MUSINGS IN MY MUSICAL LEISURE HOUR

By W. Warren Wilson

Some years ago I wrote an article about the psychological relation between the blues and the Negro people, and between the Negro people and their music. Since then, I have been studying these relations more closely, and I have come to the conclusion that the blues are an integral part of the Negro personality. They are an expression of the Negro's feelings, thoughts, and experiences, and they are a way of life.

The blues are a form of expression that has been passed down through generations. They are a way of coping with the difficulties of life, and they are a source of comfort and solace. They are a way of communicating with others, and they are a way of expressing oneself.

I have been studying the blues for many years, and I have come to the conclusion that they are a powerful force in the lives of the Negro people. They are a way of expressing oneself, and they are a way of coping with the difficulties of life. They are a way of communicating with others, and they are a way of expressing oneself.
