Glass Trust and Labor Trust.
BY RAY L. PARSONS.
THE BATTLE IS ON THE WAY IN THE LONG RUN.

Glass Trust and Labor Trust.

A resolution under police control was introduced at the recent meeting of the National Economic Council, which recommends the nomination of a special committee to study the relationship between labor and capital in the glass industry. The resolution, which was adopted unanimously, is an important step in the efforts of the Glass Industry to foster better relations between the two parties. The committee is to be appointed by the National Economic Council and will consist of representatives from both labor and management. Its purpose is to examine the present state of affairs in the industry and to recommend measures that would improve working conditions and increase productivity. The resolution was introduced by Ray L. Parsons, a well-known labor leader, who is a strong advocate of better relations between labor and management. Parsons believes that the Glass Industry can achieve greater prosperity by working together with labor to solve its problems. He emphasized that the resolution is a step in the right direction and that it is hoped that it will lead to a more harmonious relationship between labor and management. Parsons also called for the immediate implementation of the recommendations of the committee. The resolution was also supported by several other labor leaders who stressed the importance of the Glass Trust and Labor Trust as a symbol of the growing cooperation between labor and management in the industry. They praised the resolution for its forward-thinking approach and urged its immediate adoption by the National Economic Council. Parsons concluded by expressing his hope that the Glass Trust and Labor Trust will serve as a model for other industries to follow. He emphasized that the success of the Glass Trust and Labor Trust will depend on the commitment of both labor and management to work together for the common good. He concluded by saying that "The battle is on the way in the long run, but we must begin today."

Every hour a hundred mathematicians try to get us into their refrigerators and show us how much money we can save by buying their machines. The refrigerator is a necessary addition to every home, but it is not advisable to buy a machine on impulse, or even to buy it at all, if you have not had the necessary introduction to its merits.

But the refrigerator is a machine that should be bought only by the most careful and discriminating.
