave a sickly spot in a Yucatan swamp; that the tariff joke has run its course and the great over shadowing question that will never down until it is settled is the land. In order to get down to a clear understanding of this vital question The Rebel has asked its readers to secure the opinions of eminent lawyers on two vital questions. First: Can use and occupancy be made the title to land? and second: Can land held for speculative purposes have a confiscatory tax placed on it. Comrade H. W. Kirkpatrick of Normange, Texas, wrote to a friend of his, who is a brilliant lawyer, on the subject. This is the gentleman's reply:

Centerville, Texas, Oct. 27, 1911.
Mr. R. W. Kirkpatrick, Normange, Texas.

My Dear Sir and Friend: Replying to your two recent questions on limitations; 1st. Can a law be passed by the next Texas legislature placing a confiscatory tax on lands held for speculative purposes? and second: Can land holdings be restricted to say 250 acres, as was done under Gov. Oglethorpe in Georgia?

I can answer both of these questions in one, and that is this: Our legislature can pass such laws—but they would be unconstitutional and void upon contest which would surely follow the enactment of such laws. Neither our State or national constitutions authorize the enactment of such laws.

Trusting the above will be clear, I remain,

Your friend,
Jas. T. Ryan.

"It is nonsense," says the Fort Worth Union Banner, "to talk of over-production of anything we rest or wear. Why, right here in Fort Worth there is a demand for clothing of the cotton kind, that, if filled, would empty every shelf of every store in the city within twenty-four hours." Now, who can say that Fort Worth is not typical in this respect of every city and town in the United States! Yet, our great big old fat president says in his Thanksgiving proclamation, "Our industries have thrived far beyond our domestic needs."

DID TAFT TELL THE TRUTH?

If President Taft told the truth in his proclamation calling upon the people to set apart November 30 as a day of thanksgiving and prayer and praise to Almighty God, then the families of the nation over which he presides have all they need, and more too, in the way of food, clothing, shelter, fuel, and all the necessaries, comforts and conveniences capable of being produced by American industry.

If he told the truth, there are no little children in the United States in need of warm clothes this winter, none in need of shoes, none who ever leave the dining table unsatisfied, none who shiver with cold for want of plenty of heavy bed covers while the blizzards howl throughout the long winter nights.

All are supplied abundantly, and there is no suffering nor fear of suffering, if Taft told the truth what did Taft Say?

He said: "OUR INDUSTRIES HAVE THRIVED FAR BEYOND OUR DOMESTIC NEEDS."

LATEST ELECTION NEWS.

We captured an assembly seat in Rhode Island. Berger predicts two million votes in 1912 and twenty congressmen. Vice mayor and 20 councilmen elected in Hamilton, O. Socialist councils elected at Carleton, Wadsworth and Conneaut, Ohio, Pottstown, Pa., elects three councilmen. Twenty commissioners in Saginaw, Mich., elected. This is the start of the landslide,

The editor of the Baird Star says: "I would a thousand times rather be poor and live by the sweat of my brow, than live the government support me." Maybe so; but if my memory serves me right you made a mighty strenuous campaign some years back against Judge Munroe for a government job at Austin, and got it. And that reminds me—haven't you got some sort of a little old government job now!

THE FULL COTTON PATCH AND THE EMPTY SCHOOL HOUSE.

The following letter was read by The Rebel to the Rosters Convention. It produced bitter feelings against landlordism and aided to our determination to kill the institution that puts a premium on illiteracy:

Martin, Texas, Oct. 23, 1911.
Mr. A. G. Maney, Lorena, Texs
Dear Albert: I have read carefully the discussions going on in the "press" of the state regarding the Rosters Union, and noted also your call for a meeting at Waco.

After a careful reading I am writing to remind you that there is one very strong point in this matter that you are overlooking. While all you say is true and even more, still it seems to me that one of the most serious problems the tenant farmer has to solve in Falls county, is the problem of educating his children. The present condition of things make it impossible to get along without keeping the children in the cotton fields as long as there is a single lock to scrap. The result is our children are not getting even what the state is providing for their education.

Last year there were in Falls county over three hundred white children within scholastic age that were not enrolled in any school. The average daily attendance for the year, is less than seventy-five per cent of the enrollment. The average length of the school term was 120 days, yet the average child attended school about 80 days. But it is useless for me to enumerate these facts to you, you know as well as I whose children are not getting their birthright, and lest you forget, I am writing to remind you that if this condition continues long in Texas, the tenant farmer and his children must sink to a level equal with that corresponding to "the Peasant" class in the "Old Country."

The great problems before us to-day we cannot solve but by people who are trained to think for themselves. Education is one of the strong factors in the solution of the problem, and I am pleading that you use your influence to persuade the Waco meeting to create a strong educational plank in their constitution and to urge your organization to take high progressive ground in the field of education.

I feel the need of help from the tenants themselves, and will gladly cooperate with you in any plan that will help us to get these matters in the schools.

Hoping I have not intruded nor in any way interfered with your plans, and assuring you that, "always and everywhere," I am doing all I can to help these Falls county children come into their own, I remain, with best wishes,

Your servant,
A. W. Eddins.
School Superintendent, Falls Co.

ty have called a mass meeting to be held at the courthouse in Rockland Saturday, Dec. 11, 10:30 a. m. The purpose is to elect a county secretary and a chairman and to lay plans for carrying the county in 1912. County Organizer C. Cagle will begin a several weeks' campaign November 13, for the purpose of "shaking every loose bolt in the county." He writes that even the big landlords are "waiting the street, taking Socialism in."

Ballots for National Referendum D have been forwarded to all local and county secretaries. Those failing to receive ballots enough of them will notify this office at once. Those who believe in letting the states run their own affairs and settle their own "scraps" without dragging the whole national organization into the trouble will vote "No" on this meddling referendum.

Now that you have organized that local don't stop the work. The biggest job you have now is to keep it alive. The way to do it is to attend the meetings, make them interesting, have regular programs, let everybody say something, though not too long a "piece;" organize "literaries" in connection, thereby getting the young folks interested. But above all be sure to come to every meeting, see that every referendum is discussed thoroughly and voted upon. Do all these things and more things that you can think of and we will have the greatest state organization in the nation. We are not far from that even now, with our haphazard way of doing things. We have now reached the stage where we must begin to do more constructive organization work.

Bright writes from Hamilton county: "Rev. J. J. Moy, a prominent preacher of the Methodist church of this state has declared for Socialism and joined our local at Eidson week. He made his first address last night. He is a man able effort. He has offered his valuable services to help the Hamilton county local and lecture at various places

Alexander Irvine, who is at present managing the campaign in Oklahoma, has promised to go to Texas for two or three days full on his return home from Los Angeles, which will be about next week. There are no speakers that are advertised "next" to Debs. Irvine is the fourth Irvine is the only one that "next" and he will put a powerful finish to the great campaign that has been waged in this year.

Taylor local, with Hooper, Wilson and Nicodemus as their leaders, is doing splendid constructive work. They are developing a number of able young workers, they have meetings with the programs, they are study thoroughly propaganda and organization problems; they are more theoretical either, but are doing up the organization by a practical work which insures a systematic distribution of literature.

This office has sent out over a hundred thousand pieces of literature free of charge to those trying to distribute but not able to pay for it. One result can be seen in the immense gain in the dues membership which has been paid from about 2000 in August to 3900 in October as evidenced by the total sum of $1950 paid to the national office for dues stamps. Another result is that the state has a deficit. We are sending out coin cards this week every Socialist in the hope of securing enough funds to cover the deficit and further extend the work.

The Socialists of Eastland county

HICKS' PAGE

Edited by J. L. HICKS,
ABILENE, TEXAS.

GILLIAM'S GOOSE BABBLE

State Press of the Dallas News, and J. L. Hicks, who edits a page in The Rebel at Abilene, paper, have been having a little tilt as to who owns the land, which explains the following:

"In a recent issue of the Rebel I asked for an ethical, equitable, sensible, reason, claim and decent reason why the homeless fellers of land should not have free access to idle land. 'State Press,' of the Dallas News, make answer (?) by saying: 'Possibly the reason why landless men should not help themselves to this untilled land is because it doesn't belong to them.' Now, right there comes up a question of veracity between State Press and me. I say it does belong to them. Of course those who have monopolized it have a sort of title, but King George had a sort of title, too."

The theory of the Socialist seems to be that no one should own land—Rebel (Tex.) Star.

Then the Star goes on and fills more than a column of his precious anti-pro space with his ideas of Socialism, which are the ideas that prevailed ten years ago down in the forks of Goose Creek and Boggy Bayou. He must have gotten them from the Arkansas Baptist before the Baptist got baptized with the baptism of Dick Maple. The Star man actually says that under Socialism a man can't own land or anything else, when the Socilist platform actually says he can. He says that "the world does not owe any man land," when the Bible, which he professes to believe, says: "The land shall not be sold forever." He says that "every honest, industrious man has plenty of opportunities to make a living," and that "all the hard work a poor man having no chance these days is pure rot." This, notwithstanding a Republican president says we must go back to competition or go on to Socialism, for there is no way between, and a Democrat in sending the presidency (Woodrow Wilson) says, "things can't go on as they are." If the Star is right about there being nothing the matter, why are these men talking to the people of the nation this way? Gilliland has no idea how far he is behind a large percentage of his subscribers in the knowledge and understanding of Socialist principles and the Socialist program. I have not yet heard an ethical, equitable sensible honest, clean and decent reason why any man should have to pay another man for the use of land that nature has provided in abundance, free for all.

"The worker as a class does not pay the taxes. Taxes are paid by the property owners," says a writer in the Houston Labor Journal. That is true only in a SECONDARY sense. The man on a horse with a sack of corn on his shoulder is carrying the corn in a secondary sense. Primarily the horse is carrying the corn, and PRIMARILY the workers pay the taxes and all other bills. The money that Rockefellers pays in taxes is made by the workers while he plays golf. In like manner the money that an idle farm-lord pays in taxes is made by the workers on that farm. Every time you leave out the actual productive worker when you are talking about who pays things I am going to call you down.

George W. Perkins, famous financier, says: "Some corporations with far-sighted wisdom adopted publicity several years ago, with the result that they are having less trouble with their labor and the public than other enterprises." "Their labor!" "THEIR LABOR!" And just think—laboring men (except Socialists and Perkins and all the corporations vote the old-party corporation tickets! "THEIR LABOR!"

SOMETHING COMPLETE SAID

The speech of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, at St. Louis, is some weeks back deserves to be catalogued among the events of great significance. He is loved by millions of workingmen who ought to be Socialists, whose only

Young man, if you and your sweetheart are competitors for you settle it by forming a trust. Taft and Wickersham are abroad in the land.

Rev. Charles Stelzle, in his "Men and Religion" address at Dallas November 5, said: "The horizon is dark with social unrest. In it are honeycombed twenty-five million Socialists of the world, together with nine million trade unionists."

When a farm renter goes through town and passes by residences that cost thousands of dollars each, how can he help asking himself the question, what good things have these men done that their families should be so much better housed than mine?

At the New Orleans cotton conference Clarence Ousley made a long speech which was irrigated with tears—briny tears that boiled up from the great ocean of his deep solicitude for the poor downtrodden farmers of the south. But he didn't cry one single cry over the rent bill.

A few citizens of Fort Worth gathered one evening lately to celebrate the founding of the Carnegie public library in that city. The Record said they were "representative citizens." If I live to see the day when things made by work will be owned by people who work, I am going to offer a motion that the name "Carnegie" be disassociated from the libraries now bearing that name, and that they be called the "Iron Workers Libraries."

We are told by the anti-Socialists, and especially the anti-Socialist preachers, that we can't make the mass of men better until we make the individual men better. To which I would reply, that the specific purpose in Socialism is not to make men better, but to arrange industrial and economic affairs so that working people may get all that's coming to them. If that should make them better, why, so much the better. And why shouldn't it?

Years ago I heard of a doctor who gave a man a package of dope, saying: "Use this according to directions, and if it doesn't cure you, come back and I'll fix you up something that will." It must have been Dr. Colquitt. A few days ago a governor by that name said at New Orleans: "If the address used to the people of the South doesn't come the price of cotton to go up, one or two others plans are being held in reserve as cards up the sleeve."

That all Christian people should pray for the success of Italy in its war with Turkey over the possession of Tripoli, was the statement of Bishop J. T. Hartzell during the conclave of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church held at Oklahoma City recently, according to a special to the Dallas News. On that same day the Associated Press cabled from London that the bodies of more than 500 women and children had been found in mosques and other buildings in Tripoli, horribly mutilated and mangled by Italian soldiers. It might pay you to stay away from church one whole Sunday, if necessary, and put in the day reading that marvelous book, "War—What For?" by George R. Kirkpatrick. It will make you hate the religion that looks with tolerance upon blood-shed, and will draw you closer to your brother man.

The Rebel Star says that the Socialist agitators ought to eat the people to some homes and become independent. That's the job we are on, bud, and the headway we're making here lately is astonishing.

At Pittsburg, Pa., a few days ago Taft again reminded the people of the United States that the power of men in control of great corporations is liable to be transferred to the government; "and then," said he, "we will have State Socialism."

The efforts of the great (?) Democratic and Republican statesmen (?) to force the trusts back to competition is exactly like a lot of boys trying to make two dogs fight when they don't want to fight—except that the boys don't draw salaries and fees for their fun.

Under Socialism no man can hope to become a millionaire, because he can't produce that much and can't make anybody else divide up with him. Under Socialism no man will fear that he may become a pauper, for he will have opportunity to produce an abundant living and won't have to divide up with any individual for granting him the opportunity. "Socialism is Christianity applied."

While reading the Commonwealth, of Everett, Wash., I noticed this: "Just now there are 586 vacant houses in Everett. The Commonwealth has street and number on file for those who care to inspect them. The whilom occupants of these houses have gone hence—looking for jobs in Everett, as in all the big world, the worker has no right to life and love at home. He is a wanderer on the face of the earth. Workingmen come daily to the Commonwealth office have the story. I don't know where to have my paper sent—I don't know where I'll be."

Louis J. Worthan, editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, and incidentally a member of the Texas legislature, was interviewed in New York the other day by a representative of the Sun. In that interview he let one of the cats out of the wallet by saying: "We are trying to vote on a $1,600,000 bond issue for good roads. I venture to say that in the country northwest of Fort Worth there is a greater demand for automobiles now than in any other part of the country similarly populated." How's that? What's the automobile got to do with the question of good roads? All you want with good roads is to save wear and tear on the wagons and teams of the "poor down-trodden." How came you to mention automobiles? via that route!

MONOPOLIZERS AND MESQUITE

Human drawing wealth in the form of interest, rent or profit bears exactly the same relation to the tree of society that a mesquite mistletoe on a mesquite tree does to the tree. He is drawing from society without returning any thing to society, just as the mistletoe draws from the tree without returning anything to the tree. The man who draws interest, rent or profit draws the substance that, another man has drawn from the ground, just as the mistletoe draws from the tree the sap that the tree has drawn from the ground. The man is not at fault for doing this; society is at fault for letting him do it. The tree cannot shake off its parasites; society can. With this idea fixed in your mind read the following, which a writer recently contributed to Farm and Ranch:

"One of the foes of the mesquite tree is the mistletoe. In many regions it is nearly impossible to find a mesquite tree on which mistletoe is not growing, and in the imperial and Coahuila valleys of California hundreds of mesquite trees may be seen that have been killed by this destructive parasitic plant. As soon as numerous bunches of mistletoe begin to flourish on a mesquite tree, the tree ceases to mature its pods. That is a sure indication that the tree is succumbing to the attacks of the parasite; which thrives upon the sap that is essential to the growth of its host. The tree may continue to live for several years longer, but its decline from year to year is evident, and sooner or later it becomes but a dead skeleton; and the parasite that killed it then dies also."

"PARADOX."

In his speech at his cotton conference at New Orleans Clarence Ousley, editor of the Fort Worth Record, said:

"It is an amazing paradox that with an increasing urban population to consume the products of the farm, the profits of production are diminishing."

In corn-field language, Editor Ousley is plum dumfoundered because the more folks there are in town, the richer the farmers ain't. It is hard for a Socialist to comprehend how a Democrat can be ignorant enough to call that a "paradox."

The heavy editor of the Dallas News says that President Taft is apparently so enraptured with the Sherman anti-trust law as to regard it as sacrosanct. I guess "sacrosanct" is the right word. Webster says it is not in use. The Sherman law is not much used, either, except by office seekers.

"Gov. Colquitt seems to be looking for a second term via the Cotton Patch Route," says the Dallas Democrat. Do you suppose a private citizen—a Fort Worth editor, for instance—could hope to reach the United Sates senate via that route?

SOCIALISM AND HIS IDEAL

While the team of experts on the Men and Religion Forward movement were at Dallas, a reporter from the social service expert, said in his address: "Before you can have an ideal system you must have ideal men."

That's the point where many good men, groping in the dark, stumble and fall. It is one of the most plausible fallacies that the Socialists have to meet and expose. But it is a fallacy, nevertheless, and one of the most insidious. If you will think a minute you will see that it is a fallacy and meaningless, and especially absurd as applied to our economic affairs.

Go back a few years. See the two men on the creek bank, with the bridge. They are passing and quarreling over the bridge. Do you suppose men are any more "ideal" today than they were then? Would not men have and quarrel over tolls today, the same as they did a few years back, if we had the same bridge system now that was in vogue then? It is doubtful whether two men have ever disagreed concerning the right of passage over a bridge since the bridge ceased to be PRIVATE property and became PUBLIC property.

So we see that, while ideal men did not make our present side social bridge system, yet this social bridge system has made ideal men. That is, men who bridges without fussing and quarreling over them.

Complaining of the high prices demanded by cotton pickers in Georgia, the Atlanta Journal says: "What is the remedy? There is but one answer: The farmers must thoroughly organize and stay organized, that they may be in a position to handle their products." Now, Brother Farmer Union Man, if you were to look at it from the cotton pickers' standpoint what would be your remedy? Evidently the same: organize and stay organized, that you may be in a position to handle all such problems as where you are, at the point of use where, just where we all arrive when we ignore the only real remedy, which is Socialism.

If some big Democrat—Clarence Ousley, f'instance—were to accuse the Socialists of wanting the tax payers of Texas to dig up nearly a million and a half dollars a year to send nigger kids to school, he could put white congregations of the ignorant devotees of the donk into a state of inflammatory delirium. But Texas, under Democratic rule, appropriates the sum of $1,859,422 for the education of negro children. Yet these ruling Democrats howl "Nigger equality!" whenever they hear the word Socialism.

"Hicks and the Socialist Rebel would revolutionize and make useless the teachings and experiences of all nations that evolved from savagery to civilized nations."—Baird Star.
