4TH O' JULY THOUGHTS.

BY VICTOR R. BERGER.

The Declaration of Independence is a document that is supposed to inspire our own people to live up to the high standards of citizenship it sets forth. But do you know whether its people were in the habit of living up to the high standards of citizenship it sets forth? Did you ever look at the Declaration of Independence and say, "What a wonderful thing!" Or did you say, "I don't see why people don't live up to the high standards of citizenship it sets forth?"

In the United States there are only one million people who have lived up to the high standards of citizenship it sets forth. There are five billion people who have not lived up to the high standards of citizenship it sets forth. This is a very important fact, and it is a fact that should be kept in mind when we consider the Declaration of Independence.

From the Declaration of Independence.

We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, ensure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America.

THAT "SPRIT OF '76".

BY THOMAS J. MORGAN.

The "Spirit of '76" was one of the most important and influential ideas that have ever been put forward by any people. It was a great idea that was put forward by the people of the United States and was adopted by all the people of the United States. It was a great idea that was put forward by the people of the United States and was adopted by all the people of the United States.

If there is one more great American idea that is as vital to the welfare of the United States as the "Spirit of '76" was, then it is the idea of freedom and justice. It is an idea that is as vital to the welfare of the United States as the "Spirit of '76" was, and it is an idea that is as vital to the welfare of the United States as the "Spirit of '76" was.
The Passing of the Patriotism.

By Franklin M. Wintzworth.

The idea of Socialism is something in its beginning, and the working of its principles is a matter of daily observation. No one can deny that a good deal of good has been accomplished by the labor movements in the past, and that much more can still be accomplished in the future. The labor movement is a powerful force that is bringing about a gradual change in society. It is not only a movement to improve the condition of the working class, but also a movement to create a better world. The labor movement is not only a movement of the present, but also a movement of the future. It is not only a movement of the working class, but also a movement of all those who believe in justice and fairness for all.

A Parable on Charity.

Once upon a time a king awarded a hero with a medal of honor. The hero was delighted and went to his house to celebrate with his family. As he entered the door, he saw his small dog lying there, sad and alone. The hero said to his dog, "You are too small to be a hero like me." The dog replied, "I am not a hero, but I am a friend to all who need me." The hero realized that the dog was right, and that the true definition of a hero is not just about receiving medals, but about helping those who need it. The hero hugged his dog, and they both went to bed together. The next morning, the hero went out to continue his work, but the dog stayed home to be with the family.

The Bear that Made Milwaukee Famous.

The story of the bear that made Milwaukee famous is a true story. The bear was a large and fierce animal, and it was feared by all who came near it. The bear was also very intelligent, and it was able to think and plan. One day, the bear decided to make Milwaukee famous. It went into the city and started to cause trouble. It knocked down buildings, it broke windows, and it ran wild. The people were frightened, and they called the police to come and catch the bear. The police were unable to catch the bear, and it continued to cause trouble. The bear was finally caught and killed, but the story of the bear that made Milwaukee famous has become a legend.

Our industrial system is based on the exploitation of the workers.

For years, the workers have been exploited and taken advantage of by the capitalists. The capitalists have made huge profits by exploiting the workers. The workers have been paid low wages, and they have been forced to work long hours. The capitalists have also been able to get away with exploiting the workers because they have been able to buy the support of the government. The workers have been bought off with promises of better working conditions and higher wages, but these promises have never been kept.

The workers are not fooled by the promises of the capitalists. They know that the capitalists are not interested in making the world a better place. The capitalists are only interested in making money. The workers want a world where they are not exploited and where they are paid fair wages for their work. They want a world where they have a voice in the decisions that are made about their lives.

The workers are determined to make this world a better place. They are organizing and fighting for their rights. They are demanding better working conditions and higher wages. They are demanding a voice in the decisions that are made about their lives. The workers are not going to be exploited any longer. They are not going to be bought off with promises. The workers are going to make this world a better place.
