ENORMITY OF CHILD LABOR PROBLEM IN THE SOUTH

A Population Steeped in Ignorance and Absence of All Noble Ambitions

Due to Capitalistic Degradation of Children

In the Chicago Record-Herald, W. B. L. comments on the report of the Survey of a Hundred Million Dollars in South. The survey reveals that the South is replete with the elements of the cotton industry. Cotton mills are filled with children who are deprived of education and made to toil for so-called wages. This is a sad commentary on the condition of the South, and the solution of this problem is necessary for the betterment of the Southern people.

The survey indicates that the South is replete with cotton mills where thousands of children are employed. These children are working long hours for low wages under sub-human conditions. The result is that these children are deprived of education and start life in ignorance and poverty.

The report of the Survey of a Hundred Million Dollars in South is a call for action. It is a call for the elimination of child labor and the provision of education for these children. It is a call for the implementation of laws and regulations that will protect the rights of these children.

In conclusion, the report of the Survey of a Hundred Million Dollars in South is a wake-up call for the Southern states. It is a call for action to improve the condition of children in the cotton mills of the South. It is a call for the implementation of laws and regulations that will protect the rights of these children. It is a call for the provision of education for these children.

THE JULY CONVENTION

In July, the convention of the United States Labor Party was held in Chicago. The convention was held to discuss the problems of the working class and to formulate policies to address them.

The convention was attended by delegates from various parts of the country. The delegates discussed various issues, including the need for a federal workers' party, the need for a federal workers' congress, and the need for a federal workers' union.

The convention was also held to address the issue of the boycott of the United States Steel Corporation. The delegates agreed to support the boycott of the corporation and to organize a general strike as a means of protest.

The convention was a significant event in the history of the United States Labor Party. It marked the beginning of the party's efforts to organize the working class and to build a workers' movement.

INSECURITY OF MEMBERS OF THE INDUSTRIAL ARMY

Protection Demanded for the Aged and Invalids Who Give Their Lives to Society - Old Age and Accident Insurance

The labor problem occupies a conspicuous position in the political and industrial affairs of to-day. The intensity of the economic struggle has increased, and this condition of things has been accentuated by one of the principal causes of the depression - the condition of the labor market. The depression is the result of underemployment and unemployment. The prevalence of production and unemployment is due to the tendency to increase the insecurity of the labor market. The labor market is in a state of crisis, and the prevalence of production and unemployment is due to the tendency to increase the insecurity of the labor market.

As one who earnestly hopes that the convention may accomplish the objectives for which it has been called. I wish to address a word to the members of our own party, urging them to take action and to support the measures which have been proposed to abolish the sweatshops and to provide for the welfare of the workers. The convention should be held to discuss the measures which have been proposed to abolish the sweatshops and to provide for the welfare of the workers.

In Carolina the movement has made considerable progress. In increasing the wages of the workmen, the wage-earners have been able to secure better living conditions. The workers are better able to meet their obligations and to maintain their families. The workers are better able to meet their obligations and to maintain their families.
