30 MINERS DEAD IN ACCIDENT
Owners Got Profits. And Workers Got Death

LITHON, Ill., Jan. 19—This past winter was called “deadly” for the black miners who work in the coal fields of this area. The recent accident claimed the lives of 30 men. The owners made a profit.

On Dec. 12th, 15 miners were killed when an explosion and fire swept the Elgin No. 5 mine. The owners, the Coal Operators Association, refused to cooperate with the Royal Commission. They refused to answer the Commission's questions in writing. They refused to submit any statements to the Royal Commission.

The owners said that the miners were not at fault. They said that the miners were not at fault. They said that the miners were not at fault. They said that the miners were not at fault. They said that the miners were not at fault.

The trade unions, and the left parties in general, have been split by internal differences and the Fascist threat. The Communist Party, for example, has split into two or three different factions, with one faction advocating a hard line against Fascism, while another faction is more moderate. The Social Democratic Party, too, has been divided, with some factions advocating a more aggressive stance against Fascism, while others are more cautious.
