MAGNIFICENT AUDIENCE GREETED THE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE OF THE SOCIAL DEMOCRATIC PARTY AT CENTRAL MUSIC HALL

THOUSANDS TURNED AWAY

Two Great Meetings on Sunday at which Debs Spoke to More Than Fifteen Hundred Bohemians and Germans

SPEECHES OF DEBS AND HERRON

The announcement that Eugene V. Debs and Grover Cleveland, the last great large person would be in Chicago, was sufficient, despite the swamping of the city with the usual brood of bootleggers, to fill the Central Music Hall, on the corner of Congress and Madison streets, with a large audience. The place was well crowded, and the audience was so intent that the meeting was not interrupted by any outer disturbance.

Debs greeted the throng with a flattering speech of the moment, the virtues of socialism, the political program of the Socialists, and the machinations of the politicians. He was greeted with three minutes applause, which is generally supposed to indicate enthusiasm for a political leader.

Herron, the Democratic candidate, made a one-hour speech, in which he emphasized the political and social equality of all sections of the country, and the need for a national policy to prevent the drift of the country into the South. He was greeted with two minutes of applause, which was much less enthusiastic than for Debs.

Debs encountered the chief opposition of Herron's speech, which was brought to a close with the usual round of applause.

The meeting was interrupted by a second and more enthusiastic greeting for Debs, who was re-elected with a standing ovation.

A SYSTEM OF RAPINE
This is an era of hay-fever, which has afflicted the twenty million workers. No one operations. The conditions are such that the employers of this vast army of labor are able to dictate to them.

Thesituation is far worse than people realize. In the words of one of the leading editors of the "Koch-Wagner" the difference between what they earn and what they actually can get for it is so great that the working man has only one chance in a hundred of being able to afford the necessities of life.

The employers are simply not justified in their actions. The workers are entitled to a just share of the wealth they create. They deserve better treatment. The working class should unite and fight for their rights.

The Social Democratic Party is in favor of a system of collective bargaining, which would give workers the power to negotiate for themselves and the right to strike when necessary. It is our duty to support this movement and work towards a fairer distribution of wealth in our society.

NOTE AND COMMENT
"Split of the Socialists." One of the leaders of the Social Democratic party,古斯塔夫·霍斯勒, has left the party and formed a new organization called the "Holsten Socialist Party." This is a significant development in the socialist movement. It is important to understand the reasons behind this split and the implications it may have for the future of socialism.

The "New York Times" has reported that the split is due to differences in strategy and tactics within the Socialist Party. Some members feel that the party is too slow in its efforts to organize workers and that it is not doing enough to fight for their rights.

On the other hand, the new organization appears to be more radical in its approach. It is committed to the immediate overthrow of capitalism and the establishment of a socialist society. However, it remains to be seen whether this will lead to the formation of a stronger and more united movement.

Principles Required: In the Interest of a Person

Principles Required: In the Interest of a Person

From a Letter Written by Eugene V. Debs, in February, 1900

The difference between our party and the Socialist Labor Party is that they are fighting for an end to Socialism. Our party, on the other hand, is committed to the establishment of a socialist society. We believe that this can only be achieved through violent revolution, and we are prepared to go to the point of bloodshed if necessary.

The Socialist Labor Party, on the other hand, is more moderate in its approach. They believe in gradual reform and the introduction of socialism through the democratic process. They are more concerned with improving the lives of the working class through legal and political means, rather than through direct action and revolution.

In the end, the choice is yours. You must decide whether you want a socialist society or a society ruled by the wealthy and powerful. If you choose the former, then you must support the Socialist Labor Party. If you choose the latter, then you must support the Socialist Party.

The Social Democratic Party is committed to the principles of freedom, equality, and solidarity. We believe that these principles are essential for the creation of a just and equitable society. It is our duty to work towards realizing these principles and to fight for a world in which all people are free and equal.
