SOCIALISM AS THE THEME

Twin Professor Declares It the Next Great Political Current of Attraction of the World.

From the Chicago American

M. MILLERAND, French Socialist

The coming century will be co-extensive with the civilized world. It knows no national limits. Where civilization is high, there collectivism is the natural development. It will see in full swing. It will not be a thing which some handfuls of improviso will never be moved back to feudalism for a moment, nor will it be a thing which can never be put down. It is a vital force. The only thing that will prevent it from working is the struggle of the whole English middle-class.

Socialism works for concord, peace, and progress. It puts to the people’s use the fruits of the work. It gives us men of good will a chance to improve the lot of all.

The unity of mankind is not a dream. It is a fact. The ideal of socialism is the achievement of the ideal of the ideal.

RICHARD LE Gallienne, Author

I am assuming that in this struggle the workers and the people will triumph. Indeed, dark as the prospect at the moment is, I rely upon it.

L. A. BROWN, Chicago Capitalist

The socialist labor movement of the world is growing. It has created a splendid trade-union organization throughout the world. It has organized labor in our department for the first time. It has created a splendid trade-union organization throughout the world. It has organized labor in our department for the first time. It has created a splendid trade-union organization throughout the world.

The claim that the socialism of the future will be some form of internationalism is not based upon mere sentiment. It is based upon the material interests of all.

J. W. GALLAGHER, Chicago Capitalist

We are not advocating the socialization of the industries. We are advocating the socialization of the industries. We are advocating the socialization of the industries. We are advocating the socialization of the industries.

FREDERICK MCKINLEY, Chicago Capitalist

It is a very difficult thing to say what will be the outcome of the struggle. We are not advocating the socialization of the industries. We are advocating the socialization of the industries. We are advocating the socialization of the industries.

The claim that the socialism of the future will be some form of internationalism is not based upon mere sentiment. It is based upon the material interests of all.

LABOR AND POLITICS IN OLD ENGLAND

An Interesting Batch of News from Beyond the Seas Prepared for the Herald

By John Thynne

The Great Struggle in the British Trade Unions makes comparatively slow progress. The number of the thirty-six districts and thirty-five meetings has increased by only five.

It appears that the British trade unions have made some headway. It is reported that the individual unions are making a marked improvement in their work. The unions have decided that we shall have none of the old stories.

Christmas

In which a writer considers the coming of the season of good cheer, and the history of the birth of Jesus an angel appeared to the shepherds with a magnificent halo, and said: "Bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people, for unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men."

This is a true and historical event. It is not so accepted by all Christendom, and thus "toward men" has been translated as "toward all men." It has been said by many that the birth of Jesus was a savior for all, and this "good will" toward all men has been the basis for many of the social and political movements of the last century.

The Social Democratic Party is not adopting the "heavenly host" but "toward men." The problem is to be solved on earth, not in some other world. It is not a matter of outer garments and gospels and moments of friendship and love that has to be solved on earth.

Confusion Among Unions

The committee on platform published a proposed draft for the Social Democratic Party of Chicago. This draft was published in the Chicago Daily News, January 3, 1891. The draft was prepared by the committee of five members of the original Social Democratic Party of Chicago. This committee included T. J. L. Dwyer, A. M. Dwyer, and T. J. O'Leary, all members of the original Social Democratic Party of Chicago.

The draft proposed a resolution as follows:

"Resolved, That we are opposed to any move to organize a trade union or any form of labor organization in this city, under the name of the Social Democratic Party of Chicago, unless the same is done in such a manner as to secure the co-operation of all the laboring classes in the city."
The COMMUNIST MANIFESTO

Evolution of Capitalism and the Goal to Build a Classless Society

Forecasts of Marx and Engels

By James O'Brien

That the next stage in human history will be a classless society is not a new claim. The question is: can we do it? Can we change the society we live in? The revolutions that are happening today are not the first, nor will they be the last. The idea of a classless society is not new. It was first proposed by Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels in their famous work, "The Communist Manifesto.

Marx and Engels believed that the current system, which they called "capitalism," was inherently flawed. They argued that the system was based on the exploitation of the working class by the bourgeoisie, who owned the means of production. This exploitation, they argued, led to a state of "class struggle" in which the working class was constantly fighting for better living conditions and greater freedom.

The Communist Manifesto proposed a solution to this problem. Marx and Engels argued that the working class must overthrow the bourgeoisie and seize control of the means of production. They predicted that this would lead to the establishment of a classless society, in which everyone would work for the common good rather than for personal gain.

The goal of creating a classless society is not new. It has been the goal of many social movements throughout history, from the abolitionists in the 19th century to the civil rights activists in the 20th century. And while we have made progress, the goal of a classless society is still far from实现.

Even so, the idea of a classless society remains a powerful one. It is a reminder that we can change our world, and that we have the power to create a better future for all.
NOTES FROM THE FIELD

Ed. Evanger of Terre Haute gave an unmistakable proof of his unimpeachable character in his recent letter to the New York Times. He is a humorist, a gentleman, and a man who has earned the right to be considered as a laborer by the business men of the city, a hard worker for the cause.

The comrades of Liberty branch, San Francisco, have been making a splendid record worth of one of their number, J. E. Ellis, who was cited in last November's meeting with the sturdy representatives of the Socialist party. They took the lead in Comrades Theodore Haight, Arthur H. Cox, and A. S. Edwards. A more general and more sympathetic response is needed to this man's effort, but we do our best to help him.

The example of the workers' colonies in Europe who have followed the vigorous movements of the Socialists is a matter of pride to us. The San Francisco has been taught by the successful work of the socialists in Europe, and the comrades of this city will do well to follow their lead in this work.

The comrades of the Socialist party in Chicago, through their leader, E. B. Rice, have been working hard for the cause. They have been making a splendid record worthy of their leader.
