The list of the victors had departed and the long night-watch began. Alone, cold, sickly, he lay on the floor of the press, who used to help him up to his head. He was still alive, by a miracle, but his life was a useless struggle against the inevitable. He was left with his dead child. A dim burning light fell on his face. He was sitting up, as always, at thePEABODY.

A Prophecy of Promises.

The other workers were recently promised a raise of 10 per cent. They are waiting to hear more about it. The public is getting restless about the prosperity. It was hailed as a premoni-

The fact that they can be shut up on all matters pertaining to Socialism reform will certainly be a help to these groups. Look to your neighbors, my brethren, and get ready to shift!

Out of the Mouths of Babes Coneth Wisdom

The period of a year has ended, and the social progress made is not encouraging. The Progress at Los Angeles

SCIENTIFIC SOCIALISM

The founders of scientific Socialism are Karl Marx (1818-83), Friedrich Engels (1820-95), and Louis Blanc (1811-82). Of these Marx was the principal author of the Communist Manifesto, and Engels the editor, while Blanc, a wealthy socialist, contributed to the popularization of Marx’s ideas. In Marx’s exile, populism thrashed the idea of a state that would gradually evolve into a socialism. The definitions of socialism in this sense are the following:

SCIENTIFIC SOCIALISM

The society is an organism subject to evolution. At each stage of its development it is evolution to a higher degree. It is possible to promote, by education, to attain socialism. The evolution does not imply a change in the individual, but the development of consciousness and of productive forces.

At each stage of its evolution it is possible to promote, by education, to attain socialism. The evolution does not imply a change in the individual, but the development of consciousness and of productive forces.
The wonderful century

Social Democracy believes that the so-called "democracy" which has been espoused is to be found, and is only to be found, in the wide and relatively democratic idea that production and distribution of wealth should be in the hands of the people for the common welfare. They believe that this has not been logically involved, when the time should be set aside for the discussion of the whole question of production—that is, of the land and the waters, of the forests and of the minerals, of the power and of the knowledge. The eventual realization of such a state of affairs will be a great social achievement. The average normal man, whether he is a member of the upper or of the lower classes, has a right to think about the subject of Socialism, and to speak out about it. The time is long past when only a few could be trusted with secrets about which great masses of people are most interested.

The closing of the nineteenth century finds America and Europe widening their horizons to comprehend the inequalities of life. The United States, in particular, is now in the neighborhood of the time when the principles of Socialism should be the guiding principles of the world. The Socialists believe that the right to vote and the right to speak should not be denied to any one.

The political question of the hour

The political question of the hour is the limitation of capital. It is the question of the control of the means of production. It is the question of the control of the means of distribution. It is the question of the control of the means of wealth. It is the question of the control of the means of life itself. It is the question of the control of the means of thought. It is the question of the control of the means of education. It is the question of the control of the means of opinion. It is the question of the control of the means of government. It is the question of the control of the means of society.

The Socialists believe that the right to vote and the right to speak should not be denied to any one. They believe that the right to work and the right to live should not be denied to any one. They believe that the right to think and the right to act should not be denied to any one. They believe that the right to learn and the right to read should not be denied to any one. They believe that the right to speak and the right to listen should not be denied to any one. They believe that the right to see and the right to hear should not be denied to any one.

The Socialists believe that the right to vote and the right to speak should not be denied to any one. They believe that the right to work and the right to live should not be denied to any one. They believe that the right to think and the right to act should not be denied to any one. They believe that the right to learn and the right to read should not be denied to any one. They believe that the right to speak and the right to listen should not be denied to any one. They believe that the right to see and the right to hear should not be denied to any one.
THE PLATFORM

ORGANIZE FOR 1900

THE SOCIAL DEMOCRATIC PARTY OF AMERICA

This is the appeal of a great new organization—the Social Democratic Party of America. It is the appeal of a movement that is stirring the workers of this country. It is the appeal of a movement that is growing and gaining every day. It is the appeal of a movement that is destined to win. It is the appeal of a movement that is destined to create a new world, a world in which the workers shall rule. It is the appeal of a movement that is destined to make the workers masters of their own destiny. It is the appeal of a movement that is destined to make the workers the owners of the means of production. It is the appeal of a movement that is destined to make the workers the masters of their own lives. It is the appeal of a movement that is destined to make the workers the masters of their own fate. It is the appeal of a movement that is destined to make the workers the masters of their own future. It is the appeal of a movement that is destined to make the workers the masters of their own history. It is the appeal of a movement that is destined to make the workers the masters of their own achievements. It is the appeal of a movement that is destined to make the workers the masters of their own progress. It is the appeal of a movement that is destined to make the workers the masters of their own prosperity. It is the appeal of a movement that is destined to make the workers the masters of their own wealth. It is the appeal of a movement that is destined to make the workers the masters of their own power. It is the appeal of a movement that is destined to make the workers the masters of their own destiny. It is the appeal of a movement that is destined to make the workers the masters of their own world.